regular, full-time State employees as compared with the same date in 1940. On December 31, 1942, there was a decrease of 3,367 employees as compared with the corresponding date in 1941. Of these, however, 3,025 were laid off in two departments; the Department of Employment laid off 1,800 and the Department of Public Works, 1,225. Neither of these reflect any reduction in General Fund expenditures, for the employees of the Department of Employment are paid from Federal funds, while the employees of the Department of Public Works are largely paid from gas tax and motor vehicle fees.

The net change in total salaries paid for 1942 below 1941 is even less significant. The tabulation on page 6 shows the approximate total expenditures for salaries and wages (exclusive of the University of California) for the calendar years 1938 through 1942. These figures represent the totals of pay rolls audited by the Personnel Board and certified to the State Controller for payment.

The total appropriation for salaries, actual and estimated, for the biennium 1941-43 was $110,607,544.59, while the same figure for the Budget 1943-45 is placed at $115,769,115.00, which shows an increase of $5,161,570.41.

It is true that the Budget makes a considerable allowance for vacant positions which will result in salary savings arising from the inability to fill positions. In the Budget hearings your Legislative Auditor repeatedly urged that greater allowance be made for salary savings and a greater reduction be made in the State's use of manpower so that an increased manpower may be released for the war effort. Moreover, it is doubtful in light of the recent statement made by Manpower Administrator McNutt to the effect that five out of seven men at 40 years of age under 38 years of age will be in the Army before the year is out, if sufficient allowance has been made in this Budget for this impact of the demand for manpower. Therefore, the salary savings item is not as high as it should be placed. Neither is the contemplated savings in salaries and wages through the necessity of putting on beginners at the first step in the salary ranges sufficiently large. In addition, there are specific instances where no salary savings in the Budget have been estimated. For example, no salary savings have been estimated for the courts. It must be that these salaries are so high that no turnover is expected. A survey of the range of salaries of the courts and particularly of the Supreme Court indicates that the salaries of the employees not fixed by law are somewhat out of line with the State salary schedule, and on the upward side.

Larger Salary Savings

In light of recent developments and the probable impact of the war on manpower of the State, it is believed that an additional salary savings of 5 per cent can conservatively be expected. Each appropriation for salaries should accordingly be reduced this additional 5 per cent and this sum added to the item for salary savings already indicated. If the appropriation can be reduced accordingly throughout the Budget this would result in a reduction in General Fund expenditures of $3,013,227.35 and a reduction in special fund of $2,775,228.40.

Reduction in Budget

During the biennium 1941-43 which will end on June 30th of this year, the actual and estimated expenditures of the State were calculated at $528,211,457. The 1943-45 Budget calls for a total expenditure of $463,947,005. This is a gross reduction of $64,264,452. This is a sizeable reduction in itself but it is even more significant when we consider that it contains the wartime expenditures mentioned above which are not reflected for more than one year at the most in the actual and estimated expenditures for the current biennium. The proposed appropriation for the State Guard alone amounts to $15,103,172.00, as compared with $10,559,618.54 for the current biennium, an increase of $4,552,554.

These total figures above cited contain so many things and reflect so many conditions and are made up of so many funds and comply with so many statutes and provisions of the State Constitution that they need to be torn apart and their several component parts examined carefully to see just exactly what the proposed Budget looks like as compared with the actual and estimated expenditures for the previous biennium. Table A which precedes gives a summary comparing actual and estimated expenditures for the biennium 1941-43 with the Governor's Proposed Budget for 1943-45 divided into General and Special Funds.

There are several ways of looking at the Budget and it is desirable for the Legislature in considering appropriations to have all of the information that can be secured. In the most general terms the Budget provides money for State expenditures and money for payments to local governments to aid in financing their operations. In other words, the State not only spends directly but it also passes on in the way of subventions to local governments a large proportion of the Budget. Furthermore, there are two other large divisions of the State Budget as respects the funds from which expenditures are made. These are known as General Fund and special fund expenditures. These four types of appropriations set up in the 1943-45 Budget are reduced in various amounts and percentages below the Budget for the current biennium. In considering appropriations it appears desirable to determine where the reductions have been made. Have they been made largely in the General Fund or in the special funds? Have they been made in reductions of payments to local governments or reductions in expenditures which were made by the State itself? The following table presents these facts in the briefest form:

State Expenditures From General Fund
Spent, 1941-43 -----	$134,288,527

Reduction in General Fund Expenditures Insignificant

The above table indicates that the expenditures for State purposes in the Budget show a decrease of $29,165,481. On its face this appears to be a sizeable reduction. Further analysis of this reduction as indicated in the second column of the table shows, however, that $28,615,014 is a reduction from special funds. This results almost entirely from anticipated decline of the tax yield from gasoline and motor vehicles. This means, in short, a reduction in the building and maintenance of highways and bridges, a reduction which will mean that the State is not keeping up with its program and which in effect, is a suspension of capital outlay rather than an actual decrease in the cost of government. The real reduction in the cost of Government of the State from the General Fund amounts to only $850,467. This is an insignificant sum when considered by itself. If it were not due to the fact that normally there would have been an increase in the expenditures for the General Fund consistent with the curve of increased expenditures of the past 10 years and an additional increase due to the war emergency for the State Guard, Council of Defense, Health Service and other activities mentioned before, this decrease of less than $1,000,000 can not be said to be a mark of real economy. Clearly, if effective economies are made, a greater reduction should be shown in the State expenditures from the General Fund. This is particularly true when we find that certain fixed charges such as General Fund debt service show a reduction from $15,743,080 to $14,348,617, or $1,394,463, or $543,996 more than the total reduction in the General Fund expenditures.

Capital Outlay Larger Reduction

When we consider the provisions made for capital outlay from the General Fund in the 1943-45 biennium as compared with the actual and estimated expenditures for capital outlay in the 1941-43 biennium, we find that there has been no actual reduction in the operating expenses of the State Government as paid from the General Fund, but on the other hand there has been a significant increase. The actual and estimated capital outlay expenditures from the General Fund 1941-43 is $8,479,945. The proposed capital outlay item for 1943-45 is only $803,255. This shows a reduction in appropriations for capital outlay in the coming biennium below the current one of $7,676,690. It should be noted that the capital outlay item from the General Fund for the current biennium is not out of line. The actual expenditures for this purpose for the biennium 1937-39 amounted to $17,290,539, and for 1939-41 it amounted to $7,125,955.

Anyone familiar with the State institutions, colleges, schools and prisons recognizes that a suspension of capital outlay for any biennium does not eliminate the need for the expenditure but merely postpones it. Therefore, while there is a reduction in expenditures for capital outlay resulting in an actual smaller Budget for a particular biennium, it is not a reduction in expenditures in the same way as is a reduction in operating expenses. It is merely a postponement. The question certainly can be raised if a reduction in capital outlay in any sense represents a true economy in government if the objects of the capital outlay are in fact needed and desirable.

Reduction of Payments to Local Government From General Fund Significant

The payments by the State to local government from the General Fund will show a significant drop. In the current biennium approximately $284,000,000 was paid to local government. For the coming biennium, 1943-45, this is budgeted at $250,000,000. Of this reduction $25,249,077 is a reduction from special fund allotments while the reduction from the General Fund is $9,549,894. The drop in these payments from the General Fund arises largely from reduction of the number of needy aged, needy blind and dependent children and a substantial decrease in the number of pupils in the high schools and junior colleges. A drop in the special fund payments to local government follows primarily from the decline in gas tax revenues, as is also true with the State itself. This means that the counties and cities will have less money to spend on their highways and streets.

Governor Suggests Additional Economies Possible

The Governor in his Budget message recognized that there are possibilities of further economies. He indicated this in the following words: "It may be that further economies can be effected during the biennium after we have had opportunity for more detailed study. I say this because in my opinion it is impossible for an incoming Governor to make * * * an accurate and detailed analysis of budgetary problems within the short interval of time allowed."

He furthermore reserved the right to make subsequent recommendations in connection with the budgets of four agencies: (1) Civilian Defense, (2) State Guard, (3) Division of Forestry, and (4) the Department of Public Health.

War Emergency Council

Already the State Council of Defense has been abolished and a new war emergency council has been set up and an appropriation bill, Senate Bill No. 733, with the amount therein in blank, has been introduced into the Legislature. In the meantime, an emergency appropriation of $105,000 for the Council of Defense and its successor, the War Council, has been made.

The State Council of Defense has been included for the first time in the Governor's Budget (see page 37) and an item of $619,061 for the next biennium has been included. This is an increase of $119,139 above the actual and estimated expenditure for the current biennium. This budget item of $619,061 must be considered in conjunction with whatever amount is appropriated for the State War Council.

State Guard

The Budget item for the State Guard has been set up in the budget for $15,103,172 (see page 417). This is based on present costs and for an estimated active strength of 5,564 men, 454 officers and 64 civilians, or a total of 6,082. The Governor, in his message, stated: "The Adjutant General is now conducting a preliminary survey which is likely to lead to new recommendations in weeks to come."

Our survey carried on from the time the new Guard Bill was passed by the Extraordinary Session of the 1941 Legislature indicates that this appropriation request for $15,103,172 can be materially reduced and at the same time provide for necessary guard service on a basis comparable or better than that which was provided during the current biennium. The average number of enlisted men on the rolls prior to June 30, 1942, was 4,580, with 344 officers and 59 civilians, and for the Fiscal Year 1943-45 the average number of enlisted men is placed at 5,569, with 458 officers and 66 civilians. This does not take into account the number absent without leave, which in the State Guard during its history has been very large as compared with regular forces.

With improved organization of the Guard, better active management and an upgrading of the enlisted personnel and the resultant improvement which would occur in morale, together with the better control of buying and the use of the Federal commissary and the establishment and maintenance of an adequate accounting system, a better defense job can be done by the State Guard with a smaller force and for less money.

A well-organized active field force of not to exceed 3,000 men and possibly as few as 2,500, with the corresponding reduction in officers and civilian employees, should be able to perform the services needed. Allowing for 3,000 men and an over-all cost of $5 per day per man, the total cost will be $15,000 per day or approximately $450,000 per month, or $5,400,000 a year or $10,800,000 for the biennium. This would make possible a Budget reduction of $4,303,172. This contemplates a full use of the equipment, including rolling stock, which the Guard now has on hand for a force of approximately 6,000.

It is doubtful if the Guard will be able to recruit any very large force in light of the increased demand of the draft to build up an army of 12,000,000 men and the demand on manpower for essential war industries. It is essential, therefore, that the most effective force possible to meet situations which may arise should be formed.

Division of Forestry

The appropriation for the Division of Forestry set up in the Budget is for $5,453,649. This is a decrease of $816,173 below the current biennium. This includes $2,160,132 for war emergency functions. This is a decrease from the current biennium in this item of $545,657. This decrease, however, is principally in the capital outlay for mobile pool fire equipment for the Emergency Fire Plan. Actually, the amount of fire protection being given is greater than at any previous time in the history of the State.

The determination of the appropriation for the Division of Forestry for its normal functions depends entirely on the establishment of a definite policy for the division as to just what classes of territory and forest land it will protect. This is a matter for legislative determination. The details of what is involved will be discussed subsequently in this report.

The adjustment of the allocation in the Budget for the war emergency functions performed by the Division of Forestry depends upon how many of these functions connected with the War Emergency Fire Plan will continue to be operated by the Division of Forestry, and how much of this activity will be taken over by the new State War Council. It has been proposed that the War Council will take over the dispatching service (see Article 5, Division 7, Section 1541, subsection (d), Military and Veterans Code, recently enacted by the Extraordinary Session of the Fifty-fifth Session of the Legislature). It has also been suggested that the mobile pool of fire equipment will be assigned to the communities, cities and counties for their use for continuous protection but to be at the service of the entire State for emergencies and under the control of the State War Council. Whatever is done with the management of these services an adjustment and transfer of appropriations should be made accordingly. This will call for a revision of the appropriation items and should be likewise considered in connection with Senate Bill No. 733 providing for an appropriation for the State War Council. It is impossible at this time to provide any further information on this subject. When available, a supplemental report will be made.

Public Health

Neither the Governor nor the Department of Public Health has as yet made additional recommendations concerning any revision of that department's budget. The total expenditures of State funds provided in the Budget (see page 571) is placed at $1,281,681, or an increase of $316,888. This, of course, is over and above Federal grants.

The Department of Public Health is one of the few departments of the State that has had a considerable increase in personnel in the past two years. They had 60 additional full-time employees on December 31, 1941, as compared with the previous December, and on December 31, 1942, they had an additional 90 full-time employees as compared with December 31, 1941. The only other departments that exceed the Department of Public Health, excluding the State Guard as their enlisted force are not considered as employees, are the Motor Vehicle Department and Social Welfare. Motor Vehicle had its increase in the addition of highway patrolmen by way of the deficiency allowed by Governor Olson, to be discussed subsequently. Social Welfare had an increase of 125 and 240 full-time employees for the years 1941 and 1942, respectively, but this was brought about through taking over the distribution of commodities and commodity stamps from the State Relief Administration and subsequently the replacing of WPA workers with regular hired employees.

A majority of the increase was in activities supported by funds from the Federal Government under "Social Security Activities." However, the increased health problems were caused by war conditions which is a Federal and not a State concern.

Additional Costs for Normal Governmental Services Resulting From War

The entire Budget is based on the premise that the war will continue through the biennium. The Budget is also based on the general principle that war essential services are adequately provided for and lesser essential services curtailed. The Budget does not indicate in itself where these lesser essential services have been curtailed, nor does it indicate where services have been directed toward the war effort. An analysis of specific departments indicates that in some instances major war services have not been particularly emphasized, but on the other hand the normal services of government are to be carried on.

Agriculture

This is true in the Department of Agriculture (pages 112 to 157, inclusive of the Budget). Item 50, page 5 of Assembly Bill No. 1600 provides $2,613,812 for support of the Department of Agriculture from the General Fund. This is a decrease of approximately $64,000 below the current biennium. It is an insignificant amount when we consider that we have gone from a situation of overproduction of many agricultural products to a scarcity in practically all of them, with the exception of wheat. There is no indication that the normal activities of the department have been curtailed drastically and emphasis being placed on the production of food, which is a major wartime issue. This desirable emphasis can not be made by a Department of Agriculture merely carrying on the activities it has developed in peace time. For example, is it not possible in the Bureau of Rodent and Weed Control to reduce the activities of weed control and spend some of this energy in assisting in food production? Also, in the Bureau of Live Stock Disease Control with a budget of $533,000 as compared with $605,000 for the previous biennium, can not this be further reduced or more assistance be rendered to encourage the production of meat to supply the demand for this commodity, which already is in a category of a scarce item, and soon to be rationed?

The Bureau of Fruit and Vegetable Standardization is asking for an increase of $6,000 with a Budget item of $163,000. Standardization is essential when there is a surplus and a limited market. It is not nearly so important when there is no surplus and the market will take every pound that is available at maximum prices. There is no longer a problem of destroying misshapen pears or other fruits that do not come up to a size standard. Now, as long as they are food, they are useful. Standardization should be cut to the bone, and possibly eliminated entirely if it interferes with the production of food. Further detailed suggestions for possible eliminations will be presented in subsequent reports.

The same principle indicated here will be applied to the entire Budget.

Bonus for State Employees Included in Budget

The 1943-45 Budget includes an allowance in each department and agency in both General and Special Funds of an amount sufficient to provide a $15 per month bonus for each employee other than those being paid the prevailing wage as provided by law. In this class fall the employees of the State Printing Plant.

The Governor states in his Budget message on page vii that the $15 allowance now in effect amounts to some $10,000,000 for the next biennium and is a significant factor in the Budget total. Using the estimate provided by the university that it will cost $1,200,000 to provide a salary bonus for university employees for the next biennium, which is set up in Item 83, page 7 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, and basing our calculation on 25,202, which is the number employed as of June 30, 1942, we find that it would cost $10,272,720. This will be reduced accordingly if the number of employees is reduced below the 25,202.

Additional Cost to Retirement System

In addition to the increase in the salary item, there is an additional cost to the State through the Retirement System. The contribution to be made by the State consists of 3.75 per cent of this additional compensation for all employees except members of the California Highway Patrol. For this latter group the contribution is 13.4 per cent of the additional compensation.

The Governor's Budget is not increased a full $10,000,000 plus the cost for the Retirement System over and above the actual and estimated expenditures for the previous biennium for the reason that the $15 bonus has been in effect for the last year of the current biennium. The increase, however, is approximately $5,000,000, a little less than one-half of the biennial cost, for the reason that the number of employees will be less for the current biennium.

Salary Appropriations Further Complicated

The situation as respects State salaries and the $15 bonus has become further complicated by the enactment of Senate Bill No. 15 and its approval by the Governor, making an appropriation to pay State employees for the remaining months of the current biennium as sum over and above the $15 bonus. The sum of $731,755 was appropriated to provide an increase in salaries and wages for the third and fourth calendar quarters of the Ninety-fourth Fiscal Year, according to a schedule provided in the bill. This schedule provides that to each employee whose monthly salary does not exceed $300, an increase of $25 per month will be paid; and to each employee whose monthly salary exceeds $300 will be paid an increase of $20 per month. This appropriation has the effect of adding to those in the first bracket an additional salary increase of $10, and to those in the second bracket, $5 per month. In addition to that, there is automatically provided an additional allotment for retirement based on the percentages given above.

While there is no legislative approval continuing the provisions of Senate Bill No. 15 into the next biennium, that is, beyond June 30, 1943, it seems desirable to calculate what this may cost so as to have the facts available. Excluding the University of California, we find that it would cost General and Special Funds to make Senate Bill No. 15 effective $625,245 for one month. It would cost for the $15 bonus $378,030, or it would cost $247,215 per month more to function Senate Bill No. 15 than it would for the $15 bonus. For the entire biennium it would cost $5,953,440 more for Senate Bill No. 15 than is now provided in the Governor's Budget, and in addition it would cost for the required contributions to the State Employees' Retirement Fund on the part of the State $564,864, or a grand total of $6,518,304 for the biennium. The following tabulation indicates the additional cost to the State because of the retirement contribution resulting from the passage of Senate Bill No. 15 for the remainder of the current biennium, and an estimate of what it would cost for the Ninety-fifth and Ninety-sixth Fiscal Years if it is carried forward to the next biennium:

Additional Cost to the State Because of the Retirement Contribution, Resulting from the Passage of Senate Bill No. 15, which increases the Salaries of State Employees by $25 per Month for Those Receiving $300 and Less, and by $20 per Month for Those Receiving Above $300

Total number of employees excluding university	25,202
Cost of $25 per month for all employees under $300 salary		$606,025 00
Cost of $20 per month for all employees over $300 salary		19,220 00
Total cost per month of increase		$625,245 00
Cost to General Fund, $25 increase	$229,450 00
Cost to General Fund, $20 increase	9,880 00
		$239,330 00
Cost to Special Funds, $25 increase	$376,575 00
Cost to Special Funds, $20 increase	9,340 00

The contribution to be made by the State consists of 3.75 per cent of the compensation of members of the Retirement System for all members except the members of the California Highway Patrol. For the latter group, the percentage of contribution of members is 13.40 per cent of the compensation of members.

The last month for which complete figures were available was the month of October, 1942. After eliminating compensation of University of California employees and members of the California Highway Patrol from the total of that month, we determined the percentage of employees who are members of the Retirement System as compared to all employees, and applied this percentage to the salaries as shown above, the result being the estimated compensation of members of the Retirement System for which the State would contribute. Applying the State's required contribution of 3.75 per cent and 13.4 per cent to this total, we found that the cost to the State would be as follows:

	Per Month
1. General Fund (3.75 per cent)	$7,327 41
2. Special Funds (3.75 per cent), excluding payments to California Highway Patrol	11,591 51
3. Motor Vehicle Support Fund for California Highway Patrol (13.40 per cent)	4,617 09

Applying these costs to the balance of the Ninety-fourth Fiscal Year, to 12 months of the Ninety-fifth Fiscal Year, and to 24 months of the Ninety-fifth and Ninety-sixth Fiscal Years, results in the following costs:

Five months cost Ninety-fourth Fiscal Year contributions to Retirement System

General Fund	$36,637 05
Special funds other than California Highway Patrol	57,957 55
Motor Vehicle Support Fund for California Highway Patrol	23,085 45

Twelve months cost Ninety-fifth Fiscal Year contributions to Retirement System

General Fund	$87,928 92
Special funds other than California Highway Patrol	139,098 12
Motor Vehicle Support Fund for California Highway Patrol	55,405 08

Twenty-four months cost Ninety-fifth and Ninety-sixth Fiscal Years contributions to Retirement System

General Fund	$175,857 84
Special funds other than California Highway Patrol	278,196 24
Motor Vehicle Support Fund for California Highway Patrol	110,810 16

Total	$564,864 24

Personnel Problems Resulting From War

The personnel problems resulting from the war have two aspects affecting the State Budget.

First, the State Budget is materially reduced through the fact that positions vacated either by employees going into the war effort directly or into war industries have not been filled in many instances. In some instances this is because of a desire to economize and reduce other than war efforts, and in other cases it was forced because it was impossible to refill the positions. Hundreds of State employees have been granted military leave, and other hundreds have accepted employment in war industries. Personnel records show 8,200 resignations from the State service during the eight months' period ending October, 1942. Many of these positions were not refilled during the current biennium and the result has been a salary saving which, in the current biennium, has been consumed in its entirety by paying a salary bonus of $15 per month.

Salary Savings (See following tabulation for entire 1943-45 Budget)

In the Budget for the next biennium this failure to fill positions is indicated throughout the Budget for each department where it has been anticipated under the general category of salaries and wages, in the second item, "estimated salary savings," i.e., the Board of Equalization (page 41 in the Budget), shows an estimated salary savings for the Ninety-fourth Fiscal Year, 1942-43, of $24,200, for the Ninety-fifth Fiscal Year, $38,600, and for the Ninety-sixth Fiscal Year, $39,300. This estimate is based on past experience plus an arbitrary estimate that there will be a certain percentage of unfilled positions and vacancies in each and every department that will result in the saving of sufficient time of employees to result in the saving of the several sums calculated for the various agencies. The estimate is based on all experience available but it is subject to variation. By appropriating specifically for salaries and wages, the Legislature can force the departments and agencies to live within this Budget allotment and if there are not enough vacancies, automatically they can lay off help so as to bring their pay roll within the Budget allotment. If there is a greater vacancy list than calculated, a larger saving should result. However, Appropriation bills Assembly Bill No. 1600 and Senate Bill No. 800 are drawn in lump sum, including salaries, wages, costs of operation, capital outlay and any other allotments in the one categorical appropriation for support. This means that there is no control of the appropriation for salaries and wages so far as the Legislature is concerned. This means that the department that keeps all of its employees or puts on new ones will not be forced to make a saving, while another department, perhaps providing more essential service by not directly competing with the war effort, will find itself forced to curtail activities.

If it is desired to produce uniformity in the matter of salary savings, then the appropriations should be made specifically for salaries and wages, eliminating the estimated salary savings from such appropriation and forcing compliance from each and every department on an equitable basis.

Salary Savings re Courts

We find no salary savings are set up in the Budget for the courts. (See Supreme Court, page 7, Budget.) It seems inconceivable that with an appropriation of approximately $200,000 a year for salaries and wages, and with 43 on the pay roll, there will be no salary savings during the next two years in this instance.

The following schedule shows the number of permanent employees of the State courts separated from the service from 1939 through 1942:

Court	1939	1940	1941	1942
Supreme -----	6	4	2	10 (5 of these Judicial Council; 4 military leaves)

Overtime Pay (See Table B following Hours of Work of Monthly Employees)

The adverse factor as to costs affecting State personnel which may lead to an increase in appropriations, results from the impact of the war on manpower, which is making it more and more difficult to fill certain positions. This results in the necessity of overtime work. At the present time State employees are not paid for overtime work but are generally allowed compensating time off, which our investigations over the past year have shown to be greatly abused to the detriment of the State. It is suggested by the Governor in his Budget message on page viii that the Legislature give consideration to granting statutory authority to pay for overtime work when required by depletion of manpower, but in so doing it should conform with the National policy in regard to the 40 hour week.

There are several bills in the Legislature covering this subject. Some provide for a regular 40-hour week for all employees and pay at time and a half rate for all overtime. One bill provides for a 48-hour week and pay for the eight hours' overtime at regular rates, the over-all expenditure for salaries and wages to be controlled by the Budget and appropriations. This would result in an economy through making it possible to secure necessary services by using experienced employees already trained rather than putting on new employees who are inexperienced. It would also eliminate the necessity for more office space, desks and equipment and make possible the greater use of existing facilities. In short, more work could be turned out with less capital outlay and less salary.

If the 40-hour week is to be established, then in those departments and agencies that now have regularly a work week in excess of this, additional funds will have to be provided to meet the change, or the pay schedules will have to be adjusted, paying for a 40-hour week proportionally less than now is being paid for a 44- or a 48-hour week. Additional funds will have to be provided in the Budget to meet any change in work hours that is not based on pay adjustments. This problem is not one that can be solved simply by legislative enactment regulating hours. It must be coordinated with the Budget and coordinated in administration through the finance officers, the Personnel Board and the agencies concerned. The problem is particularly important to the Department of Institutions, the State prisons and the Highway Patrol; in fact, to all agencies that have guardian, custodial or law enforcement duties. An estimate is now being made to determine what it would cost to make a 40-hour week effective throughout the State by following the same wage scales and the $15 a month bonus as is now established.

It is recommended that a minimum work week of 40 hours be established under any circumstances, and that all State employees not now working 40 hours a week be required to do so without any increase in pay schedules. The $15 bonus per month included in the Budget is part compensation for this and if the terms of Senate Bill No. 15 are to be extended for the next biennium there is provided an additional compensation. Since many of the State employees are already working 40 hours or more per week, this will establish a greater uniformity. This increase in work hours of two hours per week in most administrative offices will have the effect of increasing the manpower by approximately 20 per cent. It is recognized that there will be no increase in the manpower of administrators, including department heads, division and bureau chiefs, nor will there be any increase in general in the output of persons employed in the institutions, prisons, Highway Patrol, Division of Forestry or other law enforcement agencies for those that are actually engaged in custodial care or law enforcement.

In other instances it is recommended that a further reduction be made in salaries and wages of 5 per cent for all of those positions whose actual extension of hours of labor of two hours per week is practical and applicable.

No estimate of the savings is presented at this time for to make this workable it will require the cooperation of the Department of Finance, the Personnel Board and the administrative officers of each and every department and Agency. Every department employing personnel will have to be reviewed and their budget adjusted accordingly.

It is further recommended that a limitation be placed in the appropriation bill providing that no person can be paid who does not work the minimum of 40 hours per week, making proper administrative allowance for authorized time off which is in accord with the statutes and with the rules of the Personnel Board. The authorization of time off, however, should no longer be left in the hands and discretion and personal favoritism of the immediate administrative officers, but this should be subject to review whenever it is deemed necessary to eliminate abuse and inequitable application of the requirements of the forty-hour minimum work week.

Increase in Budget Due to Increased Cost of Commodities

The increase in the cost of commodities caused by the war has also had the effect of increasing the State Budget materially. There is included the sum of $3,000,000 in the Budget for the next biennium, found in Item 29 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, for a special emergency fund to augment the support of the State prisons, hospitals and other institutions to meet the increase in commodity prices during the Ninety-fifth and Ninety-sixth Fiscal Years. This is purely a contingency and should not be used if the prices of commodities do not continue to increase. In addition, good administration will consist of using substitutes where prices of one commodity are out of line with prices of others. In this connection, our studies indicate that the matter of substitution of food products in the institutions and in the prisons during the current fiscal year has not been carried out to nearly the degree that it could have been.

An examination of the purchases for Folsom Prison indicates further that the prisoners have been provided with food commodities that were not available to the same degree to the taxpayers of the State of California supporting the State prisons. For example, butter, sugar and coffee were provided in greater quantities than were available by purchase to the person examining the Folsom purchase records. An examination of the purchases for San Quentin also indicated the purchase of what we may consider luxury commodities, although these were not purchased in large quantities.

The necessity of including an additional $3,000,000 to meet the increased cost of commodities for the prisons, institutions, etc., indicates the desirability of having these institutions produce for their own use everything that is possible. The expansion of production, if carried on as a consistent program, will go a long way toward making unnecessary the expenditure of a considerable amount of this sum.

Rationing Effect on Cost of State Institutions

With the advent of rationing of canned goods, dried beans, cereals, and canned meats on March 1st, on a point system for all of the population, it would be consistent if a similar rationing were not carried into effect in the institutions, prisons and other organizations of the State where feeding is carried on. It is estimated that civilian consumption will be cut in half as respects rationed commodities. This should have the effect of materially cutting down consumption of such commodities in our institutions. This should result in a material saving. Furthermore, it places additional emphasis on the desire to produce every ounce possible of food products in the State institutions. It also emphasizes the desirability of carrying on extensive canning programs in these institutions. This also may be made an economy program. If this is done a considerable portion of the $3,000,000 emergency reserve to meet the increasing prices of commodities should remain unspent. It may be advisable to place a rider on this appropriation which will provide definitely that none of it can be spent until a full rationing program is made effective in the institutions, prisons and departments affected.

II. POLICY DECISIONS REQUIRED FOR BUDGET DETERMINATION

It has already been suggested previously that there are several items requiring policy determination before the amount of the Budget for these items can be determined. Four agencies are concerned. These are (1) Civilian Defense, (2) State Guard, (3) Division of Forestry, (4) Department of Public Health.

War Emergency Council

The situation of the War Emergency Council has been previously discussed and it has been pointed out that Item 29 of Assembly Bill No. 1600 appropriates $619,061 for the support of the Council of Defense. This appropriation which is carrying forward the Council of Defense item on page 37 of the Governor's Budget, will not be required with the War Emergency Council recently provided for. A Budget item should be substituted for this Council of Defense, determined solely on what the War Emergency Council is to do.

State Guard

The determination of this Budget item is also clearly a matter of policy. Item 141 in the appropriation bill Assembly Bill No. 1600 carried forward the State Guard, page 417 in the Budget, for a total strength of 6,082 officers and men. The size of the State Guard and its nature must be determined before this figure can be adjusted. Experience shows that it will cost approximately $5 per day per man with a force of 3,000 or more, but not exceeding 5,000, and making use of all existing equipment and facilities possessed by the State Guard. If 3,000 strength is provided for, a Budget reduction of $4,303,172 appears to be possible. The exactness of the figure can only be determined when the nature of the State Guard is determined.

It is clear, however, that even if the present force is maintained, administrative reorganization can reduce the estimated cost of approximately $15,000,000 now in the Budget. For example, there have been some 16 colonels on the pay roll of the guard for administrative purposes. Providing for all the functions of the guard in what appears to be logical subdivision of duties, and placing a colonel over each division, it would require not more than six or seven to carry on the administration. This is allowing one each for general administration, finance, purchasing, accounting, inspection and training and discipline.

Division of Forestry

It has previously been indicated that the appropriation for the Division of Forestry depends on determining what the division is to do. In this determination the Legislature should act specifically on at least one matter; that is, what are the duties of the Division of Forestry as respects the protection of the different classes of forest land, watershed, brush land, pasture and other agricultural lands. No determination or demarcation of the functions of the division in this matter has ever been determined. Broad powers and duties are placed in the Division of Forestry and these have been expanded and the division has grown until in the last Budget request they wished some $11,000,000, with the forest fire protection and suppression crews reaching 2,200 men during the peak of the fire season. The Governor's Budget allows for approximately 900 men.

In the past, the Division of Forestry has divided the State for the operation of the Division of Forestry in several ways. First of all, it has classified the lands of the State into the lands that lie within the National forests and the lands that do not lie within the National forests. But within the National forest boundaries are many acres of privately-owned land. The State has theoretically assumed the responsibility of protecting this privately-owned land but has contracted with the Federal Forest Service for the actual protection. The State has contributed through the Division of Forestry a nominal sum in the past for this purpose. This item is in the Budget.

The lands outside the National forests have been divided into Zones 1, 2 and 3. Zones 1 and 2 are the lands of forest value and watersheds of State wide interest, and are those lands which come under the Clark-McNary Act of the Federal Government, and through which assistance is rendered the State by the Federal Government for their protection. The next, Zone 3, is all the rest of the lands of the State, including the brush land adjacent to Zones 1 and 2. This brush land is a danger zone where fires start and spread into Zones 1 and 2. The rest of Zone 3 is land of purely agricultural value. The State Division of Forestry has assumed responsibility for protecting Zones 1 and 2, not on a statutory basis but simply on the Sanford plan developed by the State Board of Forestry during the Rolph administration. Another Board of Forestry could change it. This protection, however, is not on a State-wide basis for the reason that five counties, Los Angeles, Ventura, Santa Barbara, Marin and San Mateo, have their own forest fire protection organizations and the State does not enter into these counties. On the other hand, through the Division of Forestry they receive an allotment of money from the State and Clark-McNary money which they supplement with their own appropriations.

Contract Counties

In addition, the State Division of Forestry has entered into a contract with some 33 counties in the State to assist them, or to take over entirely, supposedly, the matter of rural fire protection. The fact is that these contracts are not uniform. They are based on whatever the Division of Forestry can get from a county. The obligations assumed by the State are not uniform. These contracts are so varied that no policy can be determined from a study of them showing just what the Division of Forestry is trying to do. The State Division of Forestry in one county would be provided with fire-fighting equipment. In another county it would be a cash payment and in other counties some other consideration. The State assumed varying liability for fire protection. It is clear that the Legislature should establish some definite policy for the Division of Forestry to follow.

Moreover, the organization of fire fighting by county units is inefficient, illogical, uneconomical and in short, particularly absurd.

Fire fighting management, both for prevention and suppression, should be organized on the basis of the problem involved and not on political lines as determined by county boundaries. The present management is excessive in cost and in addition it does not function as a state-wide organization.

Twenty Counties Not Provided For

In addition, the situation is further confused by the fact that there are some 20 counties where the State Division of Forestry provides no fire protection. This is for the reason that these counties have not seen fit to enter into any sort of a contract with the State, and the State Division of Forestry has determined that there are no areas of forest value or watershed value of state-wide interest lying within said counties. On the other hand, the State Division of Forestry spends a considerable amount of State money in the counties it does contract with in protecting purely agricultural land, grain fields, rural buildings and property, which are identical with that lying in counties with which it has no contract. In fact, the loss from fire in the counties where the Division of Forestry operates is far larger from burned structures than it is from burned forests or watersheds of state-wide value.

Forest fire stations and headquarters in the different counties are sometimes located more for political reasons than they are for strategic fire fighting purposes. It is also true that some counties possibly should not have resident thereon any more all organization of the Division of Forestry when proper organization and management is established.

For these reasons there should be a complete reorganization of the Division of Forestry for the purposes of fire prevention and suppression, and this reorganization should be made without regard to county lines, but with full consideration of the problem to be met. It appears that dividing the State into 12 to 18 districts would be enough to manage the entire problem. In addition, the Legislature should specifically determine what the Division of Forestry is to do on a state-wide basis if satisfactory budgeting is to be made. It should determine the balance of the State and the counties, respectively, in the matter of fire prevention and suppression, and wherein there is to be cooperation between the State and the counties. When this is done, then an adequate Budget to provide the proper organization and overhead can be prepared. Until this is done, no one can say what the loss is, whether the money provided is adequate or excessive.

Points to be Determined for Forestry Budget

The following points should be determined and the Budget built around whatever the determinations are:

1. State's obligation for fire prevention and suppression; does it extend only to the so-called Clark-McNary lands, Zones 1 and 2, or does it include other lands? Should structures in Zones 1 and 2 be protected?
2. Should the State contract with counties, fire districts, municipalities, and private organizations to furnish fire-fighting services? If the State should so contract, should it be reimbursed fully, or on what basis?
3. Should the State assume any obligation for the protection of private lands within United States forests? If so, should this protection be comparable with that given private lands outside?
4. What use should be made of forest fire fighting equipment during the Winter? Should this Winter standby be only a war emergency or a regular function?
5. Should the Division of Forestry continue to manage the mobile pool of emergency fire fighting equipment, or should it be turned over to local jurisdiction? If the latter is concluded, should the State pay any of the costs or exercise supervision?
6. Should the Division of Forestry maintain its dispatching system or should this be turned over for the emergency to the War Emergency Council?
7. Should the entire organization of the Division of Forestry be overhauled and be reconstituted on a state wide basis without consideration of county boundaries?
8. If subventions are granted to cooperating counties, should it be based on a payment per acre of protected area, or on some other factor?
9. Should the Division of Forestry expand at this time to include any or all of the following items?
  - a. Study of market of forest products.
  - b. Study preparatory to replanting burned areas.
  - c. The acquisition of large-size State forests.
  - d. An expansion of so-called agricultural clearings.

Department of Public Health

The Department of Public Health has indicated that it is not satisfied with the funds allotted in the Governor's Budget, page 571, and wishes to make a supplemental request.

We have previously indicated that the budget allotment of State funds allows for an increase of $317,000. In addition, Federal grants have been materially enlarged. Moreover, the Department of Public Health has substantially increased its personnel during the past two years. It seems doubtful if the health problem will become greater during the next two years with conditions more stabilized and an increasing number of the population being taken into the armed services, and a larger proportion of the remaining civilian population going into war industries.

The Governor's Budget has already treated the Department of Public Health generously as compared with the other State departments. Any further allowance of money would be to provide a further expansion of services. Such expansion is a matter of the determination of legislative policy. Such questions as these must be answered:

1. Shall the Department of Public Health set up a full laboratory service in Southern California, and will this laboratory service henceforth provide at State expense laboratory services which have heretofore been provided either by the counties, cities, or commercially?

2. Will the Department of Public Health supplant the local county and city health officers by taking over services which they have, at least theoretically, performed?

3. Will the Department of Public Health, through its Division of Sanitary Inspection and Sanitary Engineering, provide a health service for military camps and for congested areas occupied by war workers; or should these problems be considered Federal problems?

4. Will the Department of Public Health take over from the Federal Government the operation of the mobile laboratories used for conducting rodent plague surveys?

5. Shall the Department of Public Health undertake the job of training the personnel of cities and counties for the carrying on of health work? The question immediately divides itself into two parts:

a. Shall the Department of Public Health expand its duties on the theory of necessary increased services resulting from the war?

b. Shall the Department of Public Health take over many of those health functions that have normally been left to the local authorities?

It is worth noting that the Governor's Budget for the Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth Fiscal Years for the Department of Public Health was $867,981. The Legislature appropriated $815,948 at the regular session and in the special session added $8,805 more, making a total of approximately $824,000. Subsequently, emergency allotments were made for the war emergency of $112,052 making a total of $936,805, a very substantial increase. However, the department expanded even more rapidly so that they expect a deficiency of $45,056, making a total of $981,861 for 1941-43. They requested from the General Fund $1,756,886, or an increase of $775,000, or some $10,000 short of a 100 per cent increase over what the Legislature appropriated for the Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth Fiscal Years, and an actual increase of 79 per cent over what they will spend for the previous biennium. An analysis of what is proposed in the Department of Public Health indicates clearly that not nearly all of the expansion is required because of the war effort, and much of the expansion is in the way of providing a service for the Federal Government, such as the sanitation of Army camps and the examination of specimens of from 60,000 to 65,000 per month for selective service. The question immediately arises as to how much the State should do for the Federal Government without charge.

Bonus for State Employees

The whole matter of the bonus for State employees, including the amount in classifications eligible and how disbursed and how this should be tied into overtime pay must all be determined before the proper items or item can be included in the budget.

As indicated above, amounts necessary to pay a $15 a month bonus to all State employees have been included in the Governor's Budget. This has increased it approximately $10,000,000.

Senate Bill No. 15, enacted by the present session of the Legislature as an urgency measure, did increase the salary bonus to $25 per month for all those employees receiving less than $300 per month, and $20 per month to all those receiving more. If the higher bonus is adopted it will have the effect of increasing this item in the Budget by approximately $4,500,000 additional for General Fund and almost as much for special funds. Clearly the determination of this matter is one for the Legislature to make.

The details of this and the resultant effect upon the automatic appropriation to the retirement system have already been indicated.

Hours of Employment (see Table B)

Determining the hours of employment of State employees will materially affect the Budget for practically every department of the State. Some will have more work hours added than they need; others will have a loss.

The impact of the war on manpower has brought this question squarely before the Legislature. What shall be the length of the work week? Shall it be uniform for all departments? At the present time no definite and uniform work week has been established for the State. The State Personnel Board apparently has no authority to do so. The office hours of certain offices have been determined but not the hours that the employees of such offices shall be required to work. Some departments work as little as 35 hours per week. The average is nearer 38 hours, while some departments work as much as 48 hours per week, and even more. Those that work over 40 hours per week include the Department of Institutions, the prisons, the Highway Patrol and such agencies as exercise custodial and police duties. What is more troublesome is that the employees in the same departments or agencies do not all work the same number of hours.

If the Legislature determines on a uniform work week and it is less than the hours now being worked by the employees in some departments, how is it to be adjusted and carried into the appropriation bills? Will this merely mean increasing the appropriation, or will the salaries be adjusted on the basis of the shorter work week and the budget remain the same?

If overtime is to be allowed in place of compensating time off, now so greatly abused, will the overtime be at the straight rate or time and a half, or on what basis? If it is allowed, where will the necessary money come from and how much will be needed to pay it? How will the possible abuse of overtime be controlled? Will it be controlled by the Personnel Board or by financial control through appropriations, or financial control through the Department of Finance?

Is the Legislature going to pass a bill or bills which will cover every phase of the subject and provide specifically for administration, or is the Legislature merely going to direct the Personnel Board and the Department of Finance and the agencies concerned what to do?

At any rate, the budget for salaries and wages and corresponding amounts to the appropriations bills can not be fixed until policy of the Legislature is specifically determined on this matter. A minimum work week of 40 hours appears to be desirable under all circumstances.

Salary Savings (see tabulation preceding pages)

The impact of the war has made it impossible to fill vacancies. It has also demonstrated that it is possible to carry on the State Government without filling certain vacancies. The results of having vacancies during the current biennium have been translated into salary savings which, in turn, have been used to pay the $15 per month salary bonus.

More vacancies have been anticipated for the next biennium and an item of salary savings has been set up in the Budget for most of the departments, and this has been deducted from the requested appropriation. A study of this item of salary savings indicates that no uniformity has been used, but merely the experience of the past year used as a guide. It has been considered that if a position were vacant and were not filled for three months that it would be permanently vacant. It may be that some of these positions are seriously needed, while others that have not become vacant either because the incumbent was not subject to military service or he was enjoying maximum pay or maximum retirement benefits and could not equal or exceed this in war industries; or possibly the incumbent was not blessed with any qualities which would get him a higher paying job outside the State service. In some cases nonessential jobs might be retained while essential ones remain vacant. It also might occur that because of exceptionally high salaries and other reasons not a single employee of some one department or division of the State would leave. Therefore, no salary savings would accrue. In this instance it might occur that the services were nonessential and might very well have been dispensed with.

It does happen that no salary savings are set up in the Budget for the courts. Details of this have been discussed briefly. This is a good example, indicating curtailment for salary savings is not uniform, and that in this instance at least it is not based upon severance from the service, for we have had a number of employees of the court separated from the service during the past few years.

It appears that before any uniformity can be established in the matter of salary savings that some legislative determination might very well be made and that before these various questions here raised can be settled and a Budget properly prepared covering salaries and wages for the several departments and divisions of the State, this policy determination must be made.

Budget of the Highway Patrol

As respects the Budget for the Department of Motor Vehicles, the Division of Highway Patrol, the Legislature should determine as a matter of policy whether the Highway Patrol shall be expanded in the face of a declining traffic load so that the total program will require more funds than are now allocated by law, or whether the patrol should be reduced so that costs will fall within available funds.

At the last regular session of the Legislature an increase of 40 Highway Patrolmen was allowed. Due to the fact that they were not put on at once, the money appropriated was sufficient to put on 47. The appropriation did not specify a limit of 40 patrolmen, but merely gave an amount. The administration wanted approximately 400 more patrolmen.

The Governor did not ask the Special Session of the 1941 Legislature to deal with this matter, but subsequently he allowed a deficiency in the Motor Vehicle funds for the purpose of putting on approximately 300 additional patrolmen. Due to inability to secure men, and losses to the armed services and war industry, a net increase of approximately 192 men was made. This increase was all made without legislative sanction and, in fact, contrary to the Legislature's expressed view. This illustrates the dangers that exist in the power of allowing deficiencies in special funds, and shows how it may be abused.

As stated by the Governor on page v of his Budget message, the program of the Highway Patrol requires an expenditure greatly in excess of the funds provided by the declining revenue. For this reason he recommended an appropriation $1,250,000 below the expenditures for the current biennium. However, despite this decrease, the Motor Vehicle Support Fund shows a deficit of $850,000 at the end of the biennium. The Governor therefore requests the Legislature to appropriate an additional 4 per cent of the registration fees for the support of the department, or to provide a similar amount from some other source of revenue.

Although the Governor suggests this additional revenue be secured by increasing the percentage for the support of the Motor Vehicle Department by 4 per cent, reference to the Budget Act, Assembly Bill No. 1600, Items 149 and 150 on page 12, shows that this procedure has not been followed. These two items provide the money for the deficiency in the amount of $851,174. It is divided into equal parts of $425,587 each, and on July 1, 1943, and July 1, 1944, this sum is to be transferred to the Department of Motor Vehicle Support Fund out of any moneys in the Motor Vehicle Fund on these respective dates. This has the effect of taking at the beginning of each fiscal year of the biennium this sum out of the Motor Vehicle Fund before it is apportioned. In other words, in the Budget Act it is now proposed to take steps to avoid the percentage distribution of this fund, and it has the effect of reducing the amount that would go to the Division of Highways and to the counties and cities of the State for highway purposes. If the Legislature wishes to do this in this way, it is, of course, within their power. It does, in a sense, negate to this amount the procedure established by the Legislature for the appropriation of these funds. It has the advantage that it provides the exact amount of money to meet the specific deficit and for a limited period of one biennium, and it does not upset the percentage distribution already established. The 4 per cent additional suggested by the Governor might or might not produce sufficient money, or it might produce more than is needed.

This deficit of $851,174 would not have occurred if the mandate of the Legislature had been followed as respects the size of the Highway Patrol. Clearly this is a matter of legislative policy, as indicated above. If the patrol is to be maintained at the strength as estimated in the Governor's Budget, additional revenue in the sum of $851,174 will be necessary.

The Legislature has several means of solving the situation of the Motor Vehicle Department. First of all, it can eliminate the deficit by reducing the appropriation by $851,174. It does not have to cut the patrol sufficiently to make this entire saving but can make general reductions. Secondly, the Legislature could raise the necessary money by the means suggested in the appropriation measure; or third, the Legislature could change the percentage to be allocated to the Motor Vehicle Support Fund. Fourth, the Legislature may provide the necessary funds from some other source of revenue. This is clearly a matter for legislative determination.

Other Miscellaneous Policy Determinations

There are a number of other places where the Legislature might well determine policy before the Budget is complete and the appropriation bill can be made final.

These include (1) the matter of application of rationing to institutions; (2) the question of greater production of food and usable products in the institutions; (3) the parole of inmates of our prisons for military service and for use in agriculture; (4) the establishment of camps by the Youth Authority and use of this labor for forest fire protection, agricultural purposes and other purposes; (5) the expansion or contraction of the prison highway camps and their control.

III. ESTIMATES AND RESULTING SURPLUS, JUNE 30, 1945

A careful review of the estimates of revenue which appear in the Budget indicates that the method of estimating them in general is sound, and that the results may be said to be based on conservative estimates with allowances made for contingencies which might occur on the unfavorable side. However, it should be pointed out that this period of unprecedented high revenue income which now exists can only continue as long as the war effort continues and it will disappear as the war effort recedes.

The Budget is based on an anticipated decline in both General and Special Fund revenues. It is estimated that $676,000,000 will have been collected for the current biennium by June 30, 1943, by both General and Special Funds. Of this, $497,000,000 will have accrued to the General Fund. For the biennium of the Budget 1943-45, it is estimated that total revenue will not exceed $697,000,000, of which $468,000,000 will accrue to the General Fund. Of the drop of $79,000,000 in total revenue, only $29,000,000 will be in the General Fund.

Let us repeat that although estimates are based upon all the evidence available and calculations having been made for contingencies that may occur on the unfavorable side, it should be anticipated that these estimated sums in revenue may vary.

We do wish to point out, that we do not believe that those who estimate the revenue receipts for the State have taken into account certain other larger contingencies which can not, at the present time, be judged with any degree of accuracy, but which exist in a wartime economy, particularly in time of National rationing, control of prices and the National necessity of financing as much of the war with current taxes as is possible, and with an over all specter of inflation as a continual menace which must be met in some way if we are to win the war and the economic peace.

Federal Action May Affect Revenues

It should be recognized that the sudden increase in revenues, far beyond the most optimistic estimate, can turn almost instantly into decline. Several possible actions on the part of the Federal Government would materially reduce income.

Any drastic change in the Federal ruling as respects purchases by contractors for use on Federal contracts, exempting such purchases from the sales tax, would at once cause a drop in the sales tax receipts.

Increased rationing of taxable articles will reduce sales tax receipts. Already we have the rationing of shoes and the prospects that clothing will be rationed in a short time. Other commodities will follow.

Restrictions on the production of consumable goods have already reduced sales tax receipts and such reductions are taken into account in the Budget estimated revenue. But further restrictions on the production of consumable goods can be expected and this will cut down the sales and reduce the taxes accordingly. This sort of restriction to a large degree is certain if we are to raise and supply an army of 12,000,000 men.

As respects the corporate and personal income tax, we must not lose sight of the fact that the sudden prosperity for certain income tax paying groups has already begun to wane. The heavy contractors are about through.

The manager of the Northern California Associated General Contractors on February 22d stated that hundreds of pieces of heavy construction equipment, used principally before the war on roadwork, and since then on war contracts, now are idle, and workers for contractors are drifting to other employment. Many pieces of road and other heavy machinery have been sent to South America; equipment operators and engineers have followed the machinery. The present situation of tremendous quantities of idle equipment is exactly opposite of that a year ago. This heavy equipment is used for preliminary work on projects. Most of this preliminary work is completed and there are few new projects to take up the slack. The larger contractors in Northern California universally report that with the exception of shipbuilding they have little or no work in the offing. The bidding on construction projects indicates clearly the situation. Where a few months ago two or three contractors bid on jobs, now as high as 18 bids are submitted. This is the situation the State is now experiencing on a moderate sized construction job it has out for bid.

Unemployment in Construction Industries

In the January, 1943, report of the Department of Employment to the Governor's Council, on page 2, we find this statement: "In January, unemployment insurance disbursements rose sharply to the claimants released from the construction industries, food manufacturing and from lumber and timber basic products establishments." These workers, of course, will shift to other industries, but this is indicative that the trend is already here, and just as activity in this wartime industry falls off, so will it fall off in those contracts that carry on the follow-up work and the finishing in the construction of Army camps, shipyards, steel mills and other plants necessary for war production. The construction contractors in general will be cutting their activity, and taxes from this source will decline. Stabilization in operations of other war industries will result in stabilization of tax income and a decline from present levels.

Corporate and personal income taxes are likely to decline as costs of doing business go up and net profits decrease. This is the normal experience with approaching stabilization in business.

Federal Taxes Will Reduce State Tax Receipts

With a Federal Budget approved for $108,000,000,000, and with the consequent necessity of drastically increasing Federal taxes, it is self-evident that a larger and larger amount of the purchasing power of the people will be taken in Federal taxes. This drawing off of purchasing power just to pay that part of the Federal spending program which should be carried currently will reduce the taxpaying ability of California citizens. No one can estimate the amount of the eventual tax take-down, but every indication points to an ever increasing burden.

Possible Effect of Inflation Control

The best estimates available indicate that there will be a surplus purchasing power in the hands of the people of the United States for the current year of from $58,000,000,000 to $60,000,000,000. This excess purchasing power, in face of the decline in available supply of consumable goods, makes it inevitable that those responsible in the Federal Government shall take adequate steps to control possible inflation. Action along this line has already been too long delayed. In some method or another this excess purchasing power must be drawn off before the vicious circle of inflation gets under way.

Some of it can be drawn off by increased Federal taxes. The Victory tax is a beginning. The increased personal income tax is another step, but none of these strike deep enough at the roots of the situation.

The Federal fiscal officials recognize the danger of the situation and at least one of their spokesmen, appearing before the Governor's Tax Committee in San Francisco, urged that State taxes be not reduced, which would leave increased purchasing power in the hands of the people.

Another way of reducing this excess purchasing power is through increasing both voluntary and compulsory savings. The war bond drives are a voluntary approach, but they have not been sufficient to provide any material remedy. It appears that some compulsory form of saving will eventually be required.

The control and practical elimination of installment buying, forcing cash or very short term purchases, and the contraction of credit, is one method of reducing excess purchasing power, which has been in effect to a considerable degree for some time. Further restrictions on the use of such credit would reduce the purchasing power and any and all methods which reduce the purchasing power of the people will reduce the income from the sales tax, and by reducing the volume of business transactions of the civilian population it will possibly reduce the return from corporate and personal income taxes. The fixing of ceiling prices and the freezing of wages also have the effect of controlling inflation, and at least prevent the further pyramiding of tax receipts in so far as these controls are effective.

Tax Yields May Not be as Estimated

It is recognized that in the Budget estimate of revenue some of these revenues for the first year of the biennium are assured from the method of levy and assessment, but other of these tax sources are not so specifically determined in advance, while the receipts for the second year are not definitely assured. For the reasons we have mentioned, it is felt that many of these taxes may not yield all that is estimated.

Two years ago revenues for all the funds for the biennium of 1941-43 were estimated by the administration to yield $653,069,594. Of this, $408,224,817 was for the General Fund and $204,844,777 for the special funds. It is now estimated that the General Fund will receive $497,473,016 and the special funds $178,635,963, or a grand total of $676,108,979. Therefore, in place of the General Fund having an estimated surplus as of June 30, 1943, of $11,058,167, this surplus as now estimated will be in excess of $90,000,000. It appears to be relatively safe at this date to count on this surplus. Beyond this, any estimate is more speculative. It seems prudent for the Legislature to recognize this fact and to approach any matter that will dissipate this surplus either through excessive spending or drastic tax reduction with caution.

Surplus as of June 30, 1945

The most startling thing in the Budget is the anticipated General Fund surplus as of June 30, 1945. If the estimated revenue receipts in the Budget are reasonably correct and are received, the surplus at the end of the biennium will approximate $228,000,000. The following table shows the trend of receipts and expenditures over the four year period covering the current and ensuing biennium:

General Fund deficit June 30, 1941		$ 66,000,000
Revenue 1941-43	$497,500,000
Expenditures 1941-43	541,000,000
Operating surplus 1941-43		156,000,000
General Fund surplus June 30, 1943 (estimated)		$ 90,000,000
Revenue 1943-45 (estimated)	$468,000,000
Expenditures 1943-45 (estimated)	530,000,000
Operating surplus 1943-45 -----		138,000,000
General Fund surplus June 30, 1945 (estimated) -----		$228,000,000

The estimated surplus will be equivalent to approximately $30 for each man, woman and child in this State, or approximately $150 per family.

This surplus will be realized unless taxes are reduced or expenditures are increased beyond the Budget. Any one or more of these possible and probable contingencies can occur. First of all, receipts, as we have indicated, may not be realized. It is certain that expenditures will be somewhat increased beyond the Budget by the amount of defense appropriations normally passed by the 1943 Legislature and by Budget amendments contemplated and special appropriation bills which normally run from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

In such circumstances when a large Treasury surplus exists, raids on the Treasury become numerous. Many think of ways to spend surpluses in a public treasury, but few safeguard it for the time when transient prosperity as we are now experiencing gives way to normal conditions and possible economic disturbance and distress, with consequent unemployment which usually follows such sudden up-swings created by an artificial prosperity.

California once before had a State surplus of approximately $11,000,000 as of June 30, 1931. Fixed charges of government, automatic increases in the debt service, demands of unemployment and relief and raids on the Treasury sponsored by special groups, despite an economy program on the part of the State fiscal officers, coupled with an unprecedented decline in revenue, resulted in a State deficit of approximately $11,000,000 by the end of that biennium, on June 30, 1933.

This deficit occurred despite the fact that the per capita costs for State Government, including a material increase for debt service and an enlarged capital outlay program, were materially less than the previous biennium.

The State has had a General Fund deficit since that date until the present surplus became manifest a few months past.

The history of the previous surplus and the following 10 years of deficit should be a reminder that even in times of surplus, great care should be exercised concerning economy and tax adjustment so that the revenue structure of the State remains sufficient to carry the normal expenditure program of the State. An expansion of governmental services on the basis of a wartime prosperity or the drastic reduction of the tax base will have the result of creating a revenue situation which will mean an expenditure program that can not be carried by normal tax receipts with the return of normal times, while the dissipation of the surplus will mean the elimination of a reserve that might be desirable to meet an economic recession which is likely to occur at the end of wartime prosperity.

Anticipated Surplus Not a Clear Book Surplus

The statement in the Budget that there will be a General Fund surplus of $228,000,000 as of June 30, 1945, should not be taken to mean that this is a clear book surplus of this sum. It merely means that it is a book surplus as far as the Budget is concerned. There are some other expenditures and obligations and accruing obligations of the State which are not given consideration. These amount to a very large sum in the aggregate and are far in excess of the anticipated General Fund surplus. They should be noted in any sober consideration of the financial condition of the State.

These actual obligations that exist and obligations that are accruing are found in: (1) The bonded indebtedness of the State; (2) The depreciation and obsolescence and accumulating housing need of the State created by the suspension of capital outlay during the last year of the current biennium and to be continued throughout the succeeding biennium; (3) The existing and accumulating possible deficit in the State unemployment insurance reserve; and (4) The unknown but increasing obligation for compensation insurance for former and present members of the State Guard, who may have claims in the future against the State.

Bonded Indebtedness of the State

On page A 45 of the Budget for the biennium 1943-45 there is a statement of the bonded debt of California as of December 31, 1942. The total net bonded indebtedness of the State as of that date was $133,761,327.68. Of this amount, general obligation bonds outstanding amounted to $81,785,500, with a sinking fund of $2,748,739, or approximately $74,036,000 of net bonded indebtedness as an obligation against the General Fund.

It certainly does not seem logical for a man to take some unexpected receipts and go out and spend it or to engage in an orgy of riotous living when at the same time he owes various members of his family and his friends a considerable sum of money, and in amount a considerable percentage of his sudden windfall. It does not seem any more virtuous for the State to consider a surplus of the General Fund as free and available for spending when it has outstanding in excess of $79,000,000 in bonded indebtedness; particularly when it is realized that if this is paid off now the principal alone will be due but if it is allowed to mature the interest charge on these bonds will be almost as much as the principal. Consideration should be given to some means of providing for the liquidation of at least enough of this bonded debt so that we will not have the situation which did occur in 1931-33 when we experienced an increasing debt service in a time of declining revenues. In that biennium, 1931-33, there was an increase of 108 per cent in bond interest and redemption payable from the General Fund. While the amount was relatively small, in comparison with the General Fund revenues of today, at that time it was a large item.

Accumulated Capital Outlay Needs

Although the Budget for the next biennium contains, comparatively speaking, no allotments for capital outlay, and the building program of the State has practically been suspended during the last year of the present biennium, it does not mean that there has been an actual suspension of the using up of capital outlay through the depreciation and obsolescence of existing buildings. There has also already occurred an accumulation of housing needs at our institutions and prisons, State colleges and schools, and this accumulation will continue throughout the next biennium. This capital outlay need to replace depreciation and obsolescence and to provide adequate housing for the State goes on whether the expenditures are made or not.

A separate study is being conducted to arrive at the total sum which reasonably should be required to meet a satisfactory program at the end of the coming biennium. The total amount has not yet been determined but it is estimated that it will be between $100,000,000 and $122,000,000, based upon normal prices of construction. This is about in line with the average appropriations that have been made by the Legislature for capital outlay purposes financed from the General Fund over a period of years, when we consider the three years' suspension of capital outlay and the accumulated need adjusted to the growth of the State.

The wise and prudent businessman who found that his business was overcrowded and his plant depreciated and in part obsolete would lay away out of his income a fund for the replacement of buildings and for expansion to meet the normal requirements of the growth in his business. Is it not wise for the State to view the problem in the same way and to consider the State's need on the basis of fact?

Highway Expenditures Deferred

In the first part of this report a tabulation was presented showing that State expenditures from special funds for the biennium 1943-45 will be decreased $28,615,000 below those for the current biennium. It was stated that this decrease was primarily a reduction in expenditures on State highways. Reference to page 614 of the Governor's Budget will show that administrative costs for the Division of Highways will be reduced $188,000. Maintenance will show a reduction of $2,864,000, while capital outlay, which includes reconditioning, resurfacing, general improvement, engineering, rights of way and improvement of joint highway districts of State highways and cities for both roads and bridges shows a net reduction of $21,328,000 with Federal funds eliminated, or a total capital outlay reduction for highways on the part of the State of $24,399,000. This simply means that normal expenditures for maintenance and improvement of highways, streets and bridges in the State of California are suspended in this amount for the next two years. In the meantime, the increased truck traffic and movement of military equipment, much of it of a very heavy nature, is increasing the wear and tear on the highway system. Highways are actually being used up and at some time, either through State or Federal funds, they will have to be reconditioned, and this will require a very large sum of money. Who will pay for this general reconditioning and this suspension of capital outlay for the current biennium? This, in a sense, is another accumulating deficit which should be considered in viewing the State's general financial picture.

Deficit in the Teachers' Retirement Fund

For many years it has been known that there has been an actuarial deficit in the Teachers' Retirement Fund. As early as 1931 this was variously estimated at from $35,000,000 to $60,000,000. Subsequent to that date, changes in teachers' retirement benefits and changes in the contributions made to the fund and the right of withdrawal given to the teachers have had the effect of further impairing the fund and increasing the actuarial deficit. It is now estimated that the accumulated actuarial deficit in this fund amounts to in excess of $135,000,000. This was the deficit shown in the actuarial survey as of July 1, 1940. We recognize this is not an accurate figure, but an understatement; however, the amount is so large that a variation of 10 per cent one way or another does not influence materially the principle that this very large deficit is still of startling proportions and should be given consideration in reviewing the financial condition of the State of California and in considering any surplus in the Treasury.

The Question of the State's Obligation to the Teachers' Retirement Fund

It can be pointed out that the State of California has not assumed the full obligation of supporting a teachers' retirement plan beyond a limited contribution and that the State is not specifically bound to make up an actuarial deficit in this fund. The State's financial obligation has been and is to make a contribution of 5 per cent of the State inheritance tax collections to this fund. The State has not assumed any other financial obligation, although there have been repeated efforts for many years, particularly active beginning with 1931, to increase the State's obligation.

No Relationship Between State Contribution and Financial Requirements of Teachers' Retirement Fund

Clearly there is no relationship whatsoever between the financial need of the Teachers' Retirement Fund and the contributions made on the part of the State of 5 per cent of the inheritance tax collections. In fact, there is no relationship whatever. This 5 per cent might at one time be in excess of what was needed from the State to supply the actuarial cost of the retirement fund for any one period, at another time it might fall far short. For many years the total concept of the contributions from all sources including that from the State has been far short of the need. The situation grows continuously worse. This is clearly unsound and unscientific financing in all of its aspects. Something should be done to correct the situation.

The Obligation of the State

Whether or not the State has any further financial obligation to support the Teachers' Retirement Fund, this fund is set up and managed under State law and there is a moral obligation on the part of the State to see that this system is sound, no matter what allocation is made of costs, and that teachers who have served the required time and retire receive those benefits which they have been promised under the law.

A complete review of the Teachers' Retirement System is desirable and an adjustment of contributions and benefits in light of complete equity to all parties concerned is desirable. The possibility of this affecting the State surplus should be considered, for the State should not have under its management a retirement fund which is actuarially in such a bad condition. It seems that the State should set its entire financial house in order when considering the matter of a State surplus, no matter in what fund it may exist.

Unemployment Insurance Fund Potential Deficit

There is listed on pages 255 to 258, inclusive, of the Governor's Budget the Department of Employment. There is a notation at the bottom of page 255 that the revenues from Federal grants and expenditures are not included in the Budget totals; however, since the department is one of the regular departments of the State it is included in the Budget document itself. It is a kind of a hybrid set up where the Federal Government collects a specific tax for administration and gives the State back what they think is necessary to operate the department. The State formerly made an appropriation to pay part of the cost of administration but this was discontinued during the current biennium. Also, since the outbreak of war the employment offices themselves that used to be under the Department of Employment have been federalized.

The unemployment insurance benefits are supported by a tax on employers and employees and the reserve is in the custody of the Federal Government.

The commission that administers the unemployment insurance has the authority of reducing the benefits. This is complicated, however, by Federal statutes and rulings. The whole matter is so much of a hybrid and so interlocking in its financial aspects and administration with the Federal Social Security setup that it was a subject of a special investigation by a Senate committee headed by Senator Ward. The report of this committee is published in the Senate Journal for January 25, 1943, page 227. We will leave the details of this matter to this committee.

It should be noted, however, that since before the Pearl Harbor incident the increase in war industries in California, including the manufacture of airplanes and the building of ships and other war activities, there has been a considerable influx of workers into California. It has been variously estimated that as many as 750,000 workers have come into this State. This estimate we believe is high for the actual net increase of the number on the rolls of those covered by the unemployment insurance contributions was only approximately 500,000 in the last 18 months.

These workers from out of the State have worked here at high wages and many on contracts that were based on a profit of 10 per cent above costs. In this calculation of costs, of course, was the desire to make them as high as possible rather than as low, so that the 10 per cent might be that much greater. There was, therefore, no particular incentive to hold down wages either in the scale or in the total number of employees or the total amount paid in wages. The employers' and employees' contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Fund were included in these contract costs and this reserve was built up and with particular rapidity as benefit payments decreased with an improved labor demand. The contributions made by the employer and employee were according to law and were those estimated as necessary to carry the fund, but do not contemplate meeting any general cessation of war activities which would result in an exodus from California of a considerable number of employees who came in here as a result of the war industries. It seems that this potential excess demand and consequent possible deficit should be charged to the war activities and should be included in the cost of contracts possibly in the way of a special reserve to meet unforeseen demands arising out of these circumstances.

The reserve on January 31, 1943, of the Unemployment Insurance Fund which included both the surplus contributions and interest, brought the balance to $310,428,035. Collections for January exceeded $23,000,000. This appears to be a very healthy situation, but a comparison with just one year previous will show that it may be highly transitory. For January, 1943, there were 57,353 weeks of unemployment compensated for, with a disbursement of $827,626. In the previous year, January, 1942, the disbursements, on the other hand, amounted to $5,400,000. This shows the demand that actually did exist a year ago and that can again develop in a short space of time. For example, the claims for January, 1943, although small, were 86 per cent above the December, 1942, claims.

What will be the claims for unemployment insurance when the war industries fall off and a considerable proportion of our imported out-of-State workers return to their home States and make a demand on California for unemployment insurance benefits? How long will the reserve of $310,000,000 last? The maximum claim which any one worker could have against the fund would be $468. If we presume that only one-half of the 750,000 out-of-State workers, or 375,000 of them, make a demand for the full sum of the benefits, this would require a disbursement of $175,500,000, which is over 50 per cent of the reserve. This fund would then have a threatened actuarial deficit.

In addition to this possible demand on the Unemployment Insurance Fund, there is another liability of an undetermined amount which will probably exceed $12,000,000, which arises from the frozen unemployment insurance benefit credits given to workers taken into the military service by law. This provides that they shall retain all of these accumulated benefits and have them available for the workers when they return from the armed services. This benefit continues by law until October, 1943.

What is the solution in this situation? What are the safeguards? What should the State do about it now, before the situation arises? How should this fit into the financial plans of the State? It is true that the commission could reduce the benefits as they saw the demand increase, but the fact that they could reduce them does not mean they would reduce them, at least in time, nor does it mean that in time of unemployment and want these benefits should be reduced, or possibly entirely disappear, and the purpose for which they were created be entirely defeated.

It appears that here is another financial consideration of the possible deficit of the financial structure of the State of California which should be noted in connection with the Budget surplus.

IV. ANALYSIS OF PROPOSED EXPENDITURES IN THE BUDGET FOR THE (1) LEGISLATURE, (2) JUDICIARY, (3) EXECUTIVE AND
(4) ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS, BOARDS AND
COMMISSIONS (Pages 1 to 111 of the Budget)

These agencies of the State include:

1. Legislature
2. Legislative Counsel Bureau
3. California Code Commission
4. California Commission on Uniform State Laws
5. Supreme Court
6. Judicial Council
7. Appellate Court, First District
8. Appellate Court, Second District
9. Appellate Court, Third District
10. Appellate Court, Fourth District
11. Judges' Retirement Fund
12. Governor
13. Lieutenant Governor
14. Attorney General
15. Controller
16. Controller—Unemployment Relief
17. Controller—Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Refund
18. Controller—Tax-Deeded Land
19. Council of Defense
20. State Employees' Retirement System
21. Board of Equalization
  - a. Retail Sales Tax
  - b. Alcoholic Beverage Control
  - c. Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax
22. Franchise Tax
23. Horse Racing Board
24. California Commission on Interstate Cooperation
25. Personnel Board
26. Railroad Commission
27. Harbor Commissioners for San Diego
28. Secretary of State
29. Treasurer
30. Youth Correction Authority

Legislative

(Items 1 to 10, inclusive, of the appropriations bills, Assembly Bill No. 1600 and Senate Bill No. 800, pages 1 and 2 of the Budget.)

1. No Budget hearings were held as respects appropriations for the Legislature. The constitutional requirement of the salaries of the Senators and Assemblymen are provided. Allowance for mileage appears only for the Ninety-sixth Fiscal Year and contingent expenses were included in an arbitrary sum of $10,000 each for the Ninety-fifth Fiscal Year for the Senate and Assembly; while the joint expense of legislative printing and legislative binding was placed at an arbitrary figure of $300,000.

It seems evident that the contingent expense of the Senate, Item 3, in the sum of $40,000, and the contingent expense of the Assembly, Item 7, for $45,000 for the next biennium, will be insufficient based upon past experience and particularly if any considerable number of interim committees are appointed.

The total legislative expense set up in the Budget for 1943-45 is placed at .....	$776,500 00
Where the actual and estimated expense for the current biennium 1941-43 is .....	960,113 06
Which is a decrease of .....	$193,613 06
For 1939-41 it was actually .....	$941,415 48

It appears that approximately $200,000 more should be added to this appropriation to cover what will undoubtedly be required, making a total of $996,500. This is still below the actual expenditures for 1939-41 of $1,019,008.93. Reasons for this estimate:

- a. The cost of printing has gone up for the reason that the prevailing wage rate in the printing plant has been increased and is threatened with another increase.
- b. Certain costs of paper have been increased.

c. The allowance for attaches' individual pay has already been increased in the Assembly and undoubtedly will be increased in the Senate, and unless this is held within the total allowance set by law more money will be required than is customary.

d. The Governor has repeatedly stated and restated that he expects to call the Legislature into special session to secure their views, advice and direction if any extraordinary situations arise, and furthermore, he has stated as a candidate and in his messages and in conferences with committees of the Legislature that the Legislature can meet whenever it wishes and whenever the majority thereof express a desire to meet; and he has further stated that conditions are such that it may be desirable for the Legislature to meet frequently. This alone would be sufficient to suggest the inclusion of a larger sum in the Budget for contingent expense.

Two hundred thousand dollars additional would bring this item for the biennium to $966,500, which is $52,508.93 less than the actual expenditures for 1939-41.

There is no particular merit in setting up a Budget which includes items that will be less than probably will be reasonably required, and it certainly should be consistent with comparable estimates made in other parts of the Budget. This is not true as respects legislative printing. The amount in the appropriation bill for this is placed at $300,000, which is exactly the same amount found in Item 10 of Assembly Bill No. 1800, Chapter 600, of the 1941 Session; however, all through the remaining parts of the Budget and translated into the appropriation act increases have been allowed for printing on the theory that the price has gone up. This is particularly significant in Item 44, allowing the Secretary of State $125,000 for printing the constitutional amendments, which is identical with the comparable Item 42 in Assembly Bill No. 1800 for the current year; while reference to page 101 of the Budget will show that the actual estimated expenditures in the current biennium is placed at $85,000, or $40,000 less than the proposed appropriation. This item, however, we believe can be reduced.

2. Legislative Counsel Bureau, Item 11 of the Appropriation Bill, pages 3 and 4 of the Budget, is set up in the sum of $153,032, an increase of $22,737.08. No new employees are added, and the increases are caused largely by normal salary adjustments and the $15 bonus per month to employees.

This bureau, due to the loss of experienced men, is already forced to put in an excess amount of overtime. The increased services required of interim committees has likewise added to their burden. If there are special sessions, they probably will require additional money. It is not believed that they can function with a smaller staff or less funds.

Working Conditions of the Legislative Counsel

Greater efficiency and a larger return for the money expended can be secured if the Legislative Counsel is given adequate quarters. The work performed requires close attention and concentration. In many instances it is highly technical and frequently it not only requires concentrated thought but also consultation with others. During the session almost continuous conferences between the members of the Legislature and the members of the Legislative Counsel Bureau staff occur in relation to legislation being prepared or amended. The desks of the staff members are so crowded that it is practically impossible to hold such conferences without interfering with the work of other staff members. The chief of the bureau frequently must hold conferences with committees and groups and the representatives of the various departments of the State. He does not have adequate space to hold such conferences.

It is evident that greater economy and efficiency will result if quarters are provided to meet this particular problem.

Observation also demonstrates that a considerable amount of time of the Legislative Counsel Bureau is wasted through improper consideration and indiscriminate requests. For example, the carte blanche authorization given by members of the Legislature to citizens interested in legislation to have any bills drawn which they wish is frequently an extravagant waste of time of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. Frequently inexperienced persons make requests that are poorly considered, indefinite and subsequently prove to be unacceptable to the legislator authorizing the request. Frequently the requests of the legislators themselves are so indefinite as to place an undue burden on the imagination as well as the technical skill of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. The numerous duplicate requests of the various members of the Legislature cause a large amount of duplicate and overlapping work and increase the burden and the costs of the bureau. The Legislature itself has the sole power of correcting this situation through its rules and procedure. There are some difficulties involved in providing procedure which will allow all of the latitude that is necessary for individual and untrammelled action on the part of the members and at the same time eliminate waste and unproductive work on the part of the staff that, no matter what the burden, endeavors to provide every service.

3. California Code Commission, Item 12, page 2, Appropriation Bill; page 5 of the Budget; appropriation $29,450. This is a decrease of $7,349.74. The decrease is in service and materials furnished by the Legislative Counsel. The amount spent depends upon the volume of the codes prepared. It would probably yield values to the State if the program of codification were expedited. There is a difficulty, however, in retaining experienced help. No reduction is recommended.

4. California Commission on Uniform State Laws, Item 13, page 2, Appropriation Act; page 6 of the Budget; $2,000. This is an increase of $805.08, an increase primarily in contribution to the National Conference on Uniform State Laws of $700. No reduction is advisable unless the entire function is eliminated. State business, including the imposition of taxes, resulting from the war activity, probably emphasizes the need for this service.

Judicial

5. Supreme Court, Item 14, page 2, Appropriation Act; pages 7 and 8 of the Budget, $438,140. This is an increase of $15,897.34. This increase is primarily in salaries, and no credit is set up for salary savings due to vacant positions because of the war effort. It is believed that these will accrue and that salary savings should be set up for this court and all of the other courts, comparable with other departments. This was discussed on page 22 of this report in relation to all of the courts.

We recommend a sum of $2,500 be deducted for this. We further recommend that the salaries of the employees of the Supreme Court be studied by the Personnel Board in relation to the salaries paid by other State departments for like services and that the salary scale be established for these employees on a comparable and equitable basis, giving full recognition to the dignity of the court. No such study has ever been made by the Personnel Board.

6. Judicial Council, Item 15, page 3 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, and pages 9 and 10 of the Budget; in the amount of $64,780. This is an increase of $14,998 made up of $6,785 in support and $7,213 in the extra compensation and expenses of assigned judges. This total increase does not seem justified for the following reasons:

a. No salary savings are set up out of the salaries of a purely technical staff, in excess of $35,000. Also, the rates have not been subject to review by the Personnel Board to be established on a comparable basis. We recommend that the saving of $1,000 be set up here.

b. We also find that an item appeared for the first time for the Judicial Council without approval of the Legislature, providing for an automobile for the Judicial Council. This was done by transferring a car from the Department of Finance. There is no necessity of the Judicial Councils having an automobile for any particular purpose. It is recommended that this item be eliminated entirely from operating expense and that the car be returned to the Department of Finance from whence it came and that the sum of $600 for maintenance be cut.

c. It is also believed that the extra compensation of judges should be met as it occurs and that this item was put into the Budget before final consideration was given to the adjustment of judges' salaries that is now pending before the Legislature. We recommend that the item of $20,000 for the biennium be reduced to $15,000, which still is an increase of $2,213, and that the saving of $5,000 be accepted.

d. The fourth item of saving is in printing. The actual expenditures for 1941-42 amount to $138.77. The estimate for the current fiscal year is $1,400, which it is doubtful will be expended. The request for $1,000 for each year of the biennium is based on the desire to publish certain items and is a pure estimate without having copy in hand. We recommend that this be reduced to $500 or the reduction of $1,000 for the biennium and that any additional requirement be secured from the Emergency Fund.

The total reduction of the Judicial Council, therefore, would amount to $7,600.

7. Support of the First District Court of Appeals, Item 16 in the Budget Bill, page 11 of the Budget; support, $217,140. This is an increase of $6,805 which occurs in an increase from the Ninety-fourth Fiscal Year in salaries and wages in excess of $5,000, which is carried forward to both years of the coming biennium. The only saving that is apparent will be an estimated salary saving of approximately $1,000.

8. Second District Court of Appeals, Item 17, page 3 of Assembly Bill No. 1600 and pages 12 and 13 of the Budget; appropriation $307,210. This is an increase of $27,181, due primarily to an increase of six positions in 1942-43 carried over for the full biennium. It has a larger budget than the First District because of the addition of five to the staff in the categories of secretary and legal secretary. The question is raised as to whether or not the volume of secretarial work justifies this much additional secretarial staff. No definite recommendation can be made until further analysis can be completed. No salary savings has been estimated. We believe that $2,000 can be set up for this item. Telephone and telegraph can be cut $500, leaving an increase over what has actually been spent. The library has been increased from $8,000 to $10,000. We believe that the former appropriation plus $500 is sufficient, making a saving of $1,500. The total savings will be $4,000.

9. Third District Court of Appeals, Item 18, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 14 and 15 of the Budget, appropriation $125,410. This is an increase of $15,387, due primarily to an increase of two positions in 1942-43 carried forward to both years of the biennium. The total employees are 13, which is next to the lowest of the appellate courts. The only suggested saving is $500 to be set up as a salary saving.

10. Fourth District Court of Appeals, Item 19, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 16 of the Budget, appropriation $150,330. The court has the lowest number of employees of the appellate courts, with 11. The increase is only $1,495. This is primarily in salary.

This is a traveling court and for this reason the travel item of $17,000 for the biennium, although large, appears to be necessary. The rent item of $21,000 for the biennium is large because of the fact that it rents quarters in the several towns where it sits. Unless this court can be adjusted, together with other appellate courts so that it does not have to travel it does not appear possible to make any reductions at this time. No salary savings are suggested because of the small number of employees.

11. Judges' Retirement Fund, page 17 of the Budget, is not found in the appropriation act for the reason that it is a fixed charge and the amount is increased for the reason that the total salaries of justices has increased and this is based on 2½ per cent of said salaries.

11a. State's share of salaries of judges of superior courts, Item 20, page 3 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 682 of the Budget. This is a fixed charge prescribed by Section 736b of the Political Code, appropriation in the sum of $1,296,000. The State's share is set at $4,000 per judge per year.

Executive

12. Governor. For the support of the Governor's Office, Item 21 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 18 of the Budget, $180,000. This is a decrease of $16,682. The same number of positions are provided for as in the current biennium. The decrease is primarily in salary savings, travel, telephone and telegraph. It is doubtful if the Governor can operate his office on this appropriation without continuing the practice of borrowing help from other State departments unless he secures some voluntary assistance and his administrative staff continues the large amount of overtime which they have had to put in since the inauguration.

This situation is somewhat relieved by an increase in the Special Secret Service Fund for the biennium of $10,000, bringing it back up to what has been customary to allow in this fund. This is Item 22, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600. This is exempt from accounting and audit and can be spent by the Governor in any way he sees fit.

Item 23, support of the Governor's residence, $12,000. This is the customary appropriation, but it will buy less in proportion this biennium than last due to the increased cost of commodities and other maintenance expense.

The budget for the Governor since that for Governor Rolph has not been a true picture of the costs of operating the Governor's Office. The increase in business has not been met by a corresponding increase in the staff but this has been met by borrowing employees and equipment and charging certain operational costs to other departments.

Automobiles for the Governor have not been purchased out of the Governor's appropriation for a number of years but they have been assigned generally from the Highway Patrol of the Motor Vehicle Department. Also, a driver and bodyguard for the Governor has been assigned from that body. The operation cost of the car and the expense accounts of the driver have been charged to the Highway Patrol. In other instances legal services, both for analyzing legislative bills and for other legal and administrative purposes, have been borrowed from other departments, and for the past four years one full-time attorney of the Department of Finance was almost continuously employed on work for the Governor's Office.

The budget for the Governor's Office never will reflect true costs until all of these charges are specifically included. At the same time, the cost of the departments and agencies from which equipment, services and operational cost are obtained, likewise have a distorted budget for these items that are so provided.

13. Lieutenant Governor, Item 24, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 20 of the Budget, $12,930. This shows a decrease of $8. No adjustments suggested.

The secretary provided for the Lieutenant Governor and the other operating expenses should be sufficient for all the activities now required of the Lieutenant Governor as presiding officer of the Senate and service on the boards and commissions now provided by law. If the Lieutenant Governor is required to render additional services to the State and serve on additional boards or commissions, the additional expense of secretarial service, office and travel should be considered at that time. It does not appear to be necessary from the requirements of the office for the Lieutenant Governor to maintain several offices throughout the State in order to render to the public all the services required in connection with this office.

Administrative

14. Attorney General, Item 25, page 21 of the Budget, appropriation $694,170. This is a net increase of $44,175. The increase is primarily in salaries and a decrease in reimbursement for legal services from special funds caused by changing some special funds over to the General Fund; also, increase of four employees in the fiscal year 1943-44.

This appropriation includes $30,630 for normal salary adjustments with the provision that a survey of the salary of exempt positions be made and an appropriate classification and salary rates be established before this is paid. This figure, therefore, represents an arbitrary estimate. It should be understood that any of this amount not required, together with any savings that should accrue through a reduction in the salary range for the respective positions held and work performed should likewise revert. It is believed that a salary survey of the actual work performed by the employees of the Attorney General, both in administration and investigation, will indicate that a considerable savings in salaries is justified. The actual work performed must be used and not the educational qualifications or the fact that a lawyer is performing such services shall be taken into account. If an attorney merely acts as a receptionist for visitors he should be paid the salary of a receptionist comparable with the State scale and not for performing the services of an attorney, which he is not performing. If an investigator, special agent or other employee or Deputy Attorney General merely acts as a chauffeur he should receive the pay for the job being performed and not on the basis of a false classification. If an attorney, no matter what his classification, spends his time on a large proportion thereof on some minor legal work and is not expected to perform more difficult duties, his salary scale should be based upon the actual work performed.

Also, if any employees of the Attorney General's office, either of the legal staff or the Division of Investigation, are rendering service to other departments not specifically provided for in the budget of the Attorney General they should either be compensated for or fully justified and clearly indicated so that the appropriation therefor would be definite.

No specific reductions in the Budget are suggested for these items for the reason that the information necessary will not be available until an official survey is made.

The Budget document has one item requiring an explanation. This is the reversion of $13,322.29 taken in the elimination of the item for the presentation of the claims of the California Indians, showing a net increase of this amount less than the actual increase. This merely is removing from the Budget this item and placing it in a special item in the Appropriation Bill.

There is also another possible adjustment in the Budget for the Attorney General through adding the $20,000 set up in the Budget for the Colorado River Commission for an attorney, on page 630 of the Governor's Budget, and transferring this to the Attorney General's Budget. The requirement for this service is in doubt, and it is quite possible that a considerable amount of this $20,000 can be saved. It should be so appropriated that if it is not expended for the Colorado River Commission that it should revert. It is well to place it under the control of the Attorney General so that only so much thereof will be expended as is necessary.

There are several reductions in the operating expense items. Only two items, cost of suits which include a large amount of printing and telephone and telegraph, show an increase. Telephone and telegraph is placed at $8,000 for the Division of Administration, with a total of 71 employees. It is believed that this figure can be cut by at least $1,000. We are applying here the general tendency of the State to indulge in an excessive use of telephones. There has been a material reduction of this item in the Division of Investigation. No other suggestions for reductions are made at this time. It is felt that the Attorney General will give full consideration to reasonable suggestions made during the coming biennium.

Two specific recommendations are made to be effective on certain contingencies. On page 24 of the Budget a detail of the charges made by the Attorney General to special fund agencies for legal services is set up. The total shows a reduction. This is made from the fact that certain agencies have been transferred to the General Fund in this Budget. No actual reduction has occurred, but on the other hand an increase in individual items will be noted, such as a $7,500 increase in a charge to the Department of Employment. A full survey has not been made of these charges to special funds but it is possible that a charge of $8,000 will be made to the Department of Social Welfare, for a request of the adjustment of the Budget has already been made by this department. Should this occur, the Attorney General's Budget should be reduced by that sum and the credit for charges increased by that amount.

Charges to Special Funds for Legal Services

It is also suggested that a complete review be made of all of the special funds requiring legal services and that an adjustment be made in the schedule, including them at proper rates, and the Budget be adjusted accordingly. Likewise, the Colorado River Commission appropriation for attorneys should be included in this list, since this service will be provided. In addition, the corresponding budget adjustment upward will be required.

It is further recommended that a method be provided for effective reviewing of the charges made by the Attorney General to the special funds for legal services, giving full consideration to the fact that the Attorney General provides a standby for advisory legal service as well as actively rendering legal advice and conducting defense suits and other legal services; however, at the present time the Attorney General, under Section 473a of the Political Code, sets his own charges without this being reviewed.

Improved Accounting Recommended

At the present time it does not appear to be possible to determine whether or not equitable charges have been made by the Attorney General for services rendered. It is suggested that accounts be maintained so as to indicate whether proper charges have been made for services rendered. This applies in particular where expenses for a suit which may amount to a considerable sum are advanced for a special fund agency and then when the suit is won are returned or paid, but are taken in as a receipt or a revenue by the Attorney General. It is true that sometimes these payments for costs are received several years after they are incurred and there may be some difficulty in reimbursing the particular fund concerned; however, it is clear that some policy should be adopted so that charges made to special funds will not be excessive and for the benefit of the General Fund.

15. State Controller, Item 26, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 25 to 30, inclusive, of the Budget, support, $1,004,905. This includes administration, accounting, inheritance and gift tax, claims auditing and tax collection. It shows a total increase of $127,000. There is a needed increase of one position in the regular activities of the Controller. Most of the increase is found in the salary bonus and normal salary adjustments. Operating costs have, in general, been held down. No particular reductions are recommended, with the exception of an item for printing of State warrants for the coming biennium. It is recommended that a reduction of $8,500 be made in this item for the reason that the transfer of the pay roll to the revolving funds in approximately one-half of the State departments has reduced the number required, so that the supply on hand will probably last for the entire biennium.

The statement that the work in the Controller's Office will be materially reduced by handling pay rolls direct in the several agencies has not materialized, with the possible exception of the small reduction in the item of writing the checks. The comparison, auditing and filing of pay roll vouchers and duplicate pay checks remain about the same, with the added problem that the commercial checks used by the departments on banks are not of uniform size with the Controller's warrants, thereby producing a filing problem. In addition, it will be noted on page 27 of the Budget under the Accounting Division an item for special auditing of $5,000 per year or $10,000 for the biennium has been inserted for the purpose of allowing the Controller to audit revolving funds if he feels it is desirable and necessary to protect the State's interest in relation to pay rolls handled by revolving funds. It may be that none of this will be necessary and will revert.

In general, the handling of pay rolls by the State is far from satisfactory. The delays complained of which resulted in returning pay rolls to departmental revolving funds has not been corrected by this procedure. This is particularly true in the case of temporary employees. The intolerable situation in the Motor Vehicle Department where temporary employees were not paid when regular employees were but had a delay for as long as 12 or 14 weeks has not been remedied at this time, which demonstrates that the revolving fund procedure in this case had nothing to do with curing it. The delay was due to failure to clear pay rolls and the bottle-neck in the accounting office. The decentralization has not relieved the Controller's Office, has added to the possibility of defalcation, has increased the problems of auditing and has the only advantage of placing the responsibility in the department concerned and of allowing the department to pay out State funds and make corrections after the employees are paid rather than before. Only about one-half of the State departments have taken advantage of it.

For matters of economy and better control of State expenditures it is recommended that a centralized pay roll system in the Controller's Office, taking full advantage of the most modern bookkeeping machinery and accounting methods, be established, as soon as such machines can be secured. In this way the departmental accounting offices can be reduced in staff and by centralizing the work a much smaller force can handle the pay rolls and these can be preaudited rather than post-audited. This will also make possible the keeping in the treasury of a very much larger cash sum which can be used to augment the cash balance on hand and increase the money available for investment, a policy which apparently is recommended by the Department of Finance in the principle found in some of the bills the department has introduced into the present Legislature.

On page 30 of the Budget, under Claims Auditing and Disbursement Division, it shows that $6,472 was expended for the audit for the State Guard in the year 1943-45, and that an item of $16,656 will be requested to cover the auditing of the State Guard claims for 1943-45. If the volume of State Guard claims increases materially over the estimate, adjustment should be made in the appropriation for the State Guard to provide the added cost to the Controller's Office.

Victory Tax

The matter of handling the Victory tax has already brought added work to the Controller's Office, as has the increase in the number of various deductions from the State pay roll. The handling of the Victory tax is not entirely satisfactory, particularly as respects small boards, commissions and agencies, including the State Legislature and its committees who normally have their pay roll handled through the Controller's Office. It is clear that the consolidation of accounting, reporting and remitting of the Victory tax deduction in one office where the pay roll is already handled would be most economical and businesslike. The problem is particularly difficult for legislative committees that have only a few employees. It is recommended that the Controller take care of this matter, that if he can not do so within the confines of his present staff that an additional sum be provided for additional personnel for this purpose in his appropriation.

Inheritance and Gift Tax Division

On page 28 of the Budget will be found the Inheritance and Gift Tax Division, requiring an expenditure of $336,080 for the biennium, or an increase of $42,664. This increase is primarily in salaries, wages and in witness fees.

There is one item of $3,000 for a conference of inheritance tax officials. This is primarily a conference wherein the local inheritance tax appraisers meet with the Inheritance Tax Division and the Controller in a general convention. Except for the general benefits that arise from such a convention and some consideration given to inheritance tax problems, the State receives no particular value.

The possibility of transferring this division, which is purely a taxation matter and extraneous to this constitutional officer, to a separate tax department of the State, which has long been recommended and recognized as desirable should be given serious consideration. At that time the entire matter of tax administration and its consolidation, both for purposes of economy and efficiency, can be considered.

Tax Collection Division

The same consideration should be given to the Tax Collection Division which appears on page 30 of the Budget.

16. Unemployment Relief Division, pages 31 and 32 of the Budget, contains no item of appropriation for the reason that unemployment relief was abolished as of January 31, 1943. It shows a net saving of $130,690 for the biennium.

Legal Opinion for Registered Warrants

For the same reason, that it is no longer required, a saving of $4,726 is indicated.

17. Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Refund Division, Item 27, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 34 of the Budget. The appropriation from the Motor Vehicle Fuel Fund of $169,177 is an increase of approximately $20,000 and occurs primarily in salaries. The transfer of this function likewise to a division of taxation should be considered for reasons of efficiency and economy.

Small increases have been allowed in printing, in traveling and in postage, all in operating expense, with a total increase of approximately $6,000 in the entire item. It is believed that a reduction of $2,500 can be made.

18. Tax-Deeded Land Rental, Item 28, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 35 in the Budget, appropriation provided from the Tax Deeded Land Rental Fund of $280,812. This is an increase of $51,743, while revenues decline $10,000. The handling of tax-deeded lands until recently has not been satisfactory and at the present time is not yet entirely satisfactory, although much improvement has been made. It appears clear there should be a general attempt to get as much tax-deeded land as possible back on the local assessment rolls for the benefit of the support of local government. It is also clear that the largest possible income should accrue to the State while this land is in the possession of the State. It therefore requires careful management as well as attention to disposal of property. For these reasons it is recommended that the closest attention be paid to this matter rather than that consideration be given to a reduction in this appropriation. It is suggested that the charge for the Attorney General's services of $7,500 be carefully scrutinized and discussed with the Attorney General. It is also suggested that a careful control be exercised over travel, for the sum of $24,000 a biennium appears to be large in view of the fact that 12 district managers are employed.

It is held that the operation of the commission for the classification of this land be held in abeyance for the duration, for economic conditions are so disturbed that normal conditions do not apply. A bill has been prepared for introduction into the Legislature for this purpose.

Sound State Tax Title Desirable

It is believed that the possibilities of giving a good and sound tax title by the State, which will be accepted and guaranteed by the title companies and which need not be defended in the courts, in itself will do much towards getting a large volume of this tax-deeded property back into the hands of private owners. It is therefore recommended that consideration be directed towards the proposed constitutional amendment on this matter, which it is promised will be before the Legislature. If such a procedure can be established, which will result in an issuing of good and sufficient title by the State, the volume and size of the problem of tax-deeded lands will be diminished and this land will be returned to the local tax roll.

19. State Council of Defense, Item 29, page 3, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 37 to 40, inclusive, of the Budget, appropriation, $619,061. This is an increase of $199,139, with a total pay roll of 78 persons.

This has been placed in the Budget on exactly the same basis as it existed during the current fiscal year. This is to be replaced by the War Council. It is already provided for by appropriate legislation, but without an appropriation being provided. It is recommended that this item of $619,061 be entirely stricken from the appropriation bill and the Budget and that there be substituted therefor a new budget for the War Council, with a corresponding appropriation item. It is further recommended that since actual studies and observation show that the State Council of Defense has not served the purpose intended and has been to a large degree politically manipulated that the expenditure therefor be immediately reduced to the bare minimum necessary to carry on absolutely essential activities until it is superseded in its entirety by the War Council.

As previously stated in this report, the budget for the War Council should be subjected to review and scrutiny as to its content and adequacy.

20. State Employees' Retirement System, Item 30, page 3 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 41 and 42 of the Budget; appropriation $154,775, an increase of $38,796, $15,089 of which is in administration and $6,700 for the actuarial valuation special item, and $17,006 for War Savings Bond deductions. The personnel has to be increased from 37 to 43, primarily to take care of the War Savings Bond activity.

It appears that the only possible reduction in this Budget, if the board is to operate satisfactorily and maintain its high standard, would be in the reduction of the fee paid for consulting actuarial services part-time at the rate of $3,000 per year. The actuary employed, Ralph Nelson, is the one that was originally employed by the board. His services are pre-eminently satisfactory. However, he serves as an actuary in a part-time capacity for the Teachers' Retirement System (see page 684 of the Budget) on the same basis, part time for $3,000 a year, and is also employed as the actuary for the San Francisco City Employees' Association, and possibly also has other employment on a part-time basis at a compensation not specifically determined. It is not felt that the $3,000 a year for the State Employees' Retirement System is excessive for this service.

21. Board of Equalization, Items 31 to 34 inclusive, pages 3 and 4 of Assembly Bill No. 1600, and pages Nos. 43 to 66 inclusive of the Budget. This is divided into four appropriation items as follows:

Item 31—Support of the State Board of Equalization-----	$1,372,741
Item 32—Support of Retail Sales Tax Division, State Board of Equalization -----	5,740,697
Item 33—Support of Alcoholic Beverage Control Division, State Board of Equalization-----	2,548,806
Item 34—Support of Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division, State Board of Equalization -----	321,880

The first item, amounting to $1,372,741 is made up of the following amounts:

	Estimated and Proposed 1943-1945	Increase or Decrease from 1941-1943
General administration -----	$295,836 00	$12,286 30
Division of Research and Statistics ----	39,197 00	4,271 53
Division of Assessment Standards-----	133,298 00	8,897 22
Valuation Division -----	293,293 00	19,690 78
Motor Transportation License Tax
Division Headquarters -----	161,432 00	18,885 12
District offices -----	351,788 00	16,504 88
Totals, Motor Transportation
License Tax Division -----	$513,220 00	$35,390 00
Pro rata charges for services rendered by Sales Tax Division -----	108,730 00	446 41
Totals, general activities-----	$1,383,574 00	$80,982 24
Less credits for pro rata of general administration, research and statis- tics chargeable to special fund divi- sions -----	10,833 00	—282,426 00
Net totals -----	$1,372,741 00	$363,408 24

The only decrease in any of these items is found in the credits for personnel of general administration, research and statistics, chargeable to special funds, to the sum of $282,426. This, it should be noted is a deduction in a credit for items now charged to the General Fund, which results from transferring certain receipts set up as special funds to the General Fund and is a bookkeeping item. The net increase in this total appropriation item is approximately $262,000 over the previous biennium, and $100,000 over 39-41. There is probably more waste in this setup than in any other constitutional agency. It is spread generally throughout the program in overhead, office space, use of automobiles, printing, travel, telephone, lack of control of personnel, poor administrative organization, division of authority, and irregular flow of business.

It is not intended, by this statement to infer that the average employee of this board does not attempt to render full service to the State, nor is it intended to infer that all of the divisions and units of the board are open to all of the criticism. Some activities are well administered by a conscientious staff. Others have a similar intent but are interfered with from time to time by conflicting duties or lack of coordination. The abuses are found in particular through the attempt of the board to be an administrative body and yet to divide certain responsibilities into district activities. In particular, abuses are found in connection with the liquor activities and at certain stated times through political activities secretly appearing openly in the office of the board from the headquarters or through its branches and into the field. In this way the business of the State is interfered with and the cost charged to the taxpayer for the time of the employees, office space, utilities, telephones, automobiles, and other miscellaneous costs.

It does not appear that a workable and effective remedy can be found in this situation without completely overhauling the situation; in particular the administration of liquor should be separate and apart from tax equalization and tax administration, tax collection and tax refund. It seems to be that the liquor administration contaminates whatever it touches in the rest of this department. In particular its control should be placed in some body free from the necessity of engaging in political activities in order to maintain their position and free from interest in the general matter of taxation which affects all the people. In particular, a strong penalty should be established even to the extent of making it a felony for any employee of the Liquor Division, from the top to the bottom, to solicit, take, accept, contribute or in any other way have any connection with the soliciting, taking, accepting, or managing of funds for any political purpose or any purpose other than the strict administration of the law—this to include the solicitation for any nonprofit organization or any charitable, fraternal, or any other organization for the reason that under such a guise funds actually used in political purposes have been solicited and collected from the very people the Liquor Control Division regulates and controls. It appears to be too great a temptation to allow such administrators to have in their hands the determining of the business district and success, failure or very existence of a profitable business and not expect them from time to time to succumb to the temptation therefrom. It is not fair to the conscientious and upright employees in this division to place them in a situation which will cast reflection on them through the shortcomings of others.

One has but to refer to the reports of legislative committees to find evidence that the situation is further complicated by activities whose tentacles reach even further into the administration of State Government.

Attention is called to this situation because of the fact that it influences the cost of administration borne by the State itself and special reference will be made to these costs in Item 33, the support of the Alcoholic Control Division which involves an appropriation in excess of $2,500,000 for the coming biennium.

In order to produce the most effective administration of the functions of the Board of Equalization for the best interests of the people of the State and in the most economical and efficient manner, it appears that in connection with the entire problem of tax administration it would be well, as has been mentioned before, in connection with the State Controller, to set up a department of taxation and revenue and concentrate therein the administration of all taxes of the State. These then could be coordinated both in their administration and in their application so as to reduce the costs to the minimum and at the same time produce a more coordinated scheme of taxation.

Whether or not the Board of Equalization shall constitute this department is not now so important as the establishment of such a department. It is important, however, that some body with the constitutional authority which is possessed by the Board of Equalization of administering and equalizing taxes, as well as acting as a Board of Tax Appeals, should be established independent of the tax department. The decisions of this body should be the reflection of the entire body and in no instance should it allow the individual view of one of the members to prevail in the particular district from which he is elected, for unless this is done, uniformity of tax system throughout the State, on a general basis, will not be accomplished and particular influences will be brought to bear.

As in all other departments, the salary savings in this department should be increased by at least 5 per cent. Savings on the basis of a 40 hour work week should also be made. It is not believed that this board, employing a large number of persons, will be able to secure more than 90 per cent of its staff for the next biennium. Currently there are considerably less employees on the pay roll than are set up in the Budget due to the inability of the department to employ as fast as the staff is reduced by enlistments into the service or transfers to war activities.

The board contends that there is no lack of work to be done. In this we concur, but at the same time point out that the present staff in many instances during the current biennium and at the present time are not fully engaged with the State's business. It is recognized that particularly in the Tax Collecting Division and with particular reference to the Sales Tax Division that a reduction in the activity of auditors will result in a failure to collect additional taxes due the State. It is recommended in this case that the administrative heads of the activity not only continue their selection of business to be audited which will yield the largest return, but that they further extend this as the impact on manpower becomes more pronounced. It is felt that the increase of the work week from 38 to 40 hours will materially assist in the matter of loss of individual employees. In this way, the additional salary savings suggested of approximately $275,000 will not have the same effect as a reduction in personnel.

It is shown in the last biennial report of the Board of Equalization, page 19, that for every dollar spent in making a sales tax field audit they return to the Treasury $6.70 in additional revenue. The accumulated work in this division of approximately 157 cases with a three-year statutory limit running against reassessment, it is highly desirable to concentrate on those cases about to outlaw which will possibly yield the most revenue. It is suggested that the regular staff, in so far as possible, devote their attention to this part of the problem and that a survey be made of the entire department so as to transfer whenever possible auditors and accountants from activities when they have a slack period to assist in this sales tax field audit.

The increase in salary savings of 5 per cent and the 40-hour work week are the two largest savings suggested, although certain specific savings are as follows:

In administration, the elimination of the three public relations officers, for the biennium	$23,040
One assistant tax counsel	5,520
One associate tax counsel	8,160
Three senior stenographer clerks, for services rendered to the publicity officers and the tax counsel	6,300

These positions of tax counsel are now vacant and the elimination of two of them will still leave a consulting tax counsel and a junior assistant tax counsel which we believe are sufficient in general administration to advise the board, when we consider that the executive secretary is an attorney and that the board has on it a member of the bar. In addition, in the Retail Sales Tax Division there are three associate tax counsels and in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division there are two associate tax counsels.

Operating expense, automobile no longer required by the publicity men and tax counsel	$3,000

A further reduction in automobile usage throughout the department is recommended of at least 20 per cent to eliminate the abuse in the use of automobiles for private purposes, particularly to eliminate the continual use of automobiles by certain employees for transportation from their homes to work and back, and frequently also home to lunch and return, and in some instances for other private purposes, such as shopping, vacation trips and other unauthorized travel. This includes automobiles assigned to the board that bear under-cover license plates.

These eliminations, together with corresponding reductions which will occur in expense accounts and other matters, should make a total saving of approximately $50,000 a year.

Division of Assessment Standards

In the Division of Assessment Standards, page 49 of the Budget, the board asked for five additional employees, totalling $30,720 for the biennium for salaries and incidental expenses. This was in accord with the resolution of the County Assessors' Association of December 4, 1942, and was for the purpose of preparing additional valuation maps. It is believed that the present 15 employees of this division can carry on a regular flow of work essential for this activity for the duration of the war when there is such a demand on manpower, and it is recommended that if there is a pressing necessity to get out these particular maps that the seven employees in the Division of Research and Statistics be used on a part-time basis to assist until this is done.

In addition, it is recommended that some of the reports of the board be streamlined for the duration. The board might even consider reduction in the number of the very scholarly treatises on taxation issued by board employees and this energy for the duration be directed strictly to administrative matters. Our allies in this war have already found it necessary to make such sacrifices.

Valuation Division

The Valuation Division has 39 employees largely made up of technical experts who are very much in demand for the war activity. It is believed that this activity can be reduced somewhat, streamlined, and some of it even suspended for the duration. On this basis it is estimated that approximately a reduction of $12,000 for the biennium is possible without particularly interfering with essential activities. Many of the changes in utility values and earnings are entirely wartime and transitory and under the normal principles of assessment should not be considered as materially affecting valuation for tax purposes. If they are to be considered, then the board must likewise consider the increased value of commodities and personal property, such as refrigerators, automobiles, radios and other such taxable property that have had an increased value due to scarcity.

Saving by Transfer of Employees From Divisions Having a Slack Period to Departments Having Peak Loads

While the board does make transfers in general from one activity during slack times to other activities having a peak, this is not managed as effectively as it can be. This was demonstrated during the past year when employees in the hotel quarters office were engaged during office hours for considerable periods of time on non-State activities in certain divisions, when other divisions were complaining of inability to get out their work. This is further demonstrated by the high percentage of absenteeism on the part of employees in certain activities during slack periods.

Retail Sales Tax Division

In the Retail Sales Tax Division no recommendations for specific deductions are made other than the general increase in salary savings and savings through increasing the hours of the work week from 38 to 40. It is recommended that a further classification of the auditing of tax rates be made so as to cover those rates first which may possibly yield the largest amounts.

The printing item of $64,600 for the biennium shown on page 55 of the budget for the Retail Sales Tax Division can be reduced by at least 20 per cent and possibly 30 per cent if the board will carefully review its printing and reduce it to the minimum, and in addition if they get the State Printer to give them a firm price in advance on the basis of a reduction below commercial prices equivalent to the cost saving advantages enjoyed by the State Printing Plant over private commercial printing houses. In addition, the board can save at least $1,500 during the biennium on the printing of licenses by streamlining and by reducing the size.

Alcoholic Beverage Control Division

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Division, with a biennial budget of $2,548,806, page 59 of the Budget, with 421 employees, should be entirely overhauled from top to bottom in order to weed out many of the administrative malpractices that are prevalent.

As previously pointed out, this activity does not belong in a taxing body. It seems to contaminate the other activities of the Board of Equalization. However, no matter where it is left for administrative purposes the present budget should be revised.

Besides the reduction for increased salary savings of at least 5 per cent and the savings possible through increasing the work week from 38 to 40 hours, there are other specific savings which should be accomplished. An additional request for 10 positions, consisting of nine liquor control officers and one supervising control officer for the field should be denied for the reason that these are not needed for additional enforcement if all of the staff is used for that purpose and none of it for activities that are foreign to what is required by this division.

It was stated by the board representative that they are to replace the 19 undercover agents employed by the board during the current biennium and who were particularly active during the last half of 1942. Investigation demonstrates that these officers were not continuously under the actual control of the State Liquor Administrator and that they did not yield a commensurate return in the enforcement division of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division equivalent to their costs.

It is suggested that the board should consider a reorganization of enforcement of the liquor laws and try to use, in place of district enforcement, a State-wide enforcement through concentrating in those sections where violations are most prevalent. It is believed that if the general procedure of law enforcement would be used by this division as is found successful in law enforcement in other respects, by concentrating enforcement where violations are most prevalent, that the 228 liquor control officers can not only adequately enforce the law with the assistance of the military police and naval police, but that this force can be considerably reduced.

This will require that the employees of this Division of Enforcement be freed from political influences and other interferences and that they be required to concentrate on the job and that they have all the support that they have a right to expect in the performance of their duties.

It is also felt that the provision for temporary help in the sum of $7,000 for the biennium can be eliminated.

Alcoholic Beverage Tax Assessment Division

This is found on page 61 of the Budget. It is recommended that a review be made of the licensing and tax assessment of the Alcoholic Beverage Division and that all tax assessments be placed as nearly as possible on a self-assessing basis. It is recommended that the Legislature consider the necessary changes in the law to make this effective and that when this is done the budget for this purpose be adjusted downward accordingly.

The duplicating services by the State Controller and the Board of Equalization in assessing and collecting the alcoholic beverage excise tax can be adjusted so as to both expedite the collection of the tax and also to reduce the cost. The situation concerning the beer and wine tax as compared with the distilled spirits tax is illustrated by the following analysis of the situation:

Disparity in Methods Used to Collect Alcoholic Beverage Excise Taxes

Section 23 of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act levies a tax on beer and wine sold in this State, and Section 24 levies a tax on distilled spirits sales. In general, the levies are quite similar.

The means prescribed by law for the payment and collection of these taxes are widely different.

Section 26 of the act provides that manufacturers and importers of beer and wine shall report on or before the twentieth day of each month all beer and wine sold during the preceding month.

Section 26(b) directs the Board of Equalization to deliver to the State Controller an assessment roll prepared from such reports on or before the last day of the month.

Section 26(c) provides that beer and wine manufacturers and importers shall pay beer and wine taxes assessed as per Section 26(b) to the State Controller on or before the twentieth day of the second calendar month following the month in which the tax accrued, or, in other words, the month in which the taxable sales were made.

Thus for sales made in December, 1942, a report is filed with the Board of Equalization on or before January 20, 1943. An assessment roll is delivered to the State Controller by the Board of Equalization on January 31st and the tax to be paid to the State Controller does not become delinquent until after February 20, 1943.

Section 27(a) of the act provides that the distilled spirits tax which may be due for any calendar month under the provisions of Section 24 shall be reported and paid to the Board of Equalization on or before the fifteenth day of the following month. When a report and a tax payment are received by the board the taxpayer's account is credited and the transaction is closed. Tax reports filed with the Board of Equalization under Section 26 and Section 27(a) are all subjected to subsequent field audit review by board auditors.

From the above it can be seen that beer and wine taxpayers have 50 days following the close of a month to make tax payments to the State for that month, and distilled spirits taxpayers, who are California jobbers, have but 15 days to pay a like tax. Under present OPA and industry credit terms there is no justification for a 50-day extension of time for the payment of a State tax which vendees return to vendor taxpayers in a much shorter time.

The equipment and staff which the Board of Equalization employs for the collection of the distilled spirits tax, amounting from $9,000,000 to $11,000,000 per year, could be used with almost no additional expense to collect beer and wine taxes paid by taxpayer self-assessing returns directly to the Board of Equalization. Collections of any delinquent accounts could readily be handled by the board's present organization.

The advantages of a change in this tax collection procedure would be:

1. Elimination of the preparation of the old fashioned assessment roll with subsequent necessary billing of taxpayers.
2. Prompt collection of taxes due the State.
3. Elimination of duplicating services by the State Controller and the Board of Equalization.

Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Division

This is found on page 64 of the Budget. The requirements of this division have been affected considerably by the war activities and may be further affected. No recommendation, therefore, is made for Budget adjustments except those savings that are possible by increasing the salary savings by 5 per cent and the savings possible by increasing the work week from 38 to 40 hours.

22. Franchise Tax Commissioner. Items 35 and 36, page 4, of Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 67 to 74, inclusive, of the Budget. Item 35 appropriates for the support of the Franchise Tax Commissioner $630,121. This is for general administration. It provides for the employment of 143 persons. Item 36 is for support of the Franchise Tax Commissioner from the personal income tax, $1,562,637.

This is a semi-independent agency with a civil service. Franchise Tax Commissioner originally appointed by the Director of Finance and the Board of Equalization, but now apparently responsible to no one, which illustrates further the lack of coordination of taxes by the State. It is believed that the activity of the Franchise Tax Commissioner could better be carried on by a Department of Revenue where these taxes and their administration could be coordinated with all other taxes. This would make possible some general economies in administration and in dealing with taxpayers which are not now possible.

We repeat the general recommendations that salary savings be increased by 5 per cent and that savings possible through increasing the work week from 38 to 40 hours be made. In addition, we recommend that the administrative work in branch offices be coordinated so that it is unnecessary to have a representative of the Franchise Tax and a representative of the Income Tax Division, each occupying an administrative position, in the same office. It is also suggested that further consideration be given to streamlining work procedure and also the reduction of tax returns to the shortest possible form.

It is recognized that the rapid increase in receipts from the taxes administered by the Franchise Tax Commissioner have produced many problems and difficulties in the office, and it appears from the estimates made by the Department of Finance that the income taxes will continue to show a greater percentage upward in return than any other of the sources of revenue of the State.

23. California Horse Racing Fund. Item 37, page 4, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 75 to 77, inclusive, of the Budget, support, $50,800.

This is a reduction of approximately $6,000 below the current biennium with a reduction of two in the number of employees, leaving four for the Secretary. It appears that horse racing will be reduced to a minimum in California for the duration; therefore, the board will have very little actual services to perform. For these reasons it is believed there will be no necessity for temporary help, making a possible reduction of $2,400. The requirement for travel, telephone and telegraph and the pro rata Attorney General services amounting to $6,000 for the biennium can be materially reduced. The total expenditures for support amount to approximately $24,000 for the biennium. It is believed this can be reduced to not more than $20,000 without seriously interfering with the work of the board. This is in line with the drop of revenue from $2,398,000 for the current biennium to an estimate of $1,248,000 for the biennium 1943-45.

The distribution of the Fair and Exposition Fund as scheduled on page 78 of the Budget is costly and in many instances unsatisfactory. The setting up of such distribution increases the accounting and frequently the money available has no relation to the needs of the organization for which it is provided. This was demonstrated in the Special Session of the 1942 Legislature when the California Polytechnic School had to ask for support from the General Fund for the reason that the money available from this fund on the basis of 25 per cent of a certain percentage of horse receipts was so small due to the practical abandonment of racing as to be inadequate to support the school. The 33 1/3 per cent of this same balance for the University of California would have materially affected their program except that it was allocated for capital outlay.

The method of allowing the Department of Finance to distribute a certain percentage of these receipts for local agricultural district fairs on the basis of premiums paid has allowed the department in the past to use this for trading purposes. Moreover, the amount of money distributed to local fairs is not in accord with their need. It sometimes is insufficient and at other times it is excessive. It would be far more businesslike to have this distributed on the basis of need or on the basis of budgetary items wherein the actual requirements and the revenues available from the State could be considered.

The surplus in the Fair and Exposition Fund as shown on page 29 of the Budget, together with all excess receipts secured during the next biennium, should carefully be conserved for use after the war for the purposes intended.

24. California Commission on Interstate Cooperation. Item 38, page 4, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 81 of the Budget.

The proposed appropriation is $10,000. All of this is spent for operating expense. It provides primarily for the traveling expense of the delegates to the meeting of the Commission on Interstate Cooperation and for an annual contribution of $3,000 to the Council of State Governments.

It is believed that this commission assists in forwarding uniform legislation and interstate cooperation. Participation is limited to the very few members of the California Commission. The continuance of this activity is purely a matter of policy. It requires this appropriation if it is to perform the services expected.

25. Personnel Board, Item 39, page 4, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 82 to 87, inclusive, of the Budget. The amount requested for support is $751,333. This is a net increase of $111,213.78. The work of the Personnel Board has materially changed from one of selection during a period when it was an employers' labor market to the problem of recruiting at the present time when we have an employees' market.

The staff has increased from 145 in 1941-42 to 160 at the present time and with a request for 165 for the next biennium.

It is recommended that the salary saving item be increased by 5 per cent and the savings possible by increasing the work week from 38 to 40 hours be made.

The board has entered a supplementary request for a training supervisor for a biennial salary of $7,440, two intermediate clerks at $5,160, and one intermediate clerk at $2,760. They are willing to make one adjustment in the case of an investigator referee so that the net increase requested amounts to $12,480. If the Personnel Board will streamline its activities and through this training officer and the additional clerical help will speed up the employment procedure in the Personnel Board and will otherwise expedite pay rolls in the clearing of eligible lists, the resultant saving for other State departments will exceed the increase in their Budget. It is believed, however, that they can further streamline their activities, making them comparable with the procedure of the Federal Government. It is recognized, however, that the Personnel Board operates in accordance with a constitutional amendment which imposes certain limitations.

The board, during the past biennium, has taken unto itself a great many administrative functions which has required it to sit frequently and to consider many matters that could very well be left to the executive staff. It is believed that the employment of a qualified executive officer whose salary is set up in the Budget at $15,220 representing part of the biennial increase will result in improved functioning of this activity and will result in both internal economy in the board and in the process of hiring and personnel management. It will be more profitable to the State in general if the Personnel Board will expedite its procedure and speed up its activity rather than have merely a reduction in appropriation.

26. Railroad Commission, Items 40 and 41, page 4, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 88 to 97, inclusive, in the Budget. The appropriation is divided into two parts; for support of the General Fund, $1,399,002, and for support of the Transportation Rate Division, $829,816.

The commission has, in effect, presented three budgets, the original budget and two supplements. The last supplement presented on March 9, 1943, requested a restoration to the Governor's Budget of $101,983. The items were divided into $73,403 from the General Fund and $25,580 from the Transportation Rate Fund. Most of the amounts were for salaries and wages. A careful review of the Budget of both the General Fund and the Transportation Rate Fund and a survey of their normal activities and wartime demand indicates that they can suspend enough of their normal activity to take care of the wartime demands for their services for the future. The larger war problems have been considered in the year and three months that have passed since Pearl Harbor and it appears that during the next biennium it will not be a continuous activity during the entire period. It is also evident that the demand on manpower will be particularly felt by the Railroad Commission with its highly trained staff of engineers.

The estimate for their salary savings should be increased by 5 per cent. This would increase it by $59,372 for the General Fund and approximately $32,000 for the Transportation Rate Fund, or a total possible savings of $91,372 for both funds.

In addition to this, savings should be made through increasing the work week from 38 to 40 hours. The estimate for this is not included at this time for the reason that a more careful analysis must be made of the work positions to determine this item.

It was apparent from the Budget presented and the conflicting information given at the hearings that the accounting procedure of the Railroad Commission should undergo some rather drastic revision. It is also believed that an administrative survey of the operations of the commission will demonstrate the value of reorganization. It appears that the Railroad Commission has become divided into rather small compartments with a high priced specialist or supervisor over each one of these small units. It also appears that the work of the commission has grown in scope and intensity beyond what was intended in the statutes.

27. Board of State Harbor Commissioners of San Diego, Item 42, page 5, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 90 of the Budget; appropriation, $1,894, with employment of a secretary and office expense.

If this service is to be rendered, this expenditure is required.

28. Secretary of State, Item 43, page 5, Assembly Bill No. 1600, page 99 of the Budget, support appropriation $145,340; Item 44, printing constitutional amendments, $125,000; Item 45, printing roster of public officials, $1,500; and Item 46, support of the Collection Agency Division from special fund, $36,620.

The support item shows an increase of approximately $4,000. This is primarily for normal salary adjustments. The staff of the Secretary of State's Office, General Fund, is placed at 21 persons. It is not believed that they can function efficiently with any material reduction. Also, due to the variety of the work it is doubtful if they will be able to make any more salary savings than is provided in the Budget.

The item for printing the constitutional amendment pamphlets shows an increase of $40,000. This is purely an arbitrary estimate based upon experience and no one can estimate what it will be with any degree of certainty. It is felt, however, that $100,000 should be sufficient for this, making possible a reduction of $25,000 on this item on the estimate. A study of the printing of this pamphlet indicates that it can be reduced by approximately 25 per cent through proper arrangement and consolidation if the reorganization of the material can be accomplished and still conform with the requirements of law. Another $25,000 can be saved, leaving the appropriation at $75,000 or $10,000 less than for the current biennium.

If the roster of public officials is to be printed it will cost approximately $1,500 to do this at the prices now being charged by the State Printer. These, however, should be reduced 15 or 20 per cent.

All the Collection Agency Division staff is probably necessary with this separate licensing in the Secretary of State's Office. It logically belongs in the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards where it can be handled in connection with other such licensing at a reduced amount.

29. State Treasurer, Item 47, page 5, Assembly Bill 1600, pages 104 and 105 of the Budget; for support, $177,880, an increase of $31,635, $20,000 of which is an operating expense to take care of collection expense and fiscal agency fees which are now required because of the large volume of bonds being handled for the surplus funds. No new employees are requested, the complement remaining at 26.

The Treasurer requested an additional $4,000 for collection expense. If this additional amount is required for the biennium, which is problematic for the volume of bonds handled will be reduced materially below estimates if the report of the Citizens' Tax Committee of 1943 is to any degree adopted by the Legislature, due to the small size of the staff it is not believed that salary savings will accrue very much in excess of that estimated in the Budget.

30. Youth Correction Authority, Item 48, page 5, Assembly Bill No. 1600, pages 106 to 111, inclusive, in the Budget; $318,144 for support, and $60,000 for the transportation of juvenile delinquents by the Youth Authority.

The Youth Authority was established by the last session of the Legislature on a preliminary basis. They have not been operating long enough to have demonstrated what they may be able to do.

A review of their program indicates that it will cost approximately $700,000 a biennium to carry on the administrative and diagnostic work under their plan. Also, it appears that they will eventually have continuously under their jurisdiction in excess of 6,000 charges. A considerable number of these will be on parole. If there is any considerable increase in population or an upswing in juvenile crime at the close of the war as occurred at the end of the last war, this number will be increased. It will cost approximately $1,200 a year for each person under their incarceration or in round numbers $7,200,000 a year or $14,400,000 for the biennium when they are in full operation. This would mean taking over the three correctional schools and operating other facilities necessary to care for this number.

In addition to this, they would require a capital outlay program in excess of $10,000,000.

It is clear that in the Youth Correction Authority the State is embarking on a program of large proportions and it appears that the State should look at the problem now as one part of the whole subject of correction and penology. A review of this matter indicates that it is probably a more disjointed condition than any other activity of the State. It needs coordination for purposes of internal administration, proper treatment of delinquents and criminals and for proper control of the expenditure of the people's money. It is doubtful if a good job can be done with the present overlapping and duplicating functions as they now exist without any directive head.

The Youth Correction Authority has had no less than three separate budgets. Its most recent plans to operate guayule camps and to take over the Napa State Farm as an agricultural camp have fallen through. Its proposal to take over the three correctional schools from the Department of Institutions requires an enlarged program for each of these institutions, without, however, doing more than a very fractional part of the control and treatment of minor offenders.

The Youth Correction Authority as it is presently constituted will duplicate to a degree services now being rendered in San Quentin, the Southern California Institution for Men at Chino, the Preston School of Industry, the Ventura School for Girls and the Tehachapi Prison for Women, the Whittier School for Boys, also the parole departments of the State prisons, the correctional schools and the probation division in the Department of Social Welfare. It also takes over certain functions now provided by the county and city jails, by the county probation officers, by the juvenile court and by the superior courts.

Until a more definite program coordinating all of these services of penology and corrections is determined it is believed that this matter should be considered as a special subject and should be taken from the Budget and given special consideration as an independent item.

This concludes the Second Partial Report of the Legislative Budget Committee. The Third Partial Report, covering the administrative departments of Agriculture, Education, Finance, Industrial Relations, Institutions, Investment, Military and Veterans' Affairs, Motor Vehicle, Natural Resources, Penology, Professional and Vocational Standards, Public Health and Social Welfare is in the course of preparation and will be issued shortly. The fourth and final report on the Budget will cover the miscellaneous items, with particular reference to the several emergency funds that appear in this Budget in larger amounts than in any other, and the general provisions affecting the appropriation act as a whole.

Respectfully submitted.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator Slater:

Senate Resolution No. 84

Relative to the commemoration of the birthday of Charles W. Paine

This day, March 22, 1943, marks the eightieth birthday of Charles W. Paine, who for 36 years and in nine administrations filled the important post of Director of the California State Agricultural Society and Executive Secretary-Manager of the State Fair of California.

The Senate of the State of California, in regular session, joins with a multitude of friends and well-wishers throughout California in extending its congratulations to a much loved citizen and cordially hopes that Mr. Paine will be spared to observe many more anniversaries of his birthday. In wishing him many happy returns of the day, the Senate adds a cordial note of appreciation of his indefatigable efforts throughout the years while he was at the helm in arranging the annual exposition to make the California State Fair outstanding among the nation-wide displays of agriculture, horticulture, education and accompanying enterprise. Though no longer officially connected with the expositions he did so much to plan and perfect, he still retains interest in the success of every State Fair with a desire to promote even greater accomplishments for his much loved State; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Secretary be instructed to forward to Mr. Paine a suitably embellished copy of this resolution.

Resolution read, and adopted by a rising vote of the following Senators:

Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Crittenden, Cunningham, Deuel, Dillinger, Donnelly, Dorsey, Engle, Fletcher, Gordon, Hatfield, Judah, Keating, Luckey, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixter, Parkman, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Swan, Swing, Tenney, Tickle, and Ward—34.

By Senator Tickle:

Senate Resolution No. 85

Resolved, That the following named person be and he is hereby appointed to the position hereinafter set forth as provided by law, with the compensation set opposite his name, payable weekly, beginning March 22, 1943, and the Controller is hereby directed to draw his warrants in favor of the respective person for the same respective amount, and the Treasurer is hereby directed to pay the same:

Seven days per week

Wilton T. Cumiskey, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms----- $6 00

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18, 1943

*J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate
California Legislature, Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. BEEK: I ordinarily do not answer the general resolutions sent to me by various groups, but the one you inclosed on March 15th is so worthy in its cause, that I like to comment on it.

The entire California Delegation, both Democrats and Republicans, have been attempting to tell the President, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Wickard, this same story in more drastic fashion. Our words have been about as effective as water on a duck's back. We contact one of them, and he agrees with us, we then go to the other, and he does likewise, but each one reserves the right to contact the other member, and it is not only buck passing, but like pushing your finger into a sponge. I hate to write in such a pessimistic way, but Congress is attempting to enact laws to remedy these conditions, which should be corrected immediately by the executives. Many of us fear that it will be too late in many cases. The old story of "Wolf, Wolf" is certainly apropos today. They have heard these stories so many times here in Washington, that they are taking the same attitude that is taken in the fable.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

NORRIS POULSON, M. C.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were received, read, and, on motion of Senator Cunningham, ordered printed in the Journal:

CONGRESSIONAL RECORD—HOUSE

The CHAIRMAN. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. ELLIOTT].

Mr. PHILLIPS. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from California [Mr. ELLIOTT] be given as much of my time as he may need.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. ELLIOTT. Mr. Chairman, about 18 months ago my colleague the gentleman from California [Mr. ANDERSON] and I started working practically every day on the labor situation as it existed in our State at that time. Many times we consulted with the Department of Agriculture, even the Secretary of Agriculture himself. We pointed out to him time and again that if we expected to harvest crops or plant the crops to produce more food in our State, a program had to be worked out immediately under which additional labor could be brought to the farms. So to the gentleman from California [Mr. ANDERSON] and myself this is no new program. Both of us are agriculturists, and long ago we had Mexican labor. We secured them, hired them, paid them off at the end of the season, long before we ever heard of the Farm Security Administration, which was supposed to give our people assistance in the way of farming.

The three counties—Kern, Tulare, and Kings—that together comprise the Tenth Congressional District of California in 1942 produced agricultural products valued at more than $175,000,000. These farm products came from a million acres of irrigated lands and 200,000 acres of nonirrigated lands—wheat and barley.

Forty varieties of fruits, 20 kinds of vegetables, 10 major field crops, and 7 kinds of grains are produced in commercial quantities. The value of livestock produced and sold and their products totaled more than $45,000,000.

There is no season of the year when harvesting or planting or processing is not going on.

The planting and harvesting of these crops requires seasonal labor in great numbers for the most valuable of them are extremely perishable and when ready for harvest permit only a short period of time for gathering or they are lost.

In addition to irrigation water which these crops must have, the supply of labor with which to gather them in must be adequate, and now with the whole world on short rations it is inconceivable that either should be curtailed or left lacking. The bungling of the problem of getting farm labor last year was offset somewhat by a very long and favorable harvest season. However, the bungling and stupid handling of those in charge of the program for securing farm labor can not and should not be condoned, for we have too much at stake.

The present bill might not do everything that is necessary but it is a long step forward in the right direction. We should get rid of the cranks and the farmers and make it possible for experienced and practical men to do the job that must be done if the Nation is not to go hungry.

I hold in my hand, Mr. Chairman, a total of more than 75 signatures that I have received in my office in the last two days. They come from an agricultural district. They do not come from politicians. They represent the County, the Farm Bureau, individual farmers, chambers of commerce, all right in the heart of the Agricultural Belt, and all in favor of this legislation. How many of you Congressmen here represent an agricultural district that in 1942 produced more than $177,000,000 worth of food and fiber, so essential to our war effort? Mr. Chairman, we need every dime that is in this present bill, to procure that adequate labor to attempt to continue to produce food for health, and for the winning of the war, and I say to you that the Secretary of Agriculture is responsible for the bungling of the Farm Security Administration. If I had been Secretary of Agriculture, I would have fired the Farm Security Administration a long time ago, and I would not have waited until Congress had to boot them out. I say to you gentlemen, this is serious. This is no longer a matter of the Agriculture Department. It is the duty of Congress to see to it that food is produced for our boys on the firing line and at home, and let them down. Let us see that these boys are fed and that the men in the war plants are fed, and that maximum production is had for all. By passing this bill, it will be one of the issues that will go down in history as most essential to our war effort.

I hold in my hand here a transcript of the testimony of a man named Casey Abbott, a farmer from the State of Arizona. He appeared before the Senate Agricultural Committee, and what did he testify to? He pointed out some of the very things that I have told you about and I want to read from his statement, to show what the Farm Security Administration did in the way of preventing labor in the State of Arizona. He said:

We found a large portion of these workers were unfit for any kind of labor, namely, persons in the last stages of tuberculosis, who were told that Arizona was a mecca for such diseases, and that if they could get out there, they might effect a cure, even if they could not work; that they would be given a free medical diet and attention and otherwise be taken care of.

There were active cases of syphilis, confirmed alcoholics, and people choked up with asthma, who by their own admission had not done a day's work in two years; women expecting to become mothers any minute, men over 70 years of age and all birds with long prison records, as well as old worn-out prostitutes.

That is what Mr. Abbott told the committee that the Farm Security Administration did for the State of Arizona.

The CHAIRMAN. The time of the gentleman from California has expired.

Mr. ELLIOTT. Mr. Chairman, I ask unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks.

The CHAIRMAN. Is there objection?

There was no objection.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
WASHINGTON, March 20, 1943

Mr. J. A. Beck, Secretary of the Senate
California Legislature, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BECK: This will acknowledge receipt of Senate Joint Resolution No. 6 adopted by the California Legislature concerning food shortages in California. Reply has been inadvertently delayed.

We are aware of the difficulties being encountered along the West Coast with regard to food supplies. Undoubtedly, the increased requirements created by the influx of war workers have made the situation there even more difficult than in many other parts of the Country. However, it must be recognized that the requirements of our armed forces and our Allies, together with greatly increased consumer demand, generally, have created a condition in which supplies of many food commodities are short all over the Country.

In promulgating conservation orders for the dual purpose of making sure that supplies will be available for war purposes and, at the same time, that food available for civilians will be stretched over a long enough period to permit new supplies to be produced, it has been necessary to place limits on sales by distributors. While this has not been done, as far as the major food commodities are concerned, on a basis of quotas arrived at through population statistics, the limitations have undoubtedly been felt more sharply in areas of increased population. We have established machinery for dealing with the more acute shortages through the organization of State and area Food Industry Committees. The functions of these committees are to receive and investigate complaints of such shortages, and, where the complaints are verified, to arrange for the movement of necessary food to alleviate the condition. The committees also determine the causes of the shortages and recommend steps to prevent their recurrence. The meat and other industries are cooperating with us in this work.

We believe that the recently announced rationing programs, when they are put into effect, will go far toward bringing about the necessary adjustments so that no one area will have to put up with more inconveniences than another. Rationing, of course, is actually an allocation to consumers, and probably the only practicable type of allocation under which equitable distribution can be assured.

The department has developed and presented to Congress a program looking to the provision of farm labor in essential crops for the year 1943. Some relief has already been given by the Selective Service System to dairying, and the classification of essential farm workers in 2-C and 3-C indicates that this will result in a very large number of workers being retained on the farms.

Sincerely yours,

R. L. WEBSTER, Assistant to the Secretary

Motion to Amend

Senator DeLap moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "13", and insert "2".

Amendment No. 2

In the title of said bill, strike out lines 2 and 3, and insert "relating to securities exempted from said act."

Amendment No. 3

On page 1, line 1, of said bill, strike out "13", and insert "2".

PRINTER'S NOTE—There being no 7-point strikeout type available, the material which should appear in strikeout type in the following amendment is indicated by being enclosed within brackets.

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 3 to 14, inclusive, and insert:

"Sec. 2. (a) Words used in this act in the present tense include the future as well as the present; words used in the masculine gender include the feminine and neuter; and the neuter, the masculine and feminine, the singular number includes the plural, and the plural the singular; 'writing' includes 'printing' and 'type-writing'; 'oath' includes 'affirmation'; the word 'county' includes 'city and county'; and 'territory' includes 'district'. When used in this act, the following terms shall, unless the context otherwise indicates, have the following respective meanings:

1. Division. The word "division" means the "Division of Corporations" created by this act.

2. Commissioner. The word "commissioner" means the "Commissioner of Corporations."

3. Company. The word "company" includes all domestic and foreign private corporations, associations, syndicates, joint stock companies, and partnerships of every kind, trustees as hereinafter defined, and also individuals as hereinafter defined.

4. Trust. The word "trust" includes all voluntary trusts, as the same are defined in the Civil Code, expressly created by or declared in an instrument in writing the purpose of which is to carry on any business or to secure the payment or repayment of money, but shall not be deemed to include a trust created or declared under or by virtue of a will or a judicial writ, order, decree, or judgment.

5. Trustee. The word "trustee" includes only persons or companies executing trusts as hereinbefore defined.

6. Individual. The word "individual" in so far as it is included in the definition of a "company," includes only persons selling, offering for sale, negotiating for the sale of or taking subscriptions for any security of their own issue.

7. Security. The word "security" shall include any stock, bond, note, treasury stock, debenture, evidence of indebtedness, certificate of interest or participation, certificate of interest in a profit-sharing agreement, certificate of interest in an oil, gas or mining title or lease, collateral trust certificate, any transferable share, investment contract, or beneficial interest in title to property, profits or earnings, guarantee of a security and any certificate of deposit for a security.

8. Sale. "Sale" or "sell" shall include every disposition or attempt to dispose of a security or interest in a security for value. And security given or delivered with, or as a bonus on account of, any purchase of securities or any other thing, shall be conclusively presumed to constitute a part of the subject of such purchase, and to have been sold for value. "Sale" or "sell" shall also include a contract of sale, an exchange, an attempt to sell, an option of sale, a solicitation of a sale, subscription or an offer to sell, directly or by an agent or a circular letter, advertisement or otherwise; provided, that a privilege pertaining to a security giving the holder the privilege to convert such security into another security of the same company shall not be deemed a sale of such other security within the meaning of this definition; and provided further, that the issue or transfer of a right pertaining to a security and entitling the holder of such right to subscribe to another security of the same company shall not be deemed a sale of such security within the meaning of this definition; but the sale of such other security upon the exercise of such right shall be subject to the provisions of this act.

9. Agent. The word "agent" means and includes every person or company employed or appointed by a company or broker or any other person who shall, within this State, either as an employee or otherwise, for a compensation, sell, offer for sale, negotiate for the sale of or take subscriptions for any security.

10. Broker. The word "broker" includes every person or company, other than an agent, who shall, in this State, engage either wholly or in part in the business of selling, offering for sale, negotiating for the sale of or otherwise dealing in any security issued by others, (including all securities of the classes listed in paragraphs 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 and 9 only 8 of subdivision (b) of this section) or of underwriting any issue of such securities, or of purchasing such securities with the purpose of reselling them, or of offering them for sale to the public. Provided, however, the word broker shall not include the following, or any agent or agency of any of the following: The United States of America or any Territory or insular possession thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any State, Territory, county, or municipality, or taxing district therein.

11. Mortgage. The word "mortgage" shall be deemed to include a deed of trust to secure a debt, and the word "mortgagee" shall be deemed to include a trustee and/or beneficiary under a deed of trust.

12. Investment counsel. The words "investment counsel" as used in this act shall include every person or company other than a broker, who in this State, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others either directly or through publications or writings as to the value of securities or as to the advisability of investing in or purchasing of securities, and every person other than a broker or certified public accountant who issues or publishes analyses or issues reports concerning securities. The word "broker" of that said term shall not be construed to include any licensed, practicing attorney who renders or performs any of said services in connection with the purchase of same.

(c) Securities exempted from Act. Except as hereinafter otherwise expressly provided, the provisions of this act shall not apply to any of the following classes of securities:

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Breed, Swan, Keating, Carter, Engle, Shelley, Tenney, and Judah:

Senate Resolution No. 87

Relating to the seventy-fifth birthday of the University of California

WHEREAS, Upon the chartering of the University of California 75 years ago, the hope was expressed that those who had fostered it might be "abundantly rewarded by seeing a noble institution arise, which they shall be proud of, and all the people of the State shall have pleasure in"; and

WHEREAS, The University of California this week celebrates its seventy-fifth birthday and Diamond Jubilee, a noble institution indeed, not confined to the magnificent campus at Berkeley but extended throughout the State, in its various institutions for training and research in all fields of science, and in the spacious campus at Los Angeles; and

WHEREAS, All the people of California take a very great pride and pleasure in this University which has in so short a time established itself in the front ranks of learning by the excellence of its faculty, its library, and its research; and

WHEREAS, Members of the faculty of the University have brought honor upon the University and upon this State by their discoveries and contributions in the realm of scientific research; and

WHEREAS, Athletes of the University have spread its fame and that of this State throughout the world by such achievements as those of its great rowing crews which took first place at the 1928 Olympic Games at Amsterdam and again in 1932 at Los Angeles; and

WHEREAS, Under the guidance of wise and able men the University has become a great cultural force in all the communities of this State, and has, through its faculty and graduates, contributed immeasurably to the welfare of the State in conducting research studies which have made possible improvements in government as well as in industry and agriculture, and has stimulated interest and activity in literature and the arts; and

WHEREAS, During the present war demand upon all our National resources, the University has responded threefold: in giving trained personnel to the service of the Federal Government and the war industries, in directing all its activities toward the greatest contribution to the war effort, and in the great numbers of its students who are actively serving; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California. That this Senate congratulates the University of California upon its seventy-fifth birthday, upon the great achievements which have been attained, and upon the enviable position it enjoys as an educational institution of the first rank; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is requested to send a suitably engrossed copy of this resolution to Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, President of the University of California, and to the Honorable James K. Moffitt, Chairman of the Board of Regents of the University of California.

Resolution read, and unanimously adopted.

Chief Assistant Secretary Harry A. Hammond at the Desk

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of said bill, strike out line 1, and insert

"SECTION 1. Section 11501.1 is added to the Business and Professions Code, to read:

11501.1. "Civil engineer" refers to a registered civil engineer authorized to practice under the provisions of Chapter 7 of Division 3 of this code who shall be licensed as a land surveyor as defined in Chapter 15 of Division 3 of this code.

SEC. 2. Section 11501.2 is added to said code, to read:

11501.2. "Land surveyor" refers to a licensed land surveyor authorized to practice under the provisions of Chapter 15, Division 3 of this code.

SEC. 3. Section 11501.3 is added to said code, to read:

11501.3. "Governing body" refers to the board of supervisors of a county or city and county, or governing body of a city, within which the subdivision lies.

SEC. 4. Section 11502 of said code is amended to read:

11502. "County surveyor" includes county engineer, if there is no county surveyor, or a registered civil engineer, licensed as land surveyor, appointed by the governing body to act for or in lieu of the county surveyor or county engineer and whose services shall be contracted for, examined, passed upon, audited and paid as are other debts contracted by such governing boards and authorities.

SEC. 5. Section 11503 of said code is amended to read:

11503. "Tentative [map] plan" refers to a map [made for the purpose of] designed and prepared by a civil engineer or land surveyor showing the [designs of a] proposed subdivision [and existing conditions in and around it] according to the provisions of this chapter and need not be based upon an accurate or detailed [final] survey of the property.

SEC. 6. Section 11504 of said code is amended to read:

11504. "[Final] Subdivision map" refers to a map designed and prepared in accordance with the provisions of this chapter and [those of any applicable local ordinance] Chapter 15 of Division 3 of this code, which map is [designed] to be placed on record in the office of the county recorder of the county in which any part of the subdivision is located.

SEC. 7. Section 11507 of said code is amended to read:

11507. "Subdivision" refers to any land [or portion thereof subject to] divided into parcels of land in accordance with the provisions of [this chapter. See] Section 11535.

SEC. 8. Section 11510 of said code is amended to read:

11510. "Design" refers to the street alignment, grades [and], widths, alignment and widths of easements and rights of ways for drainage and sanitary sewers and minimum lot area and width as shown on a map or tentative plan prepared by a civil engineer or land surveyor.

SEC. 9. Section 11511 of said code is amended to read:

11511. "Improvement" refers to only such street work and utilities agreed to be installed [, or agreed to be installed,] by the subdivider on the land described or to be dedicated for streets, highways, public ways, and easements, as are necessary for the general use of the lot owners in the subdivision and local neighborhood traffic and drainage needs of the subdivision, as a condition precedent to the approval and acceptance of the [final] subdivision map [thereof] by the governing body.

SEC. 10. Section 11525 of said code is amended to read:

11525. [Control of the design and improvement of subdivisions is vested in the governing bodies of cities and of counties but, in all matters concerning such design and improvement, any decision by a governing body is subject to review as to its reasonableness by the superior court in and for the county in which the land is situated.]

The design, form and content of the tentative plan and the subdivision or record of survey map, together with the survey of the subdivision plans and specifications and the surveys for improvement thereon, are the functions and duties of the civil engineer or land surveyor who is employed by the subdivider to that purpose. The preparation of the improvement plans in a subdivision is the function and duty of the civil engineer employed by the subdivider. The governing body of a city or a county shall approve a tentative plan or subdivision map design, improvement plans and improvements; provided, it does not impair nor conflict with the public life, health and safety, and are in accordance with the provisions of this chapter. The governing body shall not impose requirements for improvements, the reasonable cost of which would exceed twice the assessed valuation of the land to be subdivided.

Any subdivider or person claiming to be aggrieved by any decision of a governing body may within [90] 15 days after the rendering of the decision [bring] demand that a special proceeding be instituted by the governing body in the superior court to determine the reasonableness of the decision. The subdivider shall post a reasonable bond good and sufficient to cover all costs of suit and witness fees to indemnify the governing body if and when the superior court sustains their decision. When the superior court does not sustain the decision of the governing body all costs of suit, witnesses and expert fees, attorney fees and damages, shall be borne by the governing body. [The] Any proceeding determining the reasonableness of the decision by the governing body shall take precedence over all matters upon the calendar of the court, criminal, probate, eminent domain and forcible entry and unlawful detainer proceedings excepted.

SEC. 11. Section 11528 of said code is amended to read:

11528. The legislative body of any city or county which desires to inspect and make recommendations concerning the map or maps of proposed subdivisions adjacent to but outside of its jurisdictional boundary line, may file with the clerk of the governing body [or the advisory agency of any adjoining city or county] having jurisdiction, a map or an amended map of territory within such second mentioned city or county in which territory it is interested in proposed subdivisions. The territory may not extend a distance of more than three miles from the common boundary line of the cities or counties.

The clerk of the governing body [or the advisory agency of the city or county] having jurisdiction shall issue a receipt for the territorial map and thereafter shall transmit to the official designated by the requesting city or county, within three days after the receipt thereof, one copy of each tentative [map] plan of any subdivision located wholly or partly within the territory outlined on the territorial map.

Any requesting city or county, which receives a copy of a tentative [map] plan, shall make its recommendations, if any, to the clerk of the governing body [or advisory agency] from [which] whom the tentative [map] plan was received within [15] 5 days after receipt thereof. The recommendations shall be taken into consideration by the governing body [or advisory agency of the city or county] having jurisdiction before action is taken upon the tentative [map] plan.

SEC. 12. Section 11529 of said code is amended to read:

11529. The county surveyor [or], city engineer, or registered civil engineer or licensed land surveyor authorized and employed by the governing body, shall make such a detailed examination of [final] subdivision maps and record of survey maps and field check, if any, as may be necessary to enable him to [make the certificate required by subsection (c) of Section 11576 and by Section 11593] certify that the map or maps conform with the practice of land surveying. [Local ordinances may provide] A proper and reasonable fee [to] may be collected from the subdivider for such examination.

SEC. 13. Section 11535 of said code is amended to read:

11535. (a) "Subdivision" refers to any land or portion thereof, shown on the last preceding tax roll as a unit or as contiguous units, which is divided for the purpose of sale, whether immediate or future, by any subdivider into five or more parcels, each of which is less than 2½ acres in area, within any one-year period.

(b) "Subdivision" does not include [either of the following: (1)] Any parcel or parcels of land in which all of the following conditions are present: (i) which contain less than five acres, (ii) which abut upon dedicated streets or highways, (iii) in which street opening or widening is not required [by the governing body] in dividing the land into lots or parcels [, and (iv) the lot design meets the approval of the governing body].

[(2) Any parcel or parcels of land divided into lots or parcels, each of a net area of two and one-half acres or more, a tentative map of which has been submitted to the governing body and has been approved by it as to street alignment and widths, drainage provisions and lot design.]

(c) In either case provided in subsection (b) of this section, there shall be filed a record of survey map pursuant only to the provisions of Chapter 15 of Division 3 of this code.

SEC. 14. Section 11536 of said code is amended to read:

11536. Nothing contained in this chapter prevents the recording under the provisions of this chapter [and any applicable local ordinances] of a [final] subdivision map [or] of any land not defined as a subdivision.

SEC. 15. Section 11537 of said code is amended to read:

11537. (a) This chapter does not prohibit the filing of [a] any map in accordance with (i) the provisions of Chapter [3]15 of Division 3 of this [Part] code and the use thereof for purposes therein provided or (ii) the provisions of any act requiring the filing of licensed surveyor's [or registered civil engineer's] record[s] of survey[s].

(b) A [final] map may be recorded under the provisions of this chapter for the purpose of showing as acreage land previously subdivided into parcels [or], lots or blocks, and a map may likewise be recorded if it does not divide into two or more taxable parcels any parcel of land which is described as a unit on the latest adopted county tax roll. In either of the cases mentioned in this subsection, if sufficient recorded data exist from which an accurate map may be compiled, there need not be a survey, but a certificate to that effect by a land surveyor or civil engineer shall appear on the map.

(c) A tax bond shall not be required in any of the cases covered by this section.

SEC. 16. Section 11538 of said code is amended to read:

11538. (a) It is unlawful for any person to offer to sell, to contract to sell or to sell any subdivision or any part thereof until a [final] subdivision map or record of survey map [thereof in full compliance with the provisions of this chapter and any local ordinance] prepared in accordance with Chapter 15 of Division 3 of this code has been duly recorded or filed in the office of the recorder of the county in which any portion of the subdivision is located.

(b) Subsection (a) does not apply to any parcel or parcels of a subdivision offered for sale, contracted for sale or sold in compliance with or exempt from any law [(including a local ordinance), regulating the design and improvement of subdivisions] in effect at the time the subdivision was established.

SEC. 17. The title of Article 4 of Chapter 2 of Part 2 of Division 4 of said code is amended to read:

Article 4. Tentative [Maps] Plan

SEC. 18. Section 11550 of said code is amended to read:

11550. The initial action in connection with the making of any subdivision shall be the preparation of a tentative [map or maps] plan which shall show, or be accompanied by, such data as are [specified in the local ordinance in addition to the data specified] required by the provisions of this chapter.

The [subdivider] civil engineer or land surveyor shall file [copies] a suitable copy from which duplicate prints can be made of the tentative [map or maps] plan with the [advisory agency or with the] clerk of the governing body [if there is no advisory agency] who shall issue a receipt for the plans which receipt shall show the date and time of filing.

The [official with whom the tentative map or maps are filed] clerk of the governing body shall comply with the provisions of Section 11528 with respect to the request of any adjoining city or county.

Sec. 19. Section 11553 of said code is amended to read:

11553. The time limits for acting and reporting on tentative [maps] plans as specified in this article [may be extended by mutual consent of the subdivider and the governing body or advisory agency as the case may be] by the governing body shall be 15 days from the date the clerk of governing body acknowledges receipt. No written mutual consent, authorized by the subdivider between the civil engineer or land surveyor and the governing body the time limit may be extended. In no event shall each separate period of extension be for longer than 15 days.

If no action is taken within these time limits, the tentative [map] plan as filed shall be deemed to be approved and it shall be the duty of the clerk of the governing body to certify the approval of the tentative plan to the civil engineer or land surveyor.

Sec. 20. Section 11554 of said code is amended to read:

11554. Within [one] a two year period after approval [or conditional approval] by the governing body of [the] a tentative [map or maps, the subdivider] plan, the civil engineer or land surveyor may, under satisfaction of the subdivider, cause the subdivision, or any part thereof, to be surveyed and a [final] subdivision map or record of survey map to be prepared in accordance with the tentative [map] plan as approved, or [he] the subdivider may proceed with the sale by section and bounds or other similar definite description of the parcels or parts thereof as shown on [an approved] a record of survey map.

Sec. 21. Section 11555 of said code is amended to read:

11555. Any failure to record a [final] subdivision map or to file a record of survey map within [one year] two years from the date of approval [or conditional approval] of the tentative [map] plan shall terminate all proceedings. [Before a final map may thereafter be recorded, approved record of survey map filed or any sales made, a new tentative map shall be submitted.]

Sec. 22. Section 11556 is added to said code, to read:

11556. A fee paid to the governing body in connection with the approval of a tentative map, or plans, subdivision map or record of survey map shall cover any revisions, changes or additions for a period of two years from the date the clerk of the governing body acknowledges receipt.

Sec. 23. The title of Article 5 of Chapter 2 of Part 2 of Division 4 of said code is amended to read:

Article 5. [Final] Subdivision Maps.

Sec. 24. Section 11565 of said code is amended to read:

11565. [In case] When the subdivider [desires] submits the [map or maps] to land surveyor to prepare and record a [final] subdivision map under the provisions of this chapter, [he] the subdivider shall comply with all the provisions of the chapter [and, if there is a local ordinance, with all of its provisions].

Sec. 25. Section 11566 of said code is amended to read:

11566. The survey and [final] subdivision map shall be made by a registered civil engineer or licensed surveyor who shall set sufficient [durable] permanent monuments on the boundary line of the subdivision so that another engineer or surveyor may readily retrace the survey. [Monuments need not be set at the time the survey is made if a satisfactory assurance is given of their being set later.] Within the 60 day period following the completion of the survey, the subdivision the intersection point of the center lines of all streets, alleys, rights of way or easements or angle points in the center lines including points of curvature shall be permanently monumented. Durable lot stakes shall be set at each corner of the lots or parcels shown upon the subdivision map. The staking of the lots and parcels and monumenting of the center lines of the streets, alleys, rights of way or easements shall be the responsibility and duty of the civil engineer or land surveyor who submitted the subdivision map for recordation.

Sec. 26. Section 11567 of said code is amended to read:

11567. The [final] subdivision map shall conform to all of the following provisions:

(a) It shall be clearly and legibly drawn in black waterproof India ink upon good tracing cloth, but affidavits, certificates and acknowledgments may be legibly stamped or printed upon the map with opaque ink.

(b) The size of each sheet shall be 18 by 26 inches. A marginal line shall be drawn completely around each sheet, leaving an entirely blank margin of one inch.

The scale of the map shall be large enough to show all details clearly and enough sheets shall be used to accomplish this end. The particular number of the sheet and the total number of sheets comprising the map shall be stated on each of the sheets, and its relation to each adjoining sheet shall be clearly shown.

(c) It shall show all survey and mathematical information and data necessary to locate all monuments and to locate and retrace any and all interior and exterior boundary lines appearing thereon, including bearings and distances of straight lines, and radii and arc length for all curves, and such information as may be necessary to determine the location of the centers of curves.

(d) Each lot shall be numbered [and each block may be numbered or lettered] consecutively. Each street shall be named, and each alley or reservation for street or alley shall be named or designated.

(e) [The exterior boundary of the land included within the subdivision shall be indicated by colored border. The map shall show the definite location of the subdivision, and particularly its relation to surrounding surveys.] A Prussian blue colored border applied on the reverse side of the tracing of the subdivision map shall be sufficient to indicate and describe or define the exterior and title boundary of the subdivision and shall be sufficient to indicate the boundaries and extent of any areas therein offered for dedication.

(f) It shall also satisfy any additional survey and map requirement of [the local ordinance] Chapter 15 of Division 3 of this code.

(g) The time limits for acting and reporting, by the governing body, on subdivision maps as specified in this article shall be subject to the conditions imposed by Sections 11553 and 11555 with reference to tentative plans.

SEC. 27. Section 11576 of said code is amended to read:

11576. [The following certificates] There shall appear on a record of survey map [:

(a) A certificate for execution by the clerk of each approving governing body stating that the body approved the map for subdivision purposes in accordance with the conditional approval of the tentative map.

(b)] A certificate by the civil engineer or land surveyor responsible for the survey giving the date of the survey and stating that the survey was made by him or under his direction and setting forth the name of the owner who authorized him to make the survey and that the survey is true and complete as shown on the map. This certificate shall also state that the monuments actually exist and are of the character and occupy the positions indicated or that they will be set in such positions and at such time as is agreed upon under Section 11566. This certificate shall also state that the monuments are or will be sufficient to enable the survey to be retraced.

[(c) A certificate or certificates of the county surveyor or city engineer relating to the examination of the map such as is required in the case of a final map.]

SEC. 28. The title of Article 7 of Chapter 2 of Part 2 of Division 4 of said code is amended to read:

Article 7. Certificates and Acknowledgments on [Final]

Subdivision Maps

SEC. 28.5. Section 11585 of said code is amended to read:

11585. The certificates and acknowledgments for which provision is made in this article shall appear on the [final] subdivision map and may be combined where appropriate.

SEC. 29. Section 11589 of said code is amended to read:

11589. A certificate, signed and acknowledged by all parties having any record title interest in the land subdivided, consenting to the preparation and recordation of the [final] subdivision map is required.

SEC. 30. Section 11590 of said code is amended to read:

11590. In event of dedication, there is required a certificate, signed and acknowledged by those parties having any record title interest in the land subdivided, offering certain parcels of land for dedication for certain specified public uses, subject to such reservations as may be contained in any such offer.

[The certificate may state that any certain parcel or parcels are not offered for dedications. However, a local ordinance may require as a condition precedent to the approval of any final map that any or all of the parcels of land shown thereon and intended for any public use shall be offered for dedication for public use except those parcels, other than streets intended for the exclusive use of the lot owners in the subdivision, their licensees, visitors, tenants and servants.]

SEC. 31. Section 11592 of said code is amended to read:

11592. A certificate by the engineer or surveyor responsible for the survey and [final] subdivision map is required. His certificate shall give the date of the survey and state that the survey was made by him or under his direction and that the survey is true and complete as shown.

[The certificate shall also state that the monuments are of the character and occupy the positions indicated, or that they will be set in such positions and at such time as is agreed upon under Section 11593. The certificate shall also state that the monuments are or will be sufficient to enable the survey to be retraced.]

Sec. 32. Section 11593 of said code is amended to read:

11593. (a) If a subdivision lies within an unincorporated area, a certificate by the county surveyor and, if a subdivision lies within a city, a certificate by the city engineer, or, as the case may be, a certificate by a civil engineer or land surveyor authorized by the governing body to act as county surveyor or city engineer, is required. The appropriate official shall state that:

(1) He has examined the map.

(2) The subdivision as shown is substantially the same as it appeared on the approved tentative [map,] plan [and any approved alterations thereof].

[(3) All provisions of this chapter and of any local ordinance applicable at the time of approval of the tentative map have been complied with.

(4) [(3)] He is satisfied that the map is technically correct.

(b) Upon mutual agreement between the county surveyor and any city engineer, with the approval of their respective governing bodies, the county surveyor may perform any or all of the duties assigned to the city engineer, including the required certification. Whenever such duties are divided between the county surveyor and the city engineer, each officer shall certify to the duties performed by him.

Sec. 33. Section 11600 of said code is amended to read:

11600. Prior to the filing of the [final] subdivision map with the governing body, the subdivider shall file with the clerk of the board of supervisors of the county, in which any part of the subdivision is located, a certificate from the official computing redemptions in any county or any municipal corporation in which any part of the subdivision is located, showing that, according to the records of his office, there are no liens against the subdivision or the part thereof for unpaid State, county, municipal or local taxes or special assessments collected as taxes, except taxes or special assessments not yet payable.

As to taxes or special assessments collected as taxes not yet payable, the subdivider shall file with the clerk of the board of supervisors mentioned, a certificate by each proper officer giving his estimate of the amount of taxes and assessments which are a lien but which are not yet payable.

Sec. 34. Section 11601 of said code is amended to read:

11601. Whenever any part of the subdivision is subject to a lien for taxes or special assessments collected as taxes which are not yet payable, the [final] subdivision map shall not be recorded until the owner of the subdivision executes and files with the board of supervisors of the county wherein any part of the subdivision is located, a good and sufficient bond to be approved by the board and in the terms made to inure to the benefit of the county and conditioned upon the payment of all State, county, municipal and local taxes and special assessments collected as taxes, which at the time the [final] subdivision map is recorded are a lien against the property, but which are not yet payable. In lieu of a bond, a deposit may be made of money or negotiable bonds in the same amount, and of the bond approved for securing deposits of public money.

Sec. 35. Section 11610 of said code is amended to read:

11610. When [all] the owners, civil engineers and land surveyors or assistants [which appear] appearing on the final map [(except the approved certificate of the governing body)] have been signed and, where necessary, acknowledged, the [final] subdivision map may be filed for approval.

If the subdivision lies entirely within the territory of a city, then the filing shall be with the governing body of that city; if entirely within the unincorporated area of a county, then with the governing body of the county; and if partially within two or more of such territories then with the governing body of each, and in the latter case each body shall act thereon as provided in this article.

Sec. 36. Section 11611 of said code is amended to read:

11611. The governing body shall at its next meeting or within a period of not more than 10 days after the filing approve the map if it conforms to all the requirements of this chapter [and of any local ordinance applicable at the time of approval of the tentative map, or any rulings made thereunder].

The governing body shall at that time also accept or reject any or all offers of dedication and may, as a condition precedent to the acceptance of any streets or easements, require that the subdivider, at his option, either improve or agree to improve the streets or easements.

Sec. 37. Section 11612 of said code is amended to read:

11612. In the event an agreement for the improvement of the streets or [easements] installation of utilities is entered into, the governing body may require that the agreement shall be secured [by a good and sufficient bond] and may accept a cash deposit or impounding of trust funds, or posting of surety bond or deposit of negotiable bonds of the kind approved for securing deposits of public money, in an amount not in excess of the estimated cost of the improvement. However, the subdivider at his option may demand a partial release based upon work completed, of these funds or bonds upon completion of any portion of the work and written notice of completion by the civil engineer. [However, the] The subdivider, at his option, in lieu of the agreement to construct improvements, and the bond to secure it, may enter into a contract with the governing body, secured by a faithful performance bond, if required by the governing body, in an amount not to exceed the estimated cost of the improvement, by which he agrees, within such time as may be provided in the contract, to initiate and to consummate proceedings under an appropriate special assessment act for the formation of a special assessment district covering the subdivision or part thereof, for the financing and construction of designated improvements upon the streets or easements dedicated by the map.

SEC. 38. Section 11614 of said code is amended to read:

11614. Upon the execution, by the subdivider, of either one of the agreements or contracts and the posting of the required bond, or the deposit of the required money, trust funds or negotiable bonds, the map of such subdivision shall forthwith be approved and accepted for recordation.

SEC. 39. Section 11615 of said code is amended to read:

11615. Title to property the dedication of which is accepted shall not pass until the [final] subdivision map is duly recorded under the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 40. Section 11616 of said code is amended to read:

11616. If at the time the [final] subdivision map is approved any streets are rejected, the offer of dedication shall remain open and the governing body may by resolution at any later date, and without further action by the subdivider if he is notified, rescind its action and accept and open the streets for public use, which acceptance shall be recorded in the office of the county recorder.

If a resubdivision or reversion to acreage of the tract is subsequently filed for approval, any offer of dedication previously rejected shall be deemed to be terminated upon the approval of the map by the governing body.

SEC. 41. Section 11616.5 is added to said code, to read:

11616.5. In the event a reversion to acreage map is filed for approval of the subdivision, the governing body shall vacate all dedicated areas and all sums and moneys not expended to the time of the filing of the reversion to acreage map shall be returned upon demand to the subdivider.

SEC. 42. Section 11617 of said code is amended to read:

11617. If the subdivision lies within a city, subsequent to the approval of the [final] subdivision map by the governing body of the city, the clerk of the governing body of the city shall thereupon transmit the map to the clerk of the county board of supervisors. When all bonds, money or negotiable bonds required under the provisions of this chapter to secure the payment of taxes and assessments which are a lien on some part of the subdivision but which are not yet payable, have been deposited with and approved by the board of supervisors, the clerk of the board shall transmit the [final] subdivision map to the county recorder.

If the subdivision lies within unincorporated territory, then when the map has been approved and the bonds, money or negotiable bonds have been deposited and approved, the clerk of the board of supervisors shall transmit the map to the recorder.

In either case the clerk of the board of supervisors shall certify to the recorder that the provisions of this chapter have been complied with regarding deposits.

SEC. 43. Section 11625 of said code is amended to read:

11625. The subdivider shall present to the recorder evidence that, upon the date of [recording] approval of the subdivision map by the governing body, as shown by public records, the parties consenting to the recordation of the map are all the parties having a record title interest in the land subdivided whose signatures are required by the provisions of Article 7, otherwise the map shall not be recorded.

SEC. 44. Section 11628 of said code is amended to read:

11628. When any [final] subdivision map is presented to the county recorder for recordation and is accepted by him, he shall so certify on the face thereof without making any further changes and shall fasten the same securely in a book of maps of subdivisions or of [cities and towns] records of survey which he shall keep in his office. Upon [acceptance] recordation by the recorder, the [final map] maps shall be a public record.

[The county recorder shall also keep a separate indexed book of local ordinances relating to subdivisions.]

SEC. 45. Section 11629 is added to said code, to read:

11629. The recorder shall record any map presented in accord with this article within three days after presentation.

SEC. 46. Section 11651 of said code is amended to read:

11651. As used in this chapter

(a) "City council or board of supervisors" includes the proper corresponding governing board and authority in each place where the chapter applies.

(b) "City engineer" and "county surveyor" includes the like or corresponding officer, subject to the direction of the corresponding governing board and authority in each place where the chapter applies.

(c) If there is no city engineer or county surveyor subject to such direction, the corresponding board and authority may employ competent civil engineers [and surveyors] to the extent necessary for the carrying out of the purposes of this chapter in the places subject to its jurisdiction, and the persons so appointed shall have the same authority and shall perform the same duties as are given to and enjoined upon city engineers and county surveyors, respectively, in like cases. The services of civil engineers [and surveyors] so employed shall be contracted for, examined, passed upon, audited and paid as are other debts contracted by such governing boards and authorities.

SEC. 47. Section 11652 of said code is amended, to read:

11652. Whenever any city, town or subdivision of land is platted or divided into lots or blocks, and whenever any addition to any city, town or subdivision is laid out into lots or blocks for the purpose of sale or transfer, the city engineer or the [county surveyor] civil engineer, under the direction and with the approval of the city council or board of supervisors, may make an official map of the city, town or subdivision, giving to each block on the map a number, and to each lot or subdivision in the block a separate number or letter, and giving names to such streets, avenues, lanes, courts, commons or parks, as may be delineated on the official map.

SEC. 48. Section 11653 of said code is amended to read:

11653. [The] A civil engineer or land surveyor, under the direction and with the approval of the city council or board of supervisors, may compile the map from maps on file, or may resurvey or renumber the blocks; or renumber or reletter the lots in the blocks, or change the names of streets.

SEC. 49. Sections 11506, 11509, 11526, 11530, 11539, 11540, 11541, 11542, 11551, 11552, 11575, 11613, 11626, and 11658 of said code are repealed."

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 2 and 3, and insert "amended by adding thereto a new article to be numbered 16, to read as follows:

Article 16. Reorganization

Sec. 16.01. Definitions. The terms "plan" and "plan of reorganization," as used in this article, are hereby defined to mean a plan for the rehabilitation, readjustment, reorganization or liquidation of an association, or of all or of any part of the business, properties and assets of an association, or for the readjustment, modification or reorganization of the rights or interests of any or all of the investors and creditors of an association, or for any or more of the foregoing purposes. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, a plan may provide with respect to all or any part of the business, properties and assets of an association for any one or more of the following: (1) For the retention thereof by or (if then in the possession of the commissioner) the return thereof to, such association; (2) the retention thereof by, or (if not then in the possession of the commissioner) the delivery thereof to, the commissioner; (3) the transfer thereof to another corporation or to two or more other corporations (which corporation or corporations or any of them may but need not be an association or associations or a Federal savings and loan association or associations); (4) the transfer thereof to a trustee or trustees named in or appointed pursuant to the provisions of such plan; (5) the issuance of new securities in lieu of outstanding investment certificates, shares, stock or other obligations of such association. In addition or as an alternative to the foregoing, the plan may provide that such association shall cease to be an association but shall continue to exist as the same corporate entity, and in the event such plan becomes operative, such association shall become a corporation subject to the General Corporation Law of this State, and thereafter its rights, duties and privileges and all questions relating to such corporation shall be governed and determined by such General Corporation Law and not by this act, except that this article shall continue to apply to such corporation in all matters relating to such plan or the consummation of such plan, and except that such corporation's name shall be changed so that it shall no longer include any of the following: "Building and loan," "building-loan," "association," "saving" or "savings." Any new association formed, pursuant to a plan, to continue the building and loan business of an existing association, may adopt and continue to use the name of such existing association or any part of such name.

The terms "creditor" or "creditors," as used in this article, shall include the holder or holders of claims of whatever character against an association or its property, whether secured or unsecured, liquidated or unliquidated, fixed or contingent, except shares, stock or investment certificates.

As used in this article, (a) the terms "investment certificates," "shares" and "stock" shall include claims filed under Section 13.16 of this act in respect of investment certificates, shares and stock, respectively; (b) the term "investors" shall include holders of such claims; and (c) the terms "certificate holder," "shareholder" and "stockholder" shall include holders of such claims in respect of investment certificates, shares and stock, respectively.

The term "securities," as used in this article, shall include not only shares, stock and investment certificates issuable by associations under other provisions of this act but also shares of Federal savings and loan associations and stock of one or more classes, issuable by corporations generally, and also bonds, notes, debentures, warrants or evidences of indebtedness or of beneficial interest or of any other claims or rights. An association may issue, pursuant to a plan approved under this article, and for any consideration specified in such plan, any one or more of the above mentioned kinds of securities, regardless of any provisions of this act to the contrary."

Amendment No. 8

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out line 4, and insert
"Sec. 16.02. Reorganization by Commissioner. As a".

Amendment No. 9

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 10 and 11, and strike all of pages 2, 3, and 4, and lines 1 to 10, both inclusive, on page 5, and insert

"A. Proposal of Plan. The commissioner, upon proposing a plan of reorganization pursuant to this Section 16.02, shall file such plan in each of his offices and shall fix a time and place for a hearing before him on such plan, and shall give 30 days' notice to investors and creditors of such hearing, which notice shall include a copy or summary of such plan. Such hearing shall be held in the county in which such association maintained its principal office.

B. Hearing. At the time and place fixed for such hearing, or at the time and place to which such hearing may be continued by the commissioner, the commissioner shall hear the parties interested therein and, if he deems it necessary, may take testimony and/or may receive depositions relative thereto. If at the time fixed for such hearing written dissents from such plan (other than dissents, if any, withdrawn after the filing thereof) shall have been filed by holders of more than one-third in value of the investment certificates of such association then outstanding, or by holders of more than one-third in value of the shares of such association then outstanding, or by holders of more than one-third of the stock of such association then outstanding, then such hearing shall not be held, such plan shall not be approved by the commissioner, and no further proceedings shall be taken in respect of such plan.

After the completion of such hearing the commissioner shall approve or disapprove such plan, and if he disapproves such plan he may modify such plan and propose it as modified or propose a different plan. If he proposes such plan as modified or a different plan, the provisions of this Section 16.02 (including among other provisions, the provisions of Subsections A and B thereof) shall apply to such modified or different plan in the same manner and with the same effect as if it had been the original plan proposed by the commissioner.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Subsection B dissents of stockholders shall have no effect if the application provided for by Section 13.12 of this act shall not have been made within 30 days after the commissioner shall have taken possession of the property, business and assets of such association or if judgment dismissing such application shall have been rendered and such judgment shall have become final.

C. Conditions of Approval. No plan shall be approved by the commissioner unless he is satisfied that the plan is fair and equitable and does not discriminate in favor of any class of investors or creditors, and is feasible."

Amendment No. 10

On page 5 of the printed bill, strike out lines 38 to 50, both inclusive, and insert
"D. Effect of Approval. When any plan under this Section 16.02 shall have been approved by the commissioner, such plan".

Amendment No. 11

On page 6, line 3, of the printed bill, strike out "Subsection (C)", and insert "Subsection B of this Section 16.02".

Amendment No. 12

On page 6 of the printed bill, strike out lines 11 to 40, both inclusive, and insert
"E. Rights of Dissenters. No investor or creditor who shall have filed with the commissioner his written dissent from such plan within the time specified in Subsection B of this Section 16.02 shall be entitled".

Amendment No. 13

On page 7 of the printed bill, strike out lines 24 to 26, both inclusive, and insert
"Accordingly, any plan approved under this Section 16.02 shall provide that if the liquidation of assets set apart pursuant to this Subsection E shall result in the distribution to".

Amendment No. 14

On page 7, line 48, of the printed bill, strike out "H", and insert "E".

Amendment No. 15

On page 8, line 5, of the printed bill, strike out "H", and insert "E".

Amendment No. 16

On page 8 of the printed bill, strike out lines 17 to 27, both inclusive, and insert "F. Action in Superior Court. Within 30 days after such notice shall have been posted, published and mailed as aforesaid any investor or creditor may apply to the superior court of the county in which such association maintained its office for a determination as to whether the assets set apart pursuant to Subsection E of this Section 16.02 are sufficient in amount and value to conform to the requirements of such subsection. Thereafter such application or applications shall be set for hearing. At least 30 days' notice of such hearing shall be given by posting in three public places in said county, and, if the court shall so require, notice shall also be given by publication and/or mailing at such time or times and in such manner as the court shall prescribe."

Amendment No. 17

On page 8 of the printed bill, strike out line 39, and insert "pursuant to Subdivision E of this Section 16.02."

Amendment No. 18

On page 8 of the printed bill, strike out lines 40 to 52, both inclusive; and strike out lines 1 to 22, both inclusive, on page 9, and insert

"G. Appeals. No appeal from such order of court shall stay or postpone the consummation of the plan, unless such court shall deem it necessary to delay such consummation for the proper protection of the appellant or appellants, but in lieu of requiring the consummation of the plan to be delayed such court may restrain the sale, transfer or other disposition by the commissioner, the association or a corporation or trustee to whom assets are to be transferred, of any assets specified by the court, if the retention of such assets is found by the court necessary or advisable to protect the rights of the appellant or appellants.

Sec. 16.02. Reorganization by Court. A plan of reorganization may be proposed in court pursuant to this Section 16.03 for (1) an association of which the property, business and assets are in the possession of the commissioner; (2) an association which is in such condition that, unless such association is liquidated or a plan is consummated, a preference is likely to be obtained by some certificate holders over other certificate holders or by some shareholders over other shareholders or by some creditors over other creditors of the same class; (3) an association which is in such condition that it will probably be necessary unless a different plan is consummated, to liquidate such association. The determination by the commissioner that an association is included in one or more of the foregoing classes shall be prima facie evidence of such fact. A plan of reorganization of such association may be proposed pursuant to this Section 16.03 (1) by such association through action of the board of directors of such association or (2) by the holders of 20 per cent in value of the aggregate outstanding free shares and investment certificates of such association or (3) by the commissioner.

A. Procedure. Such plan shall be presented by the proposer or proposers to the superior court of the county in which such association maintained or maintains its principal office, with a petition that the court determine the fairness of such plan and what consents are requisite to such plan becoming operative, which petition shall set forth such plan and the fact that it is proposed by a person or person authorized under this Section 16.03 to propose it and any other facts which such proposer or proposers shall deem material to a consideration of the fairness of such plan. If the commissioner is not the proposer of the plan, the court shall refer the plan to the commissioner and direct him to analyze the plan and the condition of the association. Within 30 days or such additional time as the court may grant, the commissioner shall return the plan to the court with his findings and recommendations, and may propose to the court his own plan. Thereupon the court shall fix the time and place for a hearing on the plan presented by petition and on the plan presented by the commissioner, if any, and shall direct that notice of such hearing be given as hereafter provided and shall direct the commissioner to deliver to such proposer or proposers, and to the clerk of the court, a list of the names and addresses of the investors and creditors of such association as shown by the records of such association, and such other information as the court may deem necessary or proper, whereupon the commissioner shall comply with such direction. Thereafter the clerk of the court shall give at least 30 days' notice of such hearing to the investors and creditors of such association (and to such association, if not the proposer or proposers of such plan), which notice shall include either a copy of such plan or plans or a summary thereof, and a statement that any interested stockholder, shareholder, certificate holder or creditor shall have the right, without the necessity of formal intervention, to appear either in support of a plan or in opposition thereto or may propose a modification or modifications. Such notice shall be approved by the court.

B. Hearing. At the time and place fixed for such hearing, or at the time and place to which such hearing may be continued by the court, the court shall hear the parties interested therein and, if it deems it necessary, may take testimony relative thereto and/or may receive depositions relative thereto. At such hearing any interested stockholder, shareholder, certificate holder or creditor may propose a modification or modifications of any plan then before the court or a different plan.

No plan shall be approved by the court unless the court is satisfied that the plan is fair and equitable and does not discriminate in favor of any class of investors or creditors, and is feasible. After the completion of such hearing the court shall approve, modify and approve, or disapprove such plan or plans. No such plan shall become operative unless and until it shall have been approved, in its original form or if modified, in its modified form, by such court, nor unless and until such plan shall have been consented to, either in person or by a duly appointed agent, attorney or committee, and either before or after the approval of such plan by the court, by the following persons: (a) If such association shall have stock outstanding, then by the holders of a majority in amount of the stock of such association; (b) if such association shall have shares outstanding, then by the holders of a majority in value of the shares of such association; (c) if such association shall have investment certificates outstanding, then by the holders of two-thirds in value of the investment certificates of such association; and (d) if such association shall have creditors, then by two-thirds in amount of each class of creditors of such association; provided, however, that such consents shall not be required in the case of any certificate holder, shareholder or creditor, or of any class of certificate holders, shareholders or creditors, if (1) the rights of such person or persons shall not be materially and adversely affected by such plan or (2) if such plan shall provide for the payment in cash of the value of the investment certificates, shares or claims held by such person or persons; provided further, that such consents shall not be required from the stockholders of any association if the commissioner shall have taken possession of the property, business and assets of such association pursuant to Section 13.11 of this act and the application provided for by Section 13.12 of this act shall not have been made within 30 days after such taking possession or judgment dismissing such application shall have been rendered and such judgment shall have become final, and provided further, that if any plan is modified with the approval of the court and (1) if the court shall find that such modification does not materially and adversely affect the interests of any particular class or classes of persons whose consent to the plan is required, then the consent of such particular class or classes of persons shall not be required to such modification and all persons of such class or classes who shall have consented to the plan prior to the court's approval of its modification shall be deemed to have consented to the modification and to the plan as modified (2) if the court shall find that such modification materially and adversely affects the interests of any particular class or classes of persons whose consent to the plan is required, notice of such modification may be given to such class or classes of persons in such manner as the court shall prescribe and any person who shall have consented to the plan prior to the court's approval of its modification and who shall not file a written dissent to such modification within the time fixed by the court shall be deemed to have consented to the modification and to the plan as modified unless such persons' previous consent to the plan shall have provided otherwise. For the purpose of this Section 16.03, real property, contracts for the sale of real property, loans, and all other assets (whether like or unlike the foregoing) shall be valued at fair market value. The approval by the court of the plan shall be in writing. If the court shall determine that at the time of such approval the requisite number of consents shall have been given the court shall enter an order providing that such plan shall become operative, which order shall be binding upon the commissioner, such association and all its investors and creditors. If the court shall determine that at the time of such approval the requisite number of consents shall not have been given the court shall make an order fixing a time and place for a further hearing to determine what consents have been given, and directing the clerk of the court to mail, or cause to be mailed, to each of the stockholders, shareholders, investment certificate holders and creditors of such association, other than those (if any) who have consented to the plan approved by the court, a notice of the time and place fixed for said hearing, a copy or summary of such plan, a statement setting forth the consents necessary to such plan becoming operative and a notice that all parties desiring to consent or dissent may file written consents or dissents with the clerk of the court before the time fixed for said hearing or to which said hearing may be continued. At the time and place so fixed, or any continuance thereof ordered by the court, the court shall take evidence on that subject and upon satisfactory proof at such time of the fact that the requisite number of consents have been given, a further order may be entered providing that such plan shall become operative, which further order shall be binding upon the commissioner, such association, and all its investors and creditors.

During the pendency of a proceeding under this Section 16.03 hearing upon any application under Section 13.12 may be stayed, in the discretion of the court; and the court in which the petition under this Section 16.03 is pending is hereby given jurisdiction to enjoin during the pendency of the proceeding and, if a plan is approved and by the court declared operative, to enjoin thereafter, the commencement or continuance of any action or proceeding against such association or any act, action or proceeding to enforce a lien or charge upon, or to obtain possession of, or to sell or otherwise dispose of (except in conformity with such plan), any property of such association, and to determine all questions required to be determined pursuant to this Section 16.03 including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following: Whether the association subject to such plan is included in one or more of the classes specified in this section as subject to reorganization; whether any plan, either in its original or modified form is fair and equitable; whether it discriminates in favor of any class of investors or creditors; whether it is feasible; whether the plan is more advantageous than liquidation from the standpoint of each class of investors and creditors affected thereby; the liabilities of such association and the value of the assets thereof; the consents requisite under this Section 16.03 to such plan becoming operative, including jurisdiction to determine, for the purposes of the plan and the consents or dissents thereto, the division of the investors and creditors into classes according to the nature of their respective rights and interests. If, pursuant to Section 16.05, provision has been made in any plan for the payment in cash in full of all certificate holders, shareholders and creditors each of whose investment certificates, shares or claims is of such value, not to exceed twenty-five dollars ($25), as shall be specified in such plan, all investment certificates, shares and claims to be paid in cash pursuant to such provision shall be excluded in computing the consents required or given under this Subsection B.

If the court shall approve a plan of reorganization, either in its original form or in modified form, the court may allow reasonable compensation for services rendered, and reimbursements for proper costs and expenses incurred by the persons who were the proposer or proposers of such plan and their attorneys. In fixing such allowance the court shall give consideration only to the services which contributed to the plan approved by the court, or to the refusal of the court's approval of a different plan or plans, or which were beneficial in the proceedings under this Section 16.03, and to the proper costs and expenses incidental thereto.

All expenses of and charges against the clerk of the court in connection with the mailing, posting and publication referred to in this Section 16.03 shall be paid from the assets of the association in question by the commissioner if he is in possession of such assets and, if not, by the association.

C. Building and Loan Commissioner. The proposer or proposers of a plan shall deliver a copy thereof to the commissioner or to one of his deputies either before the petition referred to in Subsection A of this Section 16.03 shall have been filed in court or within two days thereafter. A copy of said plan shall be kept by the commissioner available for public inspection at each of his offices in this State. In the case of any plan pursuant to this Section 16.03 under which all or any part of the business, properties or assets of such association is to be retained by, returned to or transferred to any association (other than a Federal savings and loan association or an association which, pursuant to the plan, is to cease being an association), such plan shall not be approved by the court unless it shall have been first consented to by the commissioner.

In any proceeding under this Section 16.03 the commissioner shall if requested by the court, and may upon his own motion, file a notice of his appearance in such proceeding. Upon the filing of such a notice the commissioner shall be deemed to be a party in interest, with the right to be heard on all matters arising in such proceeding, and shall be deemed to have intervened in respect of all matters in such proceeding with the same force and effect as if a petition for that purpose had been allowed by the court; but the commissioner may not appeal or file any petition for appeal or review.

During the pendency of a proceeding under this Section 16.03, the commissioner shall not employ or engage, with respect to any association directly affected by such proceeding, or with respect to the business, property or assets of any association so affected, counsel other than the Attorney General or one or more of his deputies or assistants, or any appraisers or accountants other than appraisers or accountants who are subject to the civil service laws of this State, nor employ, with respect to any such association, its business, property or assets, as additional employees in this State or to replace previous employees in this State, any person who is not subject to the civil service laws of this State for any position or work for which a person subject to the civil service laws of this State is available, except that if the association (or the commissioner, while in possession) has entered into an agreement with a labor organization for the employing of any class of employees through the labor organization, then the commissioner shall employ additional employees, or employees replacing previous employees, who fall within a classification covered by such an agreement through the labor organization.

D. Effect of Approval and Consents. When any plan under this Section 16.03 shall have been so approved by the court and shall have been consented to by or on behalf of the respective required proportions of the investors and creditors, such plan shall be binding upon the commissioner, such association, and all of the investors and creditors of such association. Thereupon such steps shall be taken by the commissioner, such association and all other persons affected by such plan, and all acts shall be done, all instruments executed and all securities issued, as may be required by such plan so approved and as may be necessary or desirable for the consummation of such plan. The association, the commissioner, or such person as the court shall appoint, shall supervise and direct the consummation of the plan subject to the orders of the court.

Sec. 16.04. Withdrawal of Assets. When the property, business and assets of an association are in the possession of the commissioner, whether or not such association is in liquidation under the provisions of this act, investment certificate holders and unsecured creditors of such association may withdraw to themselves or to a corporation nominated by them assets of such association upon the approval of the superior court after notice given and hearing held in the manner hereafter provided in this section.

A. Procedure. The holders of at least 15 per cent in value of the aggregate outstanding investment certificates of an association, the business, property and assets of which are in the possession of the commissioner, together with any unsecured creditors of such association then desiring to join with them, may themselves, or through a corporation nominated by and representing them, petition the superior court of the county in which the principal office of such association is situated to exchange their investment certificates and unsecured creditors' claims for their proportionate share of the assets of such association. If such association shall have commenced the proceeding provided for by Section 13.12 of this act and no judgment which shall have become final shall have been rendered therein against such association, or if the time within which such association may commence said proceeding has not expired, the consent of such association by its board of directors to the filing of such petition shall be required. Such petition, among other things, shall set forth, in general terms, the method by which the withdrawal of assets is to be accomplished, the interests to be acquired by investors and unsecured creditors should said petition be granted, and whether a corporation is to acquire such assets, and if so, such petition shall also set forth the kind or kinds of securities to be issued by such corporation and the classes of persons to whom such securities are proposed to be issued. A copy of said petition shall be served upon the commissioner or one of his deputies prior to the filing thereof or within three days after the filing thereof. Upon the filing of said petition the court shall fix the time and place for the hearing of such petition and shall direct that the commissioner shall give at least 30 days' notice to investors and creditors of such hearing. The form of such notice shall be approved by order of the court, which order may be made without notice; and the commissioner shall cause such notice to be given. The petitioner or petitioners shall be furnished by the commissioner, as promptly as reasonably possible after the service of a copy of the petition upon the commissioner or one of his deputies, with a list setting forth the name and last known address of each investor and unsecured creditor of such association as shown upon the books of such association in the possession of the commissioner, and the petitioner or petitioners or their nominee may request other investors and unsecured creditors of such association to join in said petition.

B. Investors and Creditors Joining in Petition. Investors and unsecured creditors of such association not represented by the petitioner or petitioners at the time of the filing of such petition may join with and be represented by the petitioner or petitioners by filing with the court, either directly or through the petitioner or petitioners, a written consent to join in said petition, and thereupon such investors and unsecured creditors shall be deemed to have joined in said petition.

C. Hearing. At such hearing the commissioner may appear and be represented by the Attorney General of the State of California, or by one or more of his deputies, or assistants and not otherwise. Upon such hearing the court shall determine the proportion of the total value of all assets of such association which is borne by each asset of such association, or by each group of assets of such association, which shall have been designated to the court by the petitioner or petitioners at or before the time of such hearing or at such time or times thereafter as the court shall permit. For the purposes of this Section 16.04 any property of such association which is subject to encumbrance shall be valued at its net equity value and all of the assets of such association shall be valued at fair market value. Thereupon the petitioner or petitioners shall file with the court a designation of the particular assets or groups of assets of such association which the petitioner or petitioners desire to withdraw in exchange for the investment certificates and unsecured creditors' claims represented by the petitioner or petitioners or their nominee; and thereupon the court shall determine whether such proposed withdrawal is fair both to the withdrawing and to the nonwithdrawing certificate holders and creditors, and if the court shall determine that such withdrawal is fair as aforesaid, shall grant such petition. No petition for withdrawal of assets shall be granted by the court unless the court is satisfied that the proposed withdrawal of assets in exchange for investment certificates and unsecured creditors' claims is fair both to the withdrawing and to the nonwithdrawing certificate holders and creditors. In such determination the court shall give due consideration to liabilities and encumbrances affecting particular assets or groups of assets. If such association shall have commenced the proceeding provided for by Section 13.12 of this act and no judgment which shall have become final shall have been rendered therein against such association, or if the time within which such association may commence said proceeding has not expired, no petition for withdrawal of assets shall be granted by the court unless such withdrawal is consented to by the holders of a majority in amount of the stock of such association if it has stock outstanding.

D. Stockholders. Any corporation which is to acquire any assets of such association may, subject to the provisions of this Subsection D, issue securities to the shareholders and/or stockholders of such association in exchange for their outstanding shares, stock, claims or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash; provided, the issuance of such securities is approved by the court and by the petitioner or petitioners; and provided, further, that such securities shall contain express provision that no interest, dividends or other distribution shall be paid or made thereon unless and until such corporation shall have retired all securities issued in exchange for claims of investment certificate holders and claims of unsecured creditors. If an assessment shall have been levied against the stockholders of such association pursuant to Article 7 of this act, such assessment shall be set aside or discharged (1) if the court shall determine that such association is solvent; or (2) if the stockholders of such association shall pay the amount of such assessment (in which case a part of such assessment which shall bear the same proportion to the whole of such assessment as the net value of the assets withdrawn bears to the total net value of all the assets of the association shall be paid to the withdrawing certificate holders and creditors or their nominee and the remainder of such assessment shall be paid to the commissioner); or (3) the stockholder or stockholders shall transfer and assign to the withdrawing certificate holders and unsecured creditors or their nominee and to the commissioner, respectively, in the respective proportions aforesaid, all of the assets of such stockholder or stockholders in excess of amounts required to discharge the liabilities, and encumbrances against the assets, of such stockholder or stockholders, other than securities or the right to receive securities of a corporation which is to acquire the assets of such association. In no case shall securities be issued to any stockholder against whom an assessment has been levied pursuant to Article 7 of this act unless and until such assessment has been set aside or discharged as above provided.

E. Effect of Order. After the completion of such hearing the court shall have jurisdiction to approve such petition or to disapprove such petition, or may approve such petition as amended, and shall have authority to approve or disapprove the terms and conditions of the issuance of securities in exchange for outstanding securities, claims, or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash. If such petition or amended petition is approved, the court shall order the commissioner to transfer and deliver to the petitioner or petitioners or to a corporation nominated by them the assets selected by the petitioner or petitioners and approved by the court; and upon the transfer and delivery of said assets to the petitioner or petitioners or to such corporation in exchange for investment certificates and/or unsecured creditors' claims in compliance with the order of court, the powers of the commissioner with respect to said assets shall terminate and such association and the State of California shall be forthwith released from all further liability with respect to the assets thus withdrawn. The order of court approving such petition, amended petition or supplemental petition, shall be binding upon the commissioner, such association and all investors and creditors of such association. The powers and duties of the commissioner and the rights of all investors and unsecured creditors as to the assets of such association not withdrawn hereunder shall not be affected by this section.

F. Supplemental Petitions. After the approval of such petition and the withdrawal of assets thereunder, the petitioner or petitioners or the corporation to which the assets are withdrawn from time to time may file a supplemental petition in said court for the withdrawal of additional assets in exchange for additional investment certificates and/or unsecured creditors' claims. Thereupon such supplemental petition shall be set for hearing and notice of such hearing shall be given as provided in Subsection A of this Section 16.04 and in Section 16.07. At the hearing on such supplemental petition the court shall order additional assets withdrawn if it determines that such withdrawal is fair both to the petitioner or petitioners or said corporation on the one hand and to the nonwithdrawing certificate holders and creditors on the other hand.

Sec. 16.05. Priorities. In any plan proposed pursuant to Section 16.02 or Section 16.03 due consideration shall be given to the rights and interests of all persons affected thereby (with due regard to the feasibility of such plan and the condition of such association), in the following order of priorities: First, secured creditors and other persons, if any, entitled to preference over investment certificate holders and unsecured creditors in the event of liquidation; second, investment certificate holders and unsecured creditors, without preference to one over the other; third, shareholders; and fourth, stockholders; provided, however, that provision may be made in any such plan for the payment in full of all taxes, assessments, insurance, alterations, repairs and other operating expenses, for the payment of expenses of the commissioner in connection with such association or its property, business or assets or in connection with any application of such association under Section 13.12 of this act, and for the payment of expenses in connection with such plan as authorized by this article; and provided further that provision may be made in any such plan for the payment in cash in full of all certificate holders, shareholders and creditors each of whose investment certificates, shares or claims is of such value, not to exceed twenty-five dollars ($25), as shall be specified in such plan.

No plan which provides for the issuance of securities to holders of stock shall be approved unless such securities contain express provision that no interest, dividends or other distribution shall be paid or made thereon unless and until all securities issued in exchange for claims of investment certificate holders, claims of unsecured creditors, and claims of shareholders, if any, have been retired; it being the intent that under such plan each investment certificate holder and unsecured creditor (except those who shall sell or otherwise dispose of their new securities) shall receive the full amount of their original investment, with interest, dividends, or other return thereon before any interest, dividends or other distribution is paid or made on securities issued to shareholders or stockholders, or both, as aforesaid. A plan may provide, however, for the issuance of such securities to the stockholders that after all creditors, certificate holders, and shareholders (except those who shall sell or otherwise dispose of their new securities) shall receive the full amount of their original investments or claims, with interest, dividends or other return thereon, the stockholders or their assigns shall own in effect, through their ownership of such securities issued to the stockholders, the remaining assets.

Sec. 16.06. Hearing. At any hearing before the commissioner pursuant to Section 16.02 or before the court pursuant to Section 16.03 or Section 16.04 any interested certificate holder, shareholder, stockholder or creditor shall have the right to appear either in support of the plan or plans or petition or in opposition thereto, and any such hearing shall be, among other things, upon the fairness of the terms and conditions of the issuance of all securities to be issued pursuant to such plan or plans or petition and of the exchange thereof for outstanding securities, claims or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash, and all persons to whom it is proposed to issue securities in such exchange shall have the right to appear at such hearing; and the commissioner or court (as the case may be) is hereby authorized to determine whether the terms and conditions of such proposed issuance and exchange of securities are fair and, if so, to grant approval of such terms and conditions.

Sec. 16.07. Notices. Wherever provision is made in this article for at least a specified number of days' notice to investors and creditors of a hearing, such notice shall state the time and place of such hearing and shall be (a) mailed by first class mail in sealed envelopes, postage prepaid, to each investor and creditor at his address as shown by the books of such association, or, if no address be there shown, at the city or town in which such association has at last had its principal place of business; (b) posted in three public places in the county in which such city or town is located; and (c) published once in a newspaper of general circulation published in said county. Such mailing, posting and publication shall be made at least the specified number of days before the date fixed for such hearing. Section 8.08 of this act shall not apply to such notices.

Sec. 16.08. Building and Loan Commissioner. The commissioner shall have and may exercise the same jurisdiction, authority and powers with respect to any business, properties or assets retained by or delivered to the commissioner pursuant to any plan as the commissioner shall have with respect to the business, properties and assets of any association of which the commissioner has taken possession; and the commissioner shall have and may exercise the same jurisdiction, authority and powers with respect to any association (excepting a Federal savings and loan association) formed pursuant to any plan or by or to which any business, properties or assets may be retained or returned or transferred pursuant to any plan (excepting a Federal savings and loan association or an association which, pursuant to the plan, is to cease being an association) as the commissioner would have of such association if it had been formed or had acquired its business, properties and assets by means other than a plan.

If any part of the business, properties and assets are to be retained by or transferred to a corporation which is not to be an association or a Federal savings and loan association, the plan shall provide for the continuing examinations or supervision of such corporation by the commissioner and may provide for the right of the commissioner to appoint some or all of the directors of such corporation (including appointments to fill vacancies), and the commissioner shall have and may exercise any and all powers of such continuing examination, supervision or appointment conferred upon him by a plan which has been approved and become operative.

There shall be paid from the assets of the association directly affected by a proposed plan or by a petition under this article, all expenses incurred by the commissioner in connection therewith; provided, such expenses shall be reasonable and proper and in the case of proceedings under Section 16.03 or Section 16.04 shall be approved by the court.

In any proceeding under this article the commissioner shall be represented by the Attorney General of the State of California or by one or more assistants or deputies of such Attorney General, and not otherwise. The cost of such legal services shall be fixed by the Attorney General and shall be a charge against and paid from the assets of the association affected.

Sec. 16.09. Commissioner of Corporations. None of the provisions of an act entitled "An act requiring individuals, as in said act defined, to obtain a certificate from the Commissioner of Corporations prior to soliciting, receiving or collecting contributions, fees or funds from security owners or holders for the purpose of protecting, enforcing or representing the rights of such security owners or holders; authorizing the Commissioner of Corporations to regulate and supervise the solicitation, collection and application of such funds; and providing for the enforcement of said act and penalties for the violation thereof," approved July 1, 1937, shall apply to the proposer or proposers of a plan which has been duly presented to the court pursuant to Section 16.03 or to the petitioner or petitioners of a petition which has been duly filed with the court pursuant to Section 16.04, but before such presentation or filing said act shall be applicable to such proposer, or proposers, petitioner or petitioners, and after such presentation or filing no funds shall be solicited or collected by such proposer, proposers, petitioner or petitioners from investors except with the approval of the court.

Sec. 16.10. Authority of Fiduciaries. Any executor, administrator, guardian or receiver, and any trustee of any kind or nature, and any insurance company, cemetery association or other corporation, public or private, may, without the necessity of obtaining any specific court approval: (a) Dissent from any plan proposed pursuant to Section 16.02; (b) consent to any plan which has been approved by the court pursuant to Section 16.03 or consent to any such plan subject to such plan being approved by the court; (c) file or join in a petition or supplemental petition under Section 16.04; (d) exchange any shares, stock, investment certificates or other rights or claims for securities issued pursuant to any plan or petition which has been approved pursuant to this article; and (e) continue to hold as a legal investment any securities received in any such exchange.

Sec. 16.11. Appeals. No appeal from an order of court referred to in this article shall be effectual for any purpose unless the appellant or appellants, within 30 days after the entry of the order appealed from, shall file with the clerk of such court a bond executed on the part of the appellant or appellants by at least two sureties to the effect that the appellant or appellants, in the event such order is affirmed on appeal, will pay all of respondents' costs, expenses and reasonable attorneys' fees arising from such appeal. The form and amount of such bond and the sureties thereon shall be approved by the superior court. Appeals from such orders shall be given preference in hearing on appeal over all other appeals, except contested election cases and cases in which the people of the State are parties. Except as otherwise provided by this Section 16.11, the provisions of Part 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure are applicable to and constitute the rules of practice in the proceedings mentioned in this article with regard to appeals."

Motion to Amend

Senator Hatfield moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, after "act", strike out the balance of the line; and strike out lines 2 to 5, inclusive, of said title, and insert "relating to the production and availability of food and fiber; the use and augmentation of labor and facilities; and cooperation by officers and agencies of States and local governments in connection therewith; making an appropriation; and declaring the urgency hereof, to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2

On page 1, line 1, of said bill, strike out "Section 35 is added to the Agricultural Code," and insert "The purpose of this act is to achieve the maximum production and availability of food and fiber possible from the farms of this State, to provide for the most effective use of existing farm labor and facilities, and to augment such labor and facilities.

SEC. 2. This act shall be known as the Emergency Farm Production Act.

SEC. 3. As used in this act, the phrases "farm labor" and "farm products" have the meanings ascribed in subdivisions (e) and (f) of Section 3 of the California Food and Fiber Production Act.

As used in this act, "public agencies" includes those of the Federal Government, this State, another State, and districts, local governmental units and political subdivisions of this or another State.

SEC. 4. In the performance of the duties imposed upon him, including that of promoting and protecting the agricultural industry of this State and that of protecting and serving the interests of producers, distributors and consumers, the State Director of Agriculture shall foster, provide for, and engage and assist in the recruitment, placement, distribution, transportation, and housing of farm labor in this State; whenever necessary, make and assist in making available facilities required by or in connection with such farm labor; and cooperate or contract with public and private agencies for the performance of any acts or the rendition of any services which are necessary or proper therefor, which contracts such public agencies are hereby authorized to execute and perform, all for the purpose of attaining the greatest possible production of farm products in this State for the preservation of the public health, safety and welfare and in furtherance of this State's participation in the war effort.

SEC. 5. After the California Food and Fiber Production Act, as enacted at the Fifty-fifth (Second Extraordinary) Session becomes effective:

(a) The Director of Agriculture may transfer to the State Farm Production Director and the latter may accept all contracts executed by the Director of Agriculture in furtherance of the purposes of this act; the acceptance of such contracts shall subrogate the State Farm Production Director to all the rights, and subject him to all the obligations thereunder, of the Director of Agriculture.

(b) The Director of Agriculture may transfer to the State Farm Production Director all or any part of the properties, books, records, documents and correspondence in his possession or under his control, relating to the purposes of this act or the California Food and Fiber Production Act.

(c) In order to avoid duplication of effort and confusion in administration the Director of Agriculture may refrain from activities he is authorized or required to undertake under this or other laws and which are included within the scope of the California Food and Fiber Production Act.

(d) If transfers are made under subdivisions (a) and (b) of this section and if the Director of Agriculture makes the election provided for in subdivision (c), the Director of Agriculture and the State Farm Production Director shall by agreement ascertain what portion of the appropriation made by this act is not needed for expenditure under this act and shall notify the Controller accordingly. Upon receipt of such notification, the Controller shall transfer such amount to and in augmentation of the appropriation made by the California Food and Fiber Production Act.

(e) In the event of a conflict between the provisions of this act and the provisions of the California Food and Fiber Production Act, the provisions of the latter shall control.

SEC. 6. Upon the request of the Director of Agriculture every officer and employee of this State shall consult and advise with the director, and each department, division, bureau, board, commission, and officer of this State and each agency or political subdivision of this State shall render all possible assistance to the director for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act. With the approval of the Governor, the Director of Agriculture may request a State officer, department, division, bureau, board, or commission, having appropriate authority therefor, to assume the discharge of any function necessary to further the purposes of this act and such a State officer, department, division, bureau, board, or commission shall assume the discharge of such appropriate function.

SEC. 7. Out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000) is hereby appropriated, to be expended in accordance with law in carrying out the provisions of this act.

SEC. 8. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held invalid, the remainder of the act, or the application of such provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. 9. This act shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the expiration of one year after the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs.

SEC. 10. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

The war-time emergency has depleted the farm labor supply and increased the need for food and fiber to such an extent that unless immediate and effective use of every available source of farm labor is made the life and health of the State and Nation will be endangered and this State's participation in the war effort obstructed, delayed and impaired."

"Sec. 75. The Department of Employment is hereby created in the State Government, and the provisions of this act shall be administered by the California Employment Stabilization Commission, which is hereby created in said department.

SEC. 4. Section 76 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 76. The work and functions of the department shall be segregated and allotted according to their nature into divisions. One of such divisions shall be designated Division of Public Employment Offices and Benefit Payments, and one shall be designated the Division of Accounts and Tax Collections. Each of these two divisions shall be under a chief who shall be appointed by the Governor, subject to the approval of the Senate, and who shall serve at the pleasure of the Governor. The chief of each of these two divisions shall devote his full time to the performance of his duties as such chief of a division and shall receive a salary of seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500) per year. There shall be such other divisions as the commission may determine that the exigencies and nature of the work of the department require.

SEC. 5. Section 77 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 77. The California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board, to consist of three members to be appointed by the Governor, subject to the approval of the Senate, is hereby created in the Department of Employment. Each member of such board shall devote his full time to the performance of his duties in this act defined and shall receive a salary of seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500) per year.

SEC. 6. Section 78 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 78. One of the members of the board created by Section 77, hereinafter referred to as the "Appeals Board," shall serve as designated by the Governor until May 1, 1944; one shall serve until September 1, 1945; and one until January 1, 1947. Thereafter each member shall be appointed to serve four years and until his successor is appointed and qualifies, except that a vacancy shall be filled by the Governor, subject to the approval of the Senate, by appointment for the unexpired term.

SEC. 7. Section 79 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 79. In any case before it, the Appeals Board may delegate to any one of its members or to a special examiner or referee the taking and hearing of evidence.

Whatever decision is rendered by the said board must be the act of a majority of its members.

SEC. 8. Section 80 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 80. The decision of the Appeals Board on an appeal from the findings of a referee must be rendered within sixty (60) days after the filing of the appeal unless such board requires the taking of further evidence, in which case the hearing on the appeal shall be commenced within sixty (60) days after the filing of an appeal, and in the latter case the decision of the board must be filed within sixty (60) days after completion of such hearing.

SEC. 9. Section 81 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 81. All meetings, hearings, and proceedings of the Appeals Board shall be public, and all decisions concerning appeals shall be in writing. Such decisions shall contain a statement of the facts upon which the decision is based, and a statement of the decision itself and the reasons therefor. Such decisions shall be available for public inspection, and shall be published from time to time in such manner as to make the same available for public use.

SEC. 10. Section 82 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 82. If and wherever elsewhere in this act reference is made to appeals to the commission, such reference shall be construed to mean an appeal to the Appeals Board. The decision of the Appeals Board is final, except for such action as may be taken by judicial tribunal as permitted or required by law.

SEC. 11. Section 83 is added to said act, to read:

Sec. 83. The California Employment Stabilization Commission hereby created shall consist of five members, who shall be the three members of the Appeals Board and the Chief of the Division of Public Employment Offices and Benefit Payments and the Chief of the Division of Accounts and Tax Collections."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Welfare and Institutions.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATION
WASHINGTON, D. C.

In reply refer to
637-B:AFP

*Hon. J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate
State of California, Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. BEEK: We wish to thank you for your telegram of March 19th, which contained Resolution No. 81 adopted by the Senate of the State of California.

The Poultry and Egg Section has been making a very exhaustive study of the fundamental factors of prices and costs appropriate to the various producing areas of the United States. Every effort should be made to maintain maximum prices for poultry which follow a consistent pattern for the whole United States. Regional differences can be recognized, but they should be such as not to cause disturbance in other areas.

In the East Shore Area, for example, a generously calculated cost per pound of a 3-pound fryer is given as .24½. The item of coal alone is entered at .05 per bird. A little pruning of the figures would probably show a cost of .22 or even less. We have representations from the West Coast of .282 as the per-pound cost of a fryer, and a ceiling price of .35 is asked. It would be very difficult to justify a wide disparity in ceiling prices between the two regions. In fact, we have had unfavorable reactions from the price concessions already granted to the West Coast.

The studies have not been completed, but they are well advanced. Actions to be taken in the near future will take into account all the factors consistent with the over-all problem of price stabilization. You may be very sure that this resolution of the California Senate is being taken very seriously by this office and will receive our diligent attention.

Very truly yours,

A. F. PEINE, Acting Head
Poultry and Egg Section Food Price Division

Amendment No. 2

In line 2 of the title of said bill, before "parole", insert "habitual criminals and".

Amendment No. 3

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 1 to 6, inclusive, and insert

"SECTION 1. Section 644 of the Penal Code is amended to read:

644. (a) Every person convicted in this State of any felony who shall have been previously twice convicted upon charges separately brought and tried, and who shall have served separate terms therefor in any State prison and or Federal penitentiary, either in this State or elsewhere, of the crime of robbery, burglary, burglary with explosives, rape with force or violence, arson, murder, assault with intent to commit murder, grand theft, bribery of a public official, perjury, subornation of perjury, train wrecking, feloniously receiving stolen goods, felonious assault with a deadly weapon, extortion, kidnaping, mayhem, escape from a State prison, conspiracy to commit any one or more of the aforementioned felonies, shall be adjudged an habitual criminal and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for life;

(b) Every person convicted in this State of any felony who shall have been previously three times convicted, upon charges separately brought and tried, and who shall have served separate terms therefor in any State prison and/or Federal penitentiary, either in this State or elsewhere, of the crime of robbery, burglary, burglary with explosives, rape with force or violence, arson, murder, assault with intent to commit murder, grand theft, bribery of a public official, perjury, subornation of perjury, train wrecking, feloniously receiving stolen goods, felonious assault with a deadly weapon, extortion, kidnaping, mayhem, escape from a State prison, conspiracy to commit any one or more of the aforementioned felonies, or any of the aforementioned felonies, shall be adjudged an habitual criminal and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for life;

(c) Provided, however, that in exceptional cases, at any time not later than 60 days after the actual commencement of imprisonment, the court may, in its discretion, provide that the defendant is not an habitual criminal, and in such case the defendant shall not be subject to the provisions of this section or of Sections 3047 and 3048 of this code;

(d) Provided, however, that in exceptional cases where prior convictions and the current or last conviction under which a prisoner was sentenced were not crimes of violence or committed by the use of force, violence, threats of force, or threats of violence, the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles may, after the prisoner has served a term of a minimum of seven years, review the file and fix a term and may provide for release on parole, and in such case the defendant shall not be subject to the provisions of subsections (a), (b) and (c) of this section or of Sections 3047 and 3048 of this code.

(e) Provided, however, that in exceptional cases where the prisoner's record of prior convictions and the current or last conviction under which the prisoner has been sentenced contain only one crime of violence or a crime committed by the use of force, violence, threats of force, or threats of violence, the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles may, after the prisoner has served a term of a minimum of 12 years, review the file and fix a term and also may provide for release on parole, and in such case the defendant shall not be subject to the provisions of subsections (a), (b) and (c) of this section or of Sections 3047 and 3048 of this code.

(f) The provisions of this section are to apply to all prisoners now serving sentence in the State prisons, to the end that at all times the same provisions relating to sentence, imprisonments and paroles of prisoners shall apply to all the inmates thereof.

(g) Nothing in this section shall abrogate or affect the punishment by death in any and all crimes now or hereafter punishable by death."

The following amendments were proposed by the Committee on Water Resources:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "amend Section 2526 of", and insert "add Section 26.1 to the Water Commission Act and Sections 2529, 2530, 2531, and 2532 to".

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 1 to 10, inclusive, and insert

"SECTION 1. Section 2529 of the Water Code is amended to read:

2529. Within 30 days after the first publication of the notice, or within 30 days after this act goes into effect as to notices first published subsequent to January 1,

1943 and prior to the effective date of this act, any user of water from the stream system may petition the superior court of the county in which the stream system or some part thereof is situated to conduct a hearing as to the public interest and necessity for the proposed determination of the water rights.

SEC. 2. Section 2530 is added to said code, to read:

2530. The court shall thereupon set the matter for hearing and a copy of the petition and notice of date of hearing shall be served on the department at least 20 days before the date of hearing. The department shall notify all petitioners for the determination of the water rights.

SEC. 3. Section 2531 is added to said code, to read:

2531. The burden of proof shall be upon the department and petitioners for adjudication of the water rights to show the public interest and necessity for the adjudication.

SEC. 4. Section 2532 is added to said code, to read:

2532. If the court finds any one of the following to exist:

- (a) The public necessity will not be served by the adjudication;
- (b) Public interest will not be served by the adjudication;
- (c) The benefits to be derived by the adjudication do not warrant the expense, effort, and burden to the water users which will be involved;

the court shall order that the adjudication not proceed, and no new proceedings to adjudicate the stream system involved shall be commenced during the next succeeding 12 months.

SEC. 5. Section 26.1 is added to the Water Commission Act, to read:

Sec. 26.1. Within 30 days after the first publication of the notice, or within 30 days after this act goes into effect as to notices first published subsequent to January 1, 1943 and prior to the effective date of this act, any user of water from the stream system may petition the superior court of the county in which the stream system or some part thereof is situated to conduct a hearing as to the public interest and necessity for the proposed determination of the water rights.

The court shall set the matter for hearing and a copy of the petition and notice of date of hearing shall be served on the department at least 20 days before the date of hearing. The department shall notify all petitioners for the determination of the water rights.

At the hearing the burden of proof shall be upon the department and petitioners for adjudication of the water rights to show the public interest and necessity for the adjudication.

If the court finds any one of the following to exist:

- (a) The public necessity will not be served by the adjudication;
- (b) Public interest will not be served by the adjudication;
- (c) The benefits to be derived by the adjudication do not warrant the expense, effort, and burden to the water users which will be involved;

the court shall order that the adjudication not proceed, and no new proceedings to adjudicate the stream system involved shall be commenced during the next succeeding 12 months.

SEC. 6. Sections 1, 2, 3, and 4 of this act become operative only if the Water Code is enacted by the Legislature at its Fifty-fifth Session, and, in such case, at the same time said code takes effect, at which time Section 26.1 of the Water Commission Act added by this act is hereby repealed."

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
STATE BUILDING, SAN FRANCISCO, March 30, 1943

To the Legislature of the State of California

Pursuant to the authority contained in Sections 961 of the Code of Civil Procedure and 1247k of the Penal Code, as amended by Chapter 4, Statutes of 1943, and in Section 1a of Article VI of the Constitution, I have the honor to report and present herewith on behalf of the Judicial Council, Rules for the Practice and Procedure on Appeals, and for the time and manner in which the records on such appeals shall be made up and filed, in civil and criminal actions and proceedings, adopted by the Judicial Council and attested by its secretary on March 30, 1943.

Yours truly,

PHIL S. GIBSON

Chairman of the Judicial Council of the State of California

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Slater:

Senate Resolution No. 89

Relative to the commemoration of 40 years in public service of Richard E. Collins.

The Senate of the State of California wishes to join in the felicitations now being extended Richard E. Collins, the Chairman of the State Board of Equalization, on his completion of 40 years in public service in California, 36 years of which have been as a member and for many years the head of the State Board of Equalization and who was for four years prior thereto the county assessor of Shasta County.

Forty years of public service is a long and notable record seldom attained by public officials. Last November Mr. Collins was reelected without opposition to serve another four-year term on the State Board of Equalization and at the commencement of this year was reelected as its chairman.

In harmony with the general approval earned by Mr. Collins as a public servant, recognizing his loyalty and integrity, his desire to do the right thing in his administration of his public duties and in wishing him more years of a life dedicated to public service, the Senate by this tribute signalizes its appreciation of him and his accomplishments. Therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate, That an engrossed copy of this resolution be forwarded in the name of the Senate to Mr. Collins through the Secretary.

Resolution read and unanimously adopted.

PRINTER'S NOTE -There being no 7 point strikeout type available, the material which should appear in strikeout type in the following amendment is indicated by being enclosed within brackets.

Amendment No. 5

On page 2 of said bill, after line 37, insert

"SEC. 6. Section 1300 of the Government Code is amended to read:

1300. Except as otherwise provided, every officer, the mode of whose appointment is not prescribed by law, shall be appointed by the Governor.

SEC. 7. Section 1300.5 is added to the Government Code, to read:

1300.5. Notwithstanding any statute provision to the contrary, every appointment for a specific term made by the Governor shall be subject to confirmation by the Senate.

SEC. 8. Section 1774 of the Government Code is amended to read:

1774. When an office, the appointment to which is vested in the Governor and Senate, or in the Legislature, either becomes vacant or the term of the incumbent of which expires during the recess of the Legislature, the Governor may appoint a person to the office. The appointee can only hold the office until [the adjournment of the next session of the Legislature.] confirmation or rejection by the Senate or appointment by the Legislature, as the case may be, at the session of the Legislature first occurring thereafter, whether regular or extraordinary.

Within 10 days after the meeting of the Legislature, the Governor shall transmit to it a list of all such appointments.

SEC. 9. Section 1322 is added to the Government Code, to read:

1322. Notwithstanding any statute provision to the contrary, whenever any vacancy occurs in any specific term position filled by appointment by the Governor subject to confirmation by the Senate, the Governor shall submit an appointment for the term or the completion thereof, as the case may be, to the Senate for confirmation, if the Senate is in session.

If the appointment is made while the Senate is not in session, the person appointed shall immediately undertake the performance of his duties and his name shall be submitted to the Senate for confirmation at the session of the Legislature first occurring thereafter, whether regular or extraordinary. As used in this section, the Senate is in session when it has convened, has not adjourned sine die, and has not recessed for more than three days. Failure of the Senate to confirm or reject any appointment, unless it adopts the resolution provided for in Section 1323, is equivalent to confirmation.

SEC. 10. Section 1323 is added to the Government Code, to read:

1323. If the Senate, in lieu of failing to confirm, finds that it can not consider all or any of the appointments made by the Governor adequately because the amount of legislative business and the practical necessity of the matter, in the event, it may adopt a single house resolution by a two-thirds vote of all members elected to the Senate to that effect, and requesting the presiding officer of the Senate, whether regular or extraordinary, consisting of an officer elected by the Legislature. This resolution shall be filed immediately after its adoption in the office of the Secretary of State and the appointee or appointees selected shall serve until next to later confirmation or rejection by the Senate.

SEC. 11. Section 1324 is added to the Government Code, to read: 1324. If any vacancy exists or occurs while the Senate is in session, the appointment shall be made and submitted to the Senate for confirmation before adjournment sine die. If the appointment is not made and submitted by the Senate for confirmation before adjournment, the Governor, upon the next day after the adjournment and until the appointment is confirmed by the Senate at a subsequent session of the Legislature, whether regular or extraordinary.

SEC. 12. Section 1775 of the Government Code is amended to read: 1775. A vacancy in the office of either the Secretary of State, Controller, Treasurer, or Attorney General shall be filled by a person appointed by the Governor subject to confirmation by the Senate, who shall hold his office for the balance of the unexpired term.

SEC. 13. Sections 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12 of this act shall take effect only if the Government Code is enacted by the Legislature at its Fifty-fifth Session, and in such case, at the same time as the Government Code takes effect; at which time Sections 3802, 10001, 10002, and 10003 are added by, and Section 10001 as amended by, this act are hereby repealed."

PRINTER'S NOTE. There being no 7-point strikeout type available, the material which should appear in strikeout type in the following amendment is indicated by being enclosed within brackets.

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of said measure, strike out line 28, and insert "Second, That Section 4a of Article VI be amended to read:

Sec. 4a. The State is hereby divided into [three] four appellate districts, in each of which there shall be a district court of appeal, consisting of such number of divisions having three justices each as the Legislature shall determine; and until so determined otherwise [, the courts of appeal for the first and second appellate districts shall each consist of two divisions, and the court of the third appellate district shall consist of one division.) such district courts of appeal shall continue as now constituted, and each district shall embrace the counties now embraced in such districts respectively.

The Legislature may from time to time create and establish additional district courts of appeal and divisions thereof and fix the places at which the regular sessions thereof shall be held and may provide for the maintenance and operation thereof. For that purpose the Legislature may redivide the State into appellate districts, subject to the power of the Supreme Court to remove one or more counties from one appellate district to another as in this section provided.

Each of such divisions shall have and exercise all of the powers of the district court of appeal.

The district court of appeal as existing immediately prior to the approval and ratification of this amendment by the people shall not be affected thereby as to the officers or terms of office of the justices thereof.

Upon the creation of any additional division of the district court of appeal the Governor shall appoint three persons to serve as justices thereof until the first day of January after the next general election. The justices of said division elected at such general election shall so classify themselves by lot that one of them shall go out of office at the end of four years, one of them at the end of eight years, and one of them at the end of 12 years; and entry of such classification shall be made in the minutes of said division, signed by the three justices thereof, and a duplicate thereof filed in the Office of the Secretary of State.

The justices of the district courts of appeal shall be elected by the qualified electors within their respective districts at the general State elections except as provided in Section 24 of Article II; and the term of office of said justices shall be 12 years from and after the first day of January next succeeding their election.

If any vacancy occur in the office of a justice of the district courts of appeal, the Governor shall appoint, with the advice and consent of the Senate, a person to hold office until the election and qualification of a justice to fill the vacancy. Such election shall take place at the next succeeding general State or primary election after the first day of April next succeeding the occurrence of such vacancy; the justice then elected shall hold office for the unexpired term; provided, that whenever the term of office of the justice whose place is filled by appointment is fixed by law to expire on the first day of January after the next or such succeeding general election, then the person so appointed to fill the vacancy shall hold office for the remainder of such unexpired term.

One of the justices of each of the district courts of appeal, and of each division of said courts, shall be the presiding justice thereof, and as such shall be appointed or elected, as the case may be.

In cases wherein the presiding justice is not acting, the other justices shall designate one of their number to perform the duties and exercise the powers of presiding justice.

The presence of two justices shall be necessary for the transaction of any business by such court except such as may be done at chambers, and the concurrence of two justices shall be necessary to pronounce a judgment.

No appeal taken to the Supreme Court or to a district court of appeal shall be dismissed for the reason only that the same was not taken to the proper court, but the cause shall be transferred to the proper court upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as may be just, and shall be proceeded with therein as if regularly appealed thereto.

All statutes now in force allowing, providing for or regulating appeals to the Supreme Court shall apply to appeals to the district courts of appeal so far as such statutes are not inconsistent with this article and until the Legislature shall otherwise provide.

(The first district shall embrace the following counties: San Francisco, Marin, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Fresno, Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Benito.

The second district shall embrace the following counties: Tulare, Kings, San Luis Obispo, Kern, Inyo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange, Riverside, San Diego and Imperial.

The third district shall embrace the following counties: Del Norte, Siskiyou, Modoc, Humboldt, Trinity, Shasta, Lassen, Tehama, Plumas, Mendocino, Lake, Colusa, Glenn, Butte, Sierra, Sutter, Yuba, Nevada, Sonoma, Napa, Yolo, Placer, Solano, Sacramento, El Dorado, San Joaquin, Amador, Calaveras, Stanislaus, Mariposa, Madera, Merced, Tuolumne, Alpine and Mono.)

The Supreme Court, by orders entered in its minutes, may from time to time remove one or more counties from one appellate district to another, but no county not contiguous to another county of a district shall be added to such district.

Said district courts of appeal shall hold their regular sessions respectively at [San Francisco, Los Angeles and Sacramento] such places as are now, or hereafter may by law be established for holding such regular sessions, and they shall always be open for the transaction of business.

Third, That Section 26 of Article VI be amended to read:

Sec. 26. [Within thirty days before the sixteenth day of August next preceding the expiration of his term, any justice of the Supreme Court, justice of a District Court of Appeal, or judge of a superior court in any county the electors of which have adopted provisions of this section as applicable to the judge or judges of the superior court of such county in the manner hereinafter provided, may file with the officer charged with the duty of certifying nominations for publication in the official ballot a declaration of candidacy for election to succeed himself. If he does not file such declaration the Governor must nominate a suitable person for the office before the sixteenth day of September, by filing such nomination with the officer charged with said duty of certifying nominations.]

In either event, the name of such candidate shall be placed upon the ballot for the ensuing general election in November in substantially the following form:

For ----- (title of office)	Yes
Shall ----- (name) be elected to the office for the term expiring January -----? (year)	No

No name shall be placed upon the ballot as a candidate for any of said judicial offices except that of a person so declaring or so nominated. If a majority of the electors voting upon such candidacy vote "yes", such person shall be elected to said office. If a majority of those voting thereon vote "no", he shall not be elected, and may not thereafter be appointed to fill any vacancy in that court, but may be nominated and elected thereto as hereinabove provided.

Whenever a vacancy shall occur in any judicial office above named, by reason of the failure of a candidate to be elected or otherwise, the Governor shall appoint a suitable person to fill the vacancy. An incumbent of any such judicial office serving a term by appointment of the Governor shall hold office until the first Monday after the first day of January following the general election next after his appointment, or until the qualification of any nominee who may have been elected to said office prior to that time.

No such nomination or appointment by the Governor shall be effective unless there be filed with the Secretary of State a written confirmation of such nomination or appointment signed by a majority of the three officials herein designated as the Commission on Qualifications. The Commission on Qualifications shall consist of (1) the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, or, if such office be vacant, the acting Chief Justice; (2) the presiding justice of the District Court of Appeal of the district in which a justice of a District Court of Appeal or a judge of a superior court is to serve, or, if there be two such presiding justices, the one who has served the longer as such; or, in the case of the nomination or appointment of a justice of the Supreme Court, the presiding justice who has served longest as such upon any of the District Courts of Appeal; and (3) the Attorney General. If two or more presiding justices above designated shall have served terms of equal length, they shall choose the one who is to be a member of the commission on qualifications by lot, whenever occasion for action arises. The Legislature shall provide by general law for the retirement, with reasonable retirement allowance, of such justices and judges for age or disability.

In addition to the methods of removal by the Legislature provided by Sections 17 and 18 of Article IV and by Section 10 of this article, the provisions of Article XXIII relative to the recall of elective public officers shall be applicable to justices and judges elected and appointed pursuant to the provisions of this section so far as the same relate to removal from office.

[The provisions of this section shall not apply to the judge or judges of the superior court of any county until a majority of the electors of such county voting on the question of the adoption of such provisions, in a manner to be provided for by the Legislature, shall vote in favor thereof.]

If the Legislature diminishes the number of judges of the superior court in any county or city and county, the offices which first become vacant, to the number of judges diminished, shall be deemed to be abolished."

Amendments read and adopted.

Resolution ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

REQUEST FOR UNANIMOUS CONSENT

Senator Hatfield asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to take up Senate Bill No. 427, at this time, for passage.

THIRD READING OF SENATE BILLS (OUT OF ORDER)

Senate Bill No. 427—An act to provide for the relief of the farm labor shortage, relating to the powers and duties of the Director of Agriculture and other public officers in respect thereto and adding Sections 35, 36, 37, 38 and 38.5 to the Agricultural Code for that purpose.

Bill read third time.

Recommendation of the Governor

In accordance with Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Senate Bill No. 427:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA

GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, SACRAMENTO, MARCH 30, 1943

To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS:

SENATE BILL NO. 427

"An act relating to the production and availability of food and fiber, the use and augmentation of labor and facilities, and cooperation by officers and agencies of State and local governments in connection therewith, making an appropriation; and declaring the urgency hereof, to take effect immediately".

in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

I, therefore, recommend consideration of Senate Bill No. 427 as an emergency measure.

Respectfully submitted

EARL WARREN, Governor

Request for Unanimous Consent

Senator Hatfield asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent to have the following letter from the Legislative Counsel printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

220 STATE CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 31, 1943

Honorable George J. Hatfield

Senate Chamber, State Capitol, Sacramento, California

EMERGENCY FARM PRODUCTION ACT

SENATE BILL NO. 427, AS AMENDED

March 29, 1943 — No. 8615

DEAR SENATOR HATFIELD: This bill was prepared in response to a request for a measure that would serve (so far as possible under the Constitution) the purposes of the California Food and Fiber Production Act until the latter goes into operation.

We think this bill does that.

The problem is that of putting the responsibility upon an existing State agency, one that already has duties which are of such a nature that the conference of this function would not be deemed a substantial change, would not amount to the imposition of "undue, material and substantial additions" to its existing duties. (Davis vs. County of Los Angeles (1938), 12 Cal. (2d) 412, 424.) If this principle is not observed, the bill becomes a nonurgency 90-day bill and can not serve its purpose.

In preparing this measure we selected the Office of Director of Agriculture as the existing State agency that best meets this test. Very little by way of "addition" seems needed, other than by statute to instruct the director to perform this specific task, and to provide the necessary funds. This the bill does in Sections 4 and 7. Thus automatically are invoked the already established methods and procedures for organization of the work, selection of agents, representatives and employees, and allocation and auditing of funds.

Additionally we have included (in Section 6) a direction to all other public officers and agencies to assist the Director of Agriculture in every way possible. The thought here is that of making possible the utilization of the services of other State officers whose existing functions may fill in wherever those of agriculture may prove not completely adequate to the situation, thus making full use of existing agencies without substantial change of duties.

As to the "transfer" of properties, books, records, documents, and contracts from the Director of Agriculture to the State Farm Production Director when the California Food and Fiber Production Act takes effect, we have set up an administrative procedure in Section 5 of the bill. This seems safer from a legal standpoint than to have the bill declare an outright transfer on that date. To do the latter would incur the risk of stripping the Department of Agriculture of some of its regular functions and facilities, a result certainly not intended.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

Senate Bill No. 864—An act to amend Section 797 of the Fish and Game Code, relating to abalones.

Bill read second time.

Consideration of Committee Amendments

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Fish and Game:

Amendment No. 1

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 4, 5, and 6, and insert "Abalone meat, other than that of the green abalone (Haliotis fulgens), may not be transported out of the State. Green abalone (Haliotis fulgens) may be taken out of the State, whether canned or fresh. Abalone trimmings may be transported out of the State if made into a meal by a reduction process or canned as chowder.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature, or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect, it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this section; but such provisions are not repealed by this section, and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted."

Amendment read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, engrossed, and to third reading.

Senate Bill No. 370—An act to amend the Building and Loan Association Act by adding thereto a new section to be numbered Sec. 13.13a, relating to the duties of the Building and Loan Commissioner while in possession of the property, business and assets of a building and loan association, and to accounts, registers of investors, inspection of records and annual reports.

Bill read second time, ordered engrossed, and to third reading.

Senate Bill No. 570—An act to amend Sections 10490, 10800, 10971, and 10972 of the Insurance Code, relating to insurance.

PRINTER'S NOTE.—There being no 7 point strikeout type available, the material which should appear in strikeout type in the following amendment is indicated by being enclosed within brackets.

Amendment No. 3

On page 1 of said bill, between lines 2 and 3, insert

"10203. Life insurance conforming to all the following conditions is another form of group life insurance:

(a) Written under a policy [C]covering, when issued, not less than 50 members of any of the following:

(1) Any labor union.

(2) The National Guard.

(3) Any association of governmental or public employees.

(4) Any credit union organized and operating under the Federal Credit Union Act of 1934 or Chapter 36 of the California Statutes of 1927 as amended.

(b) Written under a policy issued to such union, credit union or association.

(c) The premium on the policy to be paid by the union, credit union, or association or by the union or association and the members thereof jointly or by the insured members alone.

(d) Insuring only members of such union who are actively engaged in the same occupation or members of such credit union or association.

(e) Insuring for amounts of insurance based upon some plan which will preclude individual selection.

(f) Insuring for the benefit of persons other than the union, credit union or association or its officials.

(g) Written under a policy [I] insuring, when issued, not less than 75 per cent of all members eligible for insurance under the policy, or 75 per cent of such members of any class thereof reasonably determined by conditions pertaining to such insurance; or of any established unit thereof not formed for the purpose of procuring insurance; provided, that if a group policy is intended to insure several such classes or units it may be issued as respects any such class or unit at which 75 per cent are covered and extended to other such units or classes as 75 per cent thereof express the desire to be covered. In such case, when members apply and pay for additional amounts of insurance, a smaller percentage of members may be insured for such additional amounts of insurance. If any member fails to become insured under an existing policy when he becomes eligible and later wishes to become insured thereunder, the insurer may require satisfactory evidence of insurability before insurance is granted on such member.

SEC. 2. Section 10203.6 is added to said code, to read:

10203.6. Life insurance conforming to all the following conditions is another form of group life insurance:

(a) Written under a policy issued to a credit union organized and operating under the Federal Credit Union Act of 1934 or Chapter 36 of the California Statutes of 1927 as amended.

(b) Covering the lives of every eligible member of a group of persons who are or become borrowers from one credit union under an agreement to repay the sum borrowed.

(c) The group numbers not less than 50 borrowers yearly.

(d) The amount insured on any one borrower does not exceed the balance of the indebtedness to the credit union and does not exceed three thousand dollars on any one life.

(e) The repayment of the loan is to be made under the agreement of loan in installments over a period not exceeding 10 years.

(f) The policy is issued upon the application of and made payable to the credit union, as beneficiary, and the premiums are paid by the credit union, the borrower, or jointly by the credit union and the borrower.

A policy of insurance conforming to the provisions of this section is not subject to the provisions of Section 10209 or 10213.

SEC. 3. Section 10204 of the Insurance Code is amended to read:

10204. For the purpose of this chapter, the term "employer" includes the association or union designated by Section 10203, and the institution, vendor, credit union, or creditor designated by Sections 10203.5 and 10203.6, and the term "employee" includes the members of such union, credit union or association and the debtors of or purchasers from such institution, credit union, vendor or creditor.

SEC. 4. Section 10209 of the Insurance Code is amended to read:

10209. Except as provided by Sections 10203.5 and 10203.6, the policy shall contain a provision that the insurer will issue to the employer for delivery to the insured employee an individual certificate setting forth:

(a) A statement as to the insurance protection to which the employee is entitled and to whom payable.

(b) A provision that if the employment terminates for any reason whatsoever and the employee applies to the insurer within 31 days after such termination, paying the premium applicable to the class of risk to which he belongs and to the form and amount of the policy at his then attained age, he is entitled, without producing evidence of insurability, to the issue by the insurer of an individual life policy in any one of the forms, other than term insurance, customarily issued by the insurer.

(c) A statement that such policy in lieu of group insurance will be in an amount equal to the amount of his protection under such group insurance at the time of such termination.

SEC. 5. Section 10213 of the Insurance Code is amended to read:

10213. Except as provided by Section s 10203.5 and 10203.6, a policy of group life insurance or the proceeds thereof paid to the insured employee or the beneficiary thereunder, shall not be liable, either before or after payment, to be applied by any legal or equitable process to pay any liability of any person having a right under the policy. The proceeds thereof, when not made payable to a named beneficiary, shall not constitute a part of the estate of the employee for the payment of his debts."

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 3 to 28, inclusive; and strike out all of page 2 of said bill.

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Financial Institutions.

Senate Bill No. 415—An act to amend the Building and Loan Association Act, by adding thereto a new section to be numbered 13.11a, relating to building and loan associations, the Building and Loan Commissioner, plans for the rehabilitation, readjustment, reorganization or liquidation of such an association or of all or of any part of the business, properties and assets of such association or the readjustment, modification or reorganization of the rights or interests of any or all investors and creditors of such association; providing for the kinds of securities issuable in connection therewith and exempting such securities from the necessity of a permit under the Corporate Securities Act; authorizing executors, administrators, guardians, receivers, trustees, insurance companies and cemetery associations to dissent from a plan as defined in said Section 13.11a, and to exchange shares, stock, investment certificates or other rights or claims for securities issued pursuant to such plan and to continue to hold as a legal investment any securities or properties so received.

SEC. 6. Section 3709.5 of said code is amended to read:

3709.5. At the time the county clerk prepares sample ballots for each political party at the presidential primary, he shall also prepare a list of candidates for delegate for each political party. The list shall be printed upon a sheet of paper separate from the sample ballot. The names of the candidates for delegates of any political party shall be arranged upon the list of candidates for delegates of that party in parallel columns under their preference for President or Vice President, summary statement of principles. The order of groups on the list shall be the same as the order in which the names of the persons they prefer or the principles they espouse appear upon the ballot. Each column shall be headed in heavy face, 12-point, gothic type as follows: either "The following delegates are pledged to _____" (The blank being filled in with the name of that candidate for presidential nominee for whom the members of the group have expressed a preference) or "The following delegates espouse _____" (The blank being filled in with the summary statement of principles.) The names of the candidates for delegates shall be printed in 8-point, roman capital type.

One copy of the list of candidates for delegate of the party to which the voter belongs shall be mailed to each voter entitled to vote at the presidential primary at the same time and together with the sample ballot. Copies of the list of candidates for delegate of each party shall also be submitted by the county clerk to the chairman of the county committee of that party, and the county clerk shall post a copy of each list in a conspicuous place in his office.

SEC. 7. Section 3871 of said code is amended to read:

3871. The names of the candidates for delegate of any political party shall not appear upon the ballot. In lieu thereof the names of the persons preferred for President by each group of candidates and the summary statement of principles espoused shall be arranged upon the ballot of the party in parallel columns. The [person preferred by that] group of candidates which first files its nomination paper with the Secretary of State shall be entitled to the first or left hand column, [the person preferred by] the group which next files its nomination paper shall be entitled to the second column, and similarly for all [other persons preferred by] other groups.

SEC. 8. Section 3873 of said code is amended to read:

3873. In the center of each column so headed and not less than one inch or more than two inches below the line separating the heading from the rest of the column, there shall be a voting square one-half of an inch square. Immediately under the square there shall be printed across the width of the column in heavy face, 12-point, gothic type, these one of the following instructions: "A cross (+) stamped in this square shall be counted as a vote for all candidates preferring _____" (The blank being filled in with the name of the candidate for presidential nominee heading the column) or "A cross (+) stamped in this square shall be counted as a vote for all candidates espousing _____" (The blank being filled in with the summary statement of principles.)

SEC. 9. Section 3878 of said code is amended to read:

3878. At the top of the ballot shall be printed "Official Presidential Primary Election Ballot," and the instructions to voters shall be as follows: "To vote for the group of candidates preferring a person whose name appears on the ballot, stamp a cross (+) in the square in the column headed by the name of the person preferred. To vote for the group of candidates espousing principles, stamp a cross (+) in the square in the column headed by the summary statement of principles."

SEC. 10. Section 3880 of said code is amended to read:

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Collier:

Senate Resolution No. 90

WHEREAS, The efficient functioning of the State Printer, the Legislative Bill Room and the Supervisor of Documents are of vital importance not only to the Legislature and the several officers and departments of the State but to the people of the State as well; and

WHEREAS, It is essential to the welfare of the State that the highly important responsibilities with which such agencies of the State are charged be performed as economically as possible, and that the State Printer, the Legislative Bill Room and the Supervisor of Documents function smoothly without duplication of effort and in perfect cooperation; and

WHEREAS, It is the desire of the Senate that inquiry be made into the relationships between the operations of the State Printer, the Legislative Bill Room and the Supervisor of Documents with a view to ascertaining what steps should be taken to improve the existing service; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That there is hereby created a committee to be known as "The Senate Fact Finding Committee on the Printing and Distribution of Legislative and Other State Documents," to consist of three Members of the Senate appointed by the Rules Committee, which committee is hereby authorized and directed to gather, assemble, study, and analyze all facts relating to the operations of the State Printer, the Legislative Bill Room, and the Supervisor of Documents, and the administration of the responsibilities imposed by law or resolution upon them, the efficiency with which their operations are performed, the necessity and reasonableness of the cost of the various services rendered, and the possibilities of improvements therein, with a view to reporting such facts to the Senate and formulating and recommending the enactment of any needed legislation relating thereto; and to that end the committee shall have (i) all the powers conferred upon Legislative Committees by Article 8, Chapter 2, Title 1, Part 3 of the Political Code; (ii) except when inconsistent with this resolution, all the powers conferred upon committees by the Rules of the Senate, and the Joint Rules of the Senate and Assembly as they are enacted and amended from time to time and such Rules are hereby incorporated herein and made a part hereof the same as if they were set forth in this resolution in full, which powers specified in such rules may be exercised by the committee after the final adjournment of this session; and (iii) all powers necessary or convenient to accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution, including but not limited to the following duties and powers:

(1) To select a chairman from its membership and to employ and fix the compensation of a secretary and such legal, clerical, expert, and technical assistants as it may deem necessary;

(2) To create subcommittees from its membership, assigning to the subcommittee any study, inquiry, investigation, or hearing which the committee itself has authority to undertake or hold, and the subcommittee for the purpose of this assignment, shall have and exercise all of the powers conferred upon the committee limited by the express terms of the resolution or resolutions of the latter defining the powers and duties of the subcommittee, which powers may be withdrawn or terminated at any time by the committee;

(3) To adopt and from time to time amend such rules governing its procedure (including the fixing of its own quorum and the number of votes necessary to take action on any matter) as may to it appear appropriate;

(4) To audit all books, memorandums, or documents showing the receipts and disbursements of any agency of Government and to contract with private firms of auditors for that purpose;

(5) To contract with such other agencies, public or private, as it deems necessary for the rendition and affording of such services, facilities, studies, and reports to the committee as will best assist it to carry out the purposes for which it is created;

(6) To hold public hearings at any place in California at which hearings the people are to have an opportunity to present their views to the committee;

(7) To make a complete study, survey, and investigation of every phase of the subjects of this resolution, including but not limited to the operation, effect, administration, enforcement, and needed revision of any and all laws in anywise bearing upon or relating to the subjects of this resolution.

(8) To meet at any and all places in this State, in public or executive session;

(9) To act after final adjournment of this session of the Legislature;

(10) To file a report with the Senate during the Regular Session of the Fifty-fifth Legislature or during any special session thereof or during the Regular Session of the Fifty-sixth Legislature;

(11) To summon and subpoena witnesses, require the production of papers, books, accounts, reports, documents, and records of every kind and description, to issue subpoenas, and to take all necessary means to compel the attendance of witnesses and procure testimony; and

(12) To do any and all other things necessary or convenient to enable it fully and adequately to exercise its powers, perform its duties and accomplish the objects and purposes of this resolution; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee, each of its members, and any representative of the committee thereunto authorized by the committee or by its chairman, is authorized and empowered to administer oaths; and be it further

Resolved, That the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate or other officer designated by him is hereby directed to serve any and all subpoenas, orders, and other process issued by the committee, when directed so to do by the chairman or by a majority of the membership of the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That every department, commission, board, agency, officer, and employee of the State Government and of any political subdivision, county, city, or public district of or in this State shall furnish the committee and any subcommittee, upon request, any and all such assistance, and information, records and documents as the committee or subcommittee deems proper for the accomplishment of the purposes for which the committee is created; and be it further

Resolved, That the sum of one hundred dollars ($100) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby made available from the Contingent Fund of the Senate for the expenses or claims it may incur under this resolution, to be paid from the Contingent Fund of the Senate and disbursed, after certification by the chairman of the committee, upon warrants drawn by the State Controller upon the State Treasurer

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

26588, 26600, 26617, 26621, and 26622 of, to add Section 26463 to, and to delete Section 5 from an act entitled "An act adding Division 21, comprising Chapter 3 and Sections 26450 to 26624, inclusive, to the Health and Safety Code, relating to adulterating, mislabeling, misbranding, false advertising, and sale of foods and the powers of the State Department of Public Health in relation thereto," approved July 13, 1939.

Withdrawal of Motion to Reconsider

Senator Hatfield moved to withdraw his motion to reconsider the vote whereby Senate Bill No. 423 was passed.

Senate Bill No. 423 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

SECOND READING OF SENATE BILLS

Senate Bill No. 1068—An act to amend Section 841 and repeal Section 841a of the Military and Veterans Code, relating to veterans' farm and home purchase funds.

Bill read second time, ordered engrossed, and to third reading.

Senate Bill No. 273—An act relating to the publication and disposal of newspapers printed in foreign languages.

Bill read second time.

Consideration of Committee Amendments

The following amendments were proposed by the Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs:

Amendment No. 1

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, strike out "foreign languages", and insert "the foreign language of any enemy nation".

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of said bill, between lines 6 and 7, insert

"Sec. 2. The publisher of any newspaper printed in a foreign language shall furnish upon request to the Attorney General of the State or to the district attorney of the county where the newspaper is published, a translation of any article, statement or word published in the newspaper. The translation submitted shall be certified to be correct by one competent to make such a translation."

Amendment No. 3

On page 1, line 7, of said bill, strike out "2", and insert "3".

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, engrossed, and to third reading.

Senate Bill No. 469—An act to add Section 395.8 to the Military and Veterans Code, relating to the reemployment of elected officers of any city, who shall serve in the armed forces of the United States, upon the completion of their period of training and service; to provide for acting officers to serve during such absence of elected officers; and relating to procedure to be followed to secure such reemployment, declaring the urgency hereof, to take effect immediately.

Bill read second time.

Consideration of Committee Amendments

The following amendments were proposed by the Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs:

Amendment No. 1

Strike out lines 2 to 7, inclusive, in the title of the printed bill, and insert "Code, relating to the reinstatement of officers of any city, who shall have left the services

In line 2 of the title of said bill, strike out "civilian defense", and insert "and providing for State and local participation in civilian defense and the war effort and for the administration of the California War Powers Act, declaring the urgency hereof, to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2

On page 1, line 1, of said bill, strike out "1571", and insert "1509.4".

PRINTER'S NOTE:—There being no 7-point strikeout type available, the material which should appear in strikeout type in the following amendment is indicated by being enclosed within brackets.

Amendment No. 3

On page 1 of said bill, between lines 2 and 3, insert:

"1509.4. No salary provided by this chapter shall exceed the sum of seven thousand five hundred dollars ($7,500) per annum. Any State civil service employee who may be appointed by the Governor to any position under this chapter has the right, upon termination of such appointment, to be reinstated to [his] the civil service position vacated by him upon his acceptance of such appointment hereunder, and during the period of his appointment hereunder shall as to vacation, sick leave, continuity of service and seniority have and enjoy the same rights and privileges as he would if he were holding a position in the State civil service. [upon termination of such appointment]

SEC. 2. Section 1509.6 is added to said code, to read:

1509.6. In carrying out the provisions of this chapter, the Governor may:

(a) Procure and maintain offices in such parts of the State as may be necessary or convenient;

(b) Acquire property, real or personal, or interests therein;

(c) Cooperate and contract with public and private agencies for the performance of such acts, the rendition of such services and the affording of such facilities as may be necessary and proper;

(d) Do such other acts and things as may be necessary and incidental to the exercise of powers and the discharge of duties conferred or imposed by the provisions of this chapter.

SEC. 3. Section 1509.7 is added to said code, to read:

1509.7. Each department, division, bureau, board, commission, and officer of this State and of each agency, political subdivision, or local governmental unit of the State shall render all possible assistance to the Governor in carrying out the provisions of this act.

SEC. 4. Section 1509.8 is added to said code, to read:

1509.8. Except as in this chapter otherwise provided the War Council succeeds to and is vested with all the duties, powers, purposes, responsibilities and jurisdiction of the State Council of Defense; and except as in this chapter otherwise provided whenever by the provisions of any statute or law now in force or that may hereafter be enacted a duty or jurisdiction is imposed or authority conferred upon the State Council of Defense such duty, jurisdiction and authority are hereby imposed upon and transferred to the War Council and the appropriate officers thereof with the same force and effect as though the title of the War Council had been specifically set forth and named therein in lieu of the State Council of Defense.

The War Council and the appropriate officers thereof shall be in possession and control of all records, books, papers, offices, equipment, supplies, moneys, funds, appropriations, land and other property, real or personal, now or hereafter in the custody or under the control of the State Council of Defense or held for the benefit or use of the State Council of Defense.

SEC. 5. Section 1509.9 is added to said code, to read:

1509.9. The Governor and the War Council are empowered to expend the moneys in any appropriation or in any special fund in the State treasury now remaining or made available by law for expenditure by the California State Council of Defense or for the use, support or maintenance of the California State Council of Defense.

SEC. 6. Section 1571 of said code is amended to read:".

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of said bill, after line 9, insert

"SEC. 7. The provisions of Sections 1 to 6, inclusive, of this act shall become and be operative and applicable on and after the day when the California War Powers Act takes effect.

SEC. 8. This act is an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

The California War Powers Act will soon take effect. The amendments and additions which are hereby made thereto are urgently necessary to assure immediate and completely effective State, local and regional participation in civilian defense and the war effort."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Military and Veterans Affairs.

SEC. 3. Section 11270 of the Insurance Code is amended to read:

11270. This chapter shall not affect workmen's compensation insurance, nor shall it apply (a) to a blanket policy issued to a volunteer fire company providing benefits to members only in event of accident incurred while performing duties incident to such membership [nor] (b) to a blanket policy issued to a college, school, or other institution of learning or to the head or principal thereof agreeing to indemnify for loss of tuition by reason of disability of students enrolled therein, nor (c) to a blanket policy issued to a school district or to the governing board of any school district providing benefits to pupils or persons responsible for their support for hospital, medical and surgical expenses resulting from accident to such pupils while they are in or on buildings or premises at the school or district during the time such pupils are required to be therein or thereon by reason of their attendance upon a college or a regular day school or any regular day school at a school district or while being transported to and from school or other place of instruction. No pupil shall be compelled to accept such service without the consent of his parent or guardian. Such policies, however, shall not be issued until approved as to substance and form by the commissioner. The commissioner may after notice and hearing promulgate general rules as to provisions reasonably required in such blanket policies.

Sec. 4. Section 11512 of the Insurance Code is amended to read:

11512. No hospital service contract shall be entered into between a corporation proposing to furnish or provide any one or more of the services authorized under this chapter and a subscriber:

(a) Unless the entire consideration therefore is expressed in the contract:

(b) Unless the times at which the benefits or services to the subscriber take effect and terminate are stated in a portion of the contract above the evidence of its execution;

(c) If the contract purports to entitle more than one person to benefits or services [; except that a husband and wife and their child or children may secure the benefits under one contract if the contracts is issued and marked as a family contract] except family hospital service contracts issued under Section 11512.1, group hospital service contracts issued under Section 11512.2 and blanket contracts issued under Section 11512.4.

(d) Unless every printed portion and any indorsement or attached papers is plainly printed in type of which the face is not smaller than 10 points:

(e) Except for group hospital service contracts and blanket contracts issued under Section 11512.2, [U]nless the exceptions of the contract are printed with greater prominence than the benefits to which they apply:

(f) Except for group hospital service contracts and blanket contracts issued under Section 11512.2, [U] unless, if any portion of such contract purports, by reason of the circumstances under which an illness, injury or disablement is incurred to reduce any service to less than that provided for the same illness, injury or disablement incurred under ordinary circumstances, such portion is printed in bold face type and with greater prominence than any other text of the contract;

(g) If the contract contains any provisions purporting to make any portion of the charter, constitution or by-laws of such nonprofit corporation a part of the contract unless such portion is set forth in full in the contract;

(h) Unless such contract for hospital service contains in black-face type not less than 10-point the following provisions:

"Nothing in this contract contained shall in any way or manner restrict or interfere with the right of [the subscriber] any individual entitled to hospital service and care hereunder to select the contracting hospital or to make a free choice of his attending physician, who shall be the holder of a valid and unrevoked physician and surgeon's certificate and who is a member of, or acceptable to, the attending staff and board of directors of the hospital in which said hospital services are to be provided and rendered."

Sec. 5. Section 11512.4 is added to the Insurance Code, to read:

11512.4. Blanket hospital service contracts may be issued to a college or school or to the head or principal thereof or to the governing board of any school district providing for services to pupils of such schools when such services are required as the result of accident to such pupils while they are required to be in or on buildings or other premises of the school or district during the time they are required to be therein or thereon by reason of their attendance upon a college or regular day school or any regular day school of a school district or while being transported to and from school or other place of instruction. No pupil shall be compelled to accept such service without the consent of his parent or guardian."

Consideration of Committee Amendments

The following amendments were proposed by the Committee on Education:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "9, comprising Sections 3,676-1 to 3,676-9"; strike out line 2; and in line 3, strike out "School", and insert "8, comprising Sections 9501 to 9527, inclusive, to Chapter 8 of Division 4 of the Education".

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 1 to 25, inclusive; and on page 2, strike out lines 1 to 24, inclusive, and insert:

"SECTION 1. Article 8, comprising Sections 9501 to 9527, inclusive, is added to Chapter 8 of Division 4 of the Education Code, to read:

Article 8. County Twenty-Four Hour Vocational Schools

9501. The purpose of this article is to authorize the counties of the State to establish 24 hour vocational schools for underprivileged children, abandoned minors and children who by reason of improper home surroundings, improper companions, or subversive habits may become delinquent, to give to them elementary and high school education, vocational, homemaking, mental, moral, physical and any other training in order to rehabilitate as well as to educate them, to provide for the attendance, maintenance, care, supervision, guidance and observation of those attending these schools, to provide any other training as will enable the children the more effectively to cultivate their talents. The children are to live at the school, receive board there, and be under 24-hour supervision.

9502. Any county with the approval of the State Board of Education may establish and maintain one or more vocational schools to be operated on a 24 hour basis, and to be known as 24-hour vocational schools. The school or schools shall be under the management and control of a board of trustees, to be known as the board of control, appointed by the board of supervisors of the county, one member to be appointed from each supervisorial district. The board of control shall act with all of the duties and powers of a governing board of a high school or elementary or unified school district, and shall act as the legally responsible authority for the vocational school.

9503. The board of control of each county vocational school shall appoint a board of admission to the school, consisting of one member of the State Department of Education, one child psychiatrist, the county superintendent of schools, the county probation officer, and the superintendent of the vocational school. At least one member of the board of admission shall be a woman. The board of admission shall investigate all children proposed for admission to the vocational school and shall make recommendations for admission thereto and dismissal therefrom.

9505. The board of admission, or some person or persons designated by it, shall investigate the case of any child whose name is submitted in writing by the principal or superintendent of any school district within the county, or by the probation officer or welfare department of the county, or by the parent or parents of any child residing within the county, when with the written submission of the name of the child there is also submitted in writing a statement or report alleging that one or more of the following conditions exist and that the child should be admitted to the school for the reason that he:

- (a) Presents a bad disciplinary problem.
- (b) Has been abandoned.
- (c) Is receiving insufficient or improper care from his parent or parents and is in danger of becoming a delinquent child.
- (d) Is an habitual truant.
- (e) Has already been adjudged a delinquent child.
- (f) Is in special need of vocational or work program.

9506. If, upon investigation, the board of admission finds that one or more of the allegations are true and that the child should be admitted to the school, it may make recommendation to the board of control for the admission or assignment of the child to the 24-hour vocational school.

9507. If the child has not become a ward of or subject to the jurisdiction of the juvenile court at the time the board of admission has completed its investigation and made its recommendation to the board of control, the parent or parents of the child shall be personally notified, if available for personal notification, of the recommendation to the board of control for the admission or assignment of the child to the 24-hour vocational school.

9508. If the parent or guardian of the child enters into a contract with the board of control for the support of the child during the period of the assignment of the child to the school, and consents to the assignment of the child to the school, the board of control may provide for the admission and assignment by private arrangement with the parent or guardian.

9509. The contract shall provide for the payment to the board of control of a sum sufficient to meet the average cost of maintaining a pupil within the school, including meals and a reasonable sum for lodging.

9510. If the parent or guardian refuses to consent to the assignment of the child to the vocational school, or refuses to enter into a contract with the board of control for the support of the child, the board of control shall immediately notify the probation officer of the county who shall cause a petition to be filed in the superior court of the county under the provisions of the juvenile court law, asking for an order of the court committing the child to the 24-hour school and fixing the amount the parent or guardian shall pay for the maintenance of the child therein until such time as the child is discharged therefrom.

9511. If the parent or guardian is unable to pay that amount the court may, on such finding, provide for the payment by the county of a sum sufficient to cover the costs of maintenance of the child during the period of his commitment to the school.

9512. The board of admission shall review the case of each child at least once every six (6) months and shall make such recommendations as the review indicates to the board of admission to be proper.

9513. Any parent or guardian, with whose consent the child was voluntarily placed in the vocational school without the necessity of court petition, may petition the board of admission at any time to have the child restored to the care, custody and control of the parent or guardian.

9514. If the decision of the board of admission is adverse to the petitioner, he may file a petition in the superior court of the county and have the matter determined by the judge thereof sitting in separate session in the exercise of his jurisdiction as judge of the juvenile court of the county.

9515. Upon recommendation of the superintendent of schools of the county, or upon recommendation of the superintendent of the vocational school, and with the approval of the board of admission, the child may be released from the vocational school and restored to the care, custody and control of the parent or guardian.

9516. If the child is a ward of the juvenile court, the release shall not be made without the approval of the juvenile court.

9517. Personnel of the 24-hour vocational school shall consist of the superintendent, and all teachers and other employees necessary, requisite or expedient for the successful and efficient operation of the school. In making appointments, the provisions of the code shall be followed.

9518. Teachers of the school shall be certificated and shall be subject to all rights, duties, and privileges of teachers pursuant to this code.

9519. The board of control, in the exercise of its discretion, may provide residence for any of the personnel of the school.

9520. The courses of study shall be vocational training, trade or homemaking instruction, regular elementary and high school courses of study, and moral and physical instruction. The course of study, methods and means of enforcement shall be approved by the county board of education.

9521. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall not apportion any State or Federal funds until the school receives the approval of State agencies charged with the inspection of child-caring institutions.

9522. The cost of establishing the school shall be provided by money appropriated therefor by the board of supervisors of the county, and by gifts and donations.

9523. The cost of operating the school shall be provided by:

(a) Payments made by the parent, or guardian, of the child admitted to the school, when able and contracting to pay therefor, or when so ordered by the juvenile court.

(b) Funds provided for public assistance to children receiving such aid.

(c) County general fund when the juvenile court so orders.

(d) Apportionment of funds by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, pursuant to Section 6955.

(e) Apportionment of elementary and high school funds by the county superintendent of schools, pursuant to Section 6956.

9525. Any pupil who absents himself from any 24-hour vocational school without permission therefor having been first obtained from the principal thereof is deemed an habitual truant within the meaning of Chapter 2 of Part 1 of Division 2 of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

9526. Any person who contributes to the absence of any pupil from the school without permission first having been obtained from the principal thereof, or advises, connives at, or aids or assists in that absence, or conceals any pupil after an absence, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

9527. This article shall be construed in conformity with the intent as well as the express provisions thereof. The governing board of any school district that is created pursuant to this article may exercise all the powers of governing boards of school districts of every type and class, and may do all lawful acts which it deems necessary to promote the prosperity of the school, or to promote the well-being and education of all minors entrusted to its charge.

SEC. 2. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of the act, and the application of each provision to other persons or circumstances, shall not be affected thereby."

Senate Bill No. 779—An act to add Chapter 4 of Part 2 of Division 1 of the School Code, to add Chapter 7 to Division 8 of the Education Code, and to add Section 1312 to the Labor Code, relating to employment of minor pupils.

Bill read second time.

Consideration of Committee Amendments

The following amendments were proposed by the Committee on Education:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "add Chapter 4 of Part 2 of Division 1 to the School", and strike out all of lines 2 to 4, both inclusive, and insert "increase production by providing for exemptions from various requirements, relating to employment and working conditions of minor employees essential to the war effort, declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 1 to 24, both inclusive, and strike out all of pages 2 and 3, and insert

"SECTION 1. This act shall be known as the Minors Emergency War Employment Act.

SEC. 2. The Legislature hereby declares that, in order to increase production and to win the wars in which the United States is engaged, certain restrictions on activities of minor employees should be temporarily revised, either wholly or partly, such revision of restrictions to be in effect only as provided in Section 10 hereof.

SEC. 3. The Governor may issue a war production permit permitting the employment of minor employees at or for such hours, and at such type of work, and under such conditions, as may be helpful in increasing production and furthering the war effort without unreasonably increasing the risk of impairing the health, education or safety of said minor employees, in view of the emergency. Such permit when issued shall remain in effect until revoked, modified or suspended under Section 6 hereof.

SEC. 4. The Governor may issue a permit authorizing the governing board of any school district to issue permits to work to minors who are subject to the provisions of Chapters 4 and 5 of Division 8 of the Education Code and, permits to employ to employers under such conditions as may be helpful in increasing production and furthering the war effort without unreasonably increasing the risk of impairing the health, education or safety of said minor employees, in view of the emergency. Such permit when issued shall remain in effect until revoked, modified or suspended under Section 6 hereof.

SEC. 5. An application for the issuance of a permit under Section 3 hereof shall be filed with the State Department of Industrial Relations. An application for the issuance of a permit under Section 4 hereof shall be filed with the State Department of Education. An application for a permit may be filed by a person, association or other private agency or by any public agency, but a permit granted hereunder on such application shall be given such scope as the Governor may determine. Such State department shall within 15 days after filing of the application with it, recommend the issuance or denial of such a permit. If it recommends the issuance of such a permit, it shall incorporate the terms and conditions upon which it is recommended that the permit be issued. After receipt of the recommendation from the State department concerned, the Governor, within five days after he receives such recommendation from the State department, at his discretion shall either issue or deny the permit requested. If a permit is issued, the Governor shall specify therein the terms and conditions fixed by him upon which the permit is granted including, but not excluding others, limitations on the ages and hours for the employment of such minors.

SEC. 6. The Governor may at any time revoke, suspend or modify any permit. Upon proof being made that the terms and conditions of any such permit have been violated, the department which recommended the issuance of said permit may recommend to the Governor that the permit be suspended, modified or revoked.

SEC. 7. All State departments shall continue to exercise their duties under the laws and rules to insure that the relaxation authorized by the permit does not adversely affect the health, education or safety of the minor employees involved.

SEC. 8. No relaxation permit shall have the effect of abrogating any collective bargaining agreement prescribing overtime rates of pay or working conditions or any of the overtime rates prescribed pursuant to law by any State department or agencies of the Federal Government.

SEC. 9. Any authority herein given to a State department may be exercised by any official or employee in the department so authorized by the director or other head of the department.

SEC. 10. This act shall remain in effect until the ninety first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this act is in effect it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this act; but such provisions are not repealed by this act and after this act is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this act had not been enacted.

SEC. 11. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The war emergency requires that all facilities of production be utilized to the utmost and that restrictions upon the hours and conditions of work be relaxed to such an extent as may be compatible with the health and safety of the persons affected. This act provides a method whereby production can be increased under safeguards designed to afford full protection to all persons involved and its early effectiveness is necessary to the prosecution of the war effort."

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Carter:

Senate Resolution No. 91

Relating to the death of Clarence W. Leininger

For 50 years, and until his death on March 30, 1943, Clarence W. Leininger had served the people of Northern California. A native of Butte County, he attended the local schools, graduated from Woodland Academy and from the old Chico Normal School.

For some years he taught school in Trinity County. He was appointed Receiver of the Federal Land Office in Redding. Later he was admitted to the bar and for eight years served as deputy district attorney for Shasta County. In 1903 he was elected to the Assembly of California and served until 1905.

In addition to the public confidence reposed in him, Mr. Leininger enjoyed innumerable warm friendships, and was a member of many fraternal organizations. Therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That when this Senate today adjourns, it do so out of respect to the memory of Clarence W. Leininger; and be it further

Resolved, That as an expression of the sympathy of the Members of this Senate, the Secretary transmit copies of this resolution to the son and daughter of Clarence W. Leininger, John Leininger of Redding, and Mrs. Eleanor McCambridge of Chico.

Resolution read, and unanimously adopted by a rising vote of the following Senators:

Senators Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Dillinger, Donnelly, Dorsey, Gordon, Hatfield, Jespersen, Judah, Keating, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixer, Parkman, Quinn, Rich, Salsman, Seawell, Slater, Swan, Swing, Tenney, Tickle, and Ward—32.

Bill ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Senate Bill No. 591—An act to amend Sections 794, 799, and 800 of the Fish and Game Code, relating to abalones, and declaring its urgency in order to produce more necessary food at once.

Bill read third time.

Motion to Amend

Senator Tenney moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In line 2 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "its urgency"; and strike out line 3 of the title, and insert "the urgency of this act, to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of said bill, after line 24, insert

"Sec. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The shortage of food supplies in the present war emergency necessitates the utilization of all sea food products to the greatest extent compatible with proper conservation. Inasmuch as this act releases certain restrictions on the taking of abalones it will operate to increase the available supply of healthful food products and to release a comparable amount of food for use for war purposes."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, re-engrossed, and to third reading.

"SEC. 21.5. Section 101 of said act is amended to read:

Sec. 101. No modification of the benefits provided herein shall be made on account of any amounts payable to a beneficiary, as defined herein, under Division 4 of the Labor Code, except that the portion of any retirement allowance or death allowance which is provided by contributions of the State or of a contracting city and which is payable by the retirement system because of the death or retirement of any member of the California Highway Patrol or of any city policeman or city fireman, as a result of injury or illness arising out of and in the course of employment, shall be reduced in the manner hereinafter described, by the amount of any benefits, other than medical benefits, payable to or on account of such member under Division 4 of the Labor Code, because of his death or the disability resulting in his retirement.

If said benefits under Division 4 of the Labor Code shall run concurrently with said allowance hereunder and shall be due the beneficiary in payments which are equal to or less than said portion of the retirement allowance or death allowance, then said portion shall be reduced each month by the amount of said benefits so due during said month, and the beneficiary shall have no more right to such reduction than if the retirement system had never existed.

If said benefits under Division 4 of the Labor Code shall run concurrently with the allowance hereunder and shall be due to the beneficiary in payments which are greater than said portion of the retirement allowance or death allowance, then payment of said portion shall be withheld until the total of the amounts so withheld shall equal the total of said benefits paid, and the beneficiary shall have no more right to such amounts withheld than if the retirement system had never existed.

It is the purpose of the preceding paragraphs of this section to reduce the portion of the retirement or death allowance payable from the retirement fund and which is provided by contributions of the State or by a contracting city, by the amount of benefits, other than medical benefits, due to the beneficiary concurrently with said portion, under Division 4 of the Labor Code, and the payment before due date by the commutation through compromise or otherwise of such benefits shall not prevent the reduction of said portion, as provided in this section, in the amounts which would have been payable concurrently with the retirement allowance in the absence of such commutation.

If any benefits, other than medical benefits, shall have been paid under Division 4 of the Labor Code because of a permanent disability concurrently with payments of wages or salary, to said beneficiary, then payment of said portion of the retirement allowance or death allowance shall be withheld until the total of the amounts so withheld shall equal the total of such benefits paid because of the permanent disability, and the beneficiary shall have no more right to such amounts withheld than if the retirement system had never existed. Said benefits which are payable for time during which salary is not paid and prior to the effective date of the retirement or death allowance, shall not be considered hereunder.

[If an injury, known to result in the retirement of and or the death of a member of the California Highway Patrol or of a city policeman or city fireman, is the proximate consequence of the act of a person other than his employer, the retirement system shall have the right to recover from said person an amount which shall be the actuarial equivalent of the benefits for which it shall be liable because of said injury and/or death, and said right shall be determined under the provisions of Chapter 5 of Part 1, Division 4 of the Labor Code. Any claim in favor of the retirement system, now pending or which shall arise under this paragraph, may be settled and compromised, and the proceeds of such settlement and compromise shared between the retirement system and said retired employee, or person entitled to benefits under the retirement system because of the death of said employee, in such amounts as may be recommended by the President of the Board of Administration, and approved by the Attorney General. Said retirement system may join with the employer and, or its compensation insurance carrier in any proceeding under said section, and any amount recovered by any of the parties shall be applied first on the amounts which the employer or its insurance carrier shall have paid or become obligated to pay, and second, on the amounts which the retirement system shall have paid or become obligated to pay.]

Amounts by which retirement and death allowances are reduced and amounts recovered from third persons under the provisions of this section shall be paid by the retirement system to the Motor Vehicle Support Fund, or any other fund out of which the compensation of members who are also members of the California Highway Patrol is paid, or to the contracting city in the case of a city policeman or city fireman.]”

Amendment No. 13

On page 15 of said bill, strike out lines 12 to 14, inclusive, and insert “the State Compensation Insurance Fund under which said insurance fund shall represent”.

"SECTION 1. Section 132.5 is added to the Elections Code, to read:

132.5. If a person is a member of the armed forces of the United States or any auxiliary branch thereof, he may appear before any commissioned officer to make an affidavit as to his residence, in compliance with Section 132.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this section and in particular, Section 132, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted.

SEC. 2. Section 293.5 is added to said code, to read:

293.5. The county clerk shall cancel the registration of any person registered who has voted at neither the preceding direct primary nor at the preceding general election unless, prior to the time he has canceled the registration, he has had written notice from the voter or a member of the voter's immediate family, or the sworn affidavit of a friend of the voter, that the voter is a member of the armed forces of the United States, or any auxiliary branch thereof, in which case he shall not cancel the registration, but it shall remain permanent unless canceled for any other cause enumerated in Section 293. If the county clerk has already canceled the affidavit of registration, then upon receipt of the proper information within 30 days after mailing the notice provided for in Section 296.5, he shall restore the affidavit to the files.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this section and in particular, Section 293, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted.

SEC. 3. Section 296.5 is added to said code, to read:

296.5. When the county clerk cancels the registration of any person for failure to vote, he shall mail a notice to that person at the address given on the registration or upon the last application for transfer of registration, stating that "your registration has been canceled this day because you did not vote at either the last direct primary or general election and you will be required to register as provided by law before you shall again be entitled to vote, unless you are a member of the armed forces of the United States or any auxiliary branch thereof, and you or your immediate family, or a friend by affidavit has notified the county clerk of that fact within 30 days after date of mailing of this notice, in which case your affidavit of registration shall be restored to the file and shall remain permanent unless canceled for any other cause."

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this section and in particular, Section 296, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted.

SEC. 4. Section 5901.5 is added to said code, to read:

5901.5. If the voter is serving in the armed forces of the United States, or any auxiliary branch thereof, he may make his application for an absent voter's ballot at any time after being notified that he is about to leave the State or to be confined to camp, and no later than one day before the election.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this section and in particular Section 5901, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted.

SEC. 5. Section 5931.5 is added to said code, to read:

5931.5. If a voter is a member of the armed forces of the United States or any auxiliary branch thereof, he may appear to mark his absent voter's ballot before any commissioned officer if he is unable, by reason of his service in the armed forces of the United States or any auxiliary branch thereof, to go to his polling place or to go before the clerk of the county, municipality or district in which he resides.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after the final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs. While this section is in effect it shall supersede any existing provisions of law which are in conflict with this section and in particular, Section 5931, but such provisions are not repealed by this section and after this section is no longer effective shall have the same force as though this section had not been enacted."

By Senators Hatfield, Powers, Luckey, Engle, Dorsey, Collier, Seawell, Swing, Dillinger, Jespersen, Mayo, Brown, and Crittenden:

Senate Resolution No. 94

Relating to foot and mouth disease in imported cattle

WHEREAS, A Joint Committee of this Legislature has in hearings relating to the shortage of meat in California received expert testimony that if Argentine cattle were to be imported into the United States, such importation would be practically certain to result in outbreaks of the foot and mouth disease among California and other American cattle; and

WHEREAS, Such importation, instead of increasing the meat supply in the United States would, by destruction of the American cattle supply, decrease the total amount available and subject the people of this Country to the possible harmful effects of eating diseased meat; and

WHEREAS, The Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture through Dr. S. C. Fladness undertook an investigation of the situation in Argentina with respect to the prevalence of the foot and mouth disease about a year ago, and has apparently made a report on the situation to the Department of Agriculture; and

WHEREAS, The officers of this State charged with the administration of laws designed to protect the people and animals of this State against the foot and mouth disease have made appropriate efforts to obtain that report or the results thereof and despite the legitimate interest of the people of this Country in the results of this report it has thus far been unavailable; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That in order to protect the livestock of this Country, its food supply and its general economy, the Members of the Congress of the United States from California be and they are hereby requested to demand a copy of this report so that there shall be no secrecy upon a matter that is so vital to the well being of every man, woman and child in this Country, and if such demand fails to make the report available that the Congress of the United States by and through its appropriate committees subpoena Dr. S. C. Fladness to testify as to the results of his investigation of the foot and mouth disease situation in Argentina, and any other country from which the Federal Administration proposed to import cattle; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each Senator and Member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States.

Resolution read, and unanimously adopted.

SECOND READING OF SENATE BILLS (OUT OF ORDER)

Senate Bill No. 238—An act to amend Section 4285 of the Political Code, relating to compensation for public services in counties of the fifty-sixth class.

Bill read second time.

Motion to Amend

Senator Carter moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "4285", and insert "4284".

Amendment No. 2

In lines 2 and 3 of the title of said bill, strike out "in counties of the fifty-sixth class".

Amendment No. 3

On page 1, line 1, of said bill, strike out "4285", and insert "4284".

PRINTER'S NOTE -There being no 7-point strikeout type available, the material which should appear in strikeout type in the following amendment is indicated by being enclosed within brackets.

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 3 to 29, inclusive, and insert "4284. In counties of the fifty-fifth class the county officers shall receive as compensation for the services required of them by law, or by virtue of their offices, the following salaries, fees and expenses, to wit:

- [1. The county clerk, two thousand dollars per annum.
2. The sheriff, three thousand dollars per annum.
3. The recorder, one thousand dollars per annum.
- 4.] 1. The auditor, one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum.
15. The treasurer, one thousand five hundred dollars per annum; provided, that all fees and commissions now allowed by law or which may hereafter be allowed by law to said treasurer by virtue of the said office shall be paid into the county treasury.
6. The tax collector, one thousand two hundred dollars per annum.
7. The assessor, three thousand dollars per annum; provided, that all commissions and fees now allowed by law or which may hereafter be allowed by law to the said assessor on the collection of personal property taxes, road and hospital taxes, shall be paid into the county treasury.]

[8.] 2. The district attorney, one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum.

9. The coroner, such fees as are now or may be hereafter allowed by law.

10. The public administrator, such fees as are now or may be hereafter allowed by law.

11. The superintendent of schools, one thousand two hundred dollars per annum which said sum of one thousand two hundred dollars shall also be in full payment of the services of such superintendent of schools upon the board of education.

12. The surveyor, ten dollars per day when engaged in county work. He shall also receive his actual and necessary expenses when at work in the field.

13. In counties of this class the justices of the peace shall receive the following compensation, to wit:

(a) In townships having a population of one thousand or over, twenty dollars per month;

(b) In townships having a population of less than one thousand, ten dollars per month; provided, however, that the justice of the peace residing at the county seat shall receive twenty dollars per month, even when presiding as justice of the peace in townships having less than a population of one thousand.

The above named salaries shall be in full compensation for all services of said justices of the peace in criminal and civil cases, and when acting as coroner said justices of the peace shall be allowed and paid actual expenses, which expenses shall be audited and allowed by the board of supervisors and paid out of the county treasury. The above compensation shall be in lieu of all other fees received for services and said fees shall be accounted for to the auditor and paid into the county treasury.

The salaries of justices of the peace as herein provided for shall be paid in the same manner, at the same time, and out of the same funds as county officers are paid.

For the purposes of this subdivision the population of the several judicial townships is hereby determined to be the population of said townships as shown by the Federal census taken A. D. 1910.

14. In counties of this class the constables shall receive the following compensation, to wit:

(a) In townships having a population of one thousand or over, twenty dollars per month;

(b) In townships having a population of less than one thousand, ten dollars per month, together with such fees as may be now or hereafter allowed for mileage for serving papers.

The salaries of the constables as herein provided for shall be paid in the same manner, at the same time, and out of the same funds as county officers are paid.

[15.] 3. Each member of the board of supervisors [nine] one thousand two hundred dollars ($1,200) per annum; mileage from residence to county seat at each sitting of the board, twenty cents ($.20) per mile.

[16.] 4. The fees of grand jurors and trial jurors in the superior courts of counties of this class, in civil and criminal cases, shall be three dollars, in lawful money of the United States, for each day's attendance, and mileage to be computed at the rate of twenty-five cents ($0.25) per mile for each mile necessarily traveled in attending court, in going only. In criminal cases such fees and mileage of said jurors in the superior court shall be paid by the treasurer of the county out of the general fund of said county upon warrants drawn by the county auditor upon the written order of the judge of the court in which said juror was in attendance; and the treasurer of said county shall pay said warrants.

[The board of supervisors of said county is hereby directed to make suitable appropriations for the payment of the fees herein provided for.]

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Local Government.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Quinn, ordered printed in the Journal:

EL HERALDO DE MEXICO
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, April 2, 1943

*California State Senate Military Affairs Committee
Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Under March 31st date line, I noticed in the metropolitan newspapers that your Military Affairs Committee approved legislation to require newspapers printed in alien enemy language to carry parallel translations in English.

Please permit me to state, Mr. Chairman, that I was very highly elated over the patriotic decision of your honorable body, which, in my modest estimation, is a very just and constitutional legislation and does not in any way infringe the rights of the free press, and I very happily endorse this new legislation by reason of the fact that the above newspaper, as well as its subsidiary publication, the Spanish-American Shopping News, have inaugurated of printing these newspapers in both languages namely, English and Spanish, over a period of seven years with the greatest success. As a matter of fact, it would be very advantageous and beneficial for all foreign language newspapers without exception to follow the example of this publisher as well as some of the other publishers, for instance like the California Jewish Voice, the Viking, and the B'nai B'rith Messenger, and others.

The first duty of an alien upon establishing permanent residence in the United States should be to learn the language and the laws of the country where he earns his livelihood and adjust himself to the new environment by making every effort to become a citizen. That is the only way he can show good faith and that is the only way we may be able to eliminate in the future all the denaturalization proceedings now going on among so many groups because they have failed to learn the most elementary principles of citizenship, which is loyalty to your new adopted country.

In the hope that your proposal shall receive final enactment by both legislative bodies, and respectfully requesting that this information be filed in your records, I am Very respectfully yours,

EL HERALDO DE MEXICO
SPANISH-AMERICAN SHOPPING NEWS
EDGAR GORDON, Publisher

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were received and read, and ordered printed in the Journal.

UNITED STATES SENATE
WASHINGTON, D.C., April 2, 1943

*Mr. J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate
Sacramento, California*

MY DEAR MR. BEEK: Upon receipt of your telegram of March 20th, transmitting resolution adopted by the State Senate that same day, relative to the situation confronting the poultry industry, I took up the matter with the Office of Price Administration and with the Department of Agriculture.

Enclosed herewith you will find copy of the response received from the Office of Price Administration, which I believe you will find self-explanatory.

When a response reaches me from the Department of Agriculture, I will communicate with you again.

Sincerely yours,

HIRAM W. JOHNSON

OFFICE OF PRICE ADMINISTRATION
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30, 1943

In Reply, Refer to 637-B:AFP

*The Honorable Hiram W. Johnson
United States Senate*

DEAR SENATOR JOHNSON: We wish to thank you for your letter of March 20th, in which you enclosed a telegram from J. A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate of the State of California.

The resolution of the California Senate is being given our most respectful attention. The Poultry and Egg Section has been making a very exhaustive study of the fundamental factors of prices and costs appropriate to the various producing areas of the United States. Every effort should be made to maintain maximum prices for poultry which follow a consistent pattern for the whole United States. Regional differences can be recognized, but they should be such as not to cause undue disturbance in other areas.

To meet the California situation, and still maintain a uniform system, has been a knotty problem. Emphasis has been placed on the fact that California is separated by a natural barrier from contiguous regions. The natural barrier does not prevent the spreading of information, however. Other areas are already pointing out that they, too, have special conditions justifying a concession similar to that granted the West Coast.

It is our purpose to prepare an amendment in the near future which we think will embody in principle most of the suggestions contained in the Senate resolution. Meanwhile, the regional order is meeting the California situation reasonably satisfactorily. This belief on our part is borne out by all the official figures at our command. For example, only a very small percentage of the leghorn chicks are being destroyed. The latest survey reports less than 5 per cent. Some destruction would probably be normal under the most favorable production conditions. Only three hatcheries reported any destruction, and they were all in the same locality.

We assure you of our solicitude for the well-being of the California poultry industry and for the whole food program.

Sincerely yours,

PRENTISS M. BROWN, Administrator

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
BUREAU OF PRINTING, SACRAMENTO, April 2, 1943

*Joseph A. Beek, Secretary, Fifty-fifth California Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

DEAR MR. BEEK: Our Check No. 6 in the sum of $13,623.18 has been deposited to the credit of the Legislative Printing Fund. This covers total collections on the sale of legislative printed matter for the period of January 4th, to March 24th, less the sum of $13.94 which covers $13.89 received as collections of sales tax and $0.05 overpayment. Our total collections for this period were $13,637.12. Statement of Sales Distribution and Operating Statement for this period are attached for your information.

You will note in our Operating Statement that the percentage of our operating expenses for this period was 16½ per cent.

Referring to a report of the Supervisor of Documents in the Assembly Journal of 1941, pages 1549 and 1550, it will be of interest to note that the total amount reimbursed by that office for the two-year period from July 1, 1938, through June 30, 1940, on gross sales totaling $30,601.17, after deducting overhead and administrative expenses, etc., of $19,378.50, was $11,222.67. The percentage of his cost of operation for that period, based on his report, is 48 7/10 per cent compared to 16 1/2 per cent for the Legislative Bill Room's expense chargeable against legislative bill services.

It is of particular interest to the Legislature to know that in the three-month period that the Bill Room has been operating as a sales agent for the Senate and Assembly that no other documents have been sold, the entire income of $13,637.12 being derived from the sale of printed matter emanating out of the Legislature, and not including statutes and codes for 1943.

Respectfully submitted.

GEORGE H. MOORE, State Printer

On motion of Senator Tenney, the further consideration of the motion to reconsider the vote whereby Senate Bill No. 273 was refused passage, was continued until the next legislative day.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Tenney, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA
OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL

STATE CAPITOL, SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 6, 1943

Honorable Irwin T. Quinn, Senate Chamber
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

FOREIGN LANGUAGE NEWSPAPERS—8847

DEAR SENATOR QUINN: You have asked us for an opinion as to the constitutionality of Senate Bill No. 273 which affects newspapers printed in foreign languages.

The first section in substance provides that such a newspaper printed in the foreign language of any enemy nation must contain a correct English translation of the article printed in such enemy foreign language.

The second section refers to all newspapers printed in foreign languages and requires them to furnish, upon request, to the Attorney General or the district attorney of the county of publication a translation of any matter published in a foreign language.

Violation of the requirements of the act is a misdemeanor.

It is apparent that if this bill is enacted, it will be pursuant to the police power of the State, and the question that will be presented to the court is whether or not it is a reasonable exercise of the police power. This in turn will depend upon whether the court can say that there was no reasonable basis either for the regulation or for the classification.

It is our opinion that foreign language newspapers do constitute a class which the Legislature may regulate in the public interest, and it is also our opinion that the imposition upon foreign language newspapers generally of the obligation to furnish a correct translation of matter published in such a language is not an unreasonable exercise of the police power.

The question as to whether it is proper further to classify foreign language newspapers by making applicable this requirement to newspapers published in the language of an enemy nation is one which the courts would hold is primarily a question for the Legislature, that it is not the function of the court to substitute its judgment for that of the Legislature, and that if there is any reasonable basis upon which the classification can be sustained, it is the duty of the court to sustain it.

We believe it can be successfully contended that as newspapers printed in the language of an enemy nation are more apt to be read by persons sympathetic to this country and its war efforts, it is proper to require such newspapers to carry an English translation rather than to put the burden upon the Attorney General or the district attorney to require such translation.

The only other constitutional question that occurs to us aside from the problem of classification is the question of interference with the freedom of the press. It has never been successfully contended that the freedom of the press provisions of the Constitution prevent any regulation that does not unreasonably interfere with such freedom. In view of the fact that this law does not restrict what may be printed in the newspapers, we do not believe that it would constitute an unreasonable interference with the freedom of the press.

In view of the shortness of the time within which we have been required to prepare this opinion, we have not been able to make any extended research, and have, therefore, relied upon general principles which it would seem to us would be applied by a court in considering the problem.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By SIDNEY L. WEINSTOCK, Deputy

Amendment No. 3

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 1 to 14, inclusive, and insert

"Section 1. Article 4 is hereby added to Chapter 8 of Title 1 of Part 3 of the Penal Code, to read:

Article 4. Special Service Paroles

3100. In order to assist in meeting the growing crisis in manpower in the present war emergency and also to further the rehabilitation of men in the several prisons and jails in this State, there is hereby created for the duration of said war emergency a system or form of parole to be known as special service parole for release of such men into the armed forces of the United States through the facilities of National Selective Service.

3101. The agencies charged with administering the provisions of this article shall at all times work in cooperation with National Selective Service and be familiar with the rules and regulations thereof and with the type of men acceptable thereto.

3102. The agencies charged with administering the provisions of this article shall make such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as it may deem necessary in addition to the granting of selective service paroles in order to effectuate the purposes of this article.

3103. The Division of Prison Terms and Paroles is hereby charged with the administration of the provisions of this article with respect to selective service paroles of prisoners in State prisons. The board of parole commissioners of each county is hereby charged with similar duties with respect to prisoners under their control. Said county boards, however, shall in the exercise of said duties cooperate with and conform to the pattern or system of selective service parole prescribed by the rules and regulations of the Division of Prison Terms and Paroles to the end that the functions of all said agencies shall be coordinated into a uniform system that will best meet the needs of National Selective Service.

3104. Special service paroles are paroles granted by the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles or by a county board of parole commissioners, as the case may be, to men in State prisons and county or city jails, who are qualified for service in the armed forces according to the National Selective Service Act and rules and regulations made pursuant thereto. Persons given this parole shall go directly from custody into the hands of military authorities and shall in no case be paroled to civilian life.

3105. Special service paroles shall be conditional in nature and shall continue in force, unless sooner revoked, for a period of time equal to the maximum term of imprisonment therefor fixed for the prisoner.

3106. Such persons given such paroles who complete their service in some branch of the armed forces and receive a honorable discharge therefrom may then be eligible for full parole from the Governor even though they have not served their full period of parole by the end of their period of service, or such person may petition the authority granting his parole for a full discharge from parole and the granting authority may consider the honoraria discharge from any branch of the armed services as ground for granting such discharge.

Should no parole or discharge be granted then the parole shall continue according to law.

3107. The names and records of all men granted special service paroles shall be kept in the confidential files of the administrative agency, but shall be available to the Governor, the Attorney General, the Advisory Pardon Board, National Selective Service and the military authorities, including the commanding officer of any such parolee.

3108. With respect to State prisoners, no prisoner who has had imposed upon him two or more cumulative or consecutive sentences shall be eligible for special service parole, until he has served, at least one calendar year, of the aggregate of such cumulative or consecutive sentences.

3109. No prisoner confined in the State prison, and no prisoner under sentence to the State prison, who is convicted of an escape or an attempt to escape from the prison or the guards shall be eligible for special service parole, until he has served at least one calendar year from and after the date of his return to the prison after such conviction.

3110. No prisoner who has served a previous sentence in a State prison, in this or any other State, or in a Federal penitentiary shall be eligible for special service parole, until he has served at least one calendar year.

3111. No prisoner under a life sentence shall be eligible for special service parole, until he has served at least five calendar years.

3112. In all other cases not specially provided for in the sections immediately preceding, no prisoner shall be eligible for special service parole until he has served in a State prison either the minimum term of imprisonment provided by law for the crime of which he was convicted, or one year, whichever may be deemed best within the discretion of the paroling authorities. In special meritorious cases special service parole may be granted a prisoner who has served nine months with benefit of credits.

3113. The Board of Prison Terms and Paroles and the Governor shall have, over persons granted special service paroles, the same rights and powers of revocation as are now possessed in all other paroles as provided under this title.

3114. The dishonorable discharge of a special service parolee from the armed forces shall be sufficient cause for revocation of parole, whether such dishonorable discharge occurs either during or after the present war.

3115. All persons granted special service paroles shall report in writing by mail directly to the agency which paroled him at such intervals as that agency may prescribe. Such report shall consist of a statement that said parolee is still serving in the armed forces, and, so far as military regulations will permit, shall designate the particular military organization with which he is serving together with such other matters as the paroling agency shall prescribe. Such report shall be approved by the unit commander of the parolee.

3116. It shall be permissible for any and all men who, at the time this article becomes law, are on parole from any State prison or county jail in California, to apply to the authority which placed them on parole for permission to be placed on the special service parole for the purpose of entering the armed forces. Any and all such persons who then enter the armed forces become subject to all of the duties, obligations and rights embodied in the article in relation to discharge, pardon, reporting, and revocation of parole."

Amendment No. 4

On page 2 of said bill, after line 8, insert

"Sec. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the State Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The facts constituting urgency are as follows:

There are now many able-bodied men serving time in State prisons, county jails and city jails who, if given an opportunity to serve in the armed forces could materially assist the military manpower needs of this Nation. This legislature would not only provide men for armed service but would also provide a method of rehabilitation. Time is of the essence in providing manpower for the armed forces and this act should therefore go into effect immediately".

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Judiciary.

SECOND READING OF SENATE BILLS (OUT OF ORDER)

Senate Bill No. 323—An act to amend Section 65e of, and to add Section 83d to, the State Employees' Retirement Act, relating to a retirement system for public officers and employees.

Bill read second time.

Motion to Amend

Senator Keating moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "amend Section 65e of, and to add Section 83d to," and insert "add Section 78b to".

Amendment No. 2

In line 3 of the title of said bill, strike out the period, and insert "; providing for the employment of retired employees upon conditions specified therein, and declaring the urgency of this act, to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 3

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 1 to 28, inclusive; and on page 2, strike out lines 1 to 36, inclusive, and insert

"SECTION 1. Section 78b is added to the State Employees' Retirement Act, to read:

Sec. 78b. Notwithstanding any other provision of this act, until October 1, 1945, or the termination of the war in which the United States is now engaged, whichever is earlier, any person (other than a person who retired for service while a member of the California Highway Patrol) who has been retired for service (as distinguished from disability) under the provisions of this act may be employed in State service in accordance with the laws governing such service, in the same manner as a person who has not been so retired, upon the determination of the Board of Administration, by medical examination, that he is not incapacitated for the duties proposed to be assigned to him.

Any person so employed shall be considered as reinstated from retirement and his retirement allowance shall be canceled forthwith. His individual account shall be credited with an amount which is the actuarial equivalent of his annuity at the time of such reinstatement, and his rate of contribution for future years shall be the same as if he had continued in State service during the period of his retirement. Such person shall receive credit for prior service in the same manner as if he had never been retired.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The prosecution of the war in which the United States is now engaged has, by reason of the induction of millions of men into the armed forces and the employment of additional millions in war industries, resulted in an acute shortage of manpower throughout the Nation. This shortage makes difficult or impossible the recruitment of qualified persons to fill essential positions in State service. Although recent legislation has made possible the temporary retention in State service of persons who would otherwise be retired upon reaching the age of 70 years, existing provisions of law prevent the reemployment of persons already retired, who constitute a reservoir of trained and experienced personnel. To make possible the immediate use of these persons to meet the shortage of qualified workers in the public service, and so to prevent the breakdown of the administration of the essential services of the State Government, it is necessary that this act take effect immediately."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Local Government.

MOTION TO TAKE BILL FROM THE INACTIVE FILE

Senator Crittenden moved that Senate Bill No. 415 be taken from the inactive file, and re-referred to the Committee on Financial Institutions.

Motion carried.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Committee on Rules:

Senate Resolution No. 97

WHEREAS, The chairs on the Senate rostrum and those placed in the back of the Senate for guests have had some 40 years service without being repaired; and

WHEREAS, Inmates of the penitentiary at San Quentin are prepared to make the necessary repairs to this furniture at a cost to the State of approximately twelve dollars ($12) per chair, including new upholstery where necessary, springs, paint and varnish and transportation to and from San Quentin; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be and he is hereby directed to arrange for the transportation of these chairs to San Quentin, the repair thereof and return to Sacramento, subsequent to the adjournment of this session of the Legislature.

Resolution read and unanimously adopted.

By Senator Slater:

Senate Resolution No. 98

Relative to the death of John F. Quinn of Eureka

The passing of John F. Quinn of Eureka, a former Member of the California Legislature, has occasioned much regret wherever his work, his loyalty and his honest endeavors to promote public welfare, are known in this State. He entered eternal rest on Tuesday evening, April 6, 1943, never rallying from the effects of a critical operation performed in the hope of saving his life.

Mr. Quinn, a brother of our highly esteemed colleague, Senator Irwin T. Quinn, who was with him when he exchanged time for eternity, was born on the farm acquired by pioneer parents in Humboldt County. It was there he received the early training which in the after years made its impression upon his future life, stimulating the high sense of integrity and courage, devotion and character which marked his life of close to 70 years. He was a graduate of the University of California and commenced his practice of the law 42 years ago in the City of Eureka and was in active work up to within a short time of his passing. He served Eureka as its mayor and Humboldt County as its representative in the Assembly during the Sessions of 1915 and 1917. In many other ways he aided in public development and in human betterment.

As a tribute to Mr. Quinn and in extending its sincere sympathy to his deeply bereaved widow and his brothers and sisters and other relatives; be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California this April 7, 1943, That when it adjourns for the day, it do so out of respect to the memory of an honorable citizen and in so doing expresses its sentiment of appreciation of the outstanding career of one who has now closed his Life Book with a smile; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be requested to forward copies of this tribute, appropriately engrossed to the bereaved widow and the other members of his family.

Resolution read and adopted by a rising vote of the following Senators:

Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Deuel, Dillinger, Donnelly, Dorsey, Eagle, Fletcher, Gordon, Hatfield, Jespersen, Judah, Keating, Luckey, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixter, Parkman, Powers, Salsman, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Swan, Swing, Tenney, Tickle, and Ward—36.

PERMISSION TO INTRODUCE BILL

The following request for permission to introduce a bill was presented:

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA

Governor's Office, Sacramento, April 6, 1943

Honorable Frederick F. Houser

Lieutenant Governor

209 State Capitol, Sacramento, California

MY DEAR GOVERNOR: The California War Powers Act creating the War Council, adopted by the First Extraordinary Session of the Legislature, will become effective on May 1st. Because of the extreme importance of the functions to be exercised by the Council under the terms of the act, I believe it is desirable that a meeting be held as soon as possible for the purpose of formulating plans, discussing budgetary matters, and selecting the man whom they desire to have serve as the State Director of Civilian Defense.

I am today announcing that I propose to appoint, as soon as the act becomes effective, Eugene W. Biscailuz, Sheriff of Los Angeles County, and Leslie Cleary, District Attorney of Stanislaus County, as the two representatives of the county governments of the State; and Walter W. Cooper, City Manager of San Diego, and Richard Graves, Executive Secretary of the League of California Cities, as the representatives of the city governments of the State.

I am calling a meeting of the members of the Council on Monday, April 12th, at 2 p.m. in my office in the Capitol, and shall appreciate it if you can attend. I trust that the Rules Committee of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly will select in the immediate future the legislative representatives so that they may meet with us.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely,

EARL WARREN, Governor

MOTION TO PRINT IN THE JOURNAL

Senator Mayo moved that the following report of the committee delegated to represent the State Senate at the Council of State Governments be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

Committee Report—Council of State Governments

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee or Delegates Selected to Represent the State Senate at the Sixth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments in Baltimore, Maryland, January 24, 25, 26, 1943, pursuant to Senate Resolution No. 11, reports as follows:

The Sixth General Assembly of the Council of State Governments met in Baltimore, Maryland, January 24, 25, 26, 1943. This was the first meeting of the General Assembly since the United States got into the war. The entire program was concentrated upon war problems and war activities, and was focused upon the successful prosecution of the war.

The major committees of the council, during the past 18 months, have concentrated upon defense problems generally, manpower problems, tax and fiscal relations, and wartime legislation.

Opening Session

The formal sessions opened Sunday night, January 24th, with the President's address by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland, in which he outlined in detail the part which the States had taken in developing first the defense program and later in cooperation with the National Government in the prosecution of the war. He emphasized particularly the States' part in Selective Service, in rationing, in the adjustment of transportation difficulties and impediments, in the development of necessary State legislation, and the organization and operation throughout the Country of State councils of defense which have taken over the job of maintaining the war effort on the home front.

Governor O'Connor stressed particularly the desirability first of the States' organizing their machinery and developing their activities in such a way as to participate fully and contribute their utmost to the successful prosecution of the war, and, second, of the States' seeing to it that whatever duties and responsibilities, as well as activities, were transferred to Washington for war purposes should be returned to the States at the expiration of the emergency.

He urged that democracy in this Country—the democracy for which we are fighting—is a democracy that must be exercised, used, and maintained in the localities and in the States; that only through the maintenance of strong local and State governments could democracy in this Country continue to be what it has been—a Government designed to preserve the liberties and assure opportunities for all the American people.

Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson discussed in detail the progress of the war. He outlined the steps which have been taken in the development of our American Army from a small organization consisting of some two hundred thousand officers and men to the gigantic Army which we now have of more than five and a half million, a large part of which is fighting on fronts located at the four corners of the globe.

He called particular attention to the fact that the first move made by the War Department to expand the Army into a modern fighting machine was the induction of State Guards into the National service some two years ago. These State Guards, said the Under Secretary of War, have been on the front line units in the Philippines, in the South Seas, in Africa, and on many other fronts.

The Secretary emphasized that the size of the Army was a technical question which must be decided by the general staff. He stated that many more persons were going to be called into the armed services for training, and expert training, in 1943 in order to be ready to take their places in combat units in 1944. The Secretary said he knew of no considerable amount of evidence which would indicate that the war would be over in 1943, and hence the Army was preparing for 1944 as well.

Monday Sessions

Beginning Monday morning, January 25th, the sessions dealt to a very large extent with our domestic problems of war; and there was more open discussion and participation from the floor than in previous General Assemblies.

At the morning session, January 25th, Senator Thurman A. Biddinger, Chairman of the Board of Managers of the Council, presided and introduced the Honorable James E. Murray, United States Senator from Montana, and Chairman of the Special Committee on Small Business.

Senator Murray outlined the plight of small business in our war economy. He discussed the various efforts which had been made from time to time to convert small business to war activities and to use small business more extensively in both war and civilian programs. He said the job had not been well done, that greater interest must be developed in this problem, greater attention given to the project, if we were not to lose what had been and what is the very backbone of the American business system; namely, the small enterprises employing millions of men and scattered throughout the Country.

He stated that the Special Committee of the United States Senate, of which he is chairman, was continuing work on this problem; he urged the Council of State Governments to appoint a special committee to work with Congressional committees and Federal administrative organizations on this very important problem.

The general discussion which ensued indicated that small businesses were confronted with serious problems in all parts of the Country, and that unless definite, constructive and expeditious action is taken in the very near future we might develop and come out of this war with an economy composed almost altogether of big monopoly groups—a development which might suit those groups themselves but which would certainly not serve the public interest and the public welfare.

The luncheon and afternoon session, with Governor John Bricker of Ohio presiding, dealt with problems of production, manpower, rubber, civilian defense, and transportation.

This was one of the most interesting and constructive sessions that the General Assembly of the Council of State Governments has ever had. With the exception of an initial statement on production by Donald M. Nelson, Chairman of the War Production Board, there were no formal speeches. And for four hours the heads of the War Agencies of Production, of Manpower, of Rubber, of Civilian Defense, and of Transportation, discussed with a packed house of State executives, administrators, and legislators the civilian problems of the United States in time of war.

Delegates from all over the Country asked questions concerning their particular interests and their more acute problems; questions so raised were discussed and answered by the heads of the War agencies.

It seemed to be the consensus of opinion from the discussion that production had gotten under way, was along the road, and was rolling; that manpower was still in the throes of organization with many problems yet unsolved; Problems of set-up and administration, problems of farm labor, problems of excess industrial labor in some parts of the Country and shortages in others, and problems having to do with the more effective functioning of Selective Service in order to make it more really selective.

A highlight of this session, certainly a highlight if one is to judge by newspaper reaction and Country-wide comment, was the statement of Mr. Jeffers, Rubber Administrator, to the effect that production in the synthetic rubber field was being hampered and delayed by too many Army and Navy officials visiting, inspecting, and supervising production work in plants.

Many questions were raised with respect to the administration of civilian defense activities, and a number of delegates wondered whether under existing circumstances we were not overdoing some phases of civilian defense perhaps at the expense of other and more necessary war tasks.

In the field of transportation, the rationing of gasoline, the conservation of rubber, the regulation of motor transport, and the full utilization of our railroads all came in for much discussion and many questions.

Never before, perhaps, have so many top-ranking Federal officials, charged with such far-reaching responsibilities, sat down with so many top-ranking State representatives for a free-for-all, uninhibited discussion of such critical and far-reaching problems.

State Dinner

The State dinner on Monday evening, presided over by the President of the Council, dealt with international affairs.

John G. Winant, United States Ambassador to Great Britain, outlined in detail the organization of the war machine in England and discussed the impact of war upon the civilian population.

He explained that Great Britain was not only in the war—it was actually, immediately, and physically located in the war zone, just 20 miles from the front line trenches. Hence, the problem of civilian organization for war and of civilian supply during war had been problems of the utmost importance and very acute in nature for more than three years.

Situated as England is, and dependent upon the outside world for food, England had gone on a rationing basis with the beginning of the war; and rationing in England covered practically all articles of food and clothing and even shelter.

He paid particular tribute to the courage, the stability, the patience, and the sheer determination of the British people in the face of the gravest danger. There was much, the Ambassador said, in the British experience which we could use to advantage, although there was much that was different in that their problems concerned a small, compact, heavily populated island close to the front, whereas ours concerned an immense country, largely self-supporting, situated some distance away from the fighting front.

Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, discussed the future of the United States in the world that is to be. He began by emphasizing that our first, all important, all-absorbing problem was the job of winning the war at the earliest possible time; but that second only to that was the job of winning the peace, lest we again, in the short space of two decades, have to sacrifice our resources and the lives of hundreds of thousands of our citizens in another war. He mentioned that we won the Revolutionary War and then we won the peace, and the result was a strong United States; that the fight for the preservation of the Union was won and then the peace almost lost, but later the mistakes were corrected and the United States went on along the road to greater development; that we won our war in 1918 only to lose the peace, with the inevitable result that we are again involved in war.

He particularly emphasized that the United States must this time avoid the mistakes of 1918; it must realize that it is a Nation living in the world, it is a part of the world, and it must assume its share of the duties and responsibilities incident thereto. He urged that now is the time when there should be specific, definite thinking and planning to preserve the United Nations after the war as a united force for peace.

He suggested a specific plan, stating that he knew the plan was not perfect but he thought the time had come to be specific and to inspire and invite the fullest discussion and fullest criticism of definite, concrete plans for world organization and world administration after the war—such organization and administration in the interests of independent nations, it is true, but also in the interest of all nations.

The specific plan which he suggested provided for a World Parliament, a World Administrative Organization, and a World Court. He discussed the major problems of organization and operation after the war: Problems of disarmament; problems of the administration of air boards and airways of the future, of shipping, the administration of gateways to the seas, and international trade; the expansion of education and the development of justice; and the establishment of a United Nations force to support equitable and peaceful administration. Some such organization based upon international cooperation, international participation, and international justice would be necessary if we are to attain and preserve international peace, the Governor stated.

Tuesday Sessions

Governor J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island presided at the morning session, which was devoted to discussion of the problem of oil and the question of "The States in the Future."

Honorable Everett Lee DeGolyer, Assistant Deputy Petroleum Coordinator, substituted for the Secretary of the Interior, Harold L. Ickes, who was ill. Mr. DeGolyer discussed in detail the oil problems confronting the Country, problems both of gasoline and fuel oil.

Governor J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina, in discussing the future of the States, traced the development and growth of our democratic system as a parallel to the agricultural-commercial-industrial growth and development of the Country. He emphasized that Federal encroachment upon the original domain of the States had come about largely because of a lack of social consciousness in some of our State Governments. He called attention also to the inevitability of increased Federal power and authority during wartime, but despite these circumstances, he insisted that the States today were infinitely more powerful than ever before. More than that, he said, they have not yet reached their peak. In the developing postwar world, Governor Broughton estimated that the National Government will be forced to occupy itself more with international problems and less with domestic difficulties. In addition to this, the National debt of $200,000,000,000 by 1944 will, he indicated, lay a restraining hand on Federal ambitions. In contrast, he called attention to the improving financial position of the State Governments which should equip them to shoulder many burdens of domestic concern in the postwar world. The future of the American States, he concluded, has never been so bright.

The Attorney General of the United States, Francis Biddle, discussed the emergency war legislation program. Reviewing the cooperative arrangement between the Council of State Governments and the Department of Justice, which established the machinery to draft and present to the 48 States a series of legislative proposals designed to make the Nation's war effort more effective, Attorney General Biddle cited this blending of State and Federal activity as Federal recognition of State responsibility. He emphasized that the detailed and realistic approach taken by the Drafting Committee was an example of the democratic process at its best, and he urged that the scope of this two-way machinery be broadened to include both administrative and legislative problems.

In continuing this discussion of emergency legislation for war, Governor Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts urged that the States prepare themselves to act quickly when the need arises. Some problems, he said, will require volunteer effort, some will need legislative action, and some will need executive initiative. The important thing, he said, is for the States to be free to act speedily by whatever method is necessary. The Governor reviewed his use of the Emergency War Powers for Governors Act as adopted by the Massachusetts Legislature, cautioning against the use of such powers where another method is available. He nevertheless praised the availability of such powers during the interim when the Legislature is not in session. Governor Saltonstall urged the States to tackle their problems of wartime business of government in the immediate future with the following watch words: Maintain—Improve—Curtail—Postpone—Prepare! By so doing, he concluded, the States can make their greatest contribution to Victory.

Manpower Committee Report

The report of the Council's Committee on Manpower which was unanimously adopted by the General Assembly is particularly interesting and pertinent to the many discussions in both houses of the California Legislature at this session and we herewith set forth the committee's report in full:

We recognize that the allocation and use of manpower is one of the most critical problems on the home front, and is also one in which far from satisfactory progress has been made toward solution.

We are confident that we can tender, on behalf of the States, all of their resources, the trained administrative personnel in State and local governments, and our Council of State Governments secretariat, to assist in meeting this problem.

For this purpose, we also hereby authorize and request the President of the Council of State Governments to appoint a Special Manpower Committee to confer with the Federal Government and assist in definite steps to improve the handling of manpower.

We submit that comparatively the most successful Nation-wide programs have been those which have used the Federal-State-local method of operation.

Examples are: Selective Service,
Social Security Programs,
Department of Justice,
Public roads,
County Agricultural Agents,
The earlier part of OPA—tires, cars and sugar,
The later part of OCD.

Those programs which ignored these principles and were entirely Federal in operation were comparative failures.

Examples are: The early stage of OCD,
The later stage of OPA—gas and fuel oil rationing and price control,
The present manpower administration.

Likewise, we recognize that exclusive State operation of a National problem results in comparative failure, such as the experience with truck and transport regulations in the early stage of the war. This again was corrected when the States conformed to a uniform Federal policy in the spring of 1942 and then cooperated in the administration of that policy.

Therefore, we urge that the operation of the manpower program be based on the Federal-State-local line of command with participation by each level of government and with respect for established governmental lines of jurisdiction.

As a few examples for cooperative action, we urge that a Federal-State-local program be instituted.

A. To maintain adequate agricultural manpower by definite establishment as a National policy the recognition of the necessity of keeping on the farms the trained farmer with adequate help to produce the essential food supply.

B. To register, on a voluntary basis, the 16- and 17-year-old youth and to train them to help on the farms. The program to be administered locally with supervision of small groups of these youth through school authorities and the use of them in peak seasons for production of fruit, vegetables, and grains.

C. To use manpower confined in prisons and reformatories not convicted of crimes of violence.

D. To promote fair employment practices without discrimination for old age, race, color, or creed.

E. To provide effective day care for children of working mothers.

F. To increase the industrial and commercial work week (which now averages 42½ hours overall), on a basis that is not anti-labor, that contains proper safeguards for health, and that does not break the inflation control price ceilings.

G. To reduce absenteeism, improve safety, transportation, and housing of employees.

H. To safeguard health of workers.

I. To use governmental employees in peak harvest seasons and temporarily suspend certain governmental operations.

J. To reduce the hoarding and inefficient use of manpower in some war plants.

K. To maintain the supply of labor essential for transportation and mechanical upkeep.

L. To transfer civilian production from areas short of manpower to areas with adequate manpower.

M. To utilize persons on old age assistance as productive manpower, particularly during harvest seasons, through removing or modifying the earning restrictions for the duration of the war.

In conclusion, we submit that there is a most urgent need for a clear-cut statement by the Federal Government of the overall policies of manpower. In a desire to be helpful in the prosecution of this war to speedy victory, we ask the War Manpower Commission to meet with a committee of the Council of State Governments for the purpose of arriving at a definite statement of policy and a method of effective State and local participation in the Manpower Program.

In view of the fact that the Legislatures of most of the States are now in session, we urge early consideration of this report.

Let a copy of this report, upon its adoption by the Assembly, be forwarded to the President of the United States, to the Chairman of the War Manpower Commission, to the Secretary of Agriculture, and to the Chairman of the War Production Board.

Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota was Chairman of the Council's Manpower Committee and California was represented on this committee by Senator Mayo.

Forestry and Timberland Conservation

The following resolution was introduced at the Conference by Senator Fletcher and was adopted by the Council:

WHEREAS, The Eastern States Conservation Conference through its Regional Committee on Forestry Problems has evolved certain recommendations with respect to State policy in the public acquisition of land for forest purposes, methods of protecting forests from fire, insects, and tree diseases, State control of cutting practices on private forest lands, culminating in certain constructive proposals for a Post-war Forestry Program under State controls with Federal aid; and

WHEREAS, There has been a feuding on the part of the United States Forest Service and of certain groups in the Congress to attempt to extend the Federal authority in these particulars notably in the direction of Federal control of cutting even to the extent of suggesting that Federal aid under the Clarke-McNary Act might be withdrawn from States which did not comply with the Federal standards of cutting control which have been proposed; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this General Assembly of the States commend the efforts of these States to work out cooperatively at the State level the solution of common problems; that the Legislatures of such States be urged to give due consideration to the recommendations that have been made and take such action as they may deem appropriate that through the Council of State Governments the reports and recommendations of such northeastern Regional Committee on Forestry Problems and the conclusions of the Eastern States Conservation Conference be submitted to the Commissions on Interstate Cooperation of the States not included in such conference, for study and such action as they may deem appropriate.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Hatfield, Crittenden, Engle, Mixter, Luckey, Ward, McBride, Powers, Brown, Mayo, Jespersen, Gordon, Dorsey, Collier, Cunningham, Dillinger, and Seawell:

Senate Resolution No. 99

WHEREAS, The American Meat Institute has evolved a program to achieve proper distribution of meat to the armed forces, to the civilian population, and to lend lease without interfering with the wartime objective of inflation control; and

WHEREAS, Such program is the result of the work of more than two hundred men, including 22 Institute committees, over a period of several weeks and was approved at a meeting of the directors of the Institute appointed by members from all parts of the United States; and

WHEREAS, This program was endorsed by the Joint Live Stock Committee representing 93 organizations engaged in the production, feeding and marketing of live stock; and

WHEREAS, It appears that the basis of the program consists of an integrated, centralized control having authority to correlate slaughter and Government buying with civilian needs in order at all times to keep the supply consistent with the demand; and

WHEREAS, It appears to this body that such purposes are sound; now, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That it hereby endorses the meat industry program for solving wartime meat problems; and be it further

Resolved, That Chester C. Davis, Food Administrator, be and he is hereby empowered to place the full authority to achieve the objectives of such a program in a person and staff thoroughly and practically experienced in the problems of the meat industry; and be it further

Resolved, That such person and staff be aided by an Advisory Committee appointed by appropriate Government authority to represent the meat industry in all its phases and locations; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate transmit copies of this resolution by mail to the President and Vice President of the United States, and to the Members of the Congress of the United States from California; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate telegraph the contents of this resolution to the Honorable Chester C. Davis, Food Administrator; the Honorable Prentiss Brown, Administrator of the Office of Price Administration; the Honorable James Byrnes, Director of Economic Stabilization, and the Honorable Alfred J. Elliot, Chairman of the California Delegation in the House of Representatives.

"SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and, therefore, shall go into immediate effect.

A statement of facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Due to the fact that the United States is now engaged in a war of world-wide proportions in which a large number of citizens of this State entitled to veterans' exemption are engaged in active military duty making it impossible for them to attend in person before an assessor or his deputy to claim such exemption, and due to the fact that many of these persons are beyond the continental limits of the United States where it is difficult, if not impossible for them to exchange correspondence with assessors through which verified exemption claims may be forwarded to the assessors in time to comply with the requirements of law pertaining to the exemption of the veterans' property as of the first Monday in March of 1943, it is essential that some means be found to alleviate the great hardship which would result from the denial of these exemptions under such circumstances."

Amendment No. 3

On page 1 of said bill, strike out lines 1 to 22, inclusive, and insert:

"SECTION 1. Section 19490 is added to the Business and Professions Code, to read:

19490. Whenever a fair conducted by the State Agricultural Society, or a district or county fair conducts a program of horse racing, it shall provide a program of harness racing on the same days that it provides a program of racing in which the horses participating are mounted by jockeys.

SEC. 2. Section 19532.1 is added to said code, to read:

19532.1. During the time this section is in effect there shall be allowed in the area to which Section 19532 applies an additional 20 racing days per year.

This section shall remain in effect until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs.

SEC. 3. Section 19561.5 is added to said code, to read:

19561.5. The board may adopt the rules and regulations of the United States Trotting Association, not inconsistent with this chapter, for the regulation of harness racing, in which horses are harnessed to a sulky, carriage, or similar vehicle, as distinguished from the form of horse racing in which the horses participating are mounted by jockeys.

SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

Wartime restrictions have hampered many sporting and entertainment activities which ordinarily provide healthful recreation for the people of the State. Insofar as it may be done without interference with the war effort, the State should relax as many of the restrictions imposed by the State as are compatible with sound policy. Due to conditions beyond their control certain licensees have been prevented from conducting horse racing meetings at the times and for the periods now provided for by law and regulation. In order that the recreational opportunities of the people of the State shall not be further impaired it is necessary that this act take immediate effect."

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 1 to 6, both inclusive, and insert

"SECTION 1. Section 258.1 is added to the Vehicle Code, to read:

258.1. Until six months after the termination of all current hostilities as declared by the President or the Congress of the United States, chauffeurs' licenses may be issued to persons 17 years of age or over permitting such persons to drive school busses."

Amendment No. 4

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 14 to 26, both inclusive, and insert

"Under existing law no chauffeur's license may be issued to a person under 18 years of age thus preventing in many cases the employment, for compensation, of persons under such age for the operation of motor vehicles. Because of manpower shortage resulting from the war in which the United States of America is now engaged, it is impossible to secure persons 18 years of age for employment as chauffeurs. It is essential, during the emergency created by the war, that disruption of essential transportation services be avoided by permitting the issuance of chauffeurs' licenses to persons under the conditions, and for the purposes, set forth in this act. In order to avoid such disruption of essential transportation services, it is necessary that this act take immediate effect."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and re-referred to Committee on Transportation.

CONSIDERATION OF DAILY FILE (RESUMED)

THIRD READING OF SENATE BILLS (RESUMED)

Senate Bill No. 588—An act to add Section 12.5 to the Water Conservation Act of 1929, relating to the offices of the directors of water conservation districts.

Bill read third time.

The roll was called, and the bill passed by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Crittenden, Cunningham, Deuel, Donnelly, Dorsey, Engle, Jespersen, Judah, Keating, Luckey, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixer, Parkman, Powers, Rich, Salsman, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Swan, Swing, Tenney, Tickle, and Ward—31.

NOES—None.

Bill ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Senate Bill No. 552—An act to amend the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act by adding thereto Sections 59.1 and 59.2, making it a misdemeanor for any candidate seeking election or reelection to the Board of Equalization of the State of California and any officer, employee and appointee of said board, to solicit or receive from persons holding liquor licenses issued by said board any money or other thing of value for any political campaign for election or reelection to such board, and making it a misdemeanor for any licensee or holder of a liquor license to contribute or give money or any other thing of value for any such political campaign.

Bill read third time.

Motion to Amend

Senator Seawell moved the adoption of the following amendments:

Amendment No. 1

In the title of the printed bill, as amended, strike out lines 2 to 17, inclusive, and insert "add Sections 5002.5, 5002.6 and 5006.5 to the Elections Code, making it a misdemeanor to solicit or receive or to contribute or give money or other thing of value with respect to elections."

Amendment No. 2

On page 2 of said bill, after line 41, insert

"Sec. 3. Section 5006.5 is added to the Elections Code, to read:

5006.5. Any Member of the Legislature, candidate for election to the Legislature, or candidate for nomination for election to the Legislature, who directly or indirectly solicits, receives or agrees to receive any money or other thing of value or any promise thereof from any person interested in or likely to be interested in probable legislation is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Any person interested or likely to be interested in probable legislative action who directly or indirectly, either by himself or through another, gives, offers or promises to give any money or other thing of value to any person, corporation or association for any political campaign of any person seeking election or reelection to the Legislature is guilty of a misdemeanor."

Amendments read.

Motion to Table

Senator Jespersen moved that the amendments offered by Senator Seawell to Senate Bill No. 552 be laid on the table.

Motion lost.

Further Consideration of Amendments to Senate Bill No. 552

Roll call demanded by Senators Carter, Rich, Tickle, Breed, Biggar, and Swan.

The roll was called, and the amendments refused adoption by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Donnelly, Keating, Luckey, McCormack, Powers, Seawell, Swing, Tickle, and Ward—9.

NOES—Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Cunningham, Deuel, Dorsey, Engle, Gordon, Hatfield, Jespersen, Judah, Parkman, Rich, Shelley, Slater, Swan, and Tenney—19.

MOTION TO PRINT IN THE JOURNAL

Senator Shelley moved that the Report of the Senate Interim Committee on Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, and also the reasons for the absence of Senator Quinn, be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

Report of Senate Interim Committee on Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to the Senate, California Legislature, Fifty-fifth Session—1943

Members of Committee:

SENATOR JOHN F. SHELLEY, CHAIRMAN
SENATOR HERBERT W. SLATER
SENATOR THOMAS F. KEATING
SENATOR E. GEORGE LUCKEY
SENATOR IRWIN T. QUINN
SENATOR H. RAY JUDAH

To the Members of the Senate of the State of California

Resolution No. 157, adopted by the Senate at the Fifty-fourth Session of the California Legislature, provided for an Interim Committee of six Members of the Senate, to be known as "The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Committee", and directed such committee to study the administrative, financial status, and modus operandi of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Appointed members of such a committee were: Senator John F. Shelley, Chairman; Senator Herbert W. Slater, Senator Thomas F. Keating, Senator E. George Luckey, Senator Irwin T. Quinn, and Senator H. Ray Judah. The committee named Edwin H. Wilder its secretary.

In exploring the history, management, and financial condition of the bridge pursuant to terms of the resolution the committee discovered many emergency problems confronting bridge district management because of wartime regulations and as a result Senate Resolution No. 35, adopted by the Fifty-fifth Session of the Legislature, extended the time of committee study in order that the very latest trends in traffic over the bridge, current revenues and maintenance and operating costs be included in the committee report which is presented herewith.

General Survey

The committee approached its study of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District with the desire to acquire a thorough understanding of the facts concerning legislation introduced in the Fifty-fourth Session of the Legislature calling for inclusion of the Sausalito Extension Highway as an approach to the bridge; and to clarify the financial needs of the bridge district in relation to past and present revenues, as well as anticipated earnings, maintenance and operating costs necessary to meet a long term application of funds toward bond interest and redemption; to secure factual data on need for State aid in maintenance of the bridge and approaches, together with the possibility of the State taking over the bridge and its management, making the structure eventually toll free; to study the relationship of truck and motor vehicle traffic revenues with increases in population throughout the area directly served by the bridge; to make constructive recommendations to the Legislature and the board of directors of the bridge district; and to aid the motoring public generally in obtaining a better understanding of the many ramifications connected with administering the affairs of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and the vital import of the bridge to the Highway System of California and the Pacific Coast.

To accomplish these objectives, public hearings were held in San Francisco and Sacramento in December, 1942; January, 1943; and March, 1943.

Many individuals and representatives having a particular interest in toll rates and service facilities of the Golden Gate Bridge appeared before the committee.

Additional conferences held with directors and officers of the bridge district, and with officials of the State Department of Public Works, proved highly informative and valuable as both agencies cooperated fully in making available exhaustive historical data, files and official records, and detailed information requested by the committee.

Varied Factors Have Bearing on Golden Gate Bridge

The committee recognized immediately the many factors involved in organizing the six counties of San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Mendocino (part), and Del Norte into a bridge and highway district in accordance with provisions of Act No. 936, General Laws of California, approved May 25, 1923, and with the issuance of $35,000,000 in bonds to cover administrative, engineering, construction and financial costs, but the committee confined its study to post-construction matters, except for reviewing the conditions under which the War Department granted the permit for construction of the bridge.

While authority was granted by the Legislature to form the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, May 25, 1923, it was not until December 4, 1928, that the district was officially incorporated. Bridge construction began on January 5, 1933, and not until May 28, 1937, was the structure opened to pedestrian and motor vehicle use.

The committee found that toll revenues immediately following opening of the bridge were governed to some degree by ferryboat competition, and not until discontinuance of the ferryboat service in 1941 was the full impact of motor vehicle traffic across the bridge felt.

The committee feels that insufficient time elapsed between the discontinuance of ferryboat operation and the outbreak of war on December 7, 1941, in which to allow a picture of bridge earnings accurate enough to permit a projection of such earnings into future income. It is likewise impossible to determine future population increases in the area directly serviced by the bridge and to pro-rate such population increases into future tolls. From testimony presented bearing on the number of vehicles which were using the bridge prior to Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, there was an indication of steady increase, and therefore, following the war, it is natural to conclude that this increase will continue if for no other reason than the fact that the population growth in the State as a whole will reflect considerably greater travel than the bridge ever experienced prior to the beginning of the war. It is the opinion of the committee, however, that growth in population throughout the bridge district may not increase sufficiently to meet increased toll revenues necessary to maintain and administer the bridge and to meet obligations of the district in future years.

The income of the district was directly affected by entrance of the United States in World War Two. Inauguration of gasoline rationing on December 1, 1942, virtually stopped all pleasure and nonessential traffic over the bridge, and for the first 10 days following December 1, 1942, toll revenues showed a drop of $2,200 per day over the same period of the preceding month.

After making an exhaustive study of the formation of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District; the issuance of $35,000,000 in non-callable bonds backed by the full faith and credit of real property within the district; the terms and conditions under which the War Department issued the permit for construction of the bridge and approaches thereto; trends in truck and passenger traffic using the bridge since its opening to public use, including the greatly varied total between peacetime and the present war emergency; and the financial obligations, viewed in terms of the present and future (which is complicated somewhat by the unknown factor of the war's duration), the committee reached the following conclusions:

Toll-Free Government Traffic

The committee found the toll free privilege extended Government traffic affects the entire operation and maintenance costs of the bridge. A total of 1,946,903 non-revenue Government vehicles have used the bridge from the time of its opening to December 31, 1942, and an amazing increase of toll free Government traffic is shown between 1940 (295,348 vehicles) and 1942 (726,741 vehicles).

Testimony before the committee indicated the War Department was in a strong bargaining position in granting the provisional permit for construction of the Golden Gate Bridge on December 20, 1924, in that both north and south bridge approaches crossed military reservations. However, the committee came to the conclusion that granting of toll-free privileges to the War Department by the bridge district was intended to cover military forces of the United States and their dependents only.

The committee learned that under the classification of non-revenue Government vehicles is included all traffic of the Army and Navy, including civilian employees of the Army and Navy traveling on official business; Army and Navy personnel, active and retired, and their dependents whether on official business or personal pleasure; and all Government-owned vehicles and equipment, as well as all Government employees of all Government agencies, the latter group comprising some 92 different bureaus. A total of about 15 per cent of the bridge traffic is now toll-free Government traffic.

The committee feels no such "Free Ride" regulations are imposed on other agencies dealing in Government traffic, and that whenever transportation is desired on any public carrier, provision is made for the purchase of tickets and transportation. The committee also recognizes that Federal regulations on the use of rubber and gasoline by the public have resulted in revenue losses to the bridge district, which makes the moral obligation of the Government to pay its way over the bridge all the more important. Such drastic travel restrictions could easily create an emergency financial problem to the bridge district.

The moral obligation of the Federal Government to pay its way over the Golden Gate Bridge is further strengthened by the fact that the bridge district was put to extremely heavy costs in replacement of certain buildings and structures on north and south approaches, within Federal military reservations.

The committee recommends that every possible assistance be given to the passage of legislation now pending before the Congress of the United States, which provides for the charging of tolls for the passage or transit of Government traffic over the Golden Gate Bridge.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 7, memorializing and petitioning the Congress of the United States to pass the bill before it, generally known as the "Len Welch Bill," H. R. 877, suspending the exemption from tolls in favor of United States Government traffic over the Golden Gate Bridge during the war emergency and for six months thereafter, was introduced and passed by the Fifty-fifth Session of the Legislature on January 18th.

Refinancing

The committee finds any prediction on the ability of the bridge district to meet its financial obligations in the immediate years ahead is purely speculative because of possible further Government restrictions on automobiles, gasoline, tires, and use of automobiles, and the brief pre-war period of normal traffic with its vital relationship to population increases and annual increases in toll revenues.

The original financial plan was apparently formulated to permit building of the Golden Gate Bridge and get it into operating condition; however, the committee feels it was not designed to meet contingencies such as the present war, or economic disaster, and people of the bridge district in assuming the financial obligation of the $35,000,000 non-callable bonds were too optimistic in the ability of the bridge to produce revenues sufficient to meet substantial retirement schedules.

If the revenues of the district are inadequate to pay the principal or interest of the bonded indebtedness as it becomes due, the board of directors is required to cause a tax to be levied upon all of the tangible property in the district, in addition to any other taxes which may be imposed.

The schedule of bond retirement calls for a total of $1,000,000 (plus $7,509,000 in interest) for the five-year period 1942 to 1946. During the period from 1947 to 1951, the bond retirement increases to $400,000 per year (plus interest); the five-year period from 1952 to 1956 annual bond retirement increases to $800,000 per year (plus interest); and from 1957 to 1961, the annual bond retirement reaches $1,200,000 (plus interest); the period from 1962 to 1966 bond retirement is $1,800,000 annually (plus interest); and the final five-year period of from 1967 to 1971, the annual bond redemption amount is $2,500,000 (plus interest).

With discontinuance of the competing ferry boat service between San Francisco and Marin County March 1, 1941, the first full impact of Golden Gate Bridge traffic was felt and the peak of revenues was developed. Additional increases in income necessary to meet the increasing schedule of bond redemption therefore must be realized from population increases with subsequent use of the bridge.

The committee feels that much of the increased revenue reported since the immediate drop of income on December 1, 1942, resulting from gasoline rationing, is the result of increased employment of workers in the Marin shipbuilding plant at Sausalito and other Northbay war industry activities.

This stop-gap income may or may not continue after peace is declared, but the future obligation of meeting the interest and redemption on the noncallable bonds will remain with the district.

The committee feels that many other financial problems will confront the directors of the bridge district, as they have in the past; and while the committee is quite confident that the return of peace will definitely affect Golden Gate Bridge traffic favorably, not only by reason of the admitted growth in State population, but also because of the inevitable postwar activity in huge public works projects that could not help but affect all classes of motor vehicle traffic over the bridge, a confidence also expressed in the testimony of President Haderer of the district, it is not possible for the committee to endeavor to predict definitely what the postwar era will bring in the way of toll revenues to the bridge district.

With so many unknown factors, together with recorded toll income to date indicating the eventual need for consideration of some type of financial program adjustment, the committee agrees that the Golden Gate Bridge directors should be relieved of their present financial strait jacket in order that they may be in a position to meet any emergency.

This may be accomplished by whatever plan best fits the need of the emergency if and when it arises, as determined by the board of directors.

The committee finds there are two schools of thought in connection with refinancing the present Golden Gate Bridge structure: One group of eminent attorneys contends that the present act permits the board of directors to adjust the district's financial structure; while a second group, equally eminent and respected, claims that the directors have no power or authority to act in the matter, other than follow the schedule of bond redemption as originally established.

The committee feels this question should be clarified beyond all question of doubt and that legislation should be enacted by the Fifty-fifth Session of the Legislature which would grant to the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District the power and authority to adjust the financial structure of the bridge district if and when in the opinion of the board of directors this action is deemed necessary.

The committee therefore recommends that the present Bridge District Act be amended to enable the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to alter their financial program by whatever method they deem best under conditions existing at that time.

The committee finds the Golden Gate Bridge directors have had various refinancing plans submitted to them, including the so-called "Kaiser Plan" which was presented to the committee in detail by its author, Mr. Leland Kaiser.

The committee believes it is not the responsibility of the Legislature to bring forth, or adopt, any specific refinancing plan, but that given proper legal authority under terms of the Bridge District Act, it is the sole duty and responsibility of the board of directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to determine by what method financial readjustments may be accomplished.

Sausalito Lateral

In examining the facts pertaining to possible construction of the Sausalito Extension Lateral as an adjunct to the existing Waldo Approach to the north bridgehead, the committee finds such a highway would represent a tremendous saving in gasoline and maintenance on vehicles using the Golden Gate Bridge, particularly heavy duty trucks which now find it necessary to climb the steep Waldo Grade and are reluctant to use this route because of the steep grades.

A saving in elevation of 366 feet would be effected by construction of the Sausalito Extension Lateral, and as the present Waldo Grade is the scene of numerous slides of rock and mud each winter which interrupt the free flow of traffic and might easily become blocked for extended periods of time, this proposed highway route would serve as an auxiliary bridge approach offering most favorable roadway conditions at all times and under any weather conditions.

At present there is a traffic problem experienced by workers driving to and from the Marin shipyards in Sausalito. Use of the present Waldo Approach entails climbing a 6 per cent grade, passing through the Waldo Tunnel, and then leaving the highway at the bottom of a long grade via a rather sharp turn. The only alternate is the narrow, winding city streets of Sausalito.

To become eligible for State highway funds, the Sausalito Extension Lateral must be a part of the State Primary Highway System.

The only alternate possibility for construction of this highway would be its designation as a military necessity by the military, a highly improbable situation despite the fact that the Waldo Grade, or Waldo Tunnel, might become blocked and present a very serious bottle-neck in defense of the coast in event of an invasion by the enemy.

The committee recognized the difficulty of attempting any highway construction project of this type under present war emergency conditions. However, because no definite plan can be made for construction of this important route in the State's Post-War Highways Construction Program until such time as it becomes a part of the State Primary Highway System, the committee recommends that in the interest of economy to motorists, and commercial vehicles, public safety and as an essential service to the motoring public of California and the West, legislation be enacted by the Fifty-fifth Session of the Legislature designating that portion of highway from the north bridgehead of the Golden Gate Bridge north through the City of Sausalito and joining Highway 101 at the "Waldo Y." as a part of the State Primary Highway System, and that plans be made to incorporate construction of this sector of highway in any postwar highway construction plans, or earlier if possible.

State Ownership

The committee feels that the State has already established its position in regard to toll bridges through Legislative action in 1929 which established the California Toll Bridge Authority:

"It is hereby declared to be the policy of the State of California to acquire and own all toll bridges situated upon or along any part of the highways of the State, with the end in view of ultimately eliminating all toll charges thereon.

"The California Toll Bridge Authority shall authorize and direct the Department of Public Works to build toll bridges and other toll highway crossings, to acquire for and in the name of the State of California toll bridges or other toll highway crossings and approaches thereto across waters, bays, arms of bays, straits, rivers and streams --- whenever in its opinion and in the opinion of the Department of Public Works it is necessary or desirable so to do and to pay for the same out of any funds provided or made available by this act. The Department of Public Works is hereby empowered to acquire by gift, by purchase or by eminent domain proceedings any bridge, franchise, right, privileges, easements or other property either real or personal, when the acquisition or construction is authorized by the California Toll Bridge Authority.

"The Department of Public Works shall have full charge of the acquisition and construction of all such toll bridges and other toll highway crossings as may be authorized by the California Toll Bridge Authority, the operation and maintenance thereof and the collection of tolls thereon."

The committee feels that the only factor preventing State consideration of the Golden Gate Bridge and its approaches has been the financial set-up of the bridge district. Therefore legislation is being advocated which will clarify this point and make it possible for the State to consider the Golden Gate Bridge in terms of the authority already vested in the California Toll Bridge Authority.

Clarification of the Bridge District Act, in regard to the right of the board of directors to refinance, will enable the State and Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District to discuss the problem of maintenance and ultimate State ownership with resultant free tolls.

The committee wishes to call attention to the fact that several years prior to acquisition of the Carquinez Bridge by the State of California, legislation was enacted which permitted such action, and it is the recommendation of the committee that enabling legislation be acted upon by the Fifty-fifth Session of the Legislature which will permit acquisition of the Golden Gate Bridge and approaches thereto, by the State of California, and that the State Department of Public Works be authorized to enter into negotiations for the purchase, lease, maintenance and eventual acquisition, of the Golden Gate Bridge and its approaches.

In view of the well established policies already adopted by the Legislature, the California Toll Bridge Authority and the State Department of Public Works relative to the acquisition and maintenance of toll bridges (purchase of the Antioch and Carquinez Bridges and construction of the San Francisco Oakland Bay Bridge), the committee feels immediate steps should be taken toward the eventual inclusion of the Golden Gate Bridge in the State's Highway and Toll Bridge System. The Golden Gate Bridge has already demonstrated its value and importance to automotive and truck traffic and as an adjunct to vital military programs in California and the entire West. Its acquisition by the State therefore is essential and entirely within the prerogative of the California Toll Bridge Authority, under existing laws, with the enactment of enabling legislation.

In justice to the large number of motorists who use this bridge, and will continue to use it until the present outstanding financial obligations are amortized, the State should be the managing authority and there is no just reason why property owners within the Golden Gate Bridge District should continue to bear the responsibility of the financial success of the bridge simply because they were the motivating factor in the bridge's construction.

Management

The committee found funds of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District were being handled and administered in accordance with provisions of the Bridge Act, and that conditions of employment, including safety, health, and compensation, were comparable to standards prevailing in industry in the San Francisco Bay Area.

The committee finds maintenance costs on the Golden Gate Bridge are very reasonable considering the structure's great exposure to ocean storms. At the time of construction it was not possible to sandblast the steel due to lack of funds; therefore, the major item of maintenance expense is painting.

The item of painting will continue to be the predominating maintenance factor until such time as the bridge is sandblasted, which according to engineer estimates will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

Conclusion

The committee submits this report after intensive studies and after hearing a great amount of oral testimony presented at various public hearings. Strong emphasis is placed on the recommendations for (1) relief of existing toll-free Government privileges, (2) amendments to the Bridge District Act which will enable Golden Gate Bridge directors to adjust finances if and when such action is deemed necessary by said board, (3) enactment of legislation which will incorporate the proposed Sausalito Extension Lateral in the State Primary Highway System, and assure its inclusion in a postwar road construction program, and (4) legislation which will open negotiations for the State to take over the Golden Gate Bridge and operate it eventually toll free.

The committee wishes to express its appreciation to all those who presented material for study, communications and other data which permitted a complete study of the entire Golden Gate Bridge matter.

Respectfully submitted.

"SEC. 2. Section 643.2 is added to said code, to read:

643.2. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 643, until the ninety-first day after final adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature or until the cessation of hostilities in all wars in which the United States is now engaged, whichever first occurs, it shall be lawful to handle, wash, and sterilize milk containers and milk handling equipment in the same room where milk is separated, cooled, mixed, canned, or kept.

SEC. 3. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

A serious shortage of market milk and market cream during the summer months of 1943 is threatened because of an increase in the wartime population of the State and a shortage of producing dairy cows. The Milk Products Act of 1941 requires that separate rooms be provided for the handling of milk and the sterilization of containers and equipment on dairy farms producing market milk. This act, by modifying this limitation so as to permit the sterilization of containers and equipment in the same room where milk is handled for the duration of the war or until the ninety-first day after the adjournment of the Fifty-sixth Regular Session of the Legislature will aid to increase the number of dairies which can qualify for the production of market milk. In order to offset as far as possible the prospective shortage of market milk and cream during the coming summer months in the interest of preserving and protecting human health, it is necessary that this act become effective immediately."

Amendments read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and to third reading.

WITHDRAWAL FROM COMMITTEE OF SENATE BILL NO. 964

Senator Seawell moved that Senate Bill No. 964 be withdrawn from Committee on Transportation for purpose of amendment.

Motion carried.

SECOND READING OF SENATE BILLS (OUT OF ORDER)

Senate Bill No. 964—An act to add Section 276.5 to the Vehicle Code, relating to operator's license.

Bill read second time.

Motion to Amend

Senator Seawell moved the adoption of the following amendment:

Amendment No. 1

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 4 to 10, inclusive, and insert "License. Whenever the Governor shall find that by reason of war an emergency exists whereby the State can no longer, or, in view of all circumstances, should no longer renew drivers' licenses, he shall proclaim such fact. Thereafter the Director of Motor Vehicles shall have authority from time to time to extend the date of expiration of any or all drivers' licenses which may be outstanding for fixed periods not exceeding four years.

When the Governor finds that the emergency necessitating the continuance of outstanding drivers' licenses no longer exists, he shall proclaim such fact, and, thereafter, the director shall have no further authority to extend drivers' licenses under the authority of this section.

This section shall remain in effect until six months after the cessation of hostilities in the war in which the United States is now engaged as declared by the President or Congress of the United States."

Amendment read and adopted.

Bill ordered printed, and referred to Committee on Transportation.

Sec. 9. The chapter heading of Chapter 9 of Division 7 of said code is amended to read:

(CHAPTER 9. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF EMPLOYEES [REQUIRING CERTIFICATION])

SEC. 10. Section 14326 of said code is amended to read:

14326. The board shall keep in convenient form such data as is necessary for the actuarial valuation of the retirement system. In not to exceed six-year periods after June 30, 1935, the board shall make an actuarial investigation into the mortality, service, and other experience of members and beneficiaries and shall make an actuarial valuation of the assets and liabilities of the retirement system. From time to time, the board shall determine the rates of interest being earned on the several funds. Upon the basis of any or all of such investigation, valuation, and determination, the board shall adopt for the retirement system such interest rates, mortality, service, and other tables as are deemed necessary. No action of the board, other than correction of errors in calculating the annuity at the time of retirement, shall change the annuity payable to a person retired prior to the date the action is taken.

SEC. 11. Section 14411 of said code is amended to read:

14411. The following persons are excluded from membership in the retirement system:

(a) Any person who shows to the satisfaction of the board, that he will be unable, by reason of the nature of his services, to become eligible to benefits thereunder.

(b) Persons employed in a status requisite for membership, but who are now or hereafter become members of the State Employees' Retirement System or any other retirement system, and receive credit thereunder for service which would be credited hereunder to a member, except a local fund supported by a local district for the purpose of supplementing the retirement allowance payable under this chapter. A member whose membership is terminated by this subdivision shall be considered, solely for the purpose of Section 14491, as ceasing to be employed in a status requisite to membership.

(c) Persons serving as exchange teachers from outside of this State.

(d) Persons employed on a substitute basis, who are not already members when they become employed and who according to the best judgment of their employer, will not render at least five months of service during the school year. If such persons subsequently enter a status requisite for membership, they shall be credited with service rendered in the substitute status, subject to the board's rule fixing minimum service required for credit.

SEC. 12. Section 14433 of said code is amended to read:

14433. Any person [by] to whom service [is] rendered outside of the State after January 1, 1914, [shall be] is credited and any person who has claimed exemption from the provisions of the retirement system or its predecessor or who was a member of the State Employees' Retirement System while serving in a status requisite for membership in this retirement system or its predecessor, and who later becomes subject to its provisions, shall pay, in addition to the twenty-four dollars ($24) for each year of credited service rendered outside the State or while exempt or while a member of any other system, interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on the amount which would have been contributed had he been a member of the retirement system when the service was rendered. Interest shall begin on the first day of July next following the end of the school year in which the service was rendered, and shall end upon the date of retirement. Contributions for years prior to July 1, 1935, shall carry interest on only twelve dollars ($12) per year.

SEC. 13. Section 14439 of said code is amended to read:

14439. Any member who makes contributions to the annuity deposit fund and who is employed by a local district which, as a condition of employment, requires contributions to a local fund, may elect to cease contributing to that fund, even though he is excluded from the local fund. Accumulated annuity deposits standing to the credit of his individual account, because of service upon the basis of which he will receive a benefit from the local fund, shall be refunded to him upon his request filed with the retirement board within two years after he becomes a member of the local fund. Otherwise, accumulated annuity deposits standing to the credit of his individual account shall remain credited and shall not be refunded except as provided elsewhere.

SEC. 14. Section 14503 of said code is amended to read:

14503. The right of a person to an annuity, a retirement salary, or a retirement allowance, to the return of contributions, the annuity, retirement salary, or retirement allowance itself, any optional benefit, any other right or benefit accrued or accruing to any person under this [article] chapter, and the moneys in the fund created under this chapter shall not be subject to execution, garnishment, attachment, or any other process whatsoever, and shall be unassignable except as in this [article] chapter specifically provided.

SEC. 15. Section 14523 of said code is amended to read:

14523. Upon retirement for service, as provided in Section 14521, a member shall receive a retirement allowance which shall consist of:

- (a) A retirement salary of fifty dollars ($50) per month; and
- (b) An annuity which shall be the actuarial equivalent of his accumulated annuity deposits at the time of his retirement.

The retirement salary shall be subject to the deductions provided in [Sections 14434 and] Section 14435, if the person retired is not credited at the time of retirement with the total permanent fund contributions required of each member.

SEC. 16. Section 14526 of said code is amended to read:

14526. Upon retirement for disability, as provided in Sections 14524 and 14525, a member shall receive a retirement allowance which shall consist of:

- (a) A retirement salary payable monthly in an amount which bears the same ratio to fifty dollars ($50) as the years of service credited to the member, not to exceed thirty (30) years, bears to thirty (30) years; and
- (b) An annuity which shall be the actuarial equivalent of his accumulated annuity deposits at the time of his retirement.

The retirement salary herein provided shall be subject to the deductions provided in [Sections 14434 and] Section 14435, if the person retired is not credited at the time of retirement with the total permanent fund contributions required of each member.

SEC. 17. Section 14528 of said code is amended to read:

14528. The last 10 years of service in this State immediately preceding retirement, as required in Sections 14521 and 14524, may be broken by periods of absence from service, or by periods of service in universities, colleges, or private schools within this State, or by service outside of this State during a year in which the person has served the minimum time required for a year of service in this State, or by a year of service outside this State if 10 of the 11 final years of service have been in this State.

SEC. 18. Section 14529 of said code is amended to read:

14529. Application for retirement shall be made within two years after the last day of service, or at any time during a leave of absence or renewal thereof if the person left service on [any] such leave of absence duly granted by a governing board of a school district or other authority employing him, or within six months after the appointment of a guardian of a member whose right to apply for retirement has otherwise lapsed, or who is determined to the satisfaction of the retirement board to have been mentally incompetent at the time of lapsing.

SEC. 19. Section 14532 of said code is amended to read:

14532. If any person retired pursuant to this article is reemployed, after complying with the requirements in Section 14536, in a status requisite to membership in the retirement system or in any teaching capacity in a public school, or if any person is retired for disability and recovers from the disability for which he was retired, his retirement allowance shall cease.

SEC. 20. Section 16731 of said code is amended to read:

16731. No person, firm, or corporation shall employ, suffer, or permit any minor under the age of 16 years to work in or in connection with any establishment or occupation except as provided in Article [13] 14 of this chapter, without a permit to employ, or a vacation permit issued by the proper educational officers in accordance with law.

SEC. 21. Section 20005 of said code is amended to read:

20005. The residence of each student shall be determined in accordance with the rules for determining residence prescribed by [Section 52 of the Political Code] Sections 243 and 244 of the Government Code. Every alien student who has not made a valid declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States as provided by law, prior to the opening day of a semester during which he proposes to attend the university, is deemed to be a nonresident student. Nothing in this section or in [Section 52 of the Political Code] Sections 243 and 244 of the Government Code prevents The Regents from causing to be classified as a resident student:

- (a) Any citizen of the United States, or any person who prior to the opening day of a semester during which he proposes to attend the university has made a valid declaration of his intention to become a citizen, who has attained his majority according to the laws of this State, and who for a period of one year immediately preceding the opening day of a semester during which he proposes to attend the university has been entirely self-supporting and actually present in the State, with the intention of acquiring a residence therein.

(b) Any minor child, a citizen of the United States, or any minor child, who, prior to the opening day of a semester during which he proposes to attend the university, has made a valid declaration of his intention to become a citizen, who does not receive and has not for a period of more than one year immediately preceding the opening day of a semester during which he proposes to attend the university received, directly or indirectly, any support or financial assistance from his father, if the minor lives with his mother, who is and has been for a period of more than one year immediately preceding the opening day of the semester actually present in the State with the intention of making her permanent home therein.

SEC. 22. Section 20793 of said code is amended to read:

20793. If it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the parent or guardian has sufficient pecuniary ability or that there are sufficient funds in the estate of the child to provide the service for the child or to reimburse the State Department of Education for expenses incurred by it in providing the service for the child in an emergency, the court shall not issue the certificate, but shall, according to the nature of the application before it, either order the principal to provide the child with the service or order the parent or guardian either himself or from the estate of the child, as the court determines, to reimburse the State Department of Education for expenses incurred by it in providing the service for the child in an emergency.

[If the State Department of Education is not reimbursed by the parent or guardian personally or from the estate of the child for expenditures made by the principal under the order of the court or if the parent or guardian does not comply with an order of the court to reimburse the State Department of Education either personally or from the estate of the child for expenses incurred by it in providing the service for the child in an emergency the principal may sue the parent or guardian, in the name of the State, to recover any money paid out by order of the court or due the State Department of Education as reimbursement under an order of the court.]

SEC. 23. Section 20794 is added to said code to read:

20794. If the State Department of Education is not reimbursed by the parent or guardian personally or from the estate of the child for expenditures made by the principal under the order of the court or if the parent or guardian does not comply with an order of the court to reimburse the State Department of Education either personally or from the estate of the child for expenses incurred by it in providing the service for the child in an emergency the principal may sue the parent or guardian, in the name of the State, to recover any money paid out by order of the court or due the State Department of Education as reimbursement under an order of the court."

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and, on motion of Senator Biggar, ordered printed in the Journal:

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, April 6, 1943

*C. E. Wilson, Executive Vice Chairman War Production Board,

We were astounded to receive today revocation preference rating order issued March 31, 1943, on P-19c No. 669 for the reconstruction of Albion River Bridge south Fort Bragg on strategic highway network, State Route 56. Project financed Federal aid secondary and State funds, endorsed by Army and certified by WPR. Contract awarded September, 1942, but progress delayed due inability to secure materials on A 2 rating. No record of WPR action upon continued requests for upgrading. State negotiating with contractor for modification design to permit use smaller length timbers which are more obtainable. Bridge being constructed consists series timber trusses on timber towers with second-hand steel truss span supported on reinforced concrete towers spanning main channel at estimated cost $385,600. Bridge replaces 522-foot timber stringer and wooden truss span with 17 feet roadway width built 1922 by Mendocino County about 80 feet above water. Bridge posted in 1934 for 11 tons and 15 m.p.h. Load and speed restrictions frequently and continuously violated, former by as much as 100 per cent. Experience with somewhat similar but heavier designed bridges indicate failure within 17 years. Precarious condition bridge shown by joints pulling apart, trusses not plumb and bowing columns. Incipient failure emphasized by excessive swaying and deflection. Complete failure may occur momentarily. Impossible to maintain safety. Bridge spans deep canyon with no detour available, and failure structure would disrupt traffic traversing Coastal Redwood Region from Point Arena to Fort Bragg and require circuitous route utilizing unimproved mountainous roads to U. S. 101 via Laytonville or Willits, Mendocino County, with attendant delay in ultimate delivery vital war materials to San Francisco Bay Area. Failure would impede truck shipments of 50,000 feet of lumber per day, transportation fish and farm products and would result in blocking of coast road to all civilian and military traffic. We are at complete loss to understand reason for issuance of this stop order. State charged with responsibility of maintaining highways and bridges for safe transportation. Your action makes it impossible for State to fulfill its obligations. Hence you must publicly accept full responsibility for safe conduct of civilian and military traffic. We request your immediate cancellation of stop order and approval of uprating so project may be expeditiously prosecuted to completion.

G. T. McCoy, California State Highway Engineer

INTRODUCTION

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and members of the Legislature:

Your committee investigating un-American activities in California herewith submits its report on the investigations and public hearings held throughout the State.

AUTHORIZATION

The committee was created by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13, filed with the Secretary of State January 27, 1941. This resolution created a Joint Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California. The committee was instructed by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13 to "investigate, ascertain, collate and appraise all facts causing or constituting interference with the National Defense Program in California or rendering the people of the State, as a part of the Nation, less fit physically, mentally, morally, economically or socially;" and to "investigate the activity of groups and organizations whose membership include persons who are members of the Communist Party, the Fascist Organizations, the German Nazi Bund, or any other organization known or suspected to be dominated or controlled by a foreign power, which activities affect the preparation of this State for National defense, the functioning of any State agency, unemployment relief and other forms of public assistance, educational institutions of this State supported in whole or in part by State funds, or any political program." Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13 provides that the committee should "act during this Session of the Legislature (1941), including any recess hereof, and after final adjournment hereof, until the commencement of the Fifty-fifth Legislature," and "to file a report with the Legislature during any Session of the Fifty-fourth Legislature and with the Legislature during the regular Session of the Fifty-fifth Legislature." Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13 appropriated the sum of $10,000 from the Contingent Fund of the Senate and the Assembly for the expenses of the committee.

Pursuant to the provisions of the resolution the Committee on Rules of the Senate appointed Senators T. H. DeLap, Chris N. Jespersen and Clarence C. Ward. The Speaker of the Assembly appointed Assemblymen Hugh M. Burns, Jesse Randolph Kellems, James H. Phillips and Jack B. Tenney. In compliance with the provisions of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13 the committee, as appointed by the Rules Committee of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly, selected Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney as its chairman.

Before the final adjournment of the Legislature in 1941, the Rules Committee of the Senate declined to make a further appropriation for the use of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee created under the provisions of Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13. On June 13, 1941, Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney, the Chairman of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee created under Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13, offered House Resolution No. 277 to the Assembly. House Resolution No. 277 was adopted by the Assembly. This resolution contained nearly the same provisions as Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13, except that it created an Assembly Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California of five members of the Assembly to be appointed by the Speaker and appropriated the sum of $15,000 from the Contingent Fund of the Assembly for the expenses of the committee. The Speaker of the Assembly thereafter appointed Assemblymen Hugh M. Burns, Nelson S. Dilworth, Jesse Randolph Kellems, James H. Phillips and Jack B. Tenney to serve on the Assembly committee. Subsequently, the members appointed by the Speaker selected Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney as its chairman. Later in the year Senators T. H. DeLap, Chris N. Jespersen, and Clarence C. Ward resigned from the Joint Fact-Finding Committee created by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 13. Although the committee sat during the greater part of its existence as an Assembly interim committee, it nevertheless retained a majority of the members of the Joint Fact-Finding Committee.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 8 was introduced by Senators Jack B. Tenney of Los Angeles County and Hugh M. Burns of Fresno County on January 8, 1943. It was unanimously approved by the Senate and was adopted by the Assembly with but five dissenting votes. Pursuant to its provisions the Rules Committee of the Senate appointed Senators Hugh M. Burns and Jack B. Tenney and the Speaker of the Assembly appointed Assemblymen Nelson S. Dilworth and Dr. Jesse Randolph Kellems. The committee in its first meeting elected Senator Jack B. Tenney its chairman.

The committee, therefore, acted at all times under joint authority of the Senate and the Assembly of the California Legislature. For this reason your committee makes its report to both houses of the California Legislature.

ACTIVITIES OF THE COMMITTEE

Between July 28, 1941, and March 1, 1943, the committee conducted 30 days of public hearings in the State of California. The dates and places of these hearings are as follows:

Los Angeles, July 28, 29, 30, 31, and August 1, 1941.

Los Angeles, October 14, 15, 16, and 17, 1941.

San Francisco, December 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, 1941.

San Quentin, December 6, 1941.

San Diego, February 19, 20, and 21, 1942.

Los Angeles, February 23, and 24, 1942.

Los Angeles, March 24, 1942.

Fresno, May 22, 23, 1942.

San Francisco, May 25, 26, and 27, 1942.

Los Angeles, December 16, and 19, 1942.

Los Angeles, February 27, and March 1, 1943.

In addition to the above specified public hearings, the committee met in executive session on a number of occasions. During the two years existence of the committee it has taken 16 volumes of testimony-transcript numbering 3,980 pages. Hundreds of exhibits have been introduced in connection with the testimony of witnesses and are attached to the original transcripts of testimony. In addition to these records, the committee has gathered hundreds of pamphlets and circulars. Attaches of the committee have subscribed to subversive publications and have systematically checked them during the life of the committee. In addition, the committee has filed and indexed nearly 14,000 cards listing the activities of as many individuals in California. This part of the committee's work is incomplete due to the lack of funds for the employment of necessary attaches.

The committee has attempted to probe the activities of the groups enumerated in the resolutions creating the committee, such as the Communist Party, the Nazi-German Bund, the Fascist organizations and kindred groups.

The members of your committee unanimously selected Mr. R. E. Combs of Visalia as Chief Investigator. Investigators were hired from time to time in northern California and in southern California and in all cases these investigators did an outstanding patriotic work. Thomas L. Cavett did a great deal of work for the committee in the southern part of the State and Harry T. Machell did splendid work for the committee in the San Francisco area. The committee had a number of volunteer investigators who did extensive work without compensation and at their own expense. Among these your committee wishes especially to mention Mr. W. Bruce Pine of Los Angeles. Mr. Pine was attacked in San Francisco in a trap that had been laid for the committee's chief investigator, R. E. Combs, and had to be hospitalized. The American Legion and its committees assisted in every instance. Ben S. Boery, Chairman of the Americanism Committee of the Seventeenth District, American Legion, rendered your committee valuable services. The Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Anti-Defamation League and other similar groups assisted the committee in every possible manner. Many other patriotic and civic organizations who do not desire publicity, likewise rendered invaluable service.

Dr. John R. Lechner, executive director of the Americanism Educational League did especially fine work in the Japanese field, collecting many documents and statistics concerning Issei and Nisei Japanese. His report, Playing With Dynamite, prepared by him in his capacity as chairman of the Americanism Commission of the 23d District of the American Legion, is well worth study in connection with the Japanese problem.

Particular mention must be made of the work of Mrs. Linnie Terry, committee secretary, who labored night and day preparing the material and typing the entire manuscript of this report.

To all of these patriotic individuals and groups, and the many others who are not named, but whose fine assistance is acknowledged, the members of the committee extend their sincere thanks.

From the very inception of its work the members of the committee were cognizant of the fact that all subversive activities are tinged with sensationalism and that facts developed by investigations and public hearings necessarily lend themselves to publicity. The committee and its members, therefore, endeavored in every way to conduct the hearings with dignity and restraint, sometimes under most trying circumstances.

Before hearings on any phase of the committee's work were planned, an intensive study was made of the ideological background of the particular movement under investigation. Its literature was secured and read. Hearing briefs, covering all of the points concerning the organization, its leaders, members and activities, and the questions to be asked the witnesses and the exhibits to be introduced in connection with witnesses' testimony, were carefully prepared. The order and appearance of witnesses were carefully planned so that the committee's transcript would show a clear, systematic and chronological sequence. To preserve clarity and continuity throughout, the examination of witnesses was conducted by the committee's chief investigator, Mr. R. E. Combs. At the conclusion of the prepared questions from the hearing brief, the members of the committee asked such questions as occurred to them during the chief examination of the witness.

The committee, at all times, cooperated closely with the intelligence units of the armed forces and with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Representatives of the committee have worked for weeks at a time with the agents of Federal departments. It was found the elastic powers of your committee were exceedingly helpful to other law enforcing agencies. The committee, empowered to subpoena witnesses and to examine them under oath, not being bound by the rules of evidence and armed with the power to punish for contempt through the initiation of proper criminal proceedings, and for perjury in the event that crime might be established, cuts through the technical restriction of other investigative units which are primarily law enforcing in character rather than fact-finding.

The newspapers of the State of California played an important part in the work of the committee. Nearly every newspaper in the State carried concise and clear reports of the public hearings and contributed greatly in exposing the machinations and activities of subversive groups within our borders. Your committee wishes to state emphatically that subversive organizations wither and die under the penetrating search-light of publicity. The newspapers of California have contributed no small part in patriotically checking these termites in their efforts to undermine and sabotage our government.

AMERICANISM

The committee approached each separate subversive problem on the premise that any group that attacks the Flag, institutions, traditions, Democracy and Constitution of California and the United States is un-American per se. The members of the committee, at all times, kept in mind the Bill of Rights and its guarantees to the people of the United States. The committee has, at all times, carefully distinguished between criticism of our form of government and design for its destruction. We have been aware, at all times, of the right of every citizen to criticize, to discuss, and to propose changes in either our laws or our economics. We have never lost sight of the right of the individual, or of a group of individuals, to propose changes in our laws and in our government by constitutional methods. We have, therefore, concerned ourselves with those individuals and groups who are determined to sabotage and forcibly destroy the government under which we live and to which we owe our allegiance. The committee is happy to report that such individuals and groups are in the minority but wishes emphatically to state that because of this minority status, these groups have evolved techniques and tactics that more than offset the smallness in numbers of their adherents. They present a real and tangible threat to our institutions, our Democracy, our State and our Nation.

ISMS VERSUS DEMOCRACY

The members of the committee have been asked from time to time to define un-American and subversive groups. We believe that any organization, individual or group in California or in the United States, controlled, directed or subsidized by a foreign government or agency, either by direct instructions or sympathy with or adherence to foreign isms inimical to the Constitution and Democracy of the United States, and which have as their ultimate objective the changing of the policies of, or the government of, the United States in accordance with the wishes or directions or ultimate objectives of such foreign government, are un-American and subversive.

Considerable study of Communism, Fascism, and Naziism has been made by the committee and its representatives in contrast to American Democracy. We find, generally, that all of these isms are inimical to the most fundamental principles of Democracy under the Constitution of the United States. Communism, Naziism and Fascism differ one from the other only in minor technicalities. The committee finds that:

1. Communism, Naziism and Fascism are totalitarian dictatorships.
2. Communism, Naziism and Fascism abolish all respect for personal dignity and individual rights.

3. The individual under Communism, Naziism or Fascism is deprived of any legal protection whatever against acts of force or brutality by representatives of his respective government.

4. All three forms of government have in common a complete and thorough contempt for liberalism, parliamentarism, humanitarianism, majority opinion or democratic procedure. All three isms are founded on intolerance and are committed to attaining their ends by the application of ruthless force and brutality.

5. Under Communism, Naziism or Fascism the imposition of group interest over individual right differs only in respect to the group favored. Under Communism, it is the proletariat and under Naziism and Fascism, the lower middle classes of the people.

6. Communism, Naziism and Fascism are single party systems. Party members under all three systems are exalted over the remainder of the people and constitute a class under which new caste distinctions emerge. The National Socialist Party of Germany under Hitler at the outbreak of the war numbered about 3,000,000 people out of the total population of Germany, and the Communist Party of Russia had about the same numerical strength. Only party members in Germany or in Russia have anything to say whatsoever about the conduct of their respective governments.

7. Class warfare is the approved, accepted, desirable and legitimate means used by Communism, Naziism and Fascism for the attainment of their respective objectives.

8. Communism, Naziism and Fascism have a common history of terror and intimidation. The Blood Purges of 1934 in Germany are illustrative of the Nazi technique in overcoming opposition and have their counterpart in Soviet Russia in the physical mass liquidation of entire populations in the Ukraine and in the Communist trials and mass murders of 1937.

9. The Communist, Nazi and Fascist dictatorship share the doctrine of expansion by force beyond their own boundaries; not only conquest by the sword, but conquest by propaganda, and political penetration as well. The Fascist invasion of Ethiopia, the Nazi attacks upon Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway and Western Europe in general, and Soviet Russia's attack on Finland, Poland and Rumania before Hitler's invasion of Russia, are typical illustrations of conquest by the sword. Nazi propaganda and front organizations under direct supervision of Berlin, Communist propaganda, front organizations and activities throughout the United States under the direct supervision of Moscow and Fascist propaganda and organizations under the direction of Rome, are illustrations of the political penetrations of these three totalitarian states.

Constitutional democracies are best described today as being "in the middle." The end of the war, with its necessary dislocations and readjustments, will make this fact even more apparent. On the one side is Communism and on the other, Fascism. Regardless of the outcome of the war neither ideology will be destroyed. While there is little difference between them, each flourishes and grows strong in its antagonism against the other. Naziism, and its German-American Bund mouthpiece in America, recruits members and sympathizers on the basis of its race hatred and anti-Communism. Russia, through its mouthpiece, the Communist Party of the United States, recruits members on the basis of class hatred and anti-Fascism. Constitutional democracies are caught in this vicious "squeeze-play." We have yet to see an anti-Nazi Communist League.

The successful adjustment of our economic life in the United States to industrial and agricultural mass production; the successful adjustment of the increasing use of machines to the decreasing use of labor within the framework of our Constitution and its Bill of Rights is the real problem facing American Democracy today. Many of our people, including public officials, appear to have lost sight of this real problem in the midst of the hullabaloo raised by the conflict between Fascism and Communism. American Democracy has been sitting idly by, quizzically watching the life and death struggle of two beasts of prey, little realizing that Democracy is the prize to be devoured by the victor of the contest. America must be made to realize that it is not just Fascism versus Communism, but, actually, Constitutional Democracy versus Totalitarianism.

SUBVERSIVE GROUPS ATTACK WEAKNESSES

The United States was attacked at Pearl Harbor! This attack was a practical demonstration of what can happen to a Nation unaware of enemies possessed with ideological passion for world domination. The United States has no territorial ambitions. The United States has no desire to govern the people of other lands. In fighting this war we do so because we are attacked. All that the United States hopes for in victory is that the world will rid itself of the madmen; of superiority ideologies and of the crusading isms continually challenging the right of other Nations to live at peace at home and with its neighbors.

This global conflict is a two front war. It is a war of ships and tanks, of bombers and guns. It is also a war of ideas. In the final analysis the conflict is not simply to determine the victorious nation or nations, but to determine what ideas will rule the world. The United States battle fronts are scattered throughout the world. We can trace the ebb and flow of desperate battle on the world's map. It is difficult, however, to trace the isms, the sneaking and disguised enemies of our democracy as they ebb and flow, pulsating within our own ranks at home. Our military leaders, our engineers and our scientists have developed military equipment; we have heard of "defense in depth"; of offensive strategy; of adequate arms, but we have developed little, if anything, for the battle of ideas. It should be remembered that we can win the war and lose our democracy through short sightedness. If we are to win the war and retain our democracy, then we must know not only the enemy we fight with guns but the enemy we fight with ideas; we must know his strategy and the weapons he uses against us. The fanatical fighting zeal of the subversive enemies within our midst must not only be met with equal zeal but must be surpassed in faith for our democracy and our form of government.

What kind of people are we fighting on the home front? Your committee is prepared to state that they are trained, iron-disciplined and inspired with a zeal and purpose to wipe out our way of life. Are we, as Americans, trained and disciplined and inspired with zeal to continue our way of life? Are we prepared for this war at home?

We are fighting a total war. We should demand nothing less than total victory. It is the responsibility of the Legislature to enact suitable laws for the protection of the community, the State and Nation from these subversive organizations, but laws are not enough. We need a fighting faith for our Democracy, our Constitution and our way of life.

PART I

THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT AS AN ALLY OF THE UNITED STATES

The members of your committee are fully appreciative of the magnificent stand being made against Hitler and his hordes of barbarians by the Red Army. We are likewise cognizant of the fact that since December, 1941, our country, the United States, has been an ally of Soviet Russia. The members of the committee, since the invasion of Soviet Russia by Germany in June of 1941, have been in full accord with every possible assistance to the Soviet Union in its fight against the common enemy, Nazi-Germany. We stand unequivocally behind the foreign policy of our government in giving every possible aid, at this time, to Soviet Russia and her valiant Red Army. We have no quarrel, whatsoever, with the foreign policy of the United States in relation to the winning of the war and the uncompromising defeat of the Axis powers. We stand, as we believe every patriotic American stands, wholeheartedly for every possible aid to Great Britain, China, Soviet Russia and the United Nations in winning this war and in the complete and thorough crushing of Hitler, Mussolini, and Hirohito.

The committee, however, wishes to distinguish between the activities of the Soviet Union as a government allied to the United States in this present conflict, and the activities of its tool and agent,—the Communist Party of the United States. We look upon these two activities as distinct and separate; on the one hand referring to the foreign policy of our own country, and on the other, referring specifically to our internal domestic picture, and bearing, perhaps, vitally, on the future and the preservation of our form of government when the war is ended.

The situation is crystal clear if our thinking is straight and lucid. Prior to December 7, 1941 the United States was seething with alien propaganda, foreign-agents and avowed enemies of our way of life. For 22 months, culminating June 22, 1941, two fifth columns, merging their activities and propaganda, had collaborated in sabotaging our defense efforts and our preparations for the eventuality of war. The Nazi Fifth Column and the Communist Fifth Column, because of the mutual interests of their respective foreign governments, buried whatever antagonism that had existed between them and worked against their common enemies, the United States, Great Britain and the nations at war with Germany. Suddenly, on June 22, 1941, the masters of these fifth columns in America went to war against each other. The United States was still at peace. On June 23, 1941, the Communist Fifth Column stopped its collaboration with the Nazi Fifth Column, altered its propagandizing in the United States, and became a leading force in its demand for intervention. Many Americans, including members of your committee, favored intervention against Nazi-Germany at the outbreak of the war.

Since the invasion of Soviet Russia by Nazi-Germany, the Communist Party in California has been helpful in ferreting out Nazi and pro-Axis agents and sympathizers, as the transcripts of the committee amply indicate. Every loyal American, and every decent human being, loathes and abhors the bestiality and degrading philosophy that activates Nazi-Germany. Every loyal American is resolved and determined, at whatever personal sacrifice necessary, that the Nazi-monster and its Axis partners be vigorously and thoroughly stamped out. No loyal American will compromise this resolve and determination and will be satisfied with nothing less than the unconditional surrender and defeat of these world aggressors. In this resolve and determination of ours, the Communist Party of the United States has found, for the first time in its existence, a moving force in America, corresponding in every detail with the foreign policy, ambition and need of the Comintern. The Communist Party will take every possible advantage of this situation. Heretofore the Communists have been able to fit their party line into small segments of American life, detached from the broad current of Yankee thought and desire. Now, they find that the sweeping force of a great war in which the United States is engaged, is one which they can harness for their future, sinister purposes.

Earl Browder's latest book of Communist propaganda is Victory—And After (International Publishers Co., Inc., 1942). This work, as is to be expected, elucidates the present party line of the Comintern. In addition to being an all-out attack on Martin Dies and his committee, the general theme is "Unity," which may be considered the Communist key-term for the current era of Communist strategy in the United States. The psychological tactic of tying in the enemies of Communism with the enemies, fancied or otherwise, of segments of American life, is here used in a vicious and clever manner by tying the enemies of Communism in with the enemies of the United States. Thus, although the Dies Committee has exposed Axis-agents and Nazi-front organizations as fearlessly as they have exposed Communism and its front organizations; because it has fought Communism together with the now admitted enemy of the United States, Nazism, Mr. Browder labels Dies and his committee the real fifth column in America and agents of Hitler. Mr. Browder believes the war offers an opportunity for the Communist Party to rid itself of the Dies Committee and of all similar Committees by the fallacious reasoning that in view of the fact that the United States is an ally of Soviet Russia, it naturally follows that those who oppose Communism necessarily espouse Nazism. Mr. Browder's plea for "Unity" is a plea for freedom of action, plotting and intrigue in the United States for the Communist Party. Victory—And After is clearly Communist propaganda modified to meet the present strategy of the party.

In Victory—And After we have, as of course is to be expected, a different Earl Browder than the person who appeared before the members of the Fifteenth International Brigade in the vicinity of Moro Station in Spain following the brigade's relief from action at Teruel. (Affidavit of John G. Honeycombe.) At that time, Mr. Browder is reported as having said in his address to the members of the brigade that "Victory for the working class of Spain will be the signal for the revolt of the working classes throughout the world to overthrow their oppressors and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat; * * * we of America must set the example of revolutionary discipline and courage for the workers of Spain as well as for our own working class at home in America," and that the day would surely come when the Communists would be the cadres of the revolution, leading the vanguard of the working class in their struggle to overthrow the capitalists and the capitalist systems and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat; that the comrades in Spain must emulate the heroic leaders of the revolution, Lenin and Stalin.

The Communist Fifth Column is still in America. The committee warns that this fact must not be forgotten. We all admire the courage and heroism of the Russian people fighting against the barbarous, brutalized Nazi invader. We do not believe, however, that this stand and this courage of the Russian people proves the greatness of their form of government any more than we believe that the aggressiveness and brutality of the Nazi hordes prove the greatness of the Nazi dictatorship. We have no quarrel with the Soviet Government. We DO have a quarrel with Nazi-Germany and her Axis partners. We are determined, in collaboration with the United Nations, to prosecute that quarrel to glorious victory for the United Nations. We want peace at the conclusion of this victorious war with all the nations of the world. Our comradeship-in-arms with Soviet Russia in this life-and-death struggle will, and properly should, bring the people of the United States and the people of Russia, together in strong bonds of friendship. We desire that our governments, because of our mutual sacrifices, work together in the future in close friendship and cooperation. We have no designs on the Government of the United Nations nor upon the Government of Soviet Russia. We believe in the self determination of peoples of all nations. We insist and demand that we be permitted to determine our own form of government. We are resolved that the end of the war shall not see the end of our American way of life. Therefore, we should not tolerate in our midst, either the fifth column of the enemies we fight on the far-flung battlefields of the world, or the Fifth Column of the allies with whom we fight as well.

The war is one thing. Our peace, tranquillity and security at home, in California and in the United States, is another thing. We must not forget that the transcendent arch-enemy which the Communist Third International, and its affiliated parties throughout the world and the whole elaborate Communist hierarchy have been savagely, relentlessly, ruthlessly and fanatically fighting since the inception of the Comintern, is Capitalism. The complete smashing by force of every capitalist government—yes, and of every Democracy—and the establishment of a world-wide dictatorship of the proletariat is the long range objective of the Comintern. The mere intervention of this global conflict will not, for an instant, change the allegedly scientific socialism of Karl Marx or in any manner amend or lessen the basic ideologies of the Communist movement which is indelibly burned into the mind and fibre of every real indoctrinated Communist.

The committee is likewise aware of the cleverly conceived and still more cleverly executed psychological warfare plans of pro-Axis forces in the United States. We have become thoroughly familiar with the patterns of Axis propaganda, its use of prejudices and its play on ignorance and emotion. The committee has gathered considerable evidence, proving beyond the shadow of a doubt, that the pro-Axis forces in California and in the United States, have used in the past, and are well prepared to use in the future, the Communist Party and Soviet Russia as a basis for a negotiated peace with Germany and the Axis powers. Hitler used the Communist menace as a stepladder to the Fuehrership of the Third Reich. Therefore, the committee emphatically warns the people of California and of the United States to be watchful and aware of such a pro-Axis scheme. Our country and its leaders have never quarreled with the people of other countries in the determination of their particular forms of government. We reiterate that we in America have no quarrel with Soviet Russia, as a government, in its form of government, its economics, or its internal laws. We have never sought officially or otherwise to dictate to the people of Germany, of Italy or of Japan, the form of government under which they should live. We have never sent emissaries from the United States to undermine or destroy the governments of foreign countries. We have never attempted to indoctrinate the people of other countries with our philosophy of government nor have we stirred them up for the purpose of undermining and sabotaging their institutions. We have no quarrel with the Monarchy of Great Britain. We have no quarrel with the form of the governments of the United Nations. We, therefore, believe that we have a right to be free of molestation and interference in our own Nation as to our particular type of government and its institutions. If we are not concerned about the preservation of our American Democracy, its Constitution, its government and its institutions, then, of course, it doesn't very much matter. The committee believes, however, that we are vitaly concerned. Thus it is, that we carefully distinguish between the government of Soviet Russia, our ally in fighting the common enemy, Nazi-Germany, and the Communist Party of the United States, which has as its long range objective the destruction of our form of government. It is only incidental, and considerably aside from the main question, that the Communist Party of the United States, in carrying out its policy of protecting the Soviet Union, joins presently in our all-out war effort against the common enemy.

Clear thinking in these times is vitally important. The committee learned that when it investigated the Communists in California, that the Communists attacked the committee as being "Fascist" and, after the invasion of Russia by Germany as agents of Hitler. When the committee investigated the German-American Bund, the Friends of Progress, and the Italian-Fascist groups throughout the State, the committee was attacked by these groups as being "Communist." The pattern of psychological propaganda in this respect was the same on either side of the picture. This strategy is being carried to great lengths at present by the Communist Party in California. An attack upon the American Communist, according to the American Communist, is an attack upon American "unity" and whoever indulges in such attacks, proclaims the American Communist, is an ally of Hitler and the Axis powers. The "unity" that the Communist Party babbles about at this time is the unity of a drop of arsenic in a glass of milk. If anyone complains of the arsenic, argues the Communist, he is disrupting "unity." It is the psychology of the classical proposal of an alternate selection of death; hanging or shooting, and the human mind sometimes does not reason clearly enough to recognize the fundamental and actual desire, merely to live. Americans want neither hanging nor shooting, neither Fascism nor Communism. They want American Democracy, constitutional government, free enterprise, civil liberties, freedom, and the unhindered enjoyment of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

The distinction the committee makes in this connection is a very real one. How many of our people ever heard of a man by the name of Michael Kalinin? Everyone has heard of Stalin. Yet Stalin has no position, whatsoever, in the Soviet government. Michael Kalinin is the head of the Union of the Socialist Soviet Republics. Joseph Stalin is merely the Secretary of the Communist Party of Russia.

RED-BAITING AND RED-BAITERS

The average citizen knows little or nothing of Communism. He has been the victim of a steady barrage of clever propaganda under which true designs and purposes are concealed. He has been led to believe that anyone who advocates a more equal distribution of the world's goods and who fights for the oppressed and the exploited is called a "Communist" by the so-called "reactionary" press and the spokesmen of large corporations. If Mr. Average Citizen has heard Communism defined at all, it has been on the basis of the theory of John Mill who defined "Communism" as "An equality of distribution of the physical means of life and enjoyment as a transition to a still higher standard of justice that all should work according to their capacity and receive according to their need." John Mill's definition of Communism is the cheese in the trap for the unwary mouse, Mr. Average Citizen.

Generally, Mr. Average Citizen has never met anyone who admitted he was a Communist. He has undoubtedly heard of Mr. Earl Browder, Secretary of the Communist Party of the United States of America, and perhaps he has even seen photographs of Mr. Browder. He may have heard that "Communism is Twentieth Century Americanism." In recent years he has heard that Communism is based on the principles of Jefferson, Washington, Lincoln, Marx, Lenin and Stalin. Certainly, reasons Mr. Average Citizen, (if he is actually reasoning and not merely reacting to his conditioned reflexes), if Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln are in agreement with Marx, Lenin and Stalin, then, certainly, Communism is, in fact, really Twentieth Century Americanism.

If our Mr. Average Citizen has really been doing any thinking in recent years, he must undoubtedly have been considerably confused and dismayed by the apparently twisting Communist "party line" in America. He would like to discuss the matter and to learn the reasons and the motivating force behind Communist machinations in California and in the United States. This, however, he finds he can not do. Some strange spell has been cast over his mind. He finds that he can not reason at all when it comes to a discussion of Communism. The more intellectual he happens to be; the more he considers himself a "liberal" or a "progressive" the more inhibited he finds himself when faced with this vague and mysterious subject of Communism.

While Mr. Average Citizen really knows little of the subject, its objectives and its purposes, he has heard of a terrible group of people generally referred to as "red-baiters." Depending on the current policy of the Communist Party, these "red-baiters" are the paid emissaries of a variety of devils. Most generally the masters of the "red-baiters" are exploiting capitalists and "reactionary" taskmasters. More recently these "red-baiters" are the propagandists of Fascism and the designing agents of Hitler's Fifth Column in America. Actually, however, Mr. Average Citizen really does not know what the term means. He dare not even plumb the depth of its horrible implications. If he happens to imagine himself a "liberal" or a "progressive" he will shy away from anyone who attacks Stalin's particular brand of Communism. He will avoid anyone who attacks Stalin's Sacred Cow. Anyone in America may attack the Socialists, the Trotskyites, the Nazis or the Fascists, with impunity but when Soviet Russia or the loyal comrades of Stalin's administration are attacked, they fall into that terrible category, that abyss of depravation, referred to as "red-baiters." A "liberal" or a "progressive" who falls into the sin of attacking Communism of the Stalin school, particularly if such "liberal" or "progressive" happens to be a sincere and sensitive soul, feels that he has sunk to the lowest depths of depravity; that he has betrayed his best friend and has lost caste over the face of the earth. It is as though a voodoo doctor had cast a spell over his mind; an enchantment of black magic suddenly conjured by name-calling. To sincere and sensitive individuals other Communist names such as "stool pigeon," "renegade liberal," "strike-breaker" and "social Fascist" are name-taboos soul-shattering and terrifying, but for devastation complete, "red-baiting" is in a class by itself. The strange efficacy of the term has closed and kept shut the mouths of many disillusioned ex-Communists. Fear of this stinging epithet holds the tongue and hands of many who might speak and write on the subject with authority. Politicians, in trembling fear of the appellation, avoid Communism in campaign speeches and in the exercise of the public offices to which they are elected. This strange, paralyzing fear of a name should engage the attention of psychiatrists and psychologists.

Our American history is full of occasions of biting and derisive name-calling but throughout its crowded pages there have always appeared men of courage who feared neither the names or the caller-of-names. But only a few men during the past several years have had the courage to stand up under the paralyzing accusation of being a "red-baiter." There is little wonder, then, that Mr. Average Citizen is confused and dismayed when confronted with what must appear to him to be a vague and unsubstantial thing—Communism.

Eugene Lyons, in his book on Stalinist penetration of America, "The Red Decade," has written brilliantly in defense of red-baiting. He sums it up as follows:

"There can be no clear thinking, no clear examination of the issues raised by the Kremlin's intrusion in American life until the red-baiter taboo has been exorcised. A beginning, at least, can be made if those who expose Communist sculduggery walk up boldly to the terrible hobgoblin and, taking their courage in their hands, say, "Boo!" right in its face. After that, I can assure them, they will be able to wear the red-baiter tag with a flourish of pride, and their sleep will be as sweet as a healthy infant's. * * * What is more, I challenge all intellectually honest liberals to break through their inhibitions by saying, "Boo!" They will not find it easy at first, of course, and may have to practice it before their mirrors with doors closed and blinds drawn. But after a while they will discover that neither thunder nor lightning will descend on their heads, but only a spatter of harmless sparks unloosed from Thirteenth Street, off Union Square in New York. In the end they will be cured, and will be able to examine the mythology of Stalinism as calmly as the folklore of capitalism or the mythology of Hitlerism."

The Committee investigating un-American activities in California has followed Mr. Lyons' advice and has not only said "Boo!" to the hobgoblin red-baiter-taboo but has actually found courage to subpoena the medicine men of Communist Voodooism and compel them to testify in public hearings. The jungle drums of the Communist press have roared and sent up a great turmoil. New names have been invented and hurled with special venom at the committee and its members; distorted news items and lying editorials have been generously indulged in, but the spell has been broken. The committee is happy to report that the citizenry of California and of the United States may successfully risk "red-baiting" and the terrible appellation of "red-baiters."

SOURCES OF COMMUNIST INFORMATION

No attempt has been made by the committee to include in this report the details and ramifications of the extremely complicated ideology of Communism. The committee has been more concerned with the activities and manifestations in California of the Communist Party than with the ideology that moves and disciplines its members. The problem, however, cannot be understood unless some knowledge of the theory of Communism, its history, development and strategies are explained. The members of your committee, its investigators and representatives, in addition to examining Communist witnesses, have given considerable time to the study of Communist documents, textbooks and literature. Whatever the theoretical grounds and basis of Communism may purport to be, the committee is prepared to state the practical approach to the attainment of Communism in the United States of America is vicious and subversive. The committee, after its study and examination of Communist Party literature, textbooks and the works of contemporary writers who lived in Soviet Russia, concludes that all that remains of Communism in Soviet Russia is the name.

Even Joseph E. Davies writing in Mission to Moscow indicates this fact. The committee is prepared to state that Soviet Russia since 1935 has been, in fact, a Fascist state.

The committee examined and interrogated many experts on the subject of Communism and on the subject of Communism in Russia. It has questioned many disillusioned former members of the Communist Party. The affidavits of John G. Honeycombe and Rena M. Vale are set forth in full in this report. Both of these affidavits are outstanding evidence of the morass of intrigue and the insidious plotting of the Communist Party. The affidavit of Rena M. Vale is of exceptional value in the opinion of the committee. This unusual document of Communist undercover machination in the State of California should be read by every Californian.

To those who may be interested in pursuing the complicated ideology of Communism, its activities and machinations, the committee recommends its 16 volumes containing the transcript of testimony taken through 1941 to 1943 together with their exhibits. In this connection, the committee recommends to the Legislature, that these transcripts together with their exhibits, be published in their entirety. The committee has studied and drawn heavily on the entire library of Communist literature. The following list is recommended to those who wish to pursue the subject in greater detail:

1. Das Kapital, by Karl Marx.
2. Communist Manifesto, by Karl Marx and Frederick Engels.
3. Official History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.
4. The World Communist Movement, by G. Manuilsky.
5. Men and Politics, by Louis Fischer.
6. I Confess, by Benjamin Gitlow.
7. The Red Decade, by Eugene Lyons.
8. The People's Front, by Earl Browder.
9. Constitution of the Communist Party of the United States.

The last named, The Constitution of the Communist Party of the United States, is revised from time to time, as the laws of the Federal Government are revised, and the foreign policy of Soviet Russia changes. All of the publications mentioned, with the exception of those by Fischer, Lyons and Gitlow, may be purchased at any Communist book store in any of the large cities in California. Most of these book stores are easily identified as they are known as "Progressive" or "Workers" book stores, or some such equivalent name. Your committee considers the works by Eugene Lyons as particularly illuminating and informative. In addition to Lyons' Red Decade, the committee also recommends Lyons' Assignment in Utopia and Stalin, Czar of All the Russias.

In addition to the foregoing, members of the committee and its representatives have carefully examined the reports and records of similar committees and have had access to the files of law-enforcing bodies of the State and similar agencies. Confidential sources of information have been of great assistance in the preparation of public hearings and have been the background upon which considerable evidence has ultimately been established.

The use of the word "Communism" in this report should be clearly understood. The committee wishes clearly to distinguish between such terms as "Socialism," "Syndicalism," "Radicalism," "Anarchism," or general philosophies of political, economic or social change and "Communism." When "Communism" is used in this report, the committee is referring to the revolutionary radicalism and totalitarianism of Stalin and the Third or Communist International which has its headquarters in Moscow. The terms "Communism," "Stalinism," "Third International," "Communist International" and "Comintern" are intended to convey the same meaning in the pages of the committee's report. The use of these terms is not to be confused with Socialism or philosophies of governmental reform divorced from foreign domination and control, and force and violence.

In addition to the sources listed above the committee has gathered the following material:

1. Photostats of all of the signers to Communist Party nominating petitions in California, including the appointments of members to the State Central Committee of the Communist Party. The files of the committee contain complete lists of every individual who has officially run for public office on the Communist Party ticket together with the registered members of the Communist Party who signed their nominating petitions.

2. Lists of all individuals who registered as Communists in various parts of the State.

3. Full data of the background and activity of California Communists and Fellow Travelers.

4. Identities, background and activities of individuals who have, from time to time, been identified with Communist causes in California, either in the category of "dupes" and "innocents" or just Communist Party "window dressing."

5. Files of the Communist Party official publication on the West coast, the People's Daily World; current Communist magazines and Communist literature. From these publications the committee has been able to secure a rounded picture of Communist attempts to penetrate and capture the following:

- Home Defense groups.

- Labor Unions.

- Consumers groups.

- Language and racial groups.

- Migratory labor and agriculture groups.

- Schools and colleges.

- Motion picture industry.

- Theatre and radio.

- Charitable organizations.

- Art and music.

- All fields of writing.

These publications clearly reveal Communist Party attempts to influence women's organizations, churches, State and Federal Governments, the Army and Navy, educational institutions and all mass organizations.

6. A mass of documents, photostats, inflammatory pamphlets, periodicals, newspapers, reports and similar documentary evidence of the scope of the Communist Party's influence in propaganda fields.

COMMUNIST THEORY AND PRACTICE

One of the stock questions asked by every American Communist and Communist Fellow Traveler when questioned as to his Communist affiliation is, "What is a Communist?" This is designed to leave the original questioner flabbergasted. The Communist or Communist Fellow Traveler, schooled in the art of oral fencing, readily falls back on the definition of "Communism" by John Mill. He is apt to counter, when definitely pinned down, to something, as follows: "If you mean by 'Communism,' an equality of the distribution of the physical means of life and the enjoyment thereof as a transition to a still higher standard of justice that all men and women should work according to their capacity and receive according to their needs, then I am a Communist." This economic delusion is supposed to leave its hearers fully convinced that the word "Communist" is a derogatory term for high-minded men and women who merely desire to make the world a better place in which to live.

Earl Browder has named the following as the basic texts of Communism: The Manifesto, by Marx and Engels; Das Kapital, by Karl Marx; Fate and Revolution, Left Wing Communism, and What is to Be Done, by Lenin; Leninism, by Stalin; The United Front, by Dimitrov, the Secretary of the Third International. Earl Browder, himself, has written the following books on the subject, which are accepted by the Communists as authoritative: Communism in the United States (1933-4); What is Communism? (1936); The People's Front (1937-8), and Fighting for Peace (1938-9).

Karl Marx and Frederick Engels are the authors of the modern version of Communism and Lenin and Stalin are the modern interpreters and prophets. All Communist authorities agree with this statement. The Manifesto, written by Marx and Engels in 1848, may be considered the bible of Communism. The Marxian theory of Communism is supplemented in its modern version as to sovereignty and tactics to be employed for its attainment.

The First Communist International was created September 28, 1864, and was organized in London, England. The Second Communist International was organized in Paris in 1889. Lenin organized the Third Communist International in Moscow in 1919. Trotsky headed the Fourth International. Only about 3,000,000 adherents of Russian Communism have any voice whatsoever out of the 180,000,000 or more Russians in the Soviet government. Only the "politically most conscious" of the Russians may join the Communist Party of Russia. (Constitution, 1936, Article 126.)

Article XI of the Constitution and By-Laws of the Communist Party of the United States adopted in New York May 27-31, 1938, provides:

"The Communist Party of the U. S. A. is affiliated with its fraternal Communist Parties of other lands through the Communist International and participates in International Congresses, through its National Committee. Resolutions and decisions of International Congresses shall be considered and acted upon by the supreme authority of the Communist Party of the U. S. A., the National Convention, or between Conventions, by the National Committee."

LEGAL AND ILLEGAL METHODS

The program of the Communist International bluntly directs " * * * legal methods must unfailingly be combined with illegal methods * * *." One of the conditions laid down for admission to the Communist International, promulgated by O. Piatnitsky, is as follows:

"The obligation to spread Communist ideas include the particular necessity of persistent, systematic propaganda in the army. Wherever such propaganda is forbidden by exceptional laws, it must be carried on illegally. The abandonment of such work would be equivalent to the betrayal of revolutionary duty and is incompatible with membership in the Third International."

Section 36 of Part V of the Constitution of the Communist International provides:

"The Communist Parties must be prepared for transition to illegal conditions. The E. C. C. I. (Executive Committee of the Communist International) must render the Parties concerned assistance in their preparations for transition to illegal conditions."

Joseph Stalin, himself, writing in Volume 1 of Leninism throws aside all pretense and states:

"The revolutionary will accept a reform in order to use it as a means wherewith to link legal work with illegal work, in order to use it as a screen behind which his illegal activities for the revolutionary preparation of the masses for the overthrow of the Bourgeoisie may be intensified."

Methods and tactics of combining legal work with illegal work on the part of the Communists everywhere accounts, particularly in the United States, for the secret, conspiratorial, underground groups, who use fictitious names and deny their affiliation with the party. These tactics readily explain the shifting and deceit in the changing public declarations and documents of open Communist functionaries. Thus, it is, when the Congress of the United States enacts a statute providing for the registration of the members of groups dominated by foreign governments, that the open functionaries of the Communist Party acting for the protection of the secret and underground membership, revise their public constitution "as a screen behind which * * * the illegal activities for the revolutionary preparation of the masses for the overthrow of the Bourgeoisie may be intensified."

The committee learned from William Schneiderman (Volume V, pp. 1260-1342) that the Communist Party did, in fact, call a special

National convention in New York on December 16, 1940 for the purpose of amending the Constitution to comply with the Voorhis Act—the Federal statute requiring the registration of subversive groups. In this connection Mr. Schneiderman stated that “revolution is one of the historical facts of the world * * * we are part of it.” He admitted that changes in the Communist Party Line in America and California were the result of changes in world events.

He said that the Communist Party believed it a mistake for the United States to enter the war until the Soviet Union was attacked. He amplified this statement by adding: “Any attack on the Soviet Union is an attack on the interests of the workers throughout the world.” He stated that the use of the term “Fatherland,” referring to Soviet Russia, was merely symbolic and that William Z. Foster used this term in the symbolic sense when he stated that “Russia was the Fatherland of all workers and the Red Flag the flag to which the Communist Party owed allegiance.” He stated the slogan “The Yanks Are Not Coming” was the Communist Party slogan prior to the invasion of the Soviet Union by Hitler but after the invasion it became a “reactionary slogan,” and that after the Soviet Union was attacked the role of America was changed.

An understanding of this insidious method of combining legal with illegal methods on the part of the Communist Party in the United States explains many inconsistencies, mental maneuverings and actual perjuries on the part of many Communist witnesses who have testified before the committee.

FOREIGN CONTROL

The Honorable Charles Evans Hughes reporting to the United States Senate January 21, 1924 in his capacity as Secretary of State, said:

“It will be seen that the question of whether Communist programs contemplate the use of force and violence has been passed upon by every class of tribunal which would pass upon it, namely, Federal and State Courts, administrative tribunals and Legislative Committees of both Federal and State governments and in every case the result has been in support of the position that force and violence are inseparable from Communist programs.”

Mr. Hughes stated further, in the same report:

“It is believed that the evidence presented by the Department of State established the unity of the Soviet Government, and the Communist International, all of which are controlled by a small group of individuals, technically known as the political bureau of the Russian Communist Party. Second, the spiritual and organic connection between this Moscow group and its agents in this country—the American Communist Party and its legal counterpart, the Workers’ Party. Not only are these organizations the creation of Moscow, but the latter has also elaborated their program and controlled and supervised their activities. While there may have existed in the United States individuals, and even groups imbued with the Marxist doctrines prior to the advent of the Communist International, the existence of a disciplined party equipped with a program aiming at the overthrow of the institutions of this country by force and violence is due to the intervention of the Bolshevik organizations into the domestic political life of the United States. The essential fact is the existence of an organization in the United States created by and completely subservient to a foreign organization striving to overthrow the existing social and political order of this country. Third, the subversive and pernicious activities of the American Communist Party and the Workers' Party and their subordinates and allied organs in the United States are activities resulting from and flowing out of the program elaborated for them by the Moscow group!"

Stalin told the American delegation to the Third Communist International in Moscow in 1927: "The Communist Party of America, as a section of the Third International must pay dues to the 'Kiminterne'."

William Z. Foster, three times a candidate for the President of the United States on the Communist ticket and an admitted member of the Third International, testified before a Congressional Committee of the United States Congress, as follows:

"* * * The Communist International is a world party, based upon the mass parties in the respective countries. It works out its policy by the mass principles of these parties in all its deliberations. It is a party that conducts the most fundamental examination of all questions that come before it and, when a decision is arrived at in any given instance, this decision the workers, with their customary sense of proletarian discipline, accept and put into effect. * * * The workers of this country and the workers of every country have only one flag and that is the red flag. * * * The workers, the revolutionary workers, in all the capitalist countries are an oppressed class who are held in subjection by their respective capitalist governments and their attitude toward these governments is the abolition of these governments and the establishment of soviet governments. * * * I stated very clearly the red flag is the flag of the revolutionary class, and we are part of the revolutionary class. * * * And all capitalist flags are flags of the capitalist class, and we owe no allegiance to them."

William Z. Foster further testified:

"No Communist, no matter how many votes he should secure in a National election, could, even if he would, become president of the present government. When a Communist heads a government of the United States, and that will come just as surely as the sun rises, that government will not be a capitalistic government, but a soviet government, and behind this government will stand the Red Army to enforce the dictatorship of the proletariat."

If anyone should believe that the testimony given by William Z. Foster, as quoted above, reflected a passing period of Communist policy, the recent testimony given by Mr. Foster before the Dies Committee on September 29, 1939, dissipates that idea. Mr. Foster virtually confirmed the testimony he had given before another congressional committee several years previous. Earl Browder testified before the Dies Committee in September of 1939 also, and stated: "The Communist Party of the United States is affiliated with the Communist International * * *. We have participated in the International Congress; we have sent delegates to all the International Congresses since the third Congress * * *. It was only an organizational question that there was any ignoring of the Constitution. *Politically, there has been the closest collaboration, the closest relationship * * *. So far as the political essence of the problem is concerned, there is the closest harmony between the Communist Party of the United States and the Communist International*" In order that no doubt be left on the subject, Mr. Browder stated there is no "single instance where the Communist Party of the United States has ever disagreed with the Communist Line in Russia."

As will be shown later, the foreign policy, need and ambition of Soviet Russia itself determines the policies of its Communist branches throughout the countries of the world. The method promulgated by the Third International for the combining of legal and illegal tactics in the countries in which the branches are operating, permit the Communist Parties literally to "fly through the air with the greatest ease," leaping from one convenient trapeze to another. Thus, the enactment of Federal statutes, providing, in part, that all organizations controlled or dominated by a foreign power, register as such with the Department of State, saw a frantically-called special convention of the Communist Party of the United States November 16-17, 1940. Certain of the gullibility of Americans in their unquestioning acceptance at face value of the truthfulness and honesty of anything printed in a so-called constitution, this convention of the Communist Party amended its so-called constitution to conform to the new Federal statutes. Thus it was that the revised constitution emanating from this special convention of the Communist Party of the United States provided in Article VII, Section 1, as follows:

"The supreme authority in the Communist Party of the U. S. A., is the national convention. Regular national conventions shall be held every two years. Only national conventions are authorized to make political and organizational decisions binding upon the entire party and its membership, except as provided in Article VII, Section 6." (Section 6 provides that between conventions the highest authority of the party is the National Committee.)

As far as the new constitution is concerned, the Communist Party of the United States was divorced from the Third International. The Communist Party press in the United States openly laughed at the subterfuge—this typical application of the method of combining legal with illegal tactics. Actually the Communist Party of the United States redoubled its efforts for the sabotaging of our defense efforts and continued to carry out the mandates of the Hitler-Stalin pact. Paid Communist functionaries, such as Jack Moore and William Schneiderman, when subpoenaed before the public hearings of the committee, were able to shout from the housetops that the Communist Party was a law-abiding political group “carrying forward the traditions of Jefferson, Payne, Jackson and Lincoln,” upholding “the achievements of Democracy, the right of ‘life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,’ ” and that the Communist Party “defends the United States Constitution against its reactionary enemies who would destroy Democracy and all civil liberties.”

FORCE AND VIOLENCE

The Manifesto, by Marx and Engels, states: “* * * Communists scorn to hide their views and aims. They openly declare that their purpose can only be achieved by the forcible overthrow of the whole extant social order. Let the ruling classes tremble at the prospect of a Communist revolution. Proletarians have nothing to lose but their chains. They have a world to win. Proletarians of all lands, unite!”

Lenin stated: “The dictatorship of the proletariat is nothing else than power based upon force and limited by nothing * * * by no kind of law and by absolutely no rule.”

Earl Browder, the foremost exponent of Communism in the United States has stated in his book, “What is Communism?”:

“It must be emphasized that capitalism will not simply come to an end; it can only be ended by the organized actions of the working class in collaboration with its allies from other sections of the population. * * * After this first step of taking state power has been realized, the workers make use of the state power to take possession of the instruments of production. Then the new government, at the head of the masses, reorganizes the entire national economy of the country in an organized and planned manner, along socialist lines. * * * All revolutions have been made with weapons which the overthrown rulers had relied on for their protection. * * * History does not show a single example in which state power was transferred from one class to another by peaceful means, whether in the form of voting or some other method of formal democracy. * * * If the productive forces and accumulated wealth of society are to be preserved and further developed the property rights of the capitalists and the institutions by which they are maintained must be abolished and the exploiting minority and its agents suppressed. Thus, some form of violence is unavoidable. There is no possible choice between violence and non-violence. The only choice is between the two sides of the class struggle.”

Stalin stated to the Communist Party of the United States of America in 1929: "I consider the Communist Party of the United States is one of the few Communist parties to which history has given decisive tasks from the point of view of the world revolutionary movement. It is necessary that the American Communist Party should be capable of meeting the moment of crisis fully equipped to take the direction of future class wars in the United States. You must forge real revolutionary cadres and leaders of the proletariat who will be capable of leading the millions of American workers toward the revolutionary class war."

William Z. Foster stated in 1928 when accepting the Communist Party nomination for President of the United States: "We must utilize this campaign to carry on a widespread and energetic propaganda to teach the workers that the capitalist class would never allow the working class peaceably to take control of the state. That is their strong right arm, and they will fight violently to the end to retain it. We working class must shatter the capitalistic state. We must build a new state, a new government, a workers' and farmers' government, the Soviet Government of the United States. * * * In all our agitation around these demands we must emphasize the absolute necessity for the proletarian revolution. Our strategy is to utilize these immediate demands to educate and organize the masses in preparation for the final revolutionary struggle, which will abolish capitalism altogether. Reliance upon immediate demands would lead us merely to reformism. Our party is a revolutionary party. * * *

Your committee might continue quoting from official Communist sources for many pages in reference to the program of force and violence advocated by the Communist Party for the overthrow of the Government of the United States, but it is felt the above quotations will suffice. It may be said without fear of contradiction that the Communist Party in America and the Communist Parties throughout the world, under the domination of the Third International, have, as their ultimate and long-range objective the destruction of all existing democracies and governments by force and violence and the establishment of soviet governments in their stead under the dictatorship of the proletariat.

The objective of world-wide revolution and the destruction of existing governments by force and violence, and the establishment of soviets, is the long range plan of the Stalinist Communist. It is an objective that can be postponed from time to time in view of the ever immediate objective of the Communist Parties of the world. Soviet Russia, itself, is the immediate consideration, and its protection, as the Fatherland of the proletariat, is ever present in the minds of Stalin's loyal comrades everywhere. An understanding of these two fundamental objectives of the Communist Party and the Third International is absolutely necessary in order intelligently to follow the apparently twisting policies and "Party Line" of the American Communist Party in California and in the United States.

DAY-TO-DAY STRUGGLES

"Softening-up processes" of "decadent" bourgeoisie democracy is known in Communist Party pig-Latin as the technique of the "day-to-day struggle" against the "bosses" and the "bosses' government."

Under the heading of "Immediate, and Partial Demands," the Communist Party hopes to move the non-Communist masses toward the blood-and-thunder era in which the government will be overthrown and the dictatorship of the proletariat established. No issue is too small or insignificant for Communist Party strategical utilization. The issue may be social, political or economic. Immediate issues such as wages, working conditions, hours, civil rights, liberties, and zoot-suit gangs all afford opportunities for agitation in the "day-to-day struggle." The whole purpose of the strategy is to arouse the masses, the non-Communist masses, against the "bosses" and to direct public resentment against the "bosses' " government. By this tactic the Communist Party believes that it extends its own influence with the people and, when public resentment is whipped to a white heat, will offer an opportunity to the Communists to lead the masses in civil war and armed revolt against the government.

Jack Stachel, writing in The Communist for November, 1934, under the title of "Our Trade Union Policy, a Report to the Political Bureau of the Central Committee," states: "Our basic task in trade union work, as Communists, is to organize and lead the masses in a struggle for their immediate economic and political needs, and, in the course of these struggles * * * to revolutionize these masses, to mobilize them for the revolutionary struggle for the overthrow of capitalism."

V. Adoratsky writing in The Communist for May, 1932, states:

"* * * Leninism does not limit the movement to any one particular form of struggle, but rather strives to master all forms. Various forms of proletarian struggle are the strike movement, demonstrations, parliamentary struggle, revolutionary utilization of parliament when the situation demands it, and also the higher forms of struggle: armed uprising, civil war, dictatorship of the proletariat. In the second place, Leninism approaches the problem as to what particular form of struggle is to be utilized, historically, in connection with and taking into consideration the entire concrete situation. In the choice of means it is necessary to show the greatest flexibility."

This particular technique of "Immediate and partial demands" in the so-called "day-to-day struggle" of the Communist Party, must be understood if the agitational techniques of the conspiracy are to be exposed and combated. Members of legislative bodies, public officials and the people generally should be warned carefully to distinguish between Communist Party agitation per se and legitimate issues of real public concern.

RELIGION

Modern Communism and its true believers abhor religion. Earl Browder has stated: "We Communists do not distinguish between good and bad religion, because we think they are all bad for the masses." William Z. Foster, testified before a congressional committee, that: "Our party considers religion to be the opium of the people."

Experts on Communist history, theory and the laws of Soviet Russia have stated to your committee that Communism is the most intolerant of all isms, in spite of the loud-mouthed boastings of the American Communist that the members of their party are "liberals" and "progressives." In connection with the subject of religious tolerance and freedom in Soviet Russia, which Communist apologists are now proclaiming to the unsuspecting citizenry of the United States in their drive to make Soviet Russia appear as a Democracy instead of the absolute totalitarian dictatorship that it is, the committee quotes Article 126 of the Constitution of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, now being sold two for a nickel, neatly bound and carefully printed in English by Ogiz, State Publishing House of Political Literature, Soviet Russia, 1938:

"Article 126. In conformity with the interest of the working people, and in order to develop the organizational initiative and political activities of the masses of the people, citizens of the U. S. S. R. are ensured the right to unite in public organizations—trade unions, cooperative associations, youth organizations, sport and defense organizations, cultural, technical and scientific societies; and the most active and politically most conscious citizens in the ranks of the working class and other sections of the working people unite in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, (Bolsheviks), which is the vanguard of the working people in their struggle to strengthen and develop the socialist system and is the leading core of all organizations of the working people, both public and state." (Italics are the committee's.)

Thus, the great "democratic," intolerant dictatorship of the proletariat as enunciated by its constitution permits its people to organize into particular and specifically named societies, thus excluding those not catalogued. This "tolerance" and "democracy" goes even further; it permits the most active and politically most conscious citizens actually to unite in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Thus, the constitution itself excludes and makes illegal organizations and societies based on any other school of thought than Communism.

Article 124 of the aforesaid Constitution of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics provides:

"In order to ensure to citizens freedom of conscience, the church in the U. S. S. R. is separated from the state, and the school from the church. Freedom of religious worship and freedom of anti-religious propaganda is recognized for all citizens." (Committee's italics.)

At first blush, and without further information, it would appear that this guarantee of both religious and anti-religious freedom was the acme of religious tolerance. Vladimir Gsovski, who was formerly a County Judge and lawyer in Russia, and who is presently Assistant in Foreign Law to the Law Librarian of Congress and a professor in Russian at Georgetown University in the School of Foreign Service, has written on the legal status of the church in Soviet Russia in 8 Fordham Law Review, 1, January, 1939. Mr. Gsovski states:

"The Soviet laws directly dealing with religion and the church are not the only factors determining the status of the church in Soviet Russia. Inimical attitude toward religion in the Communist philosophy has contributed largely to the manner in which the laws were interpreted and applied. Stress is laid at one time upon propaganda, at another time upon direct persecution and suppression. To deprive the churches of any possibility of exercising influence upon the people even outside of politics is the real tenor of all the acts of the Soviet Government. To create conditions for replacement of religion by atheism is its real aim."

The committee, at this point, wishes to stress the alleged constitutional freedom of religious worship and the freedom of anti-religious propaganda. The freedom of religious propaganda is thereby prohibited. On this point, Mr. Gsovski writing on the legal status of the church in Soviet Russia, states:

"In 1929 the constitutions of the major soviet republics were amended to make clear the prohibition of religious propaganda and this modified text was incorporated into the 1936 constitution."

Mr. Gsovski's treatise on this subject may be summed up as follows: Soviet statutes do not recognize the church as an organized aggregation of parishes of a given denomination. All such units, if they exist at all, must be strictly local in character. All churches are completely deprived of any property rights. Even the ownership of vestments, utensils, chalices and other objects which are merely destined for purely liturgical and ceremonial use are denied to them. All objects of historical or artistic value are taken from the churches and removed to museums, if the objects do not have a material value. Any gift made to a church or religious organization, under Soviet law, automatically becomes the property of the Soviet state, and is subject to disposal by Soviet authority. Any establishment of regular membership fee is forbidden by Soviet law under a penalty.

The activities of a church or religious group, referred to in Soviet law as a "religious association," are strictly confined to what the Soviet law terms "performance of the cult," that is, to bare performance of ceremony. "Religious associations" is a term in Soviet law that has no remote relationship to the legal entities embodied in the Anglo-Saxon sense. Under Soviet law, no church may dispense charity, teach religious doctrines, even to its own members or their children. Religious ceremonies or the display of religious symbols are strictly prohibited under heavy penalty in any governmental, public, cooperative or private institution or enterprise or in commonly used premises of an apartment. Special permission of the government must be obtained two weeks in advance for the customary God services in the open air or in any other premises than the church. Christmas and Easter are not holidays in Soviet Russia. Any worker who attends church on either of these days and who fails to put in an appearance at his place of work is summarily dismissed.

Soviet statutes strictly prohibit the teaching of religion or "any form of religious belief" by the church. These statutes go even further in prohibiting the teaching "of any form of religious belief" in any educational establishment and also in "teaching religious doctrine to persons under 18 years of age." Mr. Gsovski, in this connection, states: "Soviet regulations are not confined to a negative combat of religion, but a positive program of atheistic education is officially established for the Soviet schools."

In reference to the persecution of the clergy, Mr. Gsovski says: "For 18 years limitations and especially heavy financial burdens were imposed upon the clergy of all denominations and upon monks and nuns. From the first Soviet Constitution of July, 1918 to the Constitution of 1936 the laws deprived the clergy of franchise. The disfranchise not only affected the right to vote, and to be members of the trade unions and therefore be lawfully employed especially in governmental enterprises, but also imposed higher rents for their apartments. When food and other commodities were distributed by ration on cards, disfranchised persons were deprived of such cards. Their children were practically barred from education and employment. They were subject to specially high taxes."

A religious man is suspected by the Communists of being inimical to the Soviet Government and almost automatically involves the accusation of counter-revolutionist. Mr. Gsovski points out that the definition of "counter-revolutionary" crime is couched in very general terms which are much broader than that of political crimes. Moreover, the Soviet court has power to sentence for acts not expressly dealt with in the Penal Code. The law provides: "Propaganda or agitation containing an appeal to overthrow, undermine, or weaken the Soviet authority or to commit individual counter-revolutionary crimes, or the dissemination, preparation, or possession of literature containing such matter * * * if done * * * by utilizing religious or racial prejudices"—entails the death penalty. Set up, side by side with the courts, are special government departments that have broad power to inflict heavy penalties without any judicial procedure and without trial, and not bound by any substantive or adjective law. These special government departments are variously known as Cheka, GPU, OGPU and, since 1934, the Federal Commissariat of the Interior—Narkomvnutel (NKVD). Mr. Gsovski states that: "For several years it had first the actual power and later the right to put to death after secret procedure, or sentence to penal servitude (labor camps) or exile." Mr. Gsovski concludes with this statement:

"The entire set-up of the Soviet penal system does not offer any convincing evidence that the high number of prelates, priests, monks, and active parishioners were engaged in the counter-revolutionary activities for which they were prosecuted. Separation of state and church declared in Soviet decrees means actually the suppression of the church by an atheistic state. Soviet legislation on religion is a legislation of militant atheism which sought to eradicate religion from the human mind"

Much ado by American Communists was made over the new Constitution of December, 1936, above referred to and quoted, as to its guarantee of religious freedom. As a matter of fact, all information and evidence available, points to a marked increase in anti-religious activity on the part of the several agencies of the Soviet Government and certainly there has been no change in the religious outlook of American Communists. This anti-religious campaign is directed against all religions—Catholic, Protestant, Greek Orthodox, Mohammedan and Jewish. Corliss Lamont, formerly head of the Friends of Soviet Russia, wrote in Soviet Russia and Religion: "The truth is that the social roots of religion are well on the way towards being totally abolished in Soviet Russia." In this same work, Mr. Lamont states as follows:

"It now remains to be asked to what extent the anti-religious campaign has been successful. The most recent figures were announced at the meeting held in Moscow in February, 1936, to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Union of Militant Atheists. The union now boasts a membership of more than 5,000,000 with 50,000 active local organizations. There is also the youth section, the Young Militant Atheists, who number over 2,000,000. During its existence the union has published more than 1,000 anti-religious titles, with the actual total of books and pamphlets issued running into several million * * * Emelian Yaroslavsky, old Bolshevik and friend of Lenin's, who is President of the Union of Militant Atheists, claims that there are approximately 40,000,000 active atheists in the U. S. S. R. out of a population now close to 170,000,000."

Mr. Earl Browder, the American prophet of the dictatorship of the proletariat, states in Religion and Communism: "From this estimate of the social role of religion, it is quite clear that the Communist Party is the enemy of religion. We Communists try to do the opposite of what we hold religion does."

In a book, Teachings of Marx for Boys and Girls, by William Montgomery Brown, your Committee finds the following:

"Religion is a dangerous dope because it takes the people's mind off their misery and their poverty. Religion is dope like opium. Well, religion acts the same on the poor American as opium does on the Chinese coolie. Now you will understand one of the most famous sayings of the great Karl Marx. He said, 'Religion is the opium of the people.' It makes them dream of a heaven in which they will be rewarded forever, if they suffer patiently the hell they have on earth. The preacher dopes them with his sermon. Then they go home dreaming about the beautiful heaven which is no more real than the beautiful palace of a Chinaman's opium dream."

The committee believes that it is unnecessary to extend this part of its report any further. It is the definite and abiding conviction of the members of the committee that the Communist Party seeks, not only to destroy our government, its Constitution and the American way of life, but to destroy our religion and religious institutions as well.

LEGAL POLITICAL COMMUNIST PARTY—A FICTION

The fourth period of Communist development and strategy in the United States, based on the parallel period of the need, ambition and foreign policy of Soviet Russia, saw the rise of Communism in the United States as a legally constituted political party. While beginnings had been made before this period the names selected had been more deceiving, such as the Communist Labor Party, Workers' Party, et cetera. It must be remembered that this fourth period, beginning in 1935, had seen the launching of the Trojan Horse Cavalry and the creation of "people's fronts," "popular fronts" and "collective security." Fascization of Soviet Russia had been under way for some time. Stalin had despaired of forming an advantageous pact with Hitler and Mussolini and was in growing fear of a German and Japanese war. The comrades of the Communist Parties of the world were ordered to sell Soviet Russia to their respective countries on the basis of "Democracy" and "anti-Fascism." In conformity with the new slogan "Communism is Twentieth Century Americanism" and the Communist-advertised agreements between Marx, Lenin, and Stalin and Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln, the Communist Party of the United States of America launched its legal political party in earnest. The revolutionary character of the party had not changed. It was merely in moth balls. What the Communist Party of America did, so reasoned the Kremlin strategists, reflected the character of the Soviet Government. So it was that selected comrades in the various states were ordered to register as members of a legally constituted Communist Party. Former members of the Communist Party have stated that at no time in the United States did more than 20 per cent of the membership of the Communist Party register openly as such. This strategy served two purposes. First, it helped the Red Fatherland in its current maneuvering and secondly, it permitted greater recruiting of unwary Americans into the party and gave an air of respectability to the odious appellation of "Communist."

It must be emphasized and remembered that the Communist Party is fundamentally and basically a secret, conspiratorial branch of a foreign government. Its members, for the greater part, in affiliating with this secret and conspiratorial group, do so under assumed and fictitious names. The committee has examined many Communist Party membership books and has in its files photostats of the applications for membership of many Communists. In nearly every case the applicant gives first his real name and then sets forth the fictitious name under which he desires to be known in Communist circles. The majority of Communist members are registered in other legal parties, and in recent years have concentrated in the Democratic Party. In the period under discussion, the Communists in California were able practically to capture the Young Democrats of this State, and had strong working fractions in nearly every official Democratic County Committee.

Your committee is in possession of a mass of evidence concerning many individuals throughout the State of California and their relationship with the official secret, conspiratorial Communist Party.

Where such an individual is of prominence, and therefore of great value to the Communist strategy, no record whatsoever is made of such an individual's affiliation. Among the Communists themselves such an individual is referred to as "a member at large." Because of his or her importance, no formal application for membership is ever demanded and no party-book or other indicia of membership is issued. For general purposes such individuals are generally listed as "fellow travelers." He or she is easily catalogued once the observer understands the policies of Soviet Russia and its agents in California and in the United States. The "fellow traveler" follows the party line without deviation. If his activities tally with the changing policies of the periods of Communist strategy outlined herein, there can be little doubt of his close association with the Communist Party of America. The real liberal or progressive, retaining intellectual independence and freedom of thought, is not for any great length of time a fellow traveler in this sense. The true fellow traveler is one who called Roosevelt a war monger from 1939 to June 22, 1941 and who subsequently took the breath taking flip-flop on June 22, 1941 when Hitler invaded Soviet Russia. The fellow traveler is never registered in the legally constituted Communist Party.

Typical of witnesses who deny affiliation with the Communist Party but whose activities and philosophy meticulously follow the Communist Party line was Laurence B. Smith (Volume VIII, pp. 2432-2437). Mr. Smith told the committee that he had never affiliated with the Communist Party but that he had attended many of their functions. He told of attending a function given for the benefit of the People's Daily World, Communist Party newspaper, in the C. I. O. Hall on Eighth Street, in San Diego, in April of 1941 and of attending a meeting in Los Angeles in November of 1941 to hear Robert Minor, National Chairman of the Communist Party of the United States. He admitted having made contributions for the defense of William Schneiderman. He had been a member of the American Civil Liberties Union for some seven or eight years. He frankly told the committee that he was against sending aid to Great Britain until they were "united to defeat Fascism." (Great Britain united, according to Communist reasoning, to "defeat Fascism" when Soviet Russia was invaded by Nazi-Germany.) Mr. Smith added: "If that's the party line, I agree with it."

The people of California should recall that practically every appellate court decision passing on Communism in California has adjudicated it to be a criminal conspiracy to destroy the government of the State and of the Nation and the property of the citizenry by force, violence, sabotage and treason. In the case of the People vs. Taylor, 187 Cal. 378, the court stated: "There seems to be no doubt that its aims, objectives and purposes were in full accord and in entire sympathy of that body (Communist Party of Russia) in Russia." The court went on to further state that: "Taylor disclaimed any hope of success of change through the ballot, and advocated getting results by force. He favored sabotage as a weapon of the working class against the employers and capitalists * * *. During the time he was advocating all such measures, Taylor was active in the work of the Communist Labor Party."

The agitation-propaganda department of the Communist Party, known to the Communist as the "Agit-Prop" has laid down a policy of disloyalty to the United States. This has been confirmed by testimony of Earl Browder under oath. When questioned as to the attitude of the American Communist in event of war between the United States and Soviet Russia, Mr. Browder stated as follows: "The American workers, when called upon to go into this war against the Soviet Union, must refuse to fight against the Russian workers, and go over on the side of the Red Army. The American workers, like the Russian workers in 1917, must turn the imperialist war into a civil war against the real enemies—the capitalist class of the United States which exploits and oppresses the American working class." Earl Browder further testified that if America made "an aggressive war against the Soviet Union, I would stand as absolutely opposed to such a war, and as doing everything possible to stop it. * * * Even to turning such a war into a Civil war. * * * I can only answer for myself personally, and I can not say 'My country, right or wrong.' If I thought my country was wrong, I would oppose its entrance into such a war and conduct of such a war, just as I opposed the entrance of America into the war in 1917, when I thought it was wrong."

We have heretofore quoted William Z. Foster, who was the Chairman of the Communist Party of the United States and three times its candidate for the presidency of our country in reference to the Communist use of the ballot. It will not be remiss again to quote this leading light of Communism in the United States. He said: "* * * The Communist International is a world Party, based upon the mass parties in the respective countries. * * * I stated very clearly the Red Flag is the flag of the revolutionary class, and we are part of the revolutionary class * * * and all capitalist flags are flags of the capitalist class, and we owe no allegiance to them. No Communist, no matter how many votes he should secure in a National election, could, even if he would, become President of the present government. When a Communist heads a government of the United States, and that will come just as surely as the sun rises, that government will not be a capitalistic government, but a Soviet government, and behind this government will stand the Red Army to enforce the dictatorship of the proletariat."

The attempt of the Communist Party of America to appear as a legally constituted political party is purely a fiction in full conformance with other fictions developed from time to time during its existence in the United States. The California Legislature of 1940 outlawed the Communist Party of California by statute. This statute has been attacked in the courts of this State and through typical Communist maneuvering, the Communist Party was able to avoid the issue in a trial court and subsequently placed its candidates on the 1942 primary election ballot. Your committee recommends that steps be taken to strengthen the statute wherever necessary to the end that this fiction of legality and respectability of a foreign-controlled subversive organization in the State of California be forever ended.

TROTSKYISM

Leon Trotsky was one of the group that signed the Manifesto launching the Comintern in March of 1919. Undoubtedly Lenin distrusted Stalin and preferred Trotsky as his successor. All contemporary writers of the time and evidence available now indicates this fact clearly. Certainly Leon Trotsky was Lenin's closest associate and confidant. Stalin had moved cautiously and it was apparent in 1926 or 1927 that Trotsky's pretensions to the dictatorship were doomed. Charles E. Ruthenberg, "the American Lenin," died suddenly early in 1927 and the American Bolsheviks started a mass scramble for power in the United States. Jay Lovestone, Benjamin Gitlow, William Z. Foster and other pretenders to the throne vacated by the "American Lenin," Charles E. Ruthenberg, dashed madly off to the Kremlin in their scramble for Ruthenberg's crown. Jay Lovestone and his group, being luckier guessers than the others, for the time, at least, took the lead in demanding Trotsky's ouster from the International. Lovestone and his followers, subsequently slated for the same fate, viciously attacked Trotsky and his adherents as Trotskyites, a sort of "left-wing" Communism. Those who had espoused the cause of Leon Trotsky were branded as Trotskyites and the first major purge in the Communist Party of America occurred in 1928 when James Cannon, Max Schachtman and other bad-guessers on the outcome of the Stalin-Trotsky contest in Russia, were expelled from the party. Jay Lovestone and his American group later guessed wrong in a contest that developed between Stalin and Nikolai Bukharin. Although Stalin was reported as ridiculing rumors of an impending break between himself and Bukharin, clever Stalinists veered away from Bukharin. Jay Lovestone, representing the great majority of Communists in the United States, was foolish enough to believe Stalin's protestations and maintained friendly relations with Bukharin. Intrigue and plotting inside the Communist Party of the United States soon culminated in a smear campaign directed against Jay Lovestone and his adherents because of their friendship with Bukharin and they were attacked as "Bukharin Right Deviators." A Comintern Commission was set up in Moscow under the supervision of Viacheslav Molotov and Lovestone and his followers, although representing the greatest number of American Communists, were charged with treachery, stupidity and unprincipled opportunism and were thrown out of the party. Hence, the second great American purge by the Communist Party occurred in America and the expelled members became known as Lovestoneites.

The so-called orthodox Communists—orthodox because they follow the Stalin school and Stalin is on the throne in Moscow—undoubtedly reserve their deepest hatred for the Lovestoneites and the Trotskyites—and in any choice between these two factions and capitalism—the Stalinists would unhesitatingly take the latter. A person who merely murders his grandmother is a nice fellow compared to a Trotskyite, from the Stalinist point of view.

Don Morton, a former Communist Party member, told your committee (Volume VI, pp. 1783-1794) that the Communist Party planted spies in the Socialist Party and in the Fourth International and that these spies reported to the Stalinist group on the activities of the Trotskyites.

William Schneiderman (Vol. V, pp. 1260-1342), Secretary of the Communist Party in California, testified that the Communist Party regarded the Trotskyites as "agents of Fascism" and that they have held them in this light ever since they were expelled from the party. The Lovestoneites, according to Mr. Schneiderman, are viewed in the same category—"agents of Fascism." Illustrating the venom and bitterness with which the orthodox Stalinites look upon the Trotskyites, Mr. Schneiderman told the committee that Alexander Noral had denounced his sister, Norma Perry, for Trotskyite activities in San Francisco at a convention of the Communist Party in 1938.

Mr. William Schneiderman (Volume V, p. 1341) regarded the reading of Max Eastman "a waste of time." Mr. Eastman, he stated, belonged to the "Trotskyite element."

Mr. Bert Hanman, a self-admitted former member of both the Stalinist and Trotskyist variety of Communism in California, testified before your committee in San Francisco (Volume VI, pp. 1695-1727). Mr. Hanman testified that he had entered the University of California from Chowehilla in the Fall of 1925 and that he graduated from the College of Commerce in 1929 with a degree of B.S. He received his Masters Degree in Economics in 1930.

Returning to Chowehilla, Mr. Hanman took over his father's business and later decided to be a writer. He studied Marx, Lenin and Trotsky. About this time he met Norman Mini and William Gannon in Sacramento and also met Carl Patterson, the then State Organizer for the Communist Party. It was Mr. Patterson who started the United Farmers' League in California for small farmers. Mr. Hanman testified that this was a Communist Party front. Mr. Hanman stated that the movement began early in 1933 when most of California's small farmers were destitute. All of the members of the United Farmers' League were bona fide farmers except Patterson, the organizer. Mr. Hanman stated that he worked with the United Farmers' League and that he then joined the Communist Party, helping Patterson organize the farmers into a Communist Party Unit in Chowehilla. He stated that this became a unit of some 30 members.

Mr. Hanman was invited by Sam Darcy through Louise Todd to attend a district committee meeting of District 13 of the Communist Party in San Francisco. He told your committee that this meeting was held in a very secret manner in a garage. Among those present, Mr. Hanman named Lillian Monroe, Caroline Decker, Pat Chambers, Paul and Violet Orr, Elmer Hanoff, Sam Darcy, Louise Todd and Carl Patterson. Mr. Hanman stated that Elmer Hanoff was known at that time as the "Red Star Man," which term indicated a member of the Communist Party disciplinary body. Mr. Hanman testified that the vaunted and confusing term of Communist Party lingo, "Democratic centralism" really meant dictatorship. He stated that he had been led to believe that the Communist Party was a democratic organization but soon learned that it was built and functioned only on dictatorship lines. He testified that the Communist Party in California is completely controlled by a very small group sitting at the top.

He stated that party functionaries agreed with him that the Communist Party was not all that it should be.

One of the tactics used by the Communist Party in winning the farmers was by acting as the "Pied Piper" through the United Farmers' League. Through the activities of the league the county was induced to supply squirrel poison and the United Farmers' League members put it out helping the farmers thus rid themselves of a squirrel plague. Mr. Hanman said this tactic gave the farmers a feeling of unity and that it strengthened their morale. It was then easy enough for the Communist controlled United Farmers' League to lead them in requesting a reduction in power rates. Mr. Hanman testified that the United Farmers' League collapsed in 1934 after he moved from Chowchilla to Berkeley.

Mr. Hanman went to Salt Lake in 1934, at about the time Norman Mini and others were arrested and charged with criminal syndicalism. He stated that he was gone about three months and during this time he became interested in Trotsky's writings. He stated that he believed the Fourth International movement corrected many ills of the Third International. He discussed this matter with Norman Mini who agreed with him, mainly because criticism had become impossible in the Communist Third International.

Returning to Berkeley Mr. Hanman was reinstated in the Communist Party. Meanwhile Caroline Decker, Norman Mini and others were in jail in Sacramento on the Criminal Syndicalism charge and the Communist Party had made no attempt to bail them out. Mr. Hanman attended a joint county meeting of the East Bay Section of the Communist Party about this time and learned that the Communist Party was "disciplining" Caroline Decker and the others because of some trouble between a fraction of the California Workers' Industrial Union and the "Darcy Bureaucracy" over management of that organization. At this meeting, Mr. Hanman requested the Sacramento trial be placed on the agenda. This was refused. Mr. Hanman insisted on speaking of the Sacramento trial anyway. Miles Humphrey was the chairman of this meeting. Being unable to do anything for his comrades in Sacramento at the Communist East Bay Section meeting, he prepared a paper on the Sacramento cases and submitted same to Sam Darcy, sending a copy of the paper to Caroline Decker in Sacramento. Mr. Hanman testified that this action made Sam Darcy very angry. He was called before a general membership meeting of the Communist Party over which Elmer Hanoff, the "Red Star Man" presided. The witness told your committee that this was, indeed, bureaucracy "really at work." He testified that only members friendly to the bureaucracy were notified of the meeting and that he was not allowed to speak in his own behalf. He was charged with being a Trotskyite and the chief evidence in support of this charge was that he had had a cup of coffee with a known Trotskyite. Mr. Hanman testified that all rights of lower Communist Party organizational bodies were ignored. Despite the steam-roller methods used in expelling him, Hanman stated that there were several dissenting votes.

After his expulsion from the Communist Party Hanman immediately contacted a Trotskyite group in the bay area headed by one Barney Mayes. Mayes was at that time the editor of The Voice of the Federation of the Maritime Federation. Hanman then joined the Workers' Party, the American section of the Fourth International, headed by Leon Trotsky. (Leon Trotsky was at that time in exile in Norway.) Hanman contacted the Non-Partisan Labor Defense (which is to the Fourth Communist International what the International Labor Defense is to the Communist Third International) on behalf of the Communist defendants charged with criminal syndicalism in Sacramento. He stated that the Non-Partisan Labor Defense raised money through the Socialist Party in New York and offered to put up bail for these defendants. When the Communist Party heard of this move on the part of the Trotskyist Non-Partisan Labor Defense it immediately ordered the Sacramento defendants to refuse "counter-revolutionary" bail. Hanman's activities for the defendants, however, caused the Communist Party immediately to busy itself in behalf of its "disciplined" members languishing in the Sacramento jail.

Mr. Hanman told your committee that after these events he acted as an organizer for the Workers' Party for a time and that he brought Lillian Monroe, Charles Cornell and a Joe Hanson of Salt Lake City into the Fourth International. Charles Cornell, the witness testified, later became a bodyguard for Leon Trotsky in Mexico and Joe Hanson became Trotsky's secretary.

The witness concluded his testimony by stating that after a time he began to run into the same sort of bureaucracy in the Fourth International as he had encountered in the Third; that he uncovered the same kind of double-dealing and the same lack of democracy under Trotsky that he found in the Stalin faction.

Mr. Hanman now looks upon himself as something of a "political derelict."

SIX PERIODS OF COMMUNIST STRATEGY IN THE UNITED STATES

The average man can not be blamed for being confused by the Communist conspiracy in America. Distorted news items, lying editorials and articles profusely and generously scattered through Communist Party organs and the periodicals of front organizations and Innocent Clubs have carefully smudged and obscured the real objectives of these cheap conspirators in the American picture. This program of deceit and hypocrisy is part and parcel of Communist Party tactics. The greater part of the Communist press is disguised and for public consumption purports to be anything but what it really is. Front organizations, periodicals and magazines do most of the Trojan Horse work. Like its cowardly members, hiding their Communist Party affiliations under fictitious names, many of these disguised Communist periodicals and magazines find their way into the homes of unsuspecting and ordinarily patriotic Americans. There is little wonder that the average citizen is confused when confronted with Communism.

Although it is termed the Third or Communist International, the Communist International has never been international in the generally accepted sense of the term. The Bolshevik revolution which overthrew the Kerensky government under the leadership of Lenin and Trotsky culminated in what is now known as the Communist International (also known as the Comintern). It was founded in the Kremlin in Moscow in March of 1919 by 35 delegates and 15 guests. It is significant, in considering the international aspects of the so-called Communist International, that all but one of the founders were Russian. From its beginning up to the present time it has been characterized by a greedy and stubborn nationalism. The Communist parties that later developed in the other countries of the world, including the United States, have, in fact, only been branch parties of the Russian Home Office of the Comintern and these parties scattered throughout the world reflect in every instance, from the very beginning down to the present time, the foreign policy and the interest of Soviet Russia. Thus it is, that the policies, purges, leadership and the "party line" of the Communist Party in the United States have always turned on Soviet events, ambitions and needs.

The key to the strange activities, machinations and twisting policies of the torturous "Party Line" of the American Communist is found in the unchanging Communist slogan "Defend the Soviet Union." It explains, also, the pitiful failures of the Communist Party in the United States to capture Yankee interest and support. Because its slogans and its policies were based on conditions existing in Soviet Russia and on the foreign policy of that country, the American people failed to respond to the ill-fitting and foreign-sounding slogans of a group of American lunatics concerned only with the protection of a foreign dictatorship. The turnover of membership in the Communist Party of the United States has been tremendous since its inception in 1919. The mortality rate in membership from year to year is significant of its failure to capture the American mind. Yankee practicality blinks unresponsively at slogans such as "Defend the Soviet Union" and "The Americanism of Lenin and Lincoln." But, year after year, many a tricked and duped American has become in actuality the agent-stooge of the foreign, totalitarian, dictatorship of Soviet Russia.

To understand clearly so-called American Communism, it is necessary to examine its history since its inception in Chicago in 1919. This can only be intelligently done by a parallel examination of the history of the Soviet Union for the same period. Eugene Lyons has roughly divided Communist development in the United States into five ages, each period turning on events in Soviet Russia and reflecting in each period the needs, ambition and foreign policy, NOT of the United States, its workers or its people, but of Soviet Russia. To the five ages of Eugene Lyons your committee has added a sixth, and prognosticates a seventh. In order better to clarify the findings of your committee in the field of Communism, we briefly outline these six periods of Communist conspiracy in the United States.

FIRST PERIOD (1919 TO 1921)

The Bolshevik Government found its territory invaded and besieged by foreign armies and effectually blockaded in 1919. It needed a militant internationalism in non-Bolshevik countries to break the strangle hold of the economic blockade and it sorely needed a pro-Bolshevik sentiment in non-Bolshevik countries to bring about the withdrawal of the armies that were invading its boundaries. Consequently the Communist parties throughout the world were ordered to be militantly revolutionary and to work in their respective countries for the succor of the Soviet Union. Hence, in the United States, the Communist Party, emerging from its Chicago convention in 1919, was fanatically revolutionary and conspiratorial and openly rebellious, calling for the immediate overthrow by force and violence of the Government of the United States and the establishment of a dictatorship of the proletariat. It likewise propagandized for the Soviet Union and attempted to create pro-Bolshevik sympathies in America.

SECOND PERIOD (1921 TO 1928)

This period saw the launching of the New Economic Policy (NEP) in Russia. The new economic policy was, in fact, a compromise between state and private economy. The Soviet Union found itself in many economic difficulties and began to feel the need for exchange and traffic with other governments. To effectuate this it created the fiction of a separation between the Soviet Government and the Communist Party of Russia. This fiction was embellished and carried further by apparently effecting a separation between the Communist International and the Russian Communist Party. These fictions, it was believed, would soften the attitude of capitalistic governments and permit the Soviet Union to deal with them. As a result of this desperate need for exchange and traffic with other governments, the Communist Parties scattered throughout the world were ordered to retreat from their plotting and to soft-pedal their demand for open revolt and to do their propagandizing within the laws of their respective countries. A lull in world-wide revolutionary propaganda ensued and the comrades in the United States busied themselves with trapping and exploiting sympathetic liberals and progressives and in creating friends for Soviet Russia. The key phrases of this period were "United Front" and "Boring from Within."

THIRD PERIOD (1928 TO 1935)

This period saw the launching of the first "five-year plan" in Russia and the exiling of the so-called Communist Party "leftist," Leon Trotsky. NEP, the new economic policy, was violently wiped out. Private farming came to an end and the forcible socialization of farming began. The most brutal "speed-up" in the world's history began in Russian industry. Soviet Russia more and more turned to greedy nationalism. Workers' control in industry was completely abolished and Soviet Bureaucracy took over. History will undoubtedly reveal that the Fascization of Soviet Russia began in this era. Purges and official mass murders terrorized the entire country. The old Bolsheviks and the heroes of the revolution were slaughtered without compunction, sympathy or trial. Soviet Russia began to look for military alliances and started to woo Germany and Italy. A new revolutionary upsurge was ordained for the Communist Parties in the United States and throughout the world—a new revolutionary upsurge, not so much against capitalism, but more against socialists, conservative labor leaders and trade unionists, liberals and progressives—all lumped in one terrible category—"Social Fascists." This period of Soviet need and ambition undoubtedly cleared the way for Hitler and Mussolini.

FOURTH PERIOD (1935 TO 1939)

Soviet Russia's unsuccessful wooing of Hitler and Mussolini led to the change of policy introduced to the world in 1935. The Seventh World Congress, held in Moscow in 1935, gave birth to the new Trojan Horse policy of Dimitrov and the subsequent creation of "Peoples" and "Popular" fronts. The fear of a German and Japanese invasion of Soviet Russia gave rise to a "collective security" policy and the Communist Parties in the United States and throughout the world were ordered to carry these new policies into effect. Despairing of any alliance with Germany or Italy, Soviet Russia decided to appear to be "democratic" and "anti-Fascist" and ordered the branches of the party throughout the world to propagandize and advertise Soviet Russia on this basis. The Communist Party in the United States became "Twentieth Century Americanism"—the real "friend" of democracy and the "guardian" of every tradition of freedom and civil liberty. The Communist Party of the United States went to great lengths to advertise Soviet Russia in this new "democratic" light. Soviet Russia, meanwhile, subscribed to the Kellogg Pact and made nonaggression pacts with her neighbors. Although Lenin had called the League of Nations the "League of Robber Nations," Stalin now entered the league. A phoney constitution for the Soviet Union was drawn but never put into effect and a short time later Stalin physically liquidated two-thirds of the members of the committee who drew the constitution. The threat of world-wide Communist revolution was laughed away and Stalin later lightly described it all as a "comic misunderstanding."

Anti-Nazi leagues flourished in the United States and the Anti-Nazi League of Hollywood grew to considerable proportions. The comrades in America and California exploited to the fullest the growing horror in the minds of all Americans of the brutality rampant in Hitler's Third Reich. The ruthless and barbarous persecution of the Jews by Hitler and his bloody minions, the unspeakable and unbelievable tortures inflicted on the innocent scapegoats of "Fuehrer Aryanism," stirred up a righteous indignation in the hearts of every liberty-loving American citizen. V. J. Jerome (whose true name is Isaac Romaine), personally supervised the organization of the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League. Mr. Jerome had been sent to Hollywood some time before by the Communist Party Central Committee to take over the duties of Stanley Lawrence in "improving cultural work" in California. It was V. J. Jerome who brought John Howard Lawson to Hollywood. He helped organize study clubs and coordinated Communist Party work between Hollywood groups and downtown Los Angeles sections. He was a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the United States and co-editor of its magazine, The Communist, as well as being Chairman of the Cultural Commission of the Communist Party of the United States. The Anti-Nazi League banked some $89,892.51 between May 14, 1935, and August 16, 1939.

In spite of this exploitation by the Communist Party of the emotional upsurge against Hitler and his regime, the American Communists regarded the war in Europe as purely an imperialistic struggle. The party line during this period was to heap abuse and vilification upon, not only Nazi Germany and its Axis partners, but upon the victims of its aggression. Some 30 days before the amazing and abrupt termination of this fourth period of Communist strategy, Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov stated:

“• • • there is nothing surprising in the fact that at the end of April the head of the German state in one speech scrapped two important international treaties—the naval agreement with Great Britain and the non-aggression pact between Germany and Poland. There was a time when great international significance was attached to these treaties. But Germany made short work of them, disregarding all formalities. Such was Germany's reply to the proposal of Mr. Roosevelt, President of the United States—a proposal permeated with the peace-loving spirit.” (Soviet Union and the Peace Front, by V. M. Molotov, International Publishers, Inc., page 5.)

FIFTH PERIOD (1939 TO JUNE 22, 1941)

The Soviet Union amazed the world and many of its deluded Communist members in the United States, by signing a pact with Nazi Germany, August 23, 1939. The Comintern immediately ordered its parties in the United States and throughout the world to renew their revolutionary character. “Collective Security” was immediately scuttled and the Communist parties everywhere became isolationists and belabored Great Britain and the “British Imperialist War.” In the United States, the Communists launched the slogan “The Yanks Are Not Coming” and attacked President Roosevelt viciously as a “warmonger.” Strikes in war and defense industries were fomented and viciously carried on by Communists throughout the United States. Meanwhile, Soviet Russia attacked Finland and partitioned Poland with her Nazi comrade-in-arms. Nazi Bundsters and American Communists joined hands in sabotaging United States aid to Great Britain. Members of both organizations began a penetration of the America First Committee. Conscription and lend-lease proposals were viciously and bitterly opposed. Anti-Nazi leagues in America were quickly abandoned for American Peace Mobilization fronts and new name-calling, including “warmonger” and “imperialist,” were shouted at anyone who decried Nazi brutality and aggression. The fifth period of Communist development in the United States will always be remembered for its sharp curve in 1939 with the signing of the Nazi-Soviet Pact and its breath-taking flip-flop June 22, 1941 when Hitler's hordes swept into the Ukraine.

About a week after the signing of the Stalin-Hitler nonaggression pact, Foreign Commissar Molotov wrote in The Meaning of the Soviet-German Non-Aggression Pact, Workers' Library Publishers, August 31, 1939, page 3:

“• • • the conclusion of a pact of non-aggression between the U. S. S. R. and Germany is of tremendous positive value, eliminating the danger of war between Germany and the Soviet Union.”

Commissar Molotov continued in the same article (page 8) :

"As you see, Stalin hit the nail on the head when he exposed the machinations of the Western Europe politicians who were trying to set Germany and the Soviet Union at loggerheads. It must be confessed that there were some short-sighted people in our own country who, carried away by over-simplified anti-fascist propaganda, forgot about this provocative work of our enemies. Mindful of this, Stalin even then suggested the possibility of other unhostile, good-neighborly relations between Germany and the U. S. S. R. It can now be seen that on the whole Germany correctly understood these statements of Stalin and drew practical conclusions from them. The conclusion of the Soviet-German Non-Aggression Pact shows that Stalin's historic prevision has been brilliantly confirmed." (Committee's italics.)

In Molotov's report to the Supreme Soviet, October 31, 1939, Workers' Library Publishers, Inc., page 5, the foreign commissar further solidified Soviet Russia's new policy toward Germany, in the following language:

"* * * Germany is in a position of a state which is striving for the earliest termination of war and for peace, while Britain and France, which only yesterday were declaiming against aggression, are in favor of continuing the war and are opposed to the conclusion of peace. The roles, as you see, are changing."

And further in the same report, page 8, Molotov continues:

"The relations between Germany and the other Western European Bourgeois states have in the past two decades been determined primarily by Germany's efforts to break the fetters of the Versailles Treaty, whose authors were Great Britain and France, with the active collaboration of the United States. This, in the long run, led to the present war in Europe * * *. The relations between the Soviet Union and Germany have been based on a different foundation, which involved no interest whatever in perpetuating the post-war Versailles system. We have always held that a strong Germany is an indispensable condition for a durable peace in Europe." (Committee's italics.)

On page 23 of his report to the Supreme Soviet, Foreign Commissar Molotov asks some questions about the United States:

"In any event, our country, as a neutral country, which is not interested in the spread of war, will take every measure to render this war less devastating, to weaken it and hasten its termination in the interests of peace. From this standpoint, the decision of the American Government to lift the embargo on the export of arms to belligerent countries raises just misgivings. It can scarcely be doubted that the effect of this decision will not be to weaken the war and hasten its termination, but, on the contrary, to intensify, aggravate and protract it. Of course, the decision may insure big profits for American war industries. But, one asks, can this serve as any justification for lifting the embargo on the export of arms from America? Clearly, it can not."

Thus it was, in compliance with Soviet foreign policy, that the Communists in the United States and in California launched a campaign for isolation and nonintervention, joining hands with the America First Committee, The German-American Bund and many other anti-war, isolationist organizations. Harry Bridges' Union, the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, originated the slogan "The Yanks Are Not Coming!" and this defiant expression of nonintervention became the password in every Communist front organization. Labor's Non-Partisan League of California circulated thousands of paper book-matches bearing this slogan. It was heard from the rostrum of every Communist front organization, such as the American Peace Mobilization and the American Student Union.

So that no doubt be left in the minds of anyone, the Committee quotes the above-mentioned V. J. Jerome, the American Communist bellwether of the fellow-traveling cultural clique, in Social Democracy and the War. Workers' Library Publishers, Inc., 1940 (pages 45-46):

"Since the warmongering campaign opened, innumerable trade unions and other mass organizations have adopted resolutions against this country's involvement. A. F. of L. and C. I. O. State labor bodies and city councils, national unions and locals, the unemployed, church bodies, and the vital youth movement are saying, with the national convention of the C. I. O.: Labor wants no war or any part of it. * * * The voice of militant labor rings forth in ever-swelling volume in the slogan first sounded by the Maritime Federation of the Pacific: 'The Yanks Are Not Coming!' The Communist Party of the United States declares: ' * * * we Communists will continue the broadest collaboration with all elements in the labor movement to advance the struggle for working class unity by educating, rallying, and unifying the workers against capitalist reaction and exploitation and to keep America out of the imperialistic war'."

In April of 1941 circulars were being generously and copiously circulated throughout California, carrying to the uninformed and the innocent, the Americanized version of the foreign policy of Soviet Russia. Pamphlets demanding and proclaiming: "Get Out and Stay Out of the Imperialist War! No Convoys! No A. E. F.! The Yanks Are Not Coming! Friendship With the Soviet Union!" were distributed at the University of California at Berkeley and throughout the United States.

Your committee finds that the Communist Party in California, acting through unions which it dominated and controlled, launched an amazing epidemic of strikes in key defense industries and were successful in many cases in tying up production of armament, die-casting, steel, planes and ships.

Mr. Hugh Ben Inzer, who was president of Local 216 of the United Automobile Workers Union, C. I. O., testified under oath before your committee, October 16, 1941. Mr. Inzer stated that he had been an assemblyman for General Motors in South Gate since November 16, 1936. He stated that he was acquainted with Lew Michener, Wyndham Mortimer, Philip M. (Slim) Connelly and other leaders of the C. I. O. We quote Mr. Inzer's testimony verbatim from Volume IV of the committee's transcript, beginning at page 1215:

"A. (Inzer) When I was elected to the presidency of Local 216, I was asked by the Regional Director to take time off and come down to the Regional Office for a couple of days at the expense of the International. In other words, the International would pay my expenses. So that was around the 8th of May, 1940, and at that time I took this time off and went down and I reached the office about 9.30 in the morning and from that time until noon I was introduced to different people in the CIO Building, who worked in the offices and he stated those were the people I would now have to cooperate with—I was the new president of Local 216, and they were all in the CIO movement. So, then, we proceeded to go out for luncheon.

Q. Now, where are the headquarters you spoke of?

A. (Inzer) That's the Currier Building at Spring and Third, I believe.

Q. In this city?

A. (Inzer) In Los Angeles, yes, sir.

Q. All right, Mr. Inzer.

A. (Inzer) About twelve we went out to lunch and I went out to lunch with Michener and a person known as Slim Connelly.

Q. Now, is that Philip M. Connelly?

A. (Inzer) That's Philip M. Connelly.

Q. What position, if any, did he occupy in the C. I. O.?

A. (Inzer) He holds a position as President of State C. I. O.

Q. He is still?

A. (Inzer) Yes, he is—

Q. And—pardon me.

A. (Inzer)—he was also Secretary to the Council here in Los Angeles.

Q. Now, while you were there, did you have a conversation with Mr. Michener and Mr. Connelly relative to the general situation among the automobile workers?

A. (Inzer) I did, yes, sir.

Q. And the Union situation in the vicinity of Los Angeles in that industry?

A. (Inzer) That's right.

Q. And did that conversation occur while you were at lunch?

A. (Inzer) No, after lunch we went into the Regional Office and he said there were some more people coming in and we were going to get together on a program to follow for the next year and it took place after lunch in the Regional Office.

Q. And after you went back to the Currier Building, following your luncheon, did you go upstairs in the building or were you on the ground floor?

A. (Inzer) We went upstairs in the building. I believe the Regional Office at that time was on the fourth floor—I know it was on one of the floors above the first floor.

Q. Yes.

A. (Inzer) So we went up to the Regional Office and went into the Regional Director's Office and we were seated there.

Q. Did some other people come in?

A. (Inzer) Two men came in, other than Connelly, Mortimer and Michener and myself, two other men. One came in and was introduced to me as Mr. Diebel; another man came in and was introduced to me as Mr. Perry.

Q. Now, were you present here when Mr. Diebel testified before this Committee?

A. (Inzer) Yes, sir, I was.

Q. Did you have an opportunity to observe him?

A. (Inzer) No, other than his back walking up and from the witness stand.

Q. Were you able to tell whether or not that is the same Mr. Diebel you met at the Currier Building?

A. (Inzer) I am positive of it.

Q. You are sure it was?

A. (Inzer) I am sure it was.

Q. I hand you a photograph and ask you if that is a photograph of Mr. Diebel? (Handing to witness.)

A. (Inzer) That is.

Q. You recognize him as the same person who was present at the meeting you are now testifying about?

A. (Inzer) Yes, sir.

Q. Are you sure of that?

A. (Inzer) Yes, sir, I am positive.

Q. Who else came in?

A. (Inzer) There was a colored fellow came by the name of Perry. They introduced him as Mr. Perry.

Q. Was that Mr. Pettis Perry?

A. (Inzer) I found out later it was, I found out later it was Pettis Perry.

CHAIRMAN TENNEY: He is a Negro, is he not?

A. (Inzer) He is a Negro, yes, sir.

MR. COMBS: Go ahead.

A. (Inzer) These men came in and sat in. I didn't know who these people were any more than I know the people out in the audience, all I thought was they are some part of the Labor Movement. So Mr. Connelly and Mr. Michener began to tell me that we would have to set up an organization among all the Locals, that is, to have the Presidents of the Locals and the Executive Board of each Local to be ready to cooperate with the Regional Office at any time in case of an emergency, and what I gathered from the conversation of the meeting, the emergency was this: Any time they wanted to call a strike at any plant that has a C. I. O. contract that they could put so much pressure on the management by calling the other plants in Los Angeles out in sympathetic strike with the plant trying to get a contract, by so doing they could force the management of that company to sign the contract that the Union wanted. So they also stated that this man who they introduced as Mr. Diebel had cooperated with them in the past in putting out literature. They went ahead to state they cooperated in literature known as "The Yanks Are Not Coming" and he said also any time we needed any literature printed that this man had a print shop and would be glad to cooperate in putting out any literature that we needed.

Q. That was said in the presence of Mr. Diebel?

A. (Inzer) That was said in the presence of Mr. Diebel and the rest of the men in the meeting.

Q. When that portion of the conversation occurred, Mr. Inzer, were you seated any place in the room?

A. (Inzer) We were seated in the room in chairs (indicating).

Q. Around a table?

A. (Inzer) No, the chairs were just pulled out and seated in the room (indicating).

Q. The conversation was perfectly audible to all persons present?

A. (Inzer) Yes.

Q. All right, go ahead, and give us the substance of what occurred.

A. (Inzer) This statement in regards to putting out the literature and he agreed he would do that. Then they stated Mr. Perry was the head of an organization who could furnish us with men, with a lot of man power, and also furnish us with pickets, men to put out literature and men to do any kind of a job that we needed so long as our men were tied up on the picket line and by so getting that cooperation we would be able to force the management of the plants to sign an agreeable contract with the Union.

Q. Well, now,——

A. (Inzer) Mr. Perry agreed he was at the head of an organization and could supply any amount of men that were needed.

Q. Was that organization identified at that time or subsequently?

A. (Inzer) No, it was not.

Q. All right.

A. (Inzer) No, it was not.

Q. You did not know the organization they were referring to?

A. (Inzer) I did not know the organization, no, sir.

Q. Had you ever seen either Mr. Diebel or Mr. Perry before, to your knowledge?

A. (Inzer) No, sir, I had never seen them before in my life.

Q. All right, go ahead.

A. (Inzer) So after these two points were brought up these men disappeared, they got up and left the room.

Q. Did they leave the room together?

A. (Inzer) No, they didn't.

Q. Who left first?

A. (Inzer) I believe Mr. Diebel, and in five or ten minutes Mr. Perry followed out.

Q. All right.

A. (Inzer) So, then, we continued with our conversation and in the meantime though, I had been used to running into the Communist activities in the C. I. O. before that time, and I could see that this program was leading right up to the same thing, Communist C. I. O. on the Coast. So the next day,—after these fellows left we talked about ten or fifteen minutes, and I went back to my office. The next day I was supposed to go down again but I went back to my own office and called up the Regional Office and told them I was there in case they needed me. Mr. Michener wanted to know what was wrong and I told him I had investigated and found out who these men were and I, as President of Local 216, I would not be connected with the Regional Office, my rank and file would not cooperate,—by the way, our Local consists of 1800.

Q. They didn't approve of it?

A. (Inzer) They don't approve of that influence in the Union.

Q. They are aware the influence is there?

A. (Inzer) Absolutely, yes, sir.

Q. Now, Mr. Inzer, you say you did make an investigation following this meeting which you have testified about?

A. (Inzer) That's right.

Q. Did you find out what organization Mr. Perry spoke of when he mentioned that he had an organization through which he could furnish pickets, and so forth?

A. (Inzer) Yes, I went back to the Union and asked some of my Executive Board if they had heard of these men and they said they had heard of them and they believed one was on the German-American Bund and the other the Communist Party. I had a friend who was very active in different work in Los Angeles and I knew he was well acquainted or would know of them, so I asked him and he was quite shocked to know that I had been to such a meeting, and he readily told me that this one, Hans Diebel, was at the head or active in the German-American Bund in Los Angeles and he did have a bookstore on 15th Street and also Perry was the head of the Communist Party and he took me down to the places and I looked in and satisfied myself as to who they were,—they were there.

Q. You went to both addresses?

A. (Inzer) I saw both persons.

Q. You conducted an investigation that satisfied you that the statements you had obtained concerning their activities were correct?

A. (Inzer) Absolutely, yes, sir.

Q. What happened to you then in your Local 216?

A. (Inzer) Well, as soon—

Q. Of course, there was the declaration of war between Russia and Germany?

A. (Inzer) That's right. As soon as the Regional Director mentioned or found out I was not going to cooperate with him and the reason he wanted me to cooperate with him was the Communist Party here in Los Angeles controls the C. I. O., and I don't mean partly, I mean they control it, they do what they want to with it. Any time they send a Communist out to my Local to sell the rank and file that all he wants to do is to have them work with him and help put it over, and after I would refuse any issue he'd attack me for not cooperating with the Regional Office and he also brought Mortimer out to do the same thing, and try to poison the minds of the rank and file, who I represented, so they'd not pay any attention to me and be against my act."

The committee has included the above excerpt from the testimony of Hugh Ben Inzer as proof of the collaboration and cooperation of the Communist Party and the German-American Bund with such Communist-dominated union organizations as the C. I. O. under the leadership of Philip M. Connelly and Lew Michener during the fifth period of Communist strategy. The identity and affiliation of Pettis Perry, then the Secretary of the Communist Party of Los Angeles County, and Hans Diebel, of the German-American Bund, in the City of Los Angeles, are well known.

SIXTH PERIOD (JUNE 22, 1941, TO ?)

The Sixth Period of Communism in the United States began with Hitler's invasion of Soviet Russia. The Communist press in the United States up to this event was still attacking President Roosevelt as a "warmonger" and belaboring the "British Imperialist War." Strikes all over the country were instituted by Communist dominated unions. With the startling news that the "Fatherland" had been attacked by Hitler's hordes, the strikes stopped in defense and war industries throughout the United States. Peace mobilization fronts and leagues evaporated into thin air. "All Out Aid to Soviet Russia, Great Britain and China" replaced the former slogans of "Stop the British Imperialist War" and "The Yanks Are Not Coming." This latter slogan was soon considerably amended to read "The Yanks Are Not Coming Too Late." President Roosevelt became an overnight hero instead of being a "warmonger." Every Communist in California and throughout the United States became a chauvinistic patriot and "Unity Leagues" of this and that for "Victory" mushroomed throughout California and the United States. Although the anti-religious campaign of Soviet Russia was flourishing up to the violation of the Soviet-Nazi Pact and Soviet Russia's League of the Militant Godless was still vigorously functioning, the Communist Party of America began, in this period, to extol the religious tolerance of Communism. The American Communists were ordered to emphasize the "democracy" of Soviet Russia and its fervent championship of civil liberty.

Dictator Stalin's "historic prevision," as Foreign Commissar Molotov had hailed it, was thrown in the ash can as Hitler's panzer divisions went crashing over the Soviet frontiers and the non-aggression pact simultaneously. New slogans and proclamations appeared on the familiar mimeographed circulars and pamphlets of the Communist Party pamphleteers as soon as the comrades had caught their breath and determined the new foreign policy of the "Fatherland." On September 16, 1941, another circular appeared at the University of California at Berkeley, this time urging the students to: "Unite the campus to defeat Hitler and Hitlerism! Defend America by full and immediate aid to Great Britain and the Soviet Union! Aid China! Embargo Japan! Make the campus a fortress of Democracy! For unity and victory—Join the American Student Union!"

Your committee here wishes to point out that on June 22, 1941, it was Russia, and NOT the United States that was invaded by Germany. The news of this event, however, was attended with repercussions in the United States and in California which were immediate and profound. A strange and significant quiet prevailed over America's labor front. Overnight the Imperialist War of June 21, 1941, was changed by some strange, international magic, into a people's war which involved the Soviet Union. The American Communists would now take all the Yanks they could get. American Communists were now declaring that "Now . . . this is OUR war . . .," as did Rose Segure and other California Communists and fellow travelers. Foreign Commissar Molotov now ordained that it would be all right for America to lift the embargo on arms to belligerents; particularly to the Soviet Union and Britain.

Your committee wishes to emphasize the significant lesson to be learned from this period of Communist strategy. Americans everywhere should concern themselves seriously with the changes which came to California and the United States; changes which effected the release of defense industries from the strangle hold of Communist dominated unions, the sudden change in propagandizing in our State educational institutions. It should carefully be noted by all students of these matters that these changes were caused, not by anything happening directly in or to the United States. Again they turned on the need and foreign policy of a foreign government thousands of miles away. Your committee wishes to emphasize the fact that there exists in the State of California an organized group of subversive individuals, completely dominated by a foreign power, which has sufficient influence in our American Labor movement to launch a strike epidemic in our defense or war industries when the purpose suits the foreign power, and to turn it off again like water from a tap when the foreign policy of the dominating foreign power commands. While the needs of the foreign power dominating this group in California and the United States may correspond presently with our own needs, it may well be, in the future, that the needs of the dominating force exerted on these American subversives may be detrimental in the extreme to our own needs and purposes. Your committee believes that it is high time for the people of this State thoroughly and completely to understand and realize that the members of the Communist Party are organized into an iron disciplined group and controlled, unquestionably, by a foreign power. Soviet Russia. These people should be regarded for what they actually are—agents of a foreign power, and should not be, in any way, looked upon as super-patriots and saviors of the working class of America and California, as they would like to lead us to believe.

The official mass murders of Soviet Russia's Fifth Period, together with its amazing trials in which every defendant attempted to out-confess the other; literally bubbling over with the admission of treasonable crimes against the Soviet Government, fantastically, eagerly and enthusiastically inviting the death penalty are now being sold to the American people by the Communists as far-visioned statesmanship on the part of Dictator Stalin. Ambassador Joseph E. Davies' book, Mission to Moscow, is now pounced on by the Communists of America as corroborating evidence of the statesmanship of Joseph Stalin in defending the "democracy" of Soviet Russia and the United Nations. This phase of Ambassador Davies' book, Mission to Moscow, should be read in conjunction with the report on the trials by Dr. John Dewey, Men and Politics by Louis Fisher and writers who were in actual attendance at the trials in Russia and who possessed a knowledge of Communist ideology and tactics.

Hewlett Johnson, the aged Dean of Canterbury, has written a book, Soviet Power, and this volume is now being given widespread circulation by the Communist Party of America. Eugene Lyons, who spent considerable time in Soviet Russia, calls this book of the Dean of Canterbury "a topsy-turvy book * * * an Alice-in-Wonderland volume that can only be catalogued as literature of hallucination * * *."

The members of your committee realized on the morning of June 23, 1941 that an era of Communist strategy had come to an end in California and in the United States. The committee had been preparing a series of hearings connected with the strikes at the North American Aircraft Company in Inglewood. This plant had been closed June 6, 1941 by the C. I. O. but had been reopened several weeks later by the United States Army acting under the direction of the President of the United States. While the committee did not have an opportunity fully to investigate this strike it learned that its leaders in the C. I. O. were the same old Communist and fellow-traveling crowd. Wyndham Mortimer—whose Communist Party name was Baker—Lew Michener, Elmer Freitag—who was registered as a Communist in 1938—and lesser lights such as Jeff Kibre and Don Healy, were the Stalinist leaders of this piece of defense sabotage in America. It was all over, of course, when Hitler's panzer divisions drove into Russia June 22, 1941. Your committee knew that the Communist Party of the United States would receive new instructions; that the revolutionary character of the Communist Party of America would be disguised; that the communists of California would, as long as it assisted Soviet Russia, be the most enthusiastic patriots for the defeat of Hitler and the enemies of the Red Fatherland. What love of the United States, its Constitution, Flag, traditions and way of life could not accomplish in its appeal to men like Wyndham Mortimer and Lew Michener, invasion of a foreign totalitarian dictatorship accomplished overnight. The people of California and the United States should never forget that the defense efforts of our great Nation would have been ruthlessly sabotaged by what purported to be an American labor movement—the C. I. O.—had it not been for the need of a foreign dictatorship thousands of miles away.

Your committee reports, therefore, that, in this, the Sixth Period of Communist development and strategy in California and the United States, the war efforts of our State and Nation are presently safe from Communist interference and sabotage. Every real Communist in the United States will sacrifice, fight, and die if need be, just so long as the sacrificing, fighting and dying assists the Red Fatherland—Soviet Russia. Meanwhile, Americans should make no mistake about the true situation. The Communist Party of the United States of America is NOT willing to sacrifice, to fight or to die, to preserve American Democracy, its Constitution, its Flag, its tradition, or its way of life. The long range objective has not changed and will not change. The revolutionary spirit is temporarily on ice and the Seventh Period of Communist development in this country may see it in all its grim horror if the needs, ambitions and foreign policy of Soviet Russia so ordain.

Those who have read thus far are well capable of drawing their own conclusions. Your committee's investigators already report plans of the Communist Party in California for the formation of soldiers' and sailors' councils in the Army and the Navy, patterned after similar councils set up in the armies and navies of the Czar and the Kerensky government in Russia in 1917. Reports reaching your committee from closed meetings of Communist groups throughout California tell of plans for soviet governments throughout Europe upon the collapse of Hitlerism and the weakening of the Nazi-yoke. While it is not the province of your committee to prognosticate the future, the committee, must, nevertheless, state to you with all the emphasis at its command that this, the Sixth Period of Communist development and strategy, is not the last period. The committee warns the people of California and of the United States that there WILL BE a Seventh Period of Communist strategy in America. Only the vigilance of the American people and the devotion to the Constitution and traditions of the United States on the part of public officials can successfully block the Seventh Period of Communism from being the last period of the American way of life.

Totalitarian rattlesnakes apparently find satisfaction in warning their prospective victims before striking. The democracies of the world can not complain that Hitler had not warned them of his world aggression ambitions in the pages of Mein Kampf. The purpose of the Third International, from the beginning and throughout its history, has been boldly stated as world domination and the destruction of all existing forms of government. Even the Japanese Imperialists, while not quite so blatant and open in their avowed objectives, have indicated the course that they would pursue at the proper moment. Similarly the Comintern today indicates the course of its next period of strategy. Manchester Boddy, writing in his column Views of the News, in the Los Angeles Daily News for Wednesday, February 24, 1943 brilliantly records an historical moment that may cast a dark and sinister shadow in the Seventh Communist era that is to come:

"Views of the News

" 'Russia stands alone,' says Mr. Boddy.

"That is what Stalin said to his people.

"His speech delivered yesterday on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Red Army is perfectly clear. Russia stands alone. Russia is fighting for one and only one purpose: to defend the homeland.

"Nowhere in his long address does Stalin even acknowledge any help of any kind given Russia.

"Nowhere does he allude, by word or implication, to any sharing of the ideals we claim to be fighting for.

"There is no hint with respect to the 'Four Freedoms,' nor even the slightest hope for a world at peace.

"He does point out that there is no second front in Europe. But he implies no obligation on the part of his allies to create such a front. Nowhere does he state why a second front should be established.

"Stalin hammers again and again and again on one point only: Russia fights on Russian soil. Russia fights to drive out the invader. The Russian Army will liberate Russian land from the hated enemy.

"Beyond that—nothing. Stalin's speech is, however, consistent with the few but cogent statements he has made since the beginning of this war. Always the safety and security of Russia have been Stalin's sole concern.

"Back in 1939, he said:

*" * * * If we accept the Reich's offer of collaboration, the latter will not hesitate to crush Poland; England and France will thereupon be drawn fatally into war. There will result a thorough destruction of western Europe, and remaining outside the conflict we can advantageously await our hour. If Germany wins, she will emerge from the war too exhausted to dream of an armed conflict against us. We must accept the pact proposed* by Germany and work to prolong the war the maximum possible • • •.

"But the war didn't work out this way, and in June, 1941 Joseph Stalin announced:

"In June 1931, Hitlerite Germany perfidiously attacked our country, rudely and foully violating the non-aggression agreement, and the Red Army found itself compelled to launch a campaign to defend its native land against the German invader and to drive him from the borders of our country."

"Nothing could be clearer.

"Russia intended, just as official Pravda had previously explained, to sit tight while all Europe was being overrun. Only when Hitler actually invaded Russian soil did the Red Army find itself compelled to launch a campaign to defend its native land against the German invader and to drive him from the borders of Russia."

"Joseph Stalin devoted yesterday's speech to a reiteration of that single theme. He comes back to it again and again.

"Russia battles 'against the invasion of the German Fascist hordes.'

"The beginning of the massed drive of the enemy from Soviet lands has begun."

"It should not be considered an accident that the command of the Red Army is not only liberating Soviet soil from the enemy, but it is also not allowing the enemy to leave our soil alive by carrying out operations to surround and wipe out the enemy. • • •"

"Stalin merely mentions the absence of a second front. He does not chide his allies for their failure.

"The Red Army struggles against the invasion of the German Fascist hordes. Does Stalin hint that Russia is fighting against 'militarism' or dictatorship or on behalf of the 'four freedoms'? Not at all. Russia is fighting invaders. Nothing more. Nothing less.

"Stalin points out that the Red Army is bearing the whole weight of the war. Not half—not three-quarters—not 99 per cent. The whole weight. And how about the food and the machines and the munitions we have been sending to Russia? How about the men who have died in the icy waters of the North Sea while battling to get through to Murmansk? Are they no part of the weight of the war? No. Not from Stalin's viewpoint. We are not fighting for Russia. Russia is not fighting for us. Russia stands alone bearing the whole weight of the war, to drive the enemy out of Russia!

"The Red Army,' Stalin says, 'has only to pursue it (the German Army) to the western frontiers of our country. It would be stupid to suppose the Germans will give up even one kilometer of our land without a struggle!'"

"His order of the day is even more specific. His army will continue to fight 'for the sake of liberation of our country from the hated enemy, for the sake of final victory over the German Fascist invaders. * * *'

"The theme and all its variations are clear and consistent:

"Russia fights for the right to be let alone.

"Russia did not enter the war—as a defense measure—when the Germans overran France and the low countries; nor when Great Britain stood alone with only a thin strip of water between her and total destruction. She entered the war only when Russian soil was invaded!

"Obviously we are disappointed in the Stalin speech. We know there are perfectly good reasons why American soldiers should invade Europe. We feel certain that Stalin, too, knows and understands those reasons. But our men are fighting many thousands of miles from home, while the Russian men are fighting to recover their homes from an invader.

"We can not talk to our armies about driving the enemy off our own soil as Joseph Stalin talks to his armies. So we must substitute other reasons: a United Nations cause, for example; a future world free from war and fear of war. Above all else we must talk about a common front between Russia, China, the United States and Great Britain. We had hoped Stalin might have had one little word for these ideals, and a nod of recognition to our soldiers who are fighting so far from home. Not because the enemy has invaded their homeland, but for an ideal.

"We must say, however, that Joseph Stalin talks straight from the shoulder and says what he means. For a leader reputed to be adept at propaganda he has proved himself to be exactly the opposite.

"What he says, boiled down to a few words, is that if he were an American he would stay in America. His speech will be exultantly accepted and used by our isolationists.

"It will make the Allied effort all the more difficult."

The Los Angeles Examiner for March 9, 1943, carries a news item by the International News Service under date of March 8, 1943, headlined, "U. S. Envoy Charges: 'Stalin Suppresses Facts on U. S. Aid'. Unlike former American Ambassador Davies, Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley looks beneath Soviet window-dressing. The news item is as follows:

"Moscow, March 8—(INS)—American Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley declared tonight he saw no evidence of official Soviet recognition of the aid Russia is receiving from the United States and indicated this silence might have an unfavorable effect on Congress.

"Inferentially urging that Russia acknowledge to her own people and the world the assistance extended to her from America, the 71-year-old ambassador made his blunt remarks to correspondents in Moscow even as renewal of the lease-lend program was up for consideration in Washington.

"Long Way to Enactment

"Pointing out that it is 'a long way from the foreign affairs committee to enactment' of the Lease-lend bill by Congress, Admiral Standley said:

'The United States Congress is rather sensitive. It is generous and big-hearted as long as it feels it is helping someone, but give it the idea that it is not helping and it might be a different story.'

"The white-haired ambassador, who returned to his post from Washington early in the year and who is scheduled to confer with Premier Josef Stalin shortly, asserted frankly that the Soviet Government seems to be keeping the Russian people in the dark concerning the aid . . . ."

An editorial from the Los Angeles Examiner for March 10, 1943, also indicates things to come in the Seventh period of Communist strategy:

"Stalin's Monstrous Double-Dealing Revealed

"The almost incredible story of the execution of Victor Alter and Hendryk Erlich, two Jewish Polish Socialist leaders in December, 1941, by the Russians, does not augur well for the 'Four Freedoms' and the principles of the Atlantic Charter, to which Joseph Stalin has given some lip-service.

"Although Alter and Erlich were, as Polish labor leaders, the foes of Naziism they were arrested nearly four years ago as 'Socialists' while Germany and Russia had a 10-year non-aggression pact in force and when Stalin had taken nearly half of Poland as his 'divvy' on the murder of Europe, which Hitler was systematically engaged in.

"Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Ambassador in the United States, has officially informed William Green, President of the A. F. of L., that Erlich and Alter were executed in December, 1941, on Soviet soil.

"They were executed, said the Ambassador, because they had urged the Reds to make a separate peace with Germany.

"As these men were Poles, Jews and anti-Nazis, of course, this statement must be taken as one of those 'save-face' excuses in which Russia's ally, Japan, is so expert.

"The worst of the matter is that for four years American labor unions have been sending presents to these dead men and Messrs. Murray and Green of the C. I. O. and A. F. of L., have been abling pleas to the Kremlin for their release—not knowing that the men had been dead for a year.

“This cowardly double-dealing on the part of one of our military allies is nothing short of monstrous.

“We are sending billions in money and material to Russia to aid her in her fight to get the Germans out of Russia while she has been making a perfect fool out of our labor leaders and out of the Jewish people, who were naturally interested in the fate of their fellow-religionists.

“The question of American and Russian postwar relations looms larger every day.

“The secret execution of Erlich and Alter and the duplicity and dishonesty in the matter of their deaths do not promise well for the future.”

COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES IN CALIFORNIA

Your committee has been exceedingly careful in its selection of witnesses on the subject of Communism. During the two-year period of the committee's investigation, it has refrained from making accusations against anyone appearing before the committee and has been content to let the testimony of the witnesses speak for itself.

The Communist Party, by tactics formulated and cleverly carried into operation by the so-called “Antiseptic Squads,” attempts to discredit in every possible manner the testimony of any person who testifies concerning the intrigue and criminal machinations of the party. The mildest criticism of Communism on the part of anyone, is immediately hailed as “red-baiting” and the critics are immediately labeled “Social Fascists,” “red-baiters,” and agents of exploiting capitalism, Hearst and Hitler. The Antiseptic Squads of American Communism reserve their most vicious and bitter denunciation for ex-Communists who find the courage publicly to expose Communist Party objectives, activities and tactics. The Communist grapevine and its blatant press immediately proclaim such individuals as “stool pigeons,” “informers,” “degenerates” and “pathological liars.” All faithful Communist and fellow-traveling witnesses are heralded as “progressives” and “liberals” and the personification of veracity. A slight scanning of the pages of the committee's volumes of transcripts of the testimony of Communist Party functionaries reveals amazing lapses of memory on the part of such witnesses as to membership in the Communist Party and of events in connection with Communist Party activity that would be readily and easily remembered by an ordinarily truthful witness. There is hardly an instance in the testimony of self-admitted Communist members where they remember the identification of the person to whom they paid dues. Rare, indeed, is the testimony of a Communist member in which he clearly remembers the identity of those in attendance at important Communist meetings or functions. In cases where the person to be identified is a well-known Communist, and admittedly so, the Communist witness has little difficulty in remembering.

Your committee wishes to emphasize, in this connection, that the laws and ethics of capitalist society are not, in the least, held to be binding on members of the Communist Party. It likewise should be remembered that the Communist is not burdened with any sense of religion and suffers no compunction of conscience when falsely testifying under oath. To the iron disciplined, class-conscious Communist, "oaths" and "conscience" are superstitious capitalist fictions invented by capitalist exploiters for the purpose of oppressing and dominating the working class. Thus it is, that Communist witnesses will blandly deny ever having heard of the Communist movement, though it may well be (as has happened in several cases) that the committee is in possession of the Communist Party book or a photostat thereof, of the witness who sits before it brazenly prevaricating.

Illustrating the ease with which Communist Party members handle the truth is the case of Lee Gregovich testifying before the committee in San Diego, February 20, 1942 (Volume VIII, pages 2305-2319). Mr. Gregovich stated that he had never been affiliated with the Young Communist League or the Communist Party although he admitted knowing Stanley Hancock, Esco Richardson, Dan Taylor, La Verne Lym and Bert Leech as Communists. Your committee has in its files a photostatic copy taken from the office of the Secretary of State, bearing the name of Lee Gregovich sponsoring Nathaniel Griffin for the Communist Party nomination to the office of Assembly in the Seventy-eighth Assembly District in San Diego County. Also illustrative of the insidious tactics of these lying agents of the Comintern is the testimony of Lee Gregovich in attempting to smear a member of the Legislature from San Diego County by placing him, in his testimony, in suspected Communist meetings.

Every "iron disciplined" and thoroughly indoctrinated Communist is convinced that he is a soldier in a bitter and unrelenting war. He is thoroughly fired with fanatical hate of capitalism and capitalistic government and he believes that he is one of the heroes in the vanguard of the assault on the enemies of the "workers," one of the generals in the class war. Military objectives include industries employing wage labor, educational institutions, churches and all functions of government, municipal, State and National. One of the chief military objectives of the Communist Party is Democracy—all Democracies, because its members war against the state in any form. They have been taught that all states are merely instruments of capitalism and exploitation, and, therefore, a Democracy is just another form of the state.

Because he believes himself living in a state of war, the Communist has discarded all of the ways of peace. Each Communist in the United States and in California considers himself a spy in a hostile country, waging a desperate warfare with his bare hands, his wits—a spy in the land of the enemy—a secret agent living in constant jeopardy of his life. He considers himself in continual combat, surrounded by ruthless enemies who, if they could, would eliminate him. It is the duty of a soldier to kill his country's enemies, and if a Communist kills the enemies of Communism, he becomes one of the heroes in the vanguard of the proletariat. Among themselves they proudly admit that they lie—that they commit perjury—glorious deeds on the pages of the history of the class war. Do capitalist presidents, premiers and diplomats hesi- tate to lie and to commit perjury in the furtherance of their country's cause? Of course not! Then, reasons the Communist, why should a soldier or a spy in the vanguard of the proletariat hesitate to do that which furthers his fanatical cause? Any good spy or secret agent caught in the toils of enemy courts or enemy investigating bodies would not be worth his salt if he hesitated to lie thereby to fool the enemy. Every Communist in a capitalist nation must protect the Red Fatherland—must protect his fellow conspirators and comrades; hide their identities, activities and objectives, at all cost to himself. Your committee is convinced that they believe their actions and conduct in this connection proper and completely orthodox. This fanatical belief of being a soldier and a spy in an alien and hostile land must be understood in evaluating and weighing the sworn testimony of known Communists and fellow travelers.

The witnesses subpoenaed to testify in public hearings before your committee on the subject of Communism in California may roughly be divided into two classes, hostile and friendly witnesses. Your committee does not wish to intimate that this classification is necessarily significant or that the hostile witnesses were, in fact, members of the Communist Party. It is merely a fact that they were unfriendly and in many cases defiant and impudent. The hostile witnesses on this subject, examined by your committee, are as follows:

Samuel Albert,
Mischa Altman,
Otto W. Benziger,
George E. Bodle,
Reuben W. Borough,
Louise Bransten,
Carl Brant,
Wilmer Breeden,
Archie Brown,
James H. Burford,
Manuel Cabral,
Philip Connelly,
Frances Decker,
Judy Dunks,
Julius Furman,
Maxine Furman,
Oscar Fuss,
Philip Gardner,
Kate Crane Gartz,
B. S. Gorin,
Jack Greenberg,
Lee Gregovich,
Aubrey Grossman,
Carrol E. Hunnwell,
Frieda Jasmagy,
John A. Jones,

Frederick Langton,
Bert Leech,
Frances Lym,
La Rue McCormick,
Lucile McNeil,
Frances Moore,
Jack Moore,
June Orr,
Pearl Ossman,
Pettis Perry,
Max Radin,
Mervyn Rathborne,
Dorothy Ray,
William Schneiderman,
Laurance B. Smith,
Herbert K. Sorrell,
John F. St. Cyr,
Vaughn A. K. Tashjian.
James Toback,
Clarence Vernon
Wahlenmaier,
Robert E. Warren
John M. Weatherwax,
Helen Wheeler,
A. L. Wirin,
B. Joseph Zukas.

Of the above group, Archie Brown, Philip Gardner, Bert Leech, Mrs. La Verne (Frances) Lym, Jack Moore, Pettis Perry, William Schneiderman, Dorothy Ray and Dr. Vaughn A. K. Tashjian all admitted joining the Communist Party. To this list should be added the name of B. Joseph Zukas, who, though he denied ever being a member of the Communist Party, was proved by documentary evidence to be a member. In this category, also, should be placed the name of James H. Burford, who undoubtedly lied many times under the questioning of the committee.

Friendly witnesses testifying concerning Communist activities in California are as follows:

Charles G. Bakesy,
Aubrey Blair,
J. Frank Burke,
J. W. Buzzell,
Oliver Carlson,
Tom Cavett,
Matthew G. Guidera,
Gene Hagberg,
Bert Hanman,
Edward Heim,
L. C. Helm,
John G. Honeycombe,
Miles G. Humphrey,

Hugh Ben Inzer,
Thomas Kirk,
Floyd Matthews,
Don Morton,
John Mustak,
Mrs. Edward Suchman,
J. W. Thornton,
Rena M. Vale,
George Wallace,
Earl Warren,
A. H. Webber,
Esther A. McCarthy,

Of this group Bert Hanman admitted having joined the Communist Party and having later joined the Trotskyites. His testimony is illuminating and informative on this internal fight between the Stalinist group of Communists and the Trotskyite group. Thomas Kirk, Don Morton, John G. Honeycombe and Rena M. Vale were all former members of the Communist Party.

Charles G. Bakesy had done considerable investigating as an undercover operator among the Communists in California and made a considerable amount of information available to the committee.

Aubrey Blair, J. W. Buzzell, Edward Heim and L. C. Helm are all A. F. of L. officials who have had a long experience fighting Communist infiltration into the American Federation of Labor.

J. Frank Burke is the owner and operator of Radio Stations KFVD and KPAS in Los Angeles County, a news-analyst and commentator noted for his American progressiveness, tolerance and liberalism. He testified concerning certain programs released over his radio station KFVD conducted by Ed Robbin of the People's Daily World. (Volume I, pp. 267-272.) It has been Mr. Burke's policy to make his radio stations available to everyone, believing thoroughly in the right of free speech and the right of individuals and groups to enjoy channels of public expression. He stated that Ed Robbin had begun to broadcast some time in 1938 and that the broadcasts were partly paid for by a tire company located at Twelfth and Main Streets in Los Angeles. When Hitler and Stalin joined hands in 1939 Burke noticed that Robbin followed along with the current Communist Party "line" and Burke stated that he came to the conclusion that he was not expressing his own opinions but merely echoing things he was ordered to say. It was no longer a matter of free speech. When Robbin defended Russia's invasion of Poland, Mr. Burke ordered him off of his station.

Oliver Carlson testified as an expert on Communist strategy, Communist history, activities and theory, and practical objectives. Mr. Carlson is a writer and a research associate of the University of Chicago in the Department of Political Science. He has traveled extensively in Europe. He translated a book from German into English by Chicherin, Foreign Minister for the Soviet Government. He studied at the University of Berlin and attended the London School of Economics. Mr. Carlson traced the history of the Communist International and explained its methods and ideology in detail to your committee. He outlined disciplinary methods and techniques of the Communist International. He elaborated on the Communist preparations to seize state power in all countries. He emphasized the intolerance of the Communist Party and its il-liberality and non-progressiveness, contrary to self-proclaimed and advertised virtues. He outlined the similarity between Naziism and Communism. He described the various so-called "Internationals" set up by the Communists for subtle indoctrination purposes, which included even an international philatelic society. He told the committee of the schisms within the Communist Party itself; of the Lovestonites and the Trotskyites. He elaborated on the so-called Communist "party line" and explained the causes and reasons for its changes. He testified of seeing the marriage bureaus and divorce bureaus maintained by the Soviet Government in Russia. He told the committee that over the door of the marriage bureau was the slogan, taken from the Communist Manifesto: "Workers of the World Unite." The slogan over the divorce bureau, also taken from the Communist Manifesto, was: "You Have Nothing to Lose but Your Chains."

Many persons were called throughout the State to testify generally on Communist Party activities in California and the committee's transcript of testimony presents a rounded picture of the insidious machinations and plottings of this underground group of conspirators. The committee's hearing briefs were designed in each case to draw out at least a fragment of the truth from each witness and, by planning the entire investigation to cover the State from San Diego to San Francisco, the pieces began to fit, and the jigsaw puzzle thus began to take shape and form. The general, overall scope of Communist activities in California is easily discernible through the mental fencing of many of these witnesses. For the greater part, this group represents the rank and file of Communist Party members and fellow travelers.

Mr. Carroll E. Hunnwell represents one of the missing pieces. He testified before your committee in San Diego. (Volume VIII, pp. 2449-2464.) He stated that he was a member of Post No. 6 of the American Legion. He is acquainted with Stanley Hancock, Vernon Wahlenmaier, La Verne Lym, Bert Leech and Bessie Keckler. He attended a number of functions for a drive to raise money for the Communist paper, the People's Daily World. He denied ever having affiliated with the Communist Party, but admitted that he had been approached twice, "maybe," with the proposition of joining. He does not think that the Communist Party is un-American. He stated that he felt that "we should have a change in system" and that "the main thing is to get something for the working class." In this connection, the witness testified that this would be "pretty hard to do" with the ballot. He concluded his testimony by suggesting that the need for the Communist Party would disappear if the capitalist forces would give up.

Mr. John A. Jones represents another fragment. He testified that he became a member of the Communist Party in 1935 or 1936 but that he severed connections with it in about 1941. (Volume VIII, pp. 2421-2432.) He knew Stanley Hancock, the Communist Party organizer for San Diego County, Sol and Hermine Hilkowitz, Carroll Hunnwell and Clara Stevenson. He admitted having attended the Lenin Memorial Dinner in January, 1942, held either in the U. S. Grant Hotel or Fraternal Hall in San Diego. One of his reasons for leaving the party was that the work was too strenuous. He has continued to attend meetings of the party since his alleged severing of connections. Although he surrendered his party book he could not remember the identity of the person to whom he gave it.

J. W. Thornton came into the Communist Party through the Industrial Workers of the World (I.W.W.). He testified that he joined this organization in 1913. (Volume I, pp. 131-145.) He joined the Socialist Party in 1914 and remained a member until about 1921. In 1919 the I.W.W. sent delegates to a conference of the Third International of the Communist Party which was being held in Moscow. The result of the conference brought about the merging of the I.W.W. in the United States with the new Comintern organization, the Red Trade Union International. Thornton joined the Communist Party in Portland in 1921 and dropped out of its activities in 1924. In 1930 he again became active in the Communist Party and participated in the formation of unemployed councils. He cooperated with Communist Party fractions and groups in various activities, particularly in fund-raising campaigns for the Tam Mooney Defense Committee. In 1932 he met Sam Darcy and Elmer Hanoff and participated in the Communist Party meeting in Sacramento on the occasion of a plea to Governor Rolph for the unemployed through the Cooperative Relief Association. In 1933 Thornton was expelled from the Communist Party for collaboration with the Socialists.

Gene Hagberg, of Los Angeles, testified concerning both Nazi and Communist activities in Los Angeles County. He told your committee of beach parties in Santa Monica where white girls were used as lures in recruiting Negroes into the Communist Party. He told of the "prostitution squad" of Communist Party girls who acted as lures in this endeavor. He testified as to the method used by the Young Communist League in luring Filipinos into the Communist Party by the use of marijuana. He testified as to the activities of the Communists among the Japanese and of the Japanese Communist section known as the Doho Jin Sha and of a meeting held by this group May 23, 1941, in Los Angeles at which Ed Robbin, Communist radio commentator for the People's Daily World, was reported to have collected over $1,000. He stated that Ed Robbin had donated $25 to Doho, the Japanese-Communist newspaper in Los Angeles. Mr. Hagberg stated that the Doho Jin Sha group worked with the German-American Bund during the collaboration of Stalin and Hitler.

Mr. Thomas Kirk, a former member of the Communist Party, testified before your committee at its Los Angeles hearing, August 1, 1941.

(Volume II, pp. 560-589, 590-591.) He told the committee that he was an organizer for the Friends of the Soviet Union in 1930, and became interested in the Communist Party through the American Civil Liberties Union. He was active in the International Labor Defense and told your committee of their meetings. He outlined the activities of the Communist Party in the cotton strike at Pixley in 1933, of the activities of the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, the League Against War and Fascism and the Pen and Hammer Club. He traced the activities of the Communist Party in the Relief Workers' Protective Union and other Communist front organizations such as the Unemployed Councils, the Workers' Alliance, Labor's Non-Partisan League and others.

ORGANIZATION AND OPERATION

The technique, the organization and the operation of the Communist Party in California and in the United States should be known to every American. Far too few of our loyal Americans realize the intricate and efficient organization of this subversive group. The success of the Communist Party in certain trade unions and other mass movements is directly attributable to the ignorance of responsible labor leaders and the rank-and-file of both labor and other mass movements of Communist organization, operation and tactics.

Your committee has studied the manuals of the Communist Party and its textbooks, minutely cross-examined paid Communist functionaries and through investigators working both inside the Communist Party and in many of its front organizations have been able to ferret out much of its intricate organization and operation.

The Communist Party itself has divided the United States into some 30 districts. California is designated in this division as District XIII. Each district is divided into some 250 sections and these sections are again divided into what they term shop, town, street, farm units and, in California, in and during periods of open development, into Congressional and Assembly districts. Each unit or division is known as a unit bureau and is governed by a committee under which it operates and organizes. Smaller subdivisions of the lesser units are called "fractions" and "cells." Fractions and cells are immediately created in trade unions and other mass organizations wherever three or more Communist members find themselves.

Communist fractions or cells are continually subdivided as recruits are added to each cell or fraction. It is seldom that a fraction or cell contains more than eight members. By this method the Communist Party is enabled to spread its network of propaganda and influence in factories, mines, on ships, in shops, and other mass organizations. It is mandatory on Communist Party members to join the union in the place where they work and cells and fractions must be organized immediately.

The Communist Party Manual provides that "Every party member * * * must be a real organizer of mass struggles." This same manual provides that the "task" of each fraction, cell or shop unit is "to establish strong connections with all the workers in the factories" in order that these workers be mobilized for "quick action when the need arises." Every Communist member is mandated to prevent exposure of comrades in their illegal work. For this purpose special groups of Communists are trained. A group of this type is known to the comrades themselves as the "Antiseptic Squad." The work of the Antiseptic Squad is to defend Communists and Communism. One of its most important jobs in recent years is the smearing and discrediting of such committees as the Dies Committee and your Committee Investigating Un-American Activities in the United States and California.

Don Morton, former Communist member, testified that during his membership in the party he had charge of the League Against Yellow Journalism. (Volume VI, pp. 1783-1794.) This activity of the Antiseptic Squad was particularly organized to propagandize against anti-Communist papers and magazines and, according to Mr. Morton, was particularly anti-Hearst because the Hearst papers were most consistent in their editorial attacks against Communism. Mr. Morton testified that part of his duty was contributing approximately 500 cards a week urging the people not to read the Hearst papers and that through his supervision some ten to twelve thousand cards were distributed between April and September of 1936.

Street fractions or cells are mandated to assist shop units in strikes, picketing, street demonstrations and in the collection of strike relief. To these fractions and cells is given the task of organizing people in the neighborhood for the purpose of carrying on "mass work (street meetings, house to house canvassing, etc.), and to win election votes for the Communist Party." (Communist Party Manual, pages 49, 65 and 66.)

The Communist Party Manual, on page 25, states:

" * * * one of the organizations of the Communist Party is suitable for legal existence * * * and the other for * * * underground, illegal existence."

The manual mandates that Communist Party members organize and lead the other workers in order to safeguard the organization and prevent its members from being discharged in any shop or factory where they are caught agitating or propagandizing. It demands that party members "must submit to the iron discipline of the party." The manual commands that the Communist Party be "rooted in the factories, mines, ships, docks, offices, et cetera," and demands that its organization in these places be such that it will "best safeguard the party members and other militant workers from bosses, stool-pigeons and thugs." Shop units or cells are ordered to secure jobs for party members and the manual commands that all Communists work together in "a conspirative manner" to organize and lead the workers.

The above briefly outlines the underground, secret and conspiratorial organization and operation of the Communist Party in the United States and California. In addition to this organizational set-up, which is particularly designed for the illegal work of the party, there has existed for many years The Young Pioneers, the Young Communist League, and the Communist Party itself, which may be either open or secretive.

The Young Pioneers is a Communist youth organization for girls and boys of grade-school age. It is built along the same lines as the Boy Scout movement, but dedicated, instead, to hatred of American institutions and the American Flag. The Young Spark is one of the publications for the Communist Young Pioneers. We quote from one of its issues: "The Young Pioneers of America is a workers' children's organization, and the Red Flag is their Flag. * * * We Pioneers are proud to stand by the Red Flag."

The following is an excerpt from Who are the Young Pioneers?, a Communist publication (pages 26 and 27):

"Then why do we say the workers' children should join the Pioneers or the Nature Friend Scouts or the I. W. O. Juniors instead of the Boy Scouts? For this reason: You can use all knowledge either for the working class and against the boss class, or for the boss class and against the working class. And the Boy Scouts teach you to use your knowledge for the boss class. They teach you to be 'patriotic.'

"And what does the 'patriotism' of the Boy Scouts and the bosses mean? It means that when the bosses of this country want markets for their goods and decide to go to war to get the markets from other countries, YOU should put on a uniform and go to war for those bosses and their profits. * * *

"The 'patriotism' of the Boy Scouts and the bosses means defending the government and the property of rich and corrupt millionaires and their politicians and preventing the workers from getting a living from their labor by fighting against strikers and the unemployed who demonstrate for relief."

We quote a poem from the April, 1935, issue of the New Pioneer, one of the publications of the Young Communists (page 18):

"Our Leader"

"Lenin is leading the way
He won't let the capitalists lead us astray
'Away with Capitalism and the King!
'Lenin and Soviet Russia!'
The cry will ring.
Workers stop your toil!
Farmers, don't till the soil!
We march today under the blood stained red
We will fight to have our families fed.
We march amid mothers' and fathers' applause;
We will fight for a just cause.
Lenin is our leader today—
Under Lenin we can not lose the way.
We will destroy the capitalists;
They won't be able to resist,
Because we march under blood stained red,
And we have Lenin at our head."

This poem is not only interesting because of its revolutionary content but because it was written by a ten year old boy named Theodore Lerner of Brooklyn, New York. Sufficient has been shown thus far proving the foreign control of the Communist Party. Mr. Moore testified (Volume 1, p. 16) that he had joined the Young Communist League in 1934. He stated that the organization was an affiliate of the Young Communist International with headquarters in Moscow and that it was a training ground for Communists; that it participated in various non-Communist school and civic activities as well as in trade unions, unemployed organizations, etc., in order to spread Communism.

COMMUNIST FUNCTIONARIES

One of the most important witnesses on the subject of Communism with authority to speak was Jack Moore, the Secretary of the Communist Party for Los Angeles County in 1941. The committee subpoenaed Jack Moore at its first hearing held in the Assembly Chamber of the State Building in Los Angeles on July 28th of 1941. (Transcript Volume I, pages 3 to 113, inclusive.) He was attended by a stenographer and Leo Gallagher, whom he identified as his attorney.

Jack Moore is a paid functionary of the Communist Party with offices at the Communist Party headquarters, located at 124 W. Sixth Street, in the City of Los Angeles. His wife was formerly Marion Brooks, Young Communist League organizer, and one of the Communists utilized by the party in mobilizing the Communists in the Musicians' Union, Local 47, of Los Angeles. (Mrs. Marion Moore was subsequently expelled from the Musicians' Union in Los Angeles because of her Communist activities.) Jack Moore has a long Communist record. He sponsored Pettis Perry for the Communist Party nomination for the office of Lieutenant Governor of California in August of 1934 and sponsored Harold J. Ashe for the Communist Party nomination for Secretary of State at the same time. In 1936, he was a member of the Young Communist League. He joined the Communist Party in Los Angeles on October 23, 1936, and became a member of the Relief Workers' Protective Union, International Labor Defense and the League Against War and Fascism. He was a member of the board of directors of the Communist Party Workers' School in Los Angeles. In 1938 he sponsored Pettis Perry for the Communist Party nomination to the office of State Board of Equalization and Anita Whitney for the Communist Party nomination to the office of Controller. He was a candidate for the Communist Party nomination for the office of Assembly from the Sixty-fourth District in August of 1940. In this same year, he sponsored Anita Whitney for the Communist Party nomination for the office of United States Senate from California. He registered as a Communist in Los Angeles County June 15, 1940. He attended the Communist Party convention in San Francisco May 12, 1940. On February 19, 1941, he filed as a candidate for the City Council of Los Angeles from the Twelfth District. For some time he headed the Los Angeles branch of the Young Communist League and was the organizer of the Harbor Section for the Los Angeles Communist Party. In 1942, he was again a Communist candidate for the Assembly. For some time he handled Communist literature for the Workers' Book Shop located at 224 South Soring Street in San Pedro. He was the secretary of the militant Fish Cannery Workers' Union in Long Beach. He has a police record.

The committee found Jack Moore, as the titular head of the Communist Party in the most populous county of the State, an unusually frank witness. His testimony as set forth in the first volume of the committee's transcripts is considered by many persons, not connected with the committee, to be of vital significance. He explained the physical structure and commented in detail on the doctrine and ideology of the Communist Party of the United States of America. He admitted the so-called "fraction" set up in unions and the Communist Party's general infiltration into the California trade union movement by such methods. He admitted the existence of Communist fractions in the Workers' Alliance. He admitted that he was familiar with the Party Organizer and familiar with plans set forth in this official Communist Party publication for recruiting members into the party and the technique used in penetrating trade unions.

He testified concerning the part played by the Communist Party in unionizing the Ford plant. He told the committee of the indoctrination of children as young as nine to 16 years of age; how they were taught the principles of world-revolution and class antagonism through the Young Pioneers, and thereafter how these children were further indoctrinated through the medium of the Young Communist League. He told the committee of his work as a member of the Young Communist League and his assistance in the organization of the Relief Workers' Protective Union in Los Angeles County. He related his work in organizing the A. F. of L. Fish Canneries Union and how he and an entire group of Communists in the Union were finally expelled, the charter of the Union being lifted by the Central Labor Council of Los Angeles. He stated that the Communists had been the moving force in organizing the C. I. O. United Auto Workers' Union.

He admitted that Communist front organizations, such as Labor's Nonpartisan League, Federation for Political Unity, the Motion Picture Democratic Committee, the International Labor Defense and the International Workers' Order took part in political elections. He testified that the Communists in California and in the United States firmly believe in the objectives of the party as enunciated by Lenin and Stalin.

Miles G. Humphrey, a former Communist Party functionary, told the committee under oath in San Francisco (Volume V, pp. 1616-1631) that he knew Aubrey Grossman when Grossman was very active in the Young Communist League and that he also knew him as a member of the Communist Party. Humphrey stated that he joined the Communist Party in Oakland in 1924 and attended several beginners classes in Communism in that city and later in New York City. He testified that he taught classes in Communism in Oakland and that he became a functionary of the party in San Jose in 1924 and that he was a unit organizer for about a year. He made a trip to Russia in 1926, the expenses of which were paid by the Soviet Union. He spent four months in Siberia and four months in Moscow doing industrial work. During his stay in Russia he contacted the Section Secretary of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union in Siberia to discuss conditions in industry. Before going to Russia, Humphrey testified, he contacted an organization in New York called "Kugbas" which preceded "Intourist" and his trip to the Soviet Union was arranged through this organization. He met a man in connection with "Kugbas" by the name of Golos whom he later saw in Siberia. He was acquainted with Robert Minor, of the Communist Party of the United States and met him in Russia. He discussed with Minor his transfer from the Communist Party of the United States to the Communist Party of Soviet Russia which was arranged through the Comintern. During this time, Humphrey testified, Minor represented the Communist Party of the United States in Soviet Russia in the Communist International. Humphrey resided in New York City for some years after his return from Russia, during which time he helped organize the International Labor Defense, working through Communist Party channels. He was a member of the Bronx section of the Communist Party while in New York City.

Upon returning to Oakland, he became the secretary of the Communist Party for Alameda County and held this position for one year. He met John Leech, Secretary and organizer for the Communist Party in Los Angeles at that time. He knew Rudy Lambert as a party functionary in charge of the Communist Campus Unit at Berkeley. Humphrey stated that the Communist Party, during 1934, derived most of its funds from donations. The Campus Unit at the University of California paid its dues directly to a district or section organizer, rather than risk exposure of membership through following regular procedure. He knew Bert Hanman as a Communist Party member and admitted that he attended the meeting at which Hanman was expelled by the Communist Party Control Commission which then was composed of Elmer Hanoff, Walter Lambert and 10 others, on charges that Hanman had associated himself with the Trotskyites.

After this, Humphrey testified, he became a trade union organizer for the Communist Party, which position he held for some time. He met James Burford at Burford's apartment in Berkeley and attended the meeting at which Burford joined the party in 1934 or 1935. He testified that James Burford became a member of Unit Number 5 in Berkeley. It was Humphrey, according to his testimony, who took Burford's application for membership in the party.

Among others identified by Humphrey in his testimony were Dr. Samuel Twain, Examining Physician for the International Workers' Order in Oakland. Humphrey did not state that Dr. Twain was a member of the Communist Party but stated that he was very close to it. The International Workers' Order, testified Mr. Humphrey, was organized by the Communist Party to take over the members of a socialist organization known as the Workmen's Circle. He stated that Dr. Twain's brother is the Secretary of the International Workers' Order in Oakland. (Your committee should report, at this juncture, that Dr. Twain held a commission in the State Guard in 1942.) Humphrey knew Signa Ludlow as a member of the Communist Party in Berkeley and Roy Noftz as a member of the Communist Party in Oakland. He stated that Noftz later became active in the Workers' Alliance, the Communist Party having appointed him to a position in that front organization.

People's Daily World

The People's Daily World is the successor to the Western Worker. It is the official West Coast motor-drive for Communist Party transmission belts, although it has attempted to disguise its red character under the cloak of labor. In order that its identity be thoroughly established the committee has traced its genealogy. The hammer and sickle, together with the statement "Western Organ of the Communist Party, U. S. A., Section of the Communist International" appeared on the masthead of the Western Worker until Monday, March 8, 1937. The hammer and sickle disappeared from the masthead of the Western Worker with the issue of March 8, 1937, and instead of the statement "Western Organ of the Communist Party, U. S. A., Section of the Communist International," appeared the slogan "People's Champion of Liberty, Progress and Peace." In the notice of publication column, however, the hammer and sickle, together with the statement "Western Organ of the Communist Party, U. S. A.," was carried. The hammer and sickle still appeared in the official notice of publication column until the issue of April 5, 1937.

The last edition of the Western Worker appeared December 30, 1937. It was still listed as the "Western Organ of the Communist Party, U. S. A.," however, and page 2 of this issue contained a full-page advertisement announcing the "People's Daily World," the new paper. The first paragraph entitled "Farewell" is as follows: "This is the final edition of the Western Worker, as it makes way for the People's World, its successor, which will make its first appearance on January 1st."

The first issue of the People's Daily World appeared January 1, 1938. At the head of its official notice of publication column, the name "People's Daily World" is followed by the following slogan and statement: "For Security, Democracy and Peace. Formerly Western Worker, founded 1932."

On this same page appeared a group of greetings to the People's Daily World. We quote the "greetings" "From the Communist Party":

"This historic occasion, the publishing of the first issue of the daily 'People's World,' marks the sixth anniversary of the founding of the Western Worker in 1932. It took six years of struggle since that first mimeographed edition grew into a mighty people's organ which will speak not only for the Communist Party but for all those progressive forces that will constitute the American people's front.

"The Communist Party could not have done it alone. It took tens of thousands of workers, farmers, and middle class people on the Pacific Coast to build a daily people's voice. They have participated in a great historic event; the inauguration of a new type of daily press, which will serve the people of the West and all America. Together with the 'Daily Worker' of New York and the 'Mid-West Daily Record' of Chicago, the People's World will be a part of a powerful chain of people's daily papers that will Communist League. Although he lived in Oakland, he did not belong to the Berkeley unit of the party. His memory was very faulty as to members of the Communist Party and the Young Communist League. He could not remember the approximate number of members of the Young Communist League in Berkeley; where he bought his Communist Party dues-stamps or the name of the person from whom he purchased them. Although Brown admitted attending Communist Party meetings about every two weeks, he could not remember where the meetings were held or who attended them. His recollection of Young Communist League and Communist Party activities in Oakland were very vague. While he admitted going to 37 Grove Street and 121 Haight Street in San Francisco, he could not determine at which place he bought his dues-stamps. Being pinned down he finally remembered purchasing stamps at William Schneiderman's office but couldn't remember the name of the girl from whom he purchased them. He finally stated that he merely knew her as "Comrade."

Being an open Communist Party functionary, running from time to time on the Communist ticket for public office and with Communist Party endorsements, Brown had no hesitancy in admitting his present Communist Party affiliation. He admitted having spoken at a campus meeting at Sather Gate of the University of California at Berkeley in either 1932 or 1933. Although he had been a literature agent for the Communist Party at one time his memory failed him in reference to his duties in this position, and he claimed that, although he was the agent for the literature of the party, he did not know very much about the literature itself.

He has been a member of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union, Local 110, of San Francisco for about six years. Although he attended various conferences held at the Communist Party headquarters at 121 Haight Street in the City of San Francisco, he does not yet know the exact purpose of the conferences. He is acquainted with Jack Moore, Pettis Perry, Anita Whitney, William Schneiderman, James Burford, but suffered lapses of memory in reference to other individuals.

He went to Spain with a man by the name of Yocum from California and enlisted in the Abraham Lincoln Brigade at Mar se Mont Blanc, Spain. He referred to John Gordon Honeycombe as a "rat" for not "fighting and dying with his comrades" in Spain. He admitted that he had looked upon the present world conflict, prior to June 22, 1941, as a "British Imperialist War" and had felt that President Roosevelt was a "warmonger" but, at the time of testifying (December 3, 1941) he had revised his entire opinion and ideas on the subject.

Archie Brown was a candidate for supervisor for the City and County of San Francisco in 1941. The Communist Party's West Coast newspaper, the People's Daily World of October 4, 1941, lists the sponsors for Brown's candidacy for the office of supervisor. Among these sponsors the committee finds Tim Kelly, C. I. O. Inland Boatman's Union; Paul Orr, A. F. of L. Cook's Union, Local 44; Owen Kiernan, Marine Cooks and Stewards; Andy Harris, A. F. of L. Culinary Miscellaneous Employees Union, Local 110; Clair Aderer, C. I. O. Office and Professional Workers Union; Homer Mulligan, C. I. O. American Communications Association, Local 9; Emile Rabin, A. F. of L. Cleaners and Dyers; Walter Stack, Marine Firemen; Jack Smith, Marine Cooks and Stewards; Walter Lambert, Grace Partridge and Anita Whitney. The People's Daily World of October 29, 1941, mentions three additional alleged trade union leaders supporting Archie Brown for supervisor. These supporters are named as Frank Dunn, president of the American Can Local, Steel Workers' Organizing Committee; George Lee, secretary of the same organization, and Max Weitzner, a member of the Furriers' Union Executive Board and a delegate to the C. I. O. Industrial Union Council. Carmelo Zito, the editor of Corriere del Popolo, is also reported as publicly supporting the candidacy of Archie Brown. Henry Schmidt, the former president of the C. I. O. Longshoremen's Union, Local 10; Alden Clark, president of the Industrially Unemployed Workers' Union, and Wayne Canut, business agent of the A. F. of L. Culinary Employees Union, Local 110, are reported in the People's Daily World of October 31, 1941, as supporting Brown for supervisor. He received a total vote in the election of 26,456 or 12.5 per cent of the total votes cast.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS

Trade unions are particularly susceptible to Communist infiltration. Small fractions are sometimes very successful in large and unwieldy organizations. Because of the keen and fervent revolutionary spirit indoctrinated into the members of the Communist Party, and because most legitimate trade unionists are interested in their jobs and their homes to the exclusion of other considerations, the small Communist unit is enabled to dominate and control many large trade unions in California and in America.

In this connection the committee wishes to observe that legitimate trade unions will never be free of Communist domination and control, or the menace of it, until they amend their constitutions and by-laws in such a manner as will give every member of the union an opportunity to pass on important questions that come before their respective organizations. The committee has observed that where the membership is large and unwieldy and the quorum is small in comparison to the membership of the union itself, the Communist Party fraction is easily able to dominate the policies of the organization. While it is not within the province of this committee to recommend constitutional and by-law changes to the trade union movement of California, it, nevertheless, suggests that elections and important proposals should be submitted by secret ballot to each and every member of the union by mail, rather than permit bare quorums in weekly or monthly meetings to determine policies and permit the election of officers by small active groups which come to union headquarters on election day. The American Labor movement might well protect itself from the Communist menace of domination and control by providing that no important policy be adopted or any officer thereof elected except by a majority vote of the entire membership and not, as is done in many local unions throughout California at this time, by those who merely attend meetings or who cast their vote at the union headquarters, between designated hours on a designated election day.

The Communist Party conducts schools in the principal cities of the State. These schools are known as Workers' Schools, but their Communist Party character is readily recognized by their leaflets and pamphlets setting forth the subjects taught and the names of the instructors, as well as by the advertisements for the schools which appear in the Communist Party press. These schools teach Marxism, the history of Communism, labor tactics, and kindred subjects. The names of prominent educators, as well as the names of individuals high in State political circles, appear as lecturers in the courses offered by these schools from time to time. The committee has collected many of these circulars and pamphlets in which the classes and courses are displayed together with the names of the lecturers and teachers.

Matthew G. Guidera (Volume V, pp. 1429-1447) testified that Dr. Aaron Rosanoff was a lecturer for the Communist Party Workers' School in Los Angeles in 1933. The committee is in possession of photostats of the pamphlets of the Communist Party Workers' School in Los Angeles advertising this fact.

Jack Moore, Southern California Communist functionary, shed considerable light on Communist Party tactics in capturing the labor movement. As an illustration of some of the tactics used your committee quotes from the testimony of Jack Moore beginning on page 31 of Volume I of the committee's transcript:

"Q. I am going to read into the record a statement from the Party Organizer, March and April, 1937, page 21, and ask you if these things discussed in this paragraph would comprise a part of your duties:

"'As our first step, we communicated with every County and Section and proposed the immediate establishment of recruiting committees, suggested that special discussions be held in the Units, Branches and Fractions on recruiting, on adoption of a plan of work, and a plan for retaining new members.'

"Does that generally constitute a part of your activities?"

"A. (Moore) Yes, I think that is a pretty fair statement of it."

"Q. I would also like to read another article, page 33, entitled 'From Secret to Open Work,' by Vera Sanders, and I quote:

"'We decided to build up secret union groups of the workers, functioning independently of one another, and, of course, without the knowledge of the company. We selected a number of workers as initial contacts. The basis for this selection was their strategic positions in the plant, their personal qualifications for leadership, and their influence with the men. Three such men were picked in the beginning, the comrades in the unit discussed the matter of union organization with these men, and arranged for the union organizer to visit them.

"'These men, together with the party's comrades in the shop, set to work lining up for the union's picked individuals. Meetings of the union groups were held in private homes of the workers once a week where needed, and once every two weeks when found more desirable. The comrades in the units attended the various group meetings to assure the leadership of the party.

"At the union group meeting which resulted, the comrades took leadership in discussing the necessity of building the union, and after the union organizer had given his report, the comrades would go into the details of whom to recruit to the union groups and how to recruit them. General discussion was also initiated by the comrades on the labor movement as a whole, and we began to have regular discussion periods at each of the union group meetings, actively involving the workers with such questions as the C. I. O., the American Labor Party, Industrial Unionism, et cetera. It was constantly pointed out that ours was an industrial type of union. We had to overcome the result of an A. F. of L. sell-out some years ago, and point out that we believed in practiced trade union democracy."

Q. "Did you engage in such activities as are generally set forth in this excerpt, Mr. Moore, in your fraction?"

A. (Moore) "In my experience in the fish canneries in San Pedro, I and one other member of the Young Communists' League were instrumental in organizing some 1,500 workers into a Fish Cannery Workers' Union. We conducted a number of successful strikes and the consequence was that within a period of one year, the pay of the fish cannery workers was increased about $250,000."

In 1934 a considerable sum of money was sent from the then Soviet Commissar for heavy industries to a Communist in Hollywood. This sum was to be used for the purpose of creating an entering wedge into the motion picture industry. No immediate effort was made at that time to recruit movie stars into the party, and the entire attention of the Hollywood Comrade was concentrated on capturing key trade unions in the industry. This was the then mandated procedure laid down by the Comintern and later set forth in the textbooks of the Communist Party. Strong Communist fractions were planted and maintained in nearly every Hollywood trade union that had jurisdiction over anything in the motion picture studios. The Communist Party working in Hollywood wanted control over everything that moved on wheels, sound trucks, camera platforms, transportation of equipment and personnel to and from location, and even the tray-dollys in the cafeterias. They soon moved Communist fractions into the unions having jurisdiction over carpenters, painters, musicians, grips, and electricians. To control these trade unions was to control the motion picture studios.

Next in importance to the Hollywood trade unions working in the motion picture industry, were the writers, script men and other professionals having to do with the actual story writing and production of motion picture plays. Representatives of your committee visited the motion picture studios in Hollywood, conferred with studio managers; with the heads of most of the important Hollywood trade unions. Many of the leaders of these organizations were keenly aware of the infiltration into their locals and in many cases felt themselves powerless to stop it. The committee found most of these labor leaders loyal Americans. J. W. Buzzell, secretary of the Los Angeles Labor Council, Lew Blix, business representative for Local 495 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Aubrey Blair, an organizer for the American Federation of Labor, associated with the Teamsters' Union and formerly a secretary of the Screen Actors' Guild in Hollywood and many other A. F. of L. labor leaders were extremely helpful to the committee in this phase of its investigation.

Representatives of the committee viewed and analyzed motion pictures which had been allegedly treated with Communist propaganda. Many individuals who were once highly paid technicians of unquestioned ability in the motion picture industry, were interviewed. We learned that the Communist dominated unions and organizations had a system of effective "black-lists" for members who had openly opposed Communism or the Communist cliques, in the various unions. We learned that many of these highly skilled individuals were unable to secure employment because of this "black-list."

In this connection the committee reports that the Communist Party, through both its control of certain trade unions and its systematic method of "smearing" individuals who oppose them and who attempt to expose them, have in the past, and are maintaining at the present, the most effective "black-listing" in the history of the State. Opposition to Communism and to its comrades carries a persuasive economic penalty in certain quarters in California, and particularly in some phases of the motion picture industry.

Many fellow travelers working in close harmony with Communist Party fractions in labor unions when called before the committee blandly denied being members of the Communist Party, or of knowing anything, whatever, about Communism and posed as "trade union Progressives." Among this group were such witnesses as Samuel Albert, Mischa Altman, Lee Gregovich, James Burford, Phillip M. Connelly, Osear Fuss, Jack Greenberg (not to be confused with Jack Carl Greenburg), Frederick Langton, Herbert K. Sorrell and B. Joseph Zukas. Although these witnesses suffered from sudden lapses of memory and indicated little knowledge of the subject-matter of Communism, they were well acquainted with organizations such as Labor's Non-Partisan League, Musicians' Democratic Committee, Motion Picture Democratic Committee, The People's Daily World and other Communist Party front organizations and party literature, and in many cases had a close working relationship with known Communists and fellow travelers such as Don Healy, John Howard Lawson, Paul Cline, James Burford, William Schneiderman, Pettis Perry, Dorothy Ray, Herb Sorrell, Jack Moore, Bert Leech, Elaine Black, Oscar Fuss, Aubrey Grossman, Leo Gallagher, Larue McCormick, and many others.

The committee has gathered voluminous evidence proving that the Communist Party of California and in the United States is now taking every advantage of the war and our concentration in winning it, to infiltrate, not only into labor unions, but also the strategic positions in Government. The committee reports that the Communists are making great strides in this endeavor. In their own secret councils they are frankly preparing for the time when the armed forces of our country will be demobilized and economic and social readjustments will be presenting a fertile field for furthering the revolutionary cause of the Comintern. The Communist Party is making great headway in many of California's trade unions. The top leadership in the Congress for Industrial Organization in California is practically in the hands of the Communist Party. Testimony under oath before the committee unequivocally places Phillip M. Connelly, the State President of the C. I. O., in the Communist Party. Connelly, when he appeared before the committee in December of 1942, denied that he had ever joined the Communist Party, in spite of the sworn affidavit of Rena M. Vale and the sworn testimony of others. It is rather significant that this same Phillip M. Connelly, less than 30 days later, was attending a Communist Party rally at the Philharmonic Auditorium in the City of Los Angeles, listening to a speech by America's Number One Communist, Earl Browder.

In the latter part of the Third Period of Communist strategy in the United States the Communists turned their attention to the lush field for financial contributions to party causes and the powerful medium for the moulding of public opinion which existed in Hollywood. The effectiveness of Communist technique in such matters here manifested itself. The story is told in full in the committee's transcripts and in the correspondence that passed between Roy Hudson, a high Communist Party functionary in New York City and Jeff Kibre who led the invasion into the Hollywood unions. The committee is in possession of photostatic copies of this correspondence.

Early in 1937 the pattern of Communist intrigue began to be discernible (had there been anyone around who was familiar with the pattern) in many trade unions connected with Hollywood's motion picture industry. Communist fractions in key unions such as the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees (IATSE), Studio Carpenters, Musicians' Union, Studio Teamsters, Studio Painters and others began to function in earnest and in the approved Communist method indicated by the testimony of Jack Moore. Fractions and cells, disciplined and agendized with resolutions, motions and steering-committees in secret caucuses expanded into meetings including carefully selected non-Communist union members and proceeded to offer their prepared agendas, resolutions and motions, all of which were promptly and unanimously adopted by the unsuspecting non-Communists present. In many cases the Communist members pushed non-Communists members forward in such meetings so that the deluded trade-unionist actually believed that he had cleverly originated many of the motions and resolutions which, as a matter of fact, were carefully worked out months before by the Communist Labor Commission itself. The members of Communists fractions in trade-unions made their selection of the non-Communist members invited to the union's "progressive" caucuses generally on the basis of such individual's personal grievance against some officer of the organization, fancied or real. Through flattery and comradely back-slapping, praise and admiration, the non-Communist "progressive" was induced to lead the general onslaught on his own labor-union. This pernicious technique has created "fellow-travelers" of a unique character. Many an ordinarily decent loyal American trade-unionist, outraged at the racketeering tactics of some labor leader, fired with a resolve to "clean up his own union," flattered and ego-flated by the admiring urges of Comintern comrades, whom he looked upon as good trade-unionists, has found himself suddenly referred to as a "commie" and an agitator. Not knowing anything about Communism and having never met a self-admitted Communist, the uninformed, but otherwise loyal trade-unionist finds himself dismayed and confused. The Communist fraction in the enlarged caucuses make great capital out of such a situation. When the appellation is properly applied to actual Communist Party members of the group all of the non-Communist members are quickly convinced of their staunch Americanism when it is pointed out that "good old dumb John who always voted the Republican ticket" was also called a "Communist."

Enlarged caucuses, Communist steered and organized, began to function in Hollywood in 1937. Closed Communist fraction meetings always preceded the meetings of the larger groups. Each Communist member of the fraction was assigned 20 or more non-Communist members of the trade-union and were held strictly accountable for the conduct and attitude of the people assigned to them. The matters to be discussed in the enlarged and mixed caucuses were carefully outlined ahead of time in closed fraction meetings and the action to be taken by the expanded group meticulously planned. Thus, the "progressive" caucuses, as they were ultimately called, appeared to make decisions in a democratic manner and the non-Communist members rarely suspected that their decisions had been planned, in some cases, months ahead for them. The average rank-and-file member of a labor organization has little experience in public speaking or in parliamentary procedure and his "meeting" activities are usually confined to voting in the approved manner of his union's by-laws. The Communists, on the other hand, have usually been trained in the Communist Party's Workers' Schools, and have considerable knowledge of parliamentary procedure and can talk extemporaneously for hours.

The decisions thus "democratically" reached in the "progressive" caucuses are then carried to the floor of union meetings. A non-Communist stooge has usually been selected at the "progressive" caucus to present the planned resolutions and motions. The Communist steering committee sees to it that the stooge is supported by proper seconds and the comrades themselves arise to speak if things appear to be going badly. Many trade-unions require comparatively small quorums and, where the membership of the organization is large, meetings are poorly attended. Generally the membership of the "progressive" group is an overwhelming majority in any such meeting and the decisions of the "progressive caucus" which had been planned for them by the Communist fraction, becomes the official policy or action of the union itself.

Several such enlarged caucuses, Communist dominated and controlled, came into being in Hollywood in 1937. The first of importance was the "I. A. Progressives" made up of members of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees (IATSE), an American Federation of Labor affiliate. Another was the so-called "progressive" group in the Los Angeles "Musicians' Union, Local 47, of the American Federation of Musicians. This group, after the union organization increased its quorum from 75 to 300, organized itself into the Musicians' Democratic Committee, and affiliated with the Hollywood Communist front organization The Motion Picture Democratic Committee. The "I. A. Progressives," failing in capturing the Hollywood locals of the IATSE, ultimately became the nucleus of the United Studio Technicians Guild (USTG), financed by Harry Bridges. This organization, completely dominated and controlled by the Communist Party, petitioned the National Labor Relations Board for an election to determine the collective bargaining agency for the motion picture industry. Had the Communists been successful in this election they would have controlled Hollywood.

Among those examined in reference to the C. I. O. Communist-dominated United Studio Technicians Guild, the "I. A. Progressives" and the IATSE were Aubrey Blair, Lew C. G. Blix, George E. Bodle, Edward Heim, L. C. Helm, Herbert K. Sorrell and A. H. Webber.

Lew C. G. Blix, business representative for Local 495 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in the City of Los Angeles, told the committee of his acquaintance with Jeff Kibre during the time that Blix was secretary-treasurer of Local 37 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees in Hollywood. Blix identified Jeff Kibre's handwriting and signature on various documents which had been introduced in the record in connection with the Communist plot to capture the Hollywood unions. He gave the committee the history of the so-called "I. A. Progressives," headed by Kibre in 1937. He also testified of having seen a photostat of Jeff Kibre's application to join the Communist Party under the name of "Barry Wood." In this connection, it should be stated, that the committee read into its transcript the minutes of the Third Annual Convention of the Communist Party of Los Angeles, which was held April 29, 30, and May 1 of 1938. The minutes of this convention revealed that "Barry Wood" was elected to the county executive committee of the Communist Party. An affidavit of Ezra Chase, former Communist Party member, was also read into the committee's record, in which Chase identified Jeff Kibre as a member of the Communist Party.

Aubrey Blair, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, testified before the committee, detailing the attempt on the part of the Communist Party to capture the motion picture industry. Photostatic copies of letters of Jeff Kibre were introduced in connection with the testimony of Blair, showing the background of an organization known as the Conference of Motion Picture Arts and Crafts and generally referred to as COMPAC. Blair also corroborated the testimony of Blix in further detailing the Communist plot to capture the IATSE. He told the committee of the Communist Party fraction work in the "I. A. Progressives" and the creation of the United Studio Technicians Guild (USTG).

Edward Heim, a member of Local 728, of the IATSE and formerly a member of Local 37 of the IATSE, testified concerning the United Studio Technicians Guild (Volume II, pp. 514-520). Heim had left the IATSE and joined the United Studio Technicians Guild and for a time acted as the office manager of that group. He saw bundles of the People's Daily World, the Communist Party periodical on the West Coast, in the office of the United Studio Technicians Guild which were used for free distribution. He told of conferences in the office of the organization between Jeff Kibre, Sam Goldblatt, Herb Sorrell and others and stated that he knew Sam Goldblatt to be a member of the Communist Party.

L. C. Helm, business representative of the Studio Utility Employees', Local 742 (IATSE), also testified regarding the "I. A. Progressives" and the activities of the United Studio Technicians Guild. (Volume II, pp. 506-514.) He stated that this infiltration of Hollywood motion picture unions began with the Studio Unemployment Conference in 1938 to which the IATSE and the Studio Painters affiliated. Jeff Kibre spearheaded this organization and Herbert Biberman and Frank Tuttle attended several of the Conference meetings. Helm testified that the Conference of Motion Picture Arts and Crafts (COMPAC) grew out of the Studio Unemployment Conference and that Jeff Kibre continued as its guiding spirit, although Herbert Sorrell was influential in it. He stated that COMPAC later became the United Studio Technicians Guild under C. I. O. charter. Helm withdrew because of the Communist influence in COMPAC.

Similar situations were existing in other Hollywood unions. Organizing had been going on in the recording industry and in radio. Many of the early attempts at organization were undoubtedly legitimate and as the Communist element more and more forged to the front for their own particular purposes, many sincere American labor men were carried along. A strike finally developed at Columbia, conducted by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, C. I. O. (UERMWA). The witnesses examined by your committee in reference to this organization were Carl Brant, James H. Burford, Gene Hagberg and A. H. Webber.

Carl Brant, organizer for the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, C. I. O. (UERMWA), admitted having been a member of the Communist Party for "about two or three years." Brant admitted being familiar with a play Formation Left by Jeff Kibre and Mildred Ashe and another left-wing play Waiting for Lefty by Clifford Odets and Peace on Earth by Albert Maltz. Although Carl Brant was listed in circulars advertising a Communist Party Workers' School as an instructor, he denied that he had ever served in such capacity.

The committee knew that Brant was in fact a member of the Communist Party and that he was an educational director in one of Los Angeles County's Communist units. He did a great deal of organizing work in the Workers' Alliance and in so-called Communist Cultural Projects. He was a delegate to the California Federation of Government Employees' Convention in 1937 in company with such well-known Communists as Fred Franchi, Leona McGenty and Rena Vale.

A. H. Webber related to your committee his difficulties with Local 1421 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America. (Volume II, pp. 357-387.) Webber had been employed for five years at the Columbia Recording Studio in Los Angeles and had been dismissed about seven weeks before testifying, July 30, 1941. He stated that he had assisted in organizing the union in the Columbia Recording Studio and had applied for an A. F. of L. charter which was refused by Harold Smith, of the IATSE. He stated that a C. I. O. charter was accepted and that the union became known as Local 1421 of the UERMWA. In his capacity as a member of the shop committee, Webber always insisted on efficient workmen but the Communists endeavored to run in their members regardless of ability. Because of his protest against this tactic, charges were preferred against him and he was finally expelled from the union and ousted from his position in the Columbia Recording Studio. He has since been branded as "anti-union" and a "red-baiter" and has not been permitted to obtain another position where the C. I. O. influence is strong.

James H. Burford was subpoenaed. There is no doubt that this witness deliberately lied on many occasions under examination by the members of the committee and its interrogator. The committee unanimously passed a resolution referring the matter to the district attorney of Los Angeles County recommending that Burford be charged and tried for perjury. In this connection, it must be said, that this was the only recommendation made during the existence of the committee in which a prosecution was not instituted.

Burford has been a consistent worker in Communist infiltration activities for many years. As the secretary of the Young Democratic fraction, which was composed of allegedly Young Democratic leaders who were secret members of the Communist Party, Burford materially assisted in the disruption and destruction of the organization of the Young Democrats of California. Running the gamut of the usual occupational shifts and changes, Burford was, at the time of testifying, affiliated with the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, C. I. O. He admitted knowing and associating with notorious Communists and Communist fellow travelers in California, such as Velda Johnston, James Toback, Paul Johnson, Paul Cline, Jack Moore, Rose Segure, Aubrey Grossman, William J. Plunkert, and William Elconin.

Burford testified (Volume II, pp. 316-344, July 30, 1941) that he had studied the Communist Manifesto in 1931 in San Diego State College. He stated that he was opposed to the Federal Bureau of Investigation (F. B. I.) because they took "scabs" through a picket line of the C. I. O. United Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union (UMMSWU). He admitted that he had supported the Communist candidate, Celeste Strack, running for Congress in the Thirteenth Congressional District against the incumbent, Congressman Kramer, in 1940.

Don Morton, who joined the Communist Party in 1936 in Berkeley, identified pictures of James Burford, and stated that he knew Burford as a Communist Party member during his affiliation with the party. (Volume VI, pp. 1783-1794.) Morton further testified that he attended closed Communist Party meetings in Burford's home and that these meetings were gatherings of Unit Number 5, generally referred to as the "Campus Unit."

Coordinating the general plan of the Communist Party for the capture of Hollywood unions, the Communist fraction of Local 47, Los Angeles Musicians' Union extended its closed fraction meetings to selected non-Communist members of the association in the Fall of 1937.

These enlarged and mixed meetings soon became known as "progressive caucuses" and the individuals as "47 Progressives." The committee and its representatives have carefully examined the minutes of the steering committees of this group. The minutes of the board of directors of Local 47 for January 9, 1940, contains several hundred pages of the compiled activities of this group, together with photostatic copies of the minutes of the Communist dominated expanded caucuses. It is significant that, although the laws of the Musicians' Union in Los Angeles provide for the publication of the minutes of the board of directors in the official organ of the association, The Overture, the minutes of the board for January 9, 1940, have never been published.

The coordination of the over-all plan of the Communist Party for its Hollywood offensive by the Communists within Local 47 of the Musicians' Union of Los Angeles is clearly discernible in the resolutions, motions and activities outlined in the official pages of the minutes of the board of directors for January 9, 1940. Affiliation with many front organizations was carried to the general meetings of the association, such as Labor's Non-Partisan League, unemployed councils, etc. Ambulances for Spain and participation in many Communist activities are clearly revealed. The election of Miriam Brooks or Moore, the wife of Jack Moore, Los Angeles County Communist functionary, after but a few months membership, as a delegate to the State Federation of Labor's convention in Oakland in 1939 is one of the amazing achievements of the Communist element within this trade union association. (The membership of the Los Angeles Musicians' Union is between seven and eight thousand.) The trials and expulsion of Communist members such as Miriam Moore and Saul Posner are included in the minutes of the board above referred to, and the order of dissolution of the Communist front, The Musicians' Democratic Committee, is set forth, indicating the attempts of a beleaguered group of officers fighting for the American maintenance of the union.

Julius Furman of Local 47 of the Musicians' Union testified July 29, 1941, regarding his previously sworn testimony contained in the minutes of the board of directors of that association above mentioned. (Volume I, pp. 199-216.) Among those identified by Furman as working secretly with Communist Party members for the control and domination of Local 47 of the American Federation of Musicians were: Mischa Altman, Sam Albert, Haakon Bergh, Gerald Caylor, Lina Di Fiore, Louis Kaufman, Stephen Mougin, Herbert Offner, Wayne Ronka and Paul Robyn, all of whom were listed on photostatic copies of the minutes of the Musicians' Union's board of directors of January 9, 1940. Furman named Mischa Altman as the leader of the Communist faction in the association and gave an account of a pro-Communist meeting held at the home of George Bassman, a member of the union.

Floyd Mathews, also a member of the Musicians' Union, testified as to Communist intrigue and plotting in the association. (Volume I, pp. 123-131.) He stated that one Eddie Gruen and Mischa Altman, both members of the union, invited him to attend a Communist Party school and that other members of Local 47, including Emerson Haraden, Eddie Gruen and Bernice Frazier, attended the Communist Party School. Mathews testified that Gruen and Altman told him that they were members of the Communist Party. Altman appeared to be the "big fish" of the Marxist school. Mathews stated that Altman had told him that the Communist Party desired to place members of the party in the police department and in the Army.

The Musicians' Union of Los Angeles may be definitely said to be under the control and domination of the Communist Party and is presently being used to carry out certain parts of the Communist Party program.

Your committee called and examined many witnesses in reference to Communist activities in the agrarian districts of the State. This field is an important one in Communist strategy. It has not been overlooked in the past by Communist agitators and will not be neglected in the future, although large industrial centers are the chief and ever-present targets. The Simon J. Lubin Society and UCAPAWA are the Communist fronts in California agrarian penetration. The testimony of Dorothy Ray, now Mrs. Don Healy, is typical of the activities of Communist Party functionaries in this field. Miss Ray, by her own admission, has been very active in Communist Party agitation in the agricultural districts of California. She testified before the committee December 2, 1941, in San Francisco. (Volume V, pp. 1639-1641, 1795-1806, and Volume VI, pp. 1818-1864.) She admitted knowing many Communists and Communist fellow travelers, such as James Burford, Archie Brown, Lillian Monroe, Ted Rasmussen, Stanley Hancock and others. She testified that she was born in Denver, Colorado, in 1914 and that her maiden name was Rosenblum.

The agricultural red fronts must first be examined. The Simon J. Lubin Society was organized in the Fall of 1936. It took its name from the late Simon J. Lubin who formerly headed the California Division of Immigration and Housing. He was admittedly a member of the I. W. W.

The organization was the work of Unit 104 of the Professional Section of the Communist Party. This unit had been doing research work for the agricultural activities of the party and Helen Horn (Hosmer) and Dr. Soule, members of Unit 104, conceived the idea of forming a club or society that would include non-party members. They persuaded the Lubin family to allow them to name the organization after Simon J. Lubin. The Lubins did not know the real purpose behind the organization or that it was controlled by the Communist Party. (Dies Reports, Volume 3, pp. 1997-8.)

After Unit 104 had organized the society, the leader of the professional section of the Communist Party widened its scope in 1936. With the aid of Donald Henderson, National President of the United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America (UCAPAWA), who was visiting in San Francisco at the time, the future activities of the society were worked out. It became the channel through which the Communist Party conducts its fight against the farming industry.

Aubrey Grossman represented the society in a legal action against the Salinas Lettuce Growers.

The society appeared with the American League Against War and Fascism as a joint sponsor for a meeting held in San Francisco on May 7, 1937, to discuss the cannery workers' strike in the San Joaquin area.

For a short time in 1937 the society occupied joint offices with the Conference for Repeal of the Criminal Syndicalism Act.

On July 9, 10, 11 and 12, 1937, a National convention of agricultural organizations was held in Denver, Colorado, presided over by Donald Henderson. Henderson had formerly been on the faculty of Columbia University but had been removed due to radical and Communist activities. UCAPAWA (United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America) came out of this convention and affiliated with the C. I. O. with Donald Henderson as its National president. Pat Callahan and Dorothy Ray, both known Communists, became president and vice president, respectively, of the organization in California.

Under Communist direction UCAPAWA gradually made itself known in agricultural districts of California. Labor agitation and disturbances were gradually accelerated.

Lauretta Adams, section organizer of the Communist Party in Kern County, together with Clyde Champion, Communist candidate for public offices, were organizers for UCAPAWA, as well as for the Workers' Alliance and the Communist Party.

In February of 1940 a Field Workers' School, sponsored by UCAPAWA, was held at Chino, California for the purpose of training organizers. Revels Cayton, Negro Communist secretary of the San Francisco local of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, Amy Schechter, formerly a student at the Lenin School in Moscow in 1939 and a writer for New Masses, Communist magazine, and Carey McWilliams, Chief of the California Division of Immigration and Housing, were the instructors at the Field Workers' School.

Miss Ray's Communist activities carried her into many agricultural unions. She stated that she had worked with independent and A. F. of L. unions which preceded the United Cannery, Agricultural, Packing and Allied Workers of America, C. I. O., (UCAPAWA), Compañinos, a Mexican workers' organization and the Cannery and Agricultural Workers' Union. She was the international representative of UCAPAWA until 1938 or 1939.

Miss Ray described her difficulties in Imperial Valley and admitted having served six months in the Imperial County jail as the result of the lettuce strike in 1933-1934. Although she had been an active Communist continuously for over 10 years, she stated that she had never registered as a voter in the Communist Party. She stated that she dropped out of the Communist Party and the Young Communist League work because she had become practically exhausted from her 10 years' strenuous labors. She stated that she had never subscribed to the Western Worker or the People's Daily World but that she read the Monthly Communist faithfully.

She identified a picture of herself taken on the fire escape of the Communist Party headquarters in Oakland on Franklin Street in which she held two placards, one carrying the slogan "Join the Communist Party" and the other "Stop Police Brutality."

Your committee found Miss Ray an exceedingly clever witness. She frankly stated that she would not indulge in "Communist-baiting" and spoke from time to time of "We Internationalists." (P. 1842.) She asserted that the Soviet Union had abolished the exploitation of man by man and had set up a classless society. She believed that it was in the interest of the United States to defend the Soviet Union. She stated that she did not believe the testimony of the "stool pigeons who appear before these committees," and believes them to be pathological liars. In speaking of the dictatorship exercised in Russia by Stalin, she stated that "there is a distinction between good dictatorship and bad dictatorship." She told the committee that she thought the committee desired her to "red-bait" but that she would protect the others in the Communist Party with her. She did so meticulously.

In October of 1938 Miss Ray was sent to Bakersfield by the International of UCAPAWA to handle the cotton strike in progress there at that time. She spoke in Arvin, Palmo, Shafter, Button Willow and other places. She was county organizer of Laborers' Non-Partisan League in Los Angeles County in 1939 though, paradoxically, she stated that she was never a member of the league. As a further paradox, she testified, that she attended the Third Annual Convention of Laborers' Non-Partisan League held June 22, 1940, as an executive board member. She spoke to the membership of Local 78, of the Orange Pickers Local, in Orange County in July of 1940. She was in Orange County on the vegetable strike in 1938 for UCAPAWA. She admitted having participated in citrus strikes in Orange County in August, 1938, for UCAPAWA.

Miss Ray is a Deputy Labor Commissioner in San Francisco under H. C. Carrasco. The head of this department is George C. Kidwell, an Olson appointee. The committee learned that Miss Ray had secured this position through a civil service examination. A quotation of hers from the oral examination held for the position of Deputy Labor Commissioner, February 10, 1940, by the State Personnel Board was read to Miss Ray, as follows: "Particularly in those years, 1934, Imperial Valley was well known for lawlessness. I'm not ashamed of having served a jail sentence. I didn't violate any law that I would recognize as a law." Miss Ray examined this statement and said that she did not recall testifying before the Personnel Board in such a manner. She concluded her testimony by stating that her husband, Don Healy, was now "organizing for a union."

It is quite evident, even from the foregoing brief outline of typical examples, that the Congress of Industrial Organization is much more susceptible to Communist Party penetration and control than is the American Federation of Labor. Several reasons may be advanced to account for this fact. First, the American Federation of Labor, led for many years by loyal American working-men fully convinced of the greatness of American democracy and its institutions, successfully withstood the early shocks of the Communist assault. Experienced in labor matters, the American Federation of Labor's leadership has gone forward steadily along legal and democratic lines. Its broad objectives are in accord with Constitutional Government and the traditions of the United States. While it seeks better working conditions and a higher standard of living it is vitally concerned with the preservation of the Government and the American system which has, in fact, established the best working conditions and the highest standard of living in the history of the world. The Congress for Industrial Organization, on the other hand, created by John L. Lewis in the midst of the Nation's greatest economic depression, is young and inexperienced.

Lewis, while lambasting Communism and its attempts to capture labor prior to 1935, did not hesitate to use Communist agitators and the Communist Party in organizing his rival organization after his split with the American Federation of Labor. The growth of the C. I. O. was an unhealthy one in its first few years of existence and largely was a paper organization. Few of its recruits actually paid dues or assessments. Being loosely-knit and arbitrarily thrown together in the beginning, it was an easy matter for the Communists to control many of its locals and councils.

The committee would not want anyone to believe that the rank-and-file members of the Congress for Industrial Organization are Communists or sympathetic to Communism. It is well known that the great majority of the members of the C. I. O. in California deeply resent the Communist domination of the organization and that they would like to correct the situation. This is a much more difficult task than would be imagined at first glance. The C. I. O. has many bargaining contracts and the members are, in many cases, economically silenced. Many illustrations might be given here of attempted "house cleanings" in which the daring leaders of such a movement were rewarded by expulsion from the union and their jobs. The cases of Hugh Ben Inzer and A. H. Webber are set forth in detail in the committee's transcripts of testimony and touched upon in this report.

In spite of the firm stand taken by American Federation of Labor leaders in the past, your committee believes that the Communist Party is making considerable progress in its penetration of certain of its federations, its labor councils and its local unions. Certain staunch old-time leaders still block the battered drawbridges of their trade union citadels but the Trojan Horse is awaiting the moment when the heavy guns of disguised Communist batteries blast them aside.

FRONT ORGANIZATIONS AND TRANSMISSION BELTS

We have detailed at some length the operation and organization of Communist Party fractions in labor organizations and the clever technique used in expanding closed Communist fraction-caucuses into larger meetings to which carefully selected non-Communist Party union members are invited. Such mixed meetings, carefully planned and controlled, are usually called "Progressive Trade Union" meetings. The non-Communist members, of course, are entirely unaware of the fact that the decisions made by them in these "Progressive" meetings were planned beforehand and cleverly "democratically" executed in the so-called "Progressive" meetings. This same technique is used in the creation of "front" organizations, or "transmission belts," as they are referred to by the Communists themselves. In order to thoroughly to understand this technique, we outline the approved method of the Communist Party in setting up a typical "transmission belt" or front organization.

1. The Comintern strategists chart certain targets in capitalist economy and orders are issued for their destruction.

2. The strategy committees of the Communist Party scattered throughout the world, acting on orders from the Comintern, search about for a popular prejudice, a real or fancied abuse of the broadest possible magnitude. Having once settled on a popular prejudice or abuse behind which their real purposes may be screened, Communist Party members everywhere are instructed to form appropriate organizations. The popular prejudice, fear or economic condition readily presents a variety of organizations purportedly designed to "remedy" the particular situation. It may be fear of a world war, rise of dictators, an economic depression with attendant distress and unemployment or it may be a rising cost-of-living.

3. Closed Communist fractions all over the country discuss the orders from the executive committee. The National executive committee has usually set up a National organization, so that little is left to local comrades, other than forming a chapter of the National organization in order to give the entire movement the appearance of spontaneous demand on the part of all the people. Resolutions, motions, proclamations and activities are all ready-made for the comrades in the closed Communist caucuses. Fellow-travelers, innocents, ambitious labor leaders and politicians are contacted as petition-signers to call mass meetings for the consideration of the formation of the movement. Real Communist Party members meticulously refrain from affixing their signatures as sponsoring the new movement.

4. A call for the first meeting is issued, signed by many fellow-travelers, innocents and political-climbers.

5. The meeting is called to order at the specified hour and place, usually by some well known person whose Americanism has never been questioned, and who probably is, in fact, unconscious that he is being used by a subversive group. He has been sold a bill of goods on the movement.

6. Each member of the Communist Party caucus charged with the responsibility of launching the organization, has been assigned a list of non-Communist individuals whom he has invited to the meeting. The Communist Party members spread themselves throughout the meeting-hall and prompt non-Communist members with whom they have struck up a friendship to make right motions and offer prepared resolutions at the proper time. The most prominent non-Communist person present is usually selected beforehand as the one who will be the chairman of the organization. The selection of the secretary, however, is a very different matter. Only a trusted and disciplined Communist may have this position. A Communist Party member is always selected.

Thus, a new "transmission belt front organization" is launched. The non-Communist members feel that they have contributed something toward the general welfare of the community and the people by their participation in the new organization. They are out to fight Fascism; they are on record against war and they are determined to preserve democracy. Perhaps they have taken an active step toward combating Nazism and Hitler. It may be that they feel they have taken an important step in drawing the divergent branches of labor into one great organization for the betterment of all labor. Whatever the non-Communist may believe and feel when he leaves such a meeting, the result is always much the same. He makes financial contributions from time to time to the organization and receives its bulletins, periodicals and newspapers and more or less forgets about the whole thing. He is too busy making a living to attend many of the subsequent meetings. The officers and the board of directors take care of the details. The board of directors is soon completely in the hands of the Communist Party and the agitation is then carried on from that point for the purposes of the Comintern.

With the invasion of Hollywood by the Communist Party came the inevitable myriad front organizations, utterly controlled and dominated by the Communist Party, but, in most cases, drawing into their membership lists pseudo liberals, parlor pinks, innocents and a great many people who just simply did not know any better. We have elsewhere related the history of the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League and its ubiquitous V. J. Jerome. In addition, were the Pen and Hammer Club, the Hollywood League for Democratic Action, the Hollywood League for Women Shoppers, the Old John Reed Club, the Hollywood Theatre Alliance, the Hollywood Mooney Defense Committee, the American Writers' Congress, Hollywood Unit of the League Against War and Fascism, Spanish Relief Committee, the League for Peace and Democracy and many, many others. Pulling the strings and setting the policy of all of these organizations were Communist individuals well known to your committee as members of the Trojan Horse Cavalry. These organizations, and many others, are listed and analyzed in detail in the files of the committee, together with personnel, leaders and activities.

Hollywood is a veritable mecca for the Communist cultural clique. Your committee has gathered voluminous information on this phase of Communist infiltration.

"Our party members are to be found in the widest variety of mass organizations," declared Earl Browder. "In the trade unions of the A. F. of L., C. I. O. * * * the National Negro Congress; in the farm, cultural, fraternal, religious, professional and other organizations, and those of National groups." (The Democratic Front, a report by Earl Browder to the Tenth National Convention of the Communist Party of the United States of America on May 28, 1938, page 69.)

The testimony and record of activities of Reuben W. Borough, left no doubt in the minds of the members of your committee as to his close Communist fellow-traveling proclivities. He may be termed an ardent "Anti-Red-Baiter." He has been active in most Communist front organizations in California. In 1937 he was vice chairman for the Southern District of the California Committee for Political Unity. In 1938, he sponsored a $60,000 drive for the People's Daily World, Communist Party publication in California. In 1939, he was a sponsor of the Second Annual California Model Legislature to be held in Sacramento. This Model Legislature was a Communist-inspired youth movement. He appeared, in 1939, on the list of subscribers to the People's Daily World. In 1940, he was a sponsor of the Conference for Democratic Action which was held in Fresno. This organization is reported as one to replace the former Communist dominated and controlled American League for Peace and Democracy. He is presently commissioner of public works, appointed by Mayor Fletcher Bowron in the City of Los Angeles.

Borough admits having been a member of the Socialist Party and having carried a "red card" in Chicago. He admits being a member of the American Civil Liberties Union, and other Communist dominated front organizations. He stated that he did not know and did not care whether certain individuals were Communists or not and he denied that the Communist Party had any purpose in the overthrowing of the Government of the United States. He admitted knowing many prominent Communists in Los Angeles and stated that they were not a danger to our Democracy and more or less looked upon Communism and the "labor movement" as synonymous. He knew William Schneiderman, State Secretary of the Communist Party, and admitted attending a testimonial dinner for the Communist attorney, Leo Gallagher, in 1941. He told the committee that he had the "highest respect" for the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, C. I. O., a Communist controlled C. I. O. union for infiltration into governmental positions.

When questioned as to a so called "emergency conference to halt the blackout of civil liberties in California" held Saturday, April 5, 1941 at the Embassy Auditorium in Los Angeles, Borough at first denied that he had acted as substitute chairman in place of Carey McWilliams, who had been previously advertised as the chairman for that meeting. (The so-called "Blackout of Civil Liberties" was a protest meeting against Assembly Bill 271 then pending in the Assembly, introduced by Assemblyman Lee T. Bashore, Assemblyman James H. Phillips, and Assemblyman Jack B. Tenney, subsequently enacted into the law and under which Robert Noble and Ellis O. Jones and others were convicted in Sacramento.) Returning to the witness stand later, Borough admitted having acted as substitute chairman for Carey McWilliams at the time and place above stated. He admitted knowing Jack Moore, secretary of the Communist Party of Los Angeles County, Louis Goldblatt, of the C. I. O., Carey McWilliams, James Burford and Ramon Welch of the Spanish Speaking Congress.

The American Civil Liberties Union may be definitely classed as a Communist front or "transmission belt" organization. At least 90 per cent of its efforts are expended on behalf of Communists who come into conflict with the law. While it professes to stand for free speech, a free press and free assembly, it is quite obvious that its main function is to protect Communists in their activities of force and violence in their program to overthrow the government.

Ellis O. Jones admitted being a member of the executive board of the American Civil Liberties Union. (Volume III, pp. 744-760.) He stated that he became a director of this organization in either 1933 or 1934. He did not know, at the time of testifying (Volume X, pp. 2489-2528), whether or not he still was a member of the Schneiderman-Darey Defense Committee, although he admitted having been a member at one time. He believes that the civil liberties of Schneiderman and Darey have been violated. He testified that he had never met with the committee but that he had seen several pieces of publicity of the American Civil Liberties Union containing his name. He stated that he had never received a communication from William Schneiderman in reference to removing him from the Schneiderman-Darey Defense Committee. He could not recall an occasion on which the American Civil Liberties Union interested itself in the civil liberties of members of the German-American Bund or the organization itself.

The Communist International magazine for January of 1934 at page 78, declares: "Our most successful application of the United Front has been in the anti-war and anti-Fascism movement. We led a highly successful U. S. Congress Against War. * * * which brought together 2,616 delegates from all over the country. * * * The Congress from the beginning was led by our party quite openly. * * * The Congress set up a permanent organization on 'federative basis called the American League Against War and Fascism.'" Naturally, the anti-war aspect of the organization has been its greatest bait to peace-loving Americans. It has permitted the representatives of the organization to penetrate churches and fraternal groups and thus to align them with the Communist Party. The usual technique of Communist caucuses expanded into front organizations, constituting the transmission belt for Communist Party indoctrination is used in this organization as in all others.

In November of 1937, the American League Against War and Fascism suddenly was changed to the American League for Peace and Democracy. It is significant that the Canadian League Against War and Fascism almost simultaneously became the Canadian League for Peace and Democracy. Out of the Comintern in 1932 came the Amsterdam World Congress. The World Committee Against War came out of the Amsterdam World Congress. In 1933 the World Committee Against War gave birth to the American Committee for the Struggle Against War. In September of 1933, the American Committee for the Struggle Against War created a National Organizing Committee for the First United States Congress Against War. In October of 1933, the American League Against War and Fascism blossomed out of the First United States Congress Against War.

The American Peace Crusade was organized during the Stalin-Hitler collaboration, in June of 1940. The Los Angeles meeting was called by the Los Angeles C. I. O. Industrial Union Council, the California Youth Legislature and the Hollywood Peace Forum and was supported by Labors Non-Partisan League. (People's Daily World, June 6, 1940.) The sponsors of this organization included the National Legal Conference, Workers Alliance, Labors Non-Partisan League, California Youth Legislature, Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union, Theodore Dreiser, Jack McMichael of the American Youth Congress, Louis Goldblatt, Secretary of the California State C. I. O. Industrial Union Council, Herbert Biberman, and numerous other organizations and individuals. (People's Daily World, July 5, 1940.) A Nation-wide conference of the American Peace Crusade was held in Chicago on August 31, to September 1, 1940. At this time a new organization was created which became known as the American Peace Mobilization. It was then announced that the American Peace Mobilization would take the place of the defunct American League for Peace and Democracy.

The International Workers' Order is an important Communist front organization. Philip Gardner, the executive secretary of the Los Angeles Council of this transmission belt, testified before the committee February 24, 1942. (Volume IX, pages 2774-2790.) Gardner admitted that he was a member of the Communist Party and that he had been connected with the International Workers' Order since 1932. He admitted knowing Max Bedacht, National secretary of the International Workers' Order and one time editor of the Monthly Communist magazine. Gardner stated that there are 30 lodges of the International Workers' Order in the southern California district and that most of the lodges meet in public halls and hold benefits from time to time for the People's Daily World, the official Communist Party organ on the West Coast. He stated that the International Workers' Order is headed by a general executive board and that Herbert Benjamin is a member of this board. The requirements laid down for eligibility to become a member of the International Workers' Order, Gardner told the committee, were principally that the applicant be sympathetic to labor; that anti-labor individuals, "scabs," "strike-breakers" or "Fascists" were not eligible. Membership in a labor union, however, Gardner stated, was not necessary. The "International" designation of the Workers' Order, Gardner testified, had no relationship to other countries and only referred to races. He stated that the International Workers' Order had about 3,500 members in southern California. He admitted, under examination, that he had joined the Communist Party in Seattle in 1937 but had not belonged to the Young Communist League. He admitted having received a Communist Party book but stated that he had not received his 1939 book and, like all Communist Party functionaries and front men, he could not remember the person from whom he received his book. The committee reports that there is no doubt whatsoever of the Communist domination and control of the International Workers' Order.

Undercover information in possession of the committee indicates that Philip Gardner is the president or chairman of the Los Angeles County branch of the Communist Party.

George E. Bodle may be classed as one of California's so-called labor attorneys. (Volume IX, pp. 2799-2808.) He is a graduate of Stanford University Law School and was admitted to the California Bar in 1934. His wife is Alice Ingraham. Bodle was not certain whether or not his wife had taught in the Workers' School in Los Angeles, although he did not believe that she had. Bodle had been associated with Henry Melnikow in the Pacific Labor Bureau, San Francisco, from 1937 until November of 1939. He met Melnikow through a San Francisco attorney by the name of Robert Littler. The purported work of the Pacific Labor Bureau was the gathering of economic and statistical information for trade unions and representing them in negotiations. Bodle is acquainted with Jeff Kibre and met him while he was associated with the Pacific Labor Bureau. He also is acquainted with Norval Crutcher, Sam Goldblatt, Carey McWilliams and he was associated with Charles Katz in a trial in 1938. He has known Leo Gallagher since about 1938.

Bodle, at the time of testifying, stated that he was the attorney for the Union Guild Council which had been formed from independent Hollywood unions in 1940 or 1941. His work, in this connection, was not for the council as such but as the legal representative for certain of the Guilds which form the council. He is also the attorney for the Screen Office Employees Guild, now a local of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America. Local 644 is also a Local of this Brotherhood. Bodle stated that he had known Herbert Sorrell, business agent for Local 644, for two years. He was familiar with the Screen Readers Guild, Screen Publicists Guild and the Screen Writers' Guild. He admitted knowing Don Gordon, Ella Winter, Guy Endore, Herbert Biberman and Viola Brothers Shore. He admitted knowing Kenneth McGowan of the Screen Directors' Guild. He met Frank Tuttle in 1938 when the Unemployment Conference of Craft Unions was being set up in Hollywood. In the Screen Actors Guild he knew Gale Sondergaard. He admitted knowing Dave Hilperman and Charlotte Darling in the Screen Cartoonists Guild. He concluded his testimony by stating that he had never noticed or observed any Communist influence in any of the unions he represented.

Indicative of collaboration with the Communist Party and the faithful fellow-traveling of certain alleged labor leaders, is Herbert K. Sorrell, who testified in Los Angeles July 31, 1941. (Volume II, pp. 452-474.) He testified that he was the business representative of the Motion Picture Painters, Local 644, of the American Federation of Labor. The committee is in possession of a photostatic copy of Sorrell's application to join the Communist Party in which he used the name Stewart. Sorrell denied that he had ever used such name, although under close examination, he admitted that his mother's maiden name was Daisy Frances Stewart. He denied that he was a member of the Communist Party and stated that he knew nothing of the Communist Party Convention held in Los Angeles in April-May, 1938. He freely admitted that he followed the Communist Party Line when he thought it was "all right," although he stated that Paul Cline and Jack Moore came to him at a time when he was trying to raise the per capita tax of his union and told him that he was "going against the Communist Party Line." (p. 471.)

The activities of Sorrell over a period of years is well known to the committee. He has served as A. F. of L. "window dressing" for most of Southern California Communist front organizations, such as California Conference for Democratic Action, Labors' Non-Partisan League, Motion Picture Democratic Committee and the American Peace Mobilization. He has been a consistent subscriber to the People's Daily World. His name is carried on the letterhead of the Harry Bridges' Defense Committee. In 1940 he was the State President of Labors' Non-Partisan League. The letterhead of the Schneiderman-Darcy Defense Committee contained his name in January of 1940. In July of 1940 he appeared as an officer in the American Peace Crusade. On November 2, 1942, he headed a committee of alleged Democrats endorsing and supporting Mrs. La Rue McCormick, Communist Party candidate for State Senate from the Thirty-eighth Senatorial District. There is no doubt in the minds of the members of the committee of the close association and fellow-traveler status in the Communist Party of Herbert K. Sorrell.

Helen Wheeler was elected a delegate from Local 91 of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America (SCMWA) to the advisory committee of the California Youth Legislature in 1937. (Volume VI, pp. 1875-1882.) At that time, Miss Wheeler was a case aide in the State Relief Administration in Oakland. She was acquainted with James Burford and knew that he presided over the sessions of the California Youth Legislature. Miss Wheeler has held three positions in the California Youth Legislature, State Financial Director, Legislative Chairman and finally the Northern California Chairman. When testifying she was still holding the position of Northern California Chairman. She told the committee that the purpose of the California Youth Legislature was to bring together all types of youth for the discussion of mutual problems. She admitted that the American Students Union was a participating organization in the California Youth Legislature. She admitted knowing Herbert Biberman, Philip Connelly, Louis Goldblatt, Carey McWilliams, Hubert Phillips and Wyndham Mortimer. She denied ever having been affiliated with the Communist Party but admitted that she knew that the Young Communist League was represented in the California Youth Legislature and that there were some 12 delegates from the Young Communist League at the 1940 Convention of the Youth Legislature held in Los Angeles.

The People's Daily World of August 30, 1941, carried a story to the effect that Helen Wheeler was one of the sponsors for a State-wide conference on civil rights to be held in San Francisco, September 27, 1941, for the purpose of protesting the "Tenney Committee and the Tenney Bill Outlawing the Communist Party." In the issue of August 10, 1940, the People's Daily World stated that William Plunkert had shifted Miss Wheeler from the California Youth Legislature to the Peace Mobilization, California Unit, for special work.

The American Peace Mobilization was a Communist front organization created shortly after the signing of the Hitler-Stalin pact. About this time the Anti-Nazi League of Hollywood and other anti-Fascist front organizations of the Communist Party went out of business and Peace Congresses throughout the country generally, and the American Peace Mobilization in California particularly, came into being practically over night. Among the witnesses called to testify in reference to the American Peace Mobilization were Reuben W. Borough, Frederick Langton, Bert Leech, Jack Moore, William Schneiderman and Helen Wheeler.

Mrs. Edward Suchman testified in Los Angeles July 29, 1941. (Volume I, pp. 222-232.) Mrs. Suchman stated that Reuben Borough had been elected the first president of the American Federation for Political Unity, a Communist front organization, and that the Communists in this group masqueraded as "progressives." She stated that Don Healy, of Labors' Non-Partisan League and Rube Borough were the controlling elements in this front organization. Mrs. Suchman flatly named the American Peace Mobilization as another Communist front, completely following the Communist Party Line in the Spring of 1941. She stated that Professor Norman Byrne, of Los Angeles City College, was active in this group. She concluded her testimony concerning Reuben Borough by stating that she had told him that he had been taken over "boots and britches" by the Communists.

Strange as it may seem, the committee discovered that Ellis O. Jones, co-editor of the Friends of Progress, was also a member of the American Civil Liberties Union together with William Schneiderman and A. L. Wirin, Los Angeles attorney.

Louise R. Bransten of San Francisco was subpoenaed before the committee. She testified that she was a secretary of the Civil Rights Council for Northern California. Prior to the calling of Louise R. Bransten before the committee in San Francisco a pamphlet had been distributed throughout the State by various mediums and particularly with the distribution of the Communist Party's Pacific Coast organ, The People's Daily World. The title of this pamphlet was Your Rights Before the Tenney Committee. Louise R. Bransten admitted having written part of this pamphlet with the assistance of members of the Civil Rights Council, members of the Lawyers' Guild and George Olshausen. The pamphlet was printed with donations collected from members of the Civil Rights Council and similar front organizations. Miss Bransten stated that the purpose of the pamphlet was to protect the unions, intimating that the committee was concerned with breaking up trade unionism in California. The testimony of Louise R. Bransten left no doubt in the minds of the members of your committee as to her Communist Party relationship and of the Communist domination of the so-called Civil Rights Council for Northern California.

Miss Bransten testified that the Civil Rights Council for Northern California was a branch of the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties with headquarters in Washington, D. C. She stated that the purpose of the National organization branches was to protest against and to bring pressure against the curtailment of civil liberties and violation of the Bill of Rights. She stated that the organization, in defending violations of civil liberties and the Bill of Rights, selected those cases which it considered the most important.

She further testified that the organization was founded in 1936 and was called, at that time, the Academic and Civil Rights Council of California. It was started by Edward Gallagher and a group of people in San Francisco to combat vigilantism such as existed, she alleged, on the San Francisco waterfront in 1934. The Academic and Civil Rights Council of California died out in 1937 and in 1938 Gallagher and others attempted to revive it. In 1939 or early in 1940 initial meetings were held to create the present organization, Civil Rights Council of Northern California, and Gallagher was elected chairman and Miss Bransten, secretary. Its first activities were directed toward combating the passage of a bill in the Legislature outlawing the Communist Party. It was in behalf of this activity that Miss Bransten first appeared in Sacramento before the committees of the Legislature deliberating on the outlawing of the Communist Party.

Miss Bransten's maiden name was Rosenberg and under this name she went to Russia in 1933.

William Schneiderman, secretary of the Communist Party of California, testified (Volume V, pp. 1260-1342) that he did not believe that the American Civil Liberties Union should rush to the defense of "enemies."

The Schneiderman-Darcy Defense Committee was created early in 1940 for the defense of William Schneiderman, California State Secretary of the Communist Party, and Sam Darcy, the former district organizer of the Communist Party in California.

Schneiderman became a naturalized citizen at the age of 21. At the time of his naturalization, he was a member of the Communist Party and concealed this fact in his application and examination. Subsequently his citizenship was revoked and he has appealed the case to the Supreme Court of the United States. Senator Robert W. Kenny acted as his counsel in California and Wendell Willkie volunteered his legal services for Schneiderman before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Sam Darcy was a candidate for Governor of California on the Communist ticket in 1934. At that time he swore that Sam Darcy was his true name and that his place of birth was New York. Subsequently Darcy was named a delegate to the Comintern Congress in Moscow and when he applied for a passport, he made an affidavit to the effect that he had been born in the Ukraine, Russia. His true name was Samuel Dardeck. He was ultimately indicted for perjury by a San Francisco grand jury and was sought throughout the United States for several years. In 1938 he was an organizer for the Communist Party in the State of Minnesota and was later located in Pennsylvania as the district organizer for the Communist Party in that area. Extradition proceedings were instituted and he was returned to California for trial. His case is also on appeal.

Among the sponsors of the Schneiderman-Darcy Defense Committee are George Andersen and Leo Gallagher, attorneys for the Communist Party, Carey McWilliams, A. L. Wirin and other attorneys of similar reputation.

The committee launched a drive for funds and sought to sell "Civil Liberty Bonds" in denominations of $1, $5, $10, and $25.

The National Student League, the Farm Labor Party, American Youth Congress, Anti-War Committee, Anti-R.O.T.C. Committee, International Labor Defense and the National Lawyers' Guild are all Communist front organizations. Many witnesses were examined concerning these organizations, their officers and members, their ostensible purposes and hidden objectives. Nearly every witness connected even remotely with any of these organizations was closely questioned and committee representatives secured much documentary material, pamphlets and circulars issued by these, and similar organizations.

The National Lawyers' Guild came into being early in 1937 and was reportedly a lawyers' group in opposition to the American Bar Association. Many Communist attorneys in California and in the United States assisted in the formation of this group and the American Civil Liberties Union is also represented. Carol Weiss King, a former stockholder in the Daily Worker, the official Communist publication for the East Coast, Leo Gallagher, who has represented the Communist Party of California as well as many Communist defendants, Charles J. Katz, sponsor of the Harry Bridges Defense Committee and the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, Loren Miller, Negro Communist and former staff editor of New Masses, a magazine published by the Communist Party, Aubrey Grossman and others are California members of the National Lawyers' Guild.

On June 5, 1940, A. A. Berle, Jr., Assistant Secretary of State, resigned from the National Lawyers' Guild, charging that the leadership of the organization is not prepared "to take any stand which conflicts with the Communist Party Line." Many other attorneys have resigned from the National Lawyers' Guild because of its Communist domination and control. The Attorney General of California, Robert W. Kenny, is serving his second term as the president of the National Lawyers' Guild.

Among those subpoenaed and carefully examined on these organizations, their origin, activities, expressed objectives and hidden motives was Aubrey Grossman of the San Francisco law firm of Gladstein, Grossman, Margolis and Sawyer. (Volume VII, pp. 2039-2043.) Grossman testified that he had graduated from the law school of the University of California in 1935 and from the University of California, Los Angeles, in the Winter of 1932. He stated he was admitted to the practice of law in May, 1936. He denied that he had ever affiliated with the Young Communist League or the Communist Party or that he had attended a Communist Party State convention at its headquarters in San Francisco or at any other place. He admitted knowing Miles Humphrey, James Burford and Leo Gallagher.

On May 3, 1941, Aubrey Grossman signed a petition addressed to President Roosevelt and to the members of Congress urging them to exercise their influence and authority in defense of the constitutional rights of the Communist Party. Aubrey Grossman is a member of the National Lawyers' Guild, a Communist front organization. He is one of Harry Bridges' attorneys. He has been known by the aliases of Aubrey Whitney Grossman and Aubrey Gross.

Grossman's record is a long and interesting one. In 1934 he attended an anti-R.O.T.C. meeting at the University. He appeared as the speaker at protest meetings held at Sather Gate at the University in Berkeley. He was active in the so-called Students Strike at the University, a strike which was sponsored and promoted by the Communist Party working at that time, through the Communist National Student League. On July 3, 1935, he participated in a meeting at Sather Gate called to induce the students to proceed to San Francisco to take part in the "Bloody Thursday" parade. John Delaney Shoemaker, a well known Communist, was also a speaker at this meeting. The parade was held July 5, 1935. In 1936, Grossman was active in the Farm Labor Party, sponsored, if not actually organized, by the Communist Party of the United States and actively supported by all Communist publications, including the Daily Worker and the Western Worker. He was actively associated with most of the meetings sponsored by the National Student League, Student Rights Association, Social Problems Club, American Youth Congress, Anti-War Committee, and the Anti-R.O.T.C. Committee Youth Section, all of which organizations are well known Communist fronts. When Grossman applied for admission to the State Bar of California, the American Legion filed an official protest. The Western Worker, Communist West Coast publication (predecessor of the People's Daily World), of July 6, 1936, announced Grossman as a member of the International Labor Defense, a typical Communist front. He was one of the defense committees for Earl King later convicted in Alameda County in connection with the ship murder of Chief Engineer George Alberts. The minutes of the Communist Party convention held in San Francisco May 14-15, 1937, report that Grossman was elected a member of the State committee of the Communist Party and that he pledged himself to recruit 10 new members into the party.

Both Miles G. Humphrey (Vol. V, pp. 1616-1631) and Don Morton (Vol. VI, pp. 1783-1794), former members of the Communist Party, testified that Aubrey Grossman was a member of the Communist Party.

The Communist character of the American Youth Congress is well established by the following authoritative quotations:

"Comrades of Young Communist League of the U. S., headed by Comrade Green, went to the American Youth Congress and achieved a great success. The Congress was 'transformed' into a great united front of radical youth. And when, somewhat later, a second general Youth Congress was held, our young comrades already enjoyed a position of authority in it. The Communists alone have been able to foster the radicalization of the youth in the Bourgeois organization." (Otto Kuusinen, president of Red Government of Finland, in address to Seventh World Congress of the Comintern at Moscow.)

"Before 3,000 delegates and visitors to the Second American Youth Congress, Clarence Hathaway, Editor of the Daily Worker and representative of the Communist Party, declared that the Communist Party stands behind the Congress, will do everything in its power to build its support and hailed the progress toward unity achieved by the Y.C.L. and young Socialist leagues." (Daily Worker, July 8, 1935.)

CONSUMER FRONT ORGANIZATIONS

The People's Front was inaugurated by the Communist International (Comintern) in 1934 and was later ratified in 1935 by the Seventh World Congress which was held in Moscow. The People's Front was a technique designed to secure mass participation from the so-called middle classes. As part and parcel of the People's Front movement came organizations designated as Consumer Leagues, Consumer Councils, Consumer Guilds, et cetera.

The first of these consumer organizations, Communist inspired and therefore Communist dominated and controlled, was the so-called League of Women Shoppers. While the League of Women Shoppers was concerned with the consumer movement, its chief purpose was to create mass feminine support in labor disputes. The former editor of the New Pioneer, an official publication of the Communist Party for children, Miss Helen Kay was the first secretary of the League of Women Shoppers. She was assigned to the League of Women Shoppers in Hollywood.

Among those identified with the Communist Party's Consumers' Unions and Leagues are Arthur Kallet, Colston Warne, Susan Jenkins, Walter Trumbull, Robert Brady, Jerome Davis, A. J. Isserman, Kathryn McInerney, Adelaide Schulkind, Goodwin Watson and A. Phillip Randolph. Harry Bridges was among the sponsors of the West Coast section of the Consumers' Union when it was organized in 1938.

The consumer movement undoubtedly had its roots in legitimate dissatisfaction, and developed during the last decade from the rather vague interest of a few scattered women's groups. During the years of its early growth, the movement was primarily a medium of information for the consumer. Nearly all of the original bona fide organizations, long interested in consumer problems, continue in their sincere effort to march toward goals originally set. With the establishment of Communist People's Fronts the consumer movement presented an ideal set-up for Stalin's agents. It was therefore an easy matter for these conniving propaganda experts to carry the authority, the prestige and the sanction of the respectable, legitimate and thoroughly American consumer movement over to Communist design and purpose, thus making Communist design and purpose respectable and acceptable. The sudden growth and increase of "consumer organizations" gave the entire consumer problem the impetus of a "movement." While the Communist Party Consumer Fronts are ostensibly for the purpose of serving the interest of the consumer, they are, like all kindred fronts, designed to further the Communist Party in its attack upon the Government and the present economy. Under the cloak of a legitimate consumer movement the Communist Party consumer front organizations are attempting to discredit and smear American business. The legitimate consumer movement in the United States is a set-up for the Trojan Horse Cavalrymen.

The Communist Party loudly proclaims its interest in collective bargaining in order to expand its influence and to control trade unions. In the United States the Communist Party hypocritically professes an interest in peace and in democracy for the purpose of bringing members of the middle class under the influence of the Comintern. By use of these same tactics, the Communist Party expresses concern for the consumer for the purpose of tearing down the institutions of capitalist society and establishing in their places the dictatorship of the Proletariat. All front organizations, as has been amply demonstrated by evidence before the committee, and heretofore detailed in length in this report, are composed of Communist and non-Communist members. In most cases the majority of the members of a front organization are not members of the Communist Party nor are they even Communist sympathizers. We have heretofore detailed the technique used in guiding and dominating the front organizations by Communist Party fractions. The same technique is used in all front organizations. The non-Communist members are drawn into such groups by the professed aims of the organization and then directed by the Communist nucleus creating and guiding the organization into Communist Party activity and purposes. The front organizations are referred to by the Communists themselves as "transmission belts" and this term thoroughly describes the purposes behind such organizations. Consumer groups particularly attract women of the great middle class who are interested in the cost and quality of the things they buy. Hence it is, particularly in these groups, that the majority of the members are not members of the Communist Party or even Communist sympathizers. They are attracted to the movement by professed aims.

One of the now proved standard tactics of the Communist Party in "transmission belt" front organizations is to place one of their most trusted members in the office of the secretary of the organization. The committee has learned that wherever the secretary of an organization is a member of the Communist Party, or sympathetic to it, then the organization readily falls into the category of "transmission belt."

All such secretaries are, of course, under the discipline of the Communist Party.

The committee finds that the League of Women Shoppers in California is a Communist front organization. It has been associated in many meetings and demonstrations with such well known Communist "transmission belts" as the American League for Peace and Democracy, the American Friends of the Chinese People, and the Progressive Women's Council. Among the directors and sponsors of the League of Women Shoppers have been such well known Communist Party members and fellow-travelers as Clarine Michelson, Louise Thompson, Leane Zugsmigh and Tess Slesinger.

Prior to 1935 the Communist Party did not believe that the protest of consumers against various abuses of the capitalist system was a true revolutionary force, but, on the contrary, that it was merely a middle-class movement of a wholly reformist character. Arthur Kallet stated the matter very clearly: "Cooperation does provide a splendid escape from participation in the day-to-day struggles against the capitalist system; it permits a great many people to express their resentment by 'playing store.' But the emphasis is not on 'tomorrow a new society' but 'tomorrow maybe we'll be able to begin paying dividends.' As Consumer-Cooperatives are generally run they are a business, not a revolution."

The Consumers' Union was set up by Susan Jenkins, Arthur Kallet and Walter Trumbull. Miss Jenkins was formerly an employee of the Daily Worker, Communist publication. Walter Trumbull was court-martialed and sentenced to a term of 26 years as a Communist attempting to bore from within the United States Army, in 1925. He served three years of this term. From the beginning, Arthur Kallet has been the director of Consumers' Union. Other individuals connected with the Consumers' Union are Leroy Bowman, Winifred Chappell, Malcolm Cowley, Robert Dunn, Kate Crane Gartz, Elizabeth Gilman, Quincy Howe, Mathew Josephson, Horace M. Kallen, Rose Schneiderman, Anna Louise Strong, Osmond Fraenkel, John C. Packard, Louis Weinstock, Michael Quill and Ben Gold.

The Consumers' Union has used numerous publications of the Communist Party as a medium for advertising its reports and has always worked through its other "transmission belt" organizations. The International Workers' Order's official publication has carried articles by some members of the Consumers' Union.

The Consumers' National Federation is an apparently harmless group but it acts as a clearing house for the Communist interests in the consumer movement. It is a paper organization created by the Communist Party and used for the purpose of spreading propaganda in schools and through women's clubs. It was first known as the Emergency Council and was established as the Consumers' National Federation, 1937. No less a person than Earl Browder has named the Consumers' National Federation as one of the Communist Party's important "transmission belts." Miss Susan Jenkins is listed as a member of the executive committee of the Consumers' National Federation. The Consumers' Emergency Council no longer exists, having been taken over by the Consumers' National Federation, which emerged from it. Among the organizations sponsoring the early conferences of the Consumers'

National Federation were the Consumers' Union, American Youth Congress, League of Women Shoppers, Progressive Women's Council and the Workers' Alliance, all well known Communist Party "transmission belts." Miss Susan Jenkins is also the chairman for the Milk Consumers' Protective Committee and Meyer Parodneck is vice chairman of this committee. Rose Nelson, an avowed member of the Communist Party, was one of the organizers of the Consumers' Protective Committee. Susan Jenkins and Meyer Parodneck are among the most active leaders of the Consumer-Farmer Milk Cooperatives. Among the directors of this organization are seven representatives of the Consumers' National Federation. Meyer Parodneck is president of this cooperative. James P. Reid, International Workers' Order, Max Bedacht, general secretary of the International Workers' Order, and Michael Quill, were among the sponsors of the Consumer-Farmer Milk Cooperative. The City Action Committee Against the High Cost of Living is another Communist front "transmission belt" in Los Angeles.

The American Communist has as his ultimate aim in the consumer movement the sabotage and destruction of advertising in America. He believes that through the destruction of advertising the party will be able to undermine and destroy the capitalist system of free-enterprise. Anti-advertising agitation is an important part of the frontal attack of the Communist on free-enterprise. This influence has been more and more reflected in Government circles as well as in large sections of the population which are wholly unconscious of any influence of Communist propaganda.

An investigation made by the Advertising Club of Los Angeles in collaboration with the Pacific Advertising Association in reference to certain "consumer books" revealed an amazing spread of Communist propaganda in this field, either wittingly or unwittingly. As a result of this investigation an effort was made to call the attention of the librarians and teachers organizations to the fact of Communist propaganda in this field. These works include such books as One Hundred Million Guinea Pigs, Skin Deep, Counterfeit, Eat, Drink, and be Wary, Guinea Pigs No More, etc. The Advertising Club of Los Angeles points out that business has certainly done many things subject to criticism and that no one is more aware of that than legitimate business interests. Better Business Bureaus have been created by legitimate business for the purpose of fighting fraudulent and misleading advertising and all legitimate business stands for truth in advertising, and has succeeded in placing statutes on the books of some 27 States in order to protect the consumer against fraudulent and illegitimate advertising. Of these books the Advertising Club of Los Angeles states:

"The temptation to exaggerate one's own point of view and to mislead is a human frailty, however, and is not limited to members of the advertising profession. Quack doctors disgrace the medical profession. The Bar Association has to take action against shyster lawyers. Nevertheless, the action of certain individual members is not a justification for an attack on the medical profession or the legal fraternity. Nor is there any validity in an attack on all business because of the derelictions of the few.

"The guinea pig books have in themselves committed the same sin of which they accuse advertisers—they have misled the people, magnified small fragments of truth until they were all out of proportion to the true picture, deliberately misleading readers by statements which imply that things did happen, although only stating that something might have happened—making it very difficult, if not impossible, for advertisers to attain proper redress."

The Advertisers Club of Los Angeles points out that it is an almost impossible task to expose the many exaggerations and untruths that abound in these books. One Hundred Million Guinea Pigs, by Kallet-Schlink is typical of this type of propaganda and is undoubtedly the most widely read of all. The American Medical Association states: "The misconception of the authors relative to antiseptics are obvious to any medically-experienced reader." Not only the material contained in these books demands questioning but the motives which lie behind their authorship must also be scrutinized. Fulton Oursler says: "What is important to me is the real cause behind all this attack on advertising. To put it very plainly, I believe it is only a camouflage for the real objective—which is control of the means of production and distribution in the United States. When I think of advertising in relation to this whole picture, I see it as only one battlefield in an enveloping movement. It is an important battlefield because the elimination of advertising would result in the collapse of our entire system of competition, and would end the existence of the unsubsidized press in America." The Advertising Club of Los Angeles further points out that J. B. Matthews, who wrote the book Partners in Plunder, is a confessed Communist, and that Arthur Kallet, author of Counterfeit and co-author of One Hundred Million Guinea Pigs is also the executive director of Consumers' Union and has been labeled by Dies as a "professional Communist."

COMMUNIST PARTY CONSUMERS COUNCIL

Early in 1942 your committee became aware of the public manifestation of Communist work in the creation of Consumers' Councils and Leagues. Investigators of your committee had gathered considerable evidence indicating that this particular move of the Communist Party was under way. As an illustration of this plan of the Communist Party, we herewith quote from the Communist, a monthly publication of the Communist Party setting forth current Lines and Policy and the tactical steps to be taken for the practical application of same. We quote:

"While it is true that spontaneous movements against the high cost of living are developing here and there, under the initiative of women's organizations, the immediate problem before our party is to launch a powerful campaign that will mobilize the toiling people of the city and countryside—a campaign that must be developed on a local and State scale, at the same time that forces are set in motion nationally.

"The main issues and demands in the campaign must be made clear, and the broadest actions developed around them. These are, principally:

"1. That the purchasing power of the masses be increased through adequate wages and hours legislation by the Federal Government.

"2. That Federal and State administrations investigate the sharks controlling the most essential articles of consumption; that a legislative investigation be ordered of the meat packers, of the bread and milk trusts; that there be Federal regulation of high prices of food stuffs.

"3. That the municipalities be pressed to establish municipal milk stations, buying milk directly from the farmers and selling it to the consumer.

"Such a campaign against the high cost of living in every city should be brought to the workers in the shops, in the trade unions, to the people in all neighborhood communities. Such a campaign should unite for common action workers and various middle class elements. It should stimulate activity in rural areas.

"This places a great responsibility upon all party organizations—in particular, the branches, shop and industrial units. A drive against the high cost of living, to be effective, requires the mobilization of the party membership for concrete activity. The lower party organizations therefore become a major instrument for party leadership in the campaign.

"What can our branches and units actually do? How can our comrades participate?

"1. Call mass meetings in the neighborhood, special meetings of housewives, to rally the people generally.

"2. Contact community organizations for the purpose of calling community conferences or in other ways setting up community consumers' committees to lead the fight against the high cost of living. This issue affects every one so vitally that it can become a most effective instrument for united action.

"3. Issue leaflets, special appeals to the population.

"4. The street branches can issue neighborhood papers and bulletins. The shop and industrial units should take up this problem in their shop papers.

"5. Mobilize mass organizations for independent as well as collective activity.

"6. Spread the Daily Worker and Sunday Worker, and other party papers. Follow their lead in organizing activity for they will guide the campaign through editorials, through articles that will examine the effect of the increase of prices upon the standard of living of the masses, that will expose the vicious aims of the reactionary forces and the increasing profits of the trusts.

"How can the campaign be developed? What methods shall be followed?

"It is essential that the city, State, and Federal officials be impressed strongly and boldly with the demands of the people that immediate action be taken against the rise in living costs, and to raise the purchasing power of the masses. The trusts that sap the very life out of the people by steadily increasing prices must be made to understand that the people will resist their unrestrained profiteering.

"All of these proposals can be carried through; none of them are too difficult to realize. It is up to our party to take the lead! It is up to our party members to be in the forefront of this campaign. It is up to our branches and units to take up this issue immediately with energy and concrete activities.

"The campaign against the high cost of living gives us the opportunity to bring the party to the forefront. The masses will see again and again that our party has the welfare of the masses at heart. It will give us an opportunity to connect the campaign against the high cost of living with other vital issues. It will help to develop the political consciousness of the people. In this way we will win new supporters, and will have greater opportunities to increase the membership of our party."

Pursuant to the instructions above quoted, certain Los Angeles Communists, working through an organization had been instrumental in electing Judge Fletcher Bowron mayor of the City of Los Angeles, were enabled to bring sufficient influence on the mayor so that he permitted his name to be used as "window dressing" for the creation of a "Consumers' Council" in connection with the Los Angeles Council of Defense. Your committee was aware, of course, that the mayor was acting in incontrovertible good faith and that he probably had no knowledge whatsoever of the fact that his office, name, and position as Director of Civilian Defense, were being used by the Communist Party for their own nefarious purposes. When the committee's investigators learned that John M. Weatherwax was connected with this movement, the situation received attention. The files of your committee revealed that said Weatherwax was long an active member in the Communist Party. Possibly no other investigation so clearly revealed, by the incontrovertible evidence produced, the subtle tactics of the Communist Party in organizing a mass group over which they would be able to assume complete dominance and direction.

Communist Party fractions had been prepared for the launching of the movement. The calling of the first meeting under the auspices of the mayor of the City of Los Angeles, coupled with what was made to appear "Civilian Defense" was the signal to the comrades to carry coordinated support for the movement into trade unions and other mass organizations. Communist fraction meetings were immediately expanded into these organizations under the screen of war needs, and the creation of consumers' divisions of this and that "defense committee" were to be given the character of spontaneous "common people" upsurge.

Typical of the technique used is a notice appearing in the Overture, the official publication of Local 47 of the Musicians' Union of Los Angeles, under date of March 19, 1942, entitled "Consumer Problems":

"Today, when war has been brought closer to the home of every American than ever before in history, and when we are faced with the task of defending America against the Axis aggression and all it implies, everything that impedes our defense effort, everything that threatens the health and morale of our people—and thereby threatens production—must be pushed aside.

"Everything we have been talking about must be put into action faster and better, keeping in mind that the living standards of the American people must be protected in order that we may all do our job to the best of our ability. Hitler slogans of 'Guns Instead of Butter' cannot be subscribed to by the American people—our slogan will be 'Butter for the Sake of Guns!'

"How to buy, how and what to use, how to conserve, how to deal with monopolists who, greedily seeking greater and greater profit, would use the war as an excuse to escape their share of the war burden, by endangering our American standard of living—all these things we must know, in order to help ourselves and our country to achieve victory.

"Mayor Bowron, as Director of Civilian Defense, in Los Angeles, called a conference which was held on February 15th. Delegates from women's groups, educational organizations, and Labor Unions (in the majority) attended. 'These people should not be told what to do,' Mayor Bowron said. 'They should do it themselves.'

"As a large and important Union, Local 47 will follow Mayor Bowron's advice—we will do it ourselves.

"The Consumer Council of the Union Defense Committee, will hold a meeting in the near future to discuss these matters, which are vital to the defense of our country. Members and their families are urged to attend, and to put good intentions into action.

LINA DE FIORE,
Chairman,
Consumers Division,
Union Defense Committee"

The committee's files showed that John M. Weatherwax served as a member of the Communist State Central Committee in 1936, having been appointed to that office by Lloyd L. Harris, Communist Party nominee to the office of Representative in Congress from the Sixth District, Alameda County. He had signed the petition of Lloyd L. Harris to this office on August 25, 1936. On October 30, 1936, Weatherwax was a special speaker in Berkeley at a Communist Party rally, and the Western Worker of October 14, 1937 reported that John M.

Weatherwax was the Membership Director for the Alameda County Committee of the Communist Party. The records of the committee reveal that he was a subscriber to the People's Daily World in 1938. He registered as a Communist in Alameda County in 1936. So it was, that your committee had no doubt of Weatherwax's affiliation with the Communist Party. He testified that he had registered as a Communist in the City of Oakland in 1934 or 1936 but claimed that his registry was merely a "protest."

He testified that the Consumers' Council is a local organization and admitted that he was a member of it. He named Thomas L. Pitts, of the A. F. of L. Teamsters' Union, as chairman pro tempore of the organization and Ernest Chamberlain (an employee of Clifford Clinton) as secretary. The Office of the Consumers' Council, Weatherwax stated, was located in the 800 block on Union Street in the Teamsters' Hall in the City of Los Angeles and that another office was located at 618 South Olive Street (Clifton's Cafeteria) also in the City of Los Angeles. He stated that the membership records of the Consumers' Council were kept at the latter address. He indicated that he had considerable contact with the Motion Picture Cooperative Buyers' Guild and that he was a member of this organization. It had been established for about two years and was a buyers' pool-cooperative. He stated that two delegates from the Motion Picture Cooperative Buyers' Guild were sent to the Consumers' Council. These delegates were Rita Weir and Haskell Gleichman, the latter individual being the husband of Viola Brothers Shore. He admitted knowing George Hellgren, the husband of Nora Hellgren, and a member of the Motion Picture Cooperative Buyers' Guild. He admitted being acquainted with the publication known as Buy Ways and as being familiar with a plan for a cooperative nursery school for the children of working mothers.

The case of John M. Weatherwax (Volume X, pp. 3072-3088; 3098-3115) was an interesting one. He testified that he was a writer and had lived in Los Angeles for some four or five years. He had come to Los Angeles from Oakland and had lived in Aberdeen, Washington, previous to that time. He stated that he was the brother of Clara Weatherwax (Strang), who won a prize from the John Day Company and The New Masses in 1937 for a novel, Marching, Marching. He knew John Broman, Miles G. Humphrey, William Schneiderman, Elmer Hanoff, Samuel Darcy, Jack Moore, Elaine Black, Oleta O'Connor, Lucille Ball, Tassia Freed, Leo Bigelman, Anita Whitney, Rudy Lambert, Earl Browder, Clarence Hathaway, James Toback, John Leech, Nora Hellgren, George Hellgren, Hankon Chevalier, Paul Radin, Ella Winter, Donald Ogden Stewart, Albert Rhys Williams, Emil Freed, Aubrey Grossman, A. L. Wirin, Titiana Tuttle, Frank Tuttle, Oscar Fuss, Philip M. Connelly, Alexander Noral and Roy Noftz.

He claimed that he had never joined the official Communist Party. He admitted having been to Communist Party headquarters at 121 Haight Street, in the City of San Francisco, and that he subscribed to the People's Daily World. He read the magazine, The Communist, and was familiar with the Communist textbook Official History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. He was acquainted with the works of Karl Marx, Frederick Engels and others. He gave his particular interpretation of the difference between the Trotskyists and the "orthodox" Communist. He stated that he considered the Trotskyists a group who occupied themselves in fighting the leadership of the Soviet Union. He denied any knowledge of the Communist Party's attempts to get control of labor unions and the motion picture industry, adding that it was outside his "sphere of knowledge."

He told the committee that he had attended some of the classes of the League of American Writers but did not know whether he was a member or not.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron appeared before the committee March 26, 1942. (Volume X, pp. 3088-3097.) He told the committee that he had met John Weatherwax several times and had first made his acquaintance about six weeks prior to giving his testimony. Weatherwax came to the office of the mayor in connection with the work of the Council of Defense. The mayor stated that Weatherwax was particularly concerned with consumer interests. The mayor later received a petition signed by 12 or 15 persons complaining that the consumer interest work in the Council of Defense was not sufficiently broad. The mayor later talked to a delegation of the persons who signed the petition and stated that Weatherwax took the most prominent part in the discussion. Unfortunately the mayor was unable to locate the petition above referred to. He was later induced to call a meeting at the Polytechnic High School for February 15, 1942. John Weatherwax presided over this meeting. The mayor estimated the number of people in attendance at the meeting at about 200. The mayor appeared at the meeting and made a statement which he described as being "largely in the nature of a disclaimer" because the entire movement had taken on an aspect that had not been anticipated by him. He explained this statement by pointing out that the demand that was being made was to force the Council of Defense to include representation from consumers' organizations and that the persons making the demand claimed they were doing so for the "rank and file of the people." The mayor stated that he detected at the meeting in the Polytechnic High School a tendency of certain persons or groups to dominate the consumer work. The mayor personally called the meeting to order, made his statement and outlined a plan to permit the general public's participation, but not as a meeting of the Council of Defense. He then turned the meeting over to Weatherwax and left the school. He has had no connection with this particular group since that time. He did not know of Weatherwax's connection with the Communist Party at the time of calling the meeting but later heard about it through newspaper reports. He recalled that Weatherwax had claimed to represent a group known as Consumers' United. The mayor denied the statement which had appeared in the People's Daily World of February 17th, which had stated that the City Council of Defense was the organization calling the meeting in the Polytechnic High School and stated emphatically that the City Council of Defense had no part in calling the meeting.

Thomas L. Pitts, who was the chairman pro tempore of the Consumer Council resigned that position as soon as he learned of the Communist affiliation of John M. Weatherwax. Ernest R. Chamberlain, the secretary, of the group, did everything possible to keep the organization together. He issued a large four-page double-column pamphlet under the title, He Who Gets Gyped, which purported to be "An Answer and a Challenge to the Assembly Fact-finding Committee on Un-American Activities in California of which Assemblyman Jack Tenney is chairman." On the bottom of the front page appeared the following, in large boldface type: "Are You Interested? Read and Decide Whether—Assemblyman Jack Tenney, the Consumer's Council or the Better Business Bureau is Promoting 'Better Business' For You, The Consumer." Mr. Chamberlain then went on to point out his astonishment that the committee should even indicate the Communist background of the Consumers' Council. He uses the time-worn tactic of stating "you might remember that thousands of Californians have been branded as 'Communists' or 'Communist sympathizers' in the past decade." To cinch the argument, he then points out that the chairman of the committee has also been referred to in the past as "a Communist." Chamberlain traces the origin of the Consumers' Council, which outline, as a matter of fact, fitted in perfectly with the steps laid down in the Communist Monthly, heretofore quoted. The use of Mayor Fletcher Bowron, as "window dressing," together with the names of perfectly honest and loyal citizens, tricked by Trojan Horse tactics, rounded out the picture. Chamberlain manifested his ignorance of Communist Party tactics, or his disregard of them, in his pamphlet. The preparations taken for the meeting the mayor was induced to call at the Polytechnic High School was typical in every respect of the formation of other "transmission belts" of the Communist Party. There is no doubt in the minds of the members of the committee that the majority of people drawn to this meeting and to activities of this character, are sincere and loyal American citizens, little realizing that the entire project has been planned for many years and that the particular organization was the result of Communist caucuses expanded to trap non-Communist members and innocents with the important question of consumer interest. Thereafter, Mr. Chamberlain launched upon an attack of the Better Business Bureau of Los Angeles and Mr. Robert Bauer. In his pamphlet attacking the committee, Mr. Chamberlain hid behind the prestige of Mayor Fletcher Bowron wherever and whenever it was convenient or possible.

Ernest R. Chamberlain has been connected with the Clifford Clinton organization and the CIVIC Committee of Los Angeles for some time. It is the considered opinion of the committee that Mr. Chamberlain, in his attack on the committee, was sincere and that he honestly believed that the committee's investigation of the Consumer Council was a reactionary attack on a group of loyal citizens who merely desired to be of service to the buying public. Chamberlain represents a large cross-section of American men and women who are readily used as "fronts" for Communist Party machinations. A citizen, such as Mr. Chamberlain, deploring certain obvious activities on the part of fraudulent advertisers is honestly desirous of remedying the situation. Such a person actually falls into the Communist Party's contemptuous category of "reformer." A "reformer" is one who desires to remedy and cure existing ills. To the Communist, such a person is an obstacle to the revolution, but as Stalin pointed out in Volume I of Leninism: "The revolutionary will accept a reform in order to use it as a means wherewith to link legal work with illegal work, in order to use it as a screen behind which his illegal activities for the revolutionary preparation of the masses for the overthrow of the Bourgeoisie may be intensified." A crusading reformist like Mr. Chamberlain affords an effective screen for Communist Party illegal activities. Mr. Chamberlain desires to protect the buying public and to remedy abuses he has observed, or has imagined he has observed. The Communist Party desires to destroy our entire competitive system and to smash the press as important military objectives on the road to the dictatorship of the proletariat.

STATE GOVERNMENT

Characteristic of the Communist Party policy of infiltrating those media through which access can be gained to a group of antisocial or embittered and distressed people, such as the unemployed, those on relief, manual laborers, racial minorities and even the inmates of penal institutions, your committee has found much evidence of such infiltration into the Department of Labor, the Department of Welfare, the Department of Institutions, the Immigration and Housing Commission and into one, at least, of the State penal institutions.

In the Department of Labor, your committee found Dorothy Ray, a lifelong member of the Communist Party who had her Communist training in the Young Communist League. Dorothy Ray testified that she had been married to Lou Schneiderman, the brother of William Schneiderman, and that she had later married Don Healey, whose record as a Communist and agitator in California is well known. Dorothy Ray (or Mrs. Healey) is employed as a Deputy State Labor Commissioner in the City of San Francisco. She joined the Young Communist League the instant she attained the age of admission. She admitted having a police record, having been arrested as an agitator in Imperial County and having served a term in jail there. She had been employed, for a time, by the Works Progress Administration in Los Angeles, where she associated with known members of the Communist Party. Miss Ray's former brother-in-law, William Schneiderman, secretary of the Communist Party in California, is now facing revocation of citizenship because of his Communist affiliation. The current husband of Miss Ray, as above stated, is Don Healey, who registered as a Communist for a time and who was the guiding light and power of Los Angeles County's Labor's Non-Partisan League.

Your committee learned that Mrs. Frances Moore Plunkert was also employed in the same department with Dorothy Ray in San Francisco, under the name of Frances Moore. She is the wife of William Plunkert, former Assistant Relief Administrator for California's State Relief Administration. There is no doubt of the Communist affiliation and activities of Mr. William Plunkert. She testified that she was a Research Technician on Economics and Statistics on Labor, Division of the State Labor Commission under H. C. Carrasco and that she was employed under the name of Frances Moore. (Volume VI, pp. 1870-1875.) She testified that she had met Dorothy Ray when she came to work for the division and that Albert A. Shanks was working in the law enforcement section of the same office together with Irving Shore and Robert Muir. She testified that she had met Samuel Kalish, who was employed in the Los Angeles office. She denied ever having been affiliated with the Young Communist League or the Communist Party.

The maneuvering and machinations of the Communists in California's State Relief Administration is a black page in the social history of the State and it is liberally smeared with red. A report has been made on the activities of the Communists in the State Relief Administration and in the Communist controlled and dominated Workers' Alliance by an Assembly Committee of 1940 under the chairmanship of Assemblyman Samuel W. Yorty. Your present committee subpoenaed certain people who had been connected with the State Relief Administration during 1940 and caught up the loose ends of the former investigation. Among those called was Branislaus Joseph Zukas, who had denied his Communist affiliations when the Yorty Committee questioned him in Visalia in 1940. The Communist affiliation of Zukas was established by documentary evidence.

Branislaus Joseph Zukas and some 23 others were convicted of contempt of the committee in Visalia and Stockton. The then Governor, Olson, interfered in the penalties imposed by the court in these cases and before going out of office in 1942, pardoned all of these individuals, even though they had been convicted of a misdemeanor.

Mr. Clinton T. Duffy, Warden of San Quentin Penitentiary, was present in the Advisory Pardon Board meeting when pardons for Zukas, and the other defendants convicted of contempt of the Yorty Committee, were recommended by the vote of the board. (Volume VI, pp. 1806-1818.) This occurred on or about June 30, 1941, and Mr. Duffy stated that he voted in favor of the pardons. (It must be remembered that Zukas and the others had been convicted of a misdemeanor.) Duffy stated that the reason he voted for the pardon of these defendants was that "they were county jail cases and had served a portion of their time in jail." He did not, however, recall recommending a full pardon for Zukas on October 30, 1941.

The committee made a long and thorough investigation of the activities of B. Joseph Zukas. He was an exceedingly impudent and hostile witness. (Volume I, pp. 145-164.) He came to California from Jamaica, New York, having been employed in that city in some capacity. Soon after arriving in California in December of 1937, he organized the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, C. I. O., at the Los Angeles General Hospital. In November of 1938 he became affiliated with the State Relief Administration in Stockton and was sent to Tulare in December of 1939 where he was instrumental in organizing Local 204 for SCMWA in the State Relief Administration in Tulare County. He became the secretary of Local 204.

In March of 1940, Zukas was subpoenaed at Visalia before an Assembly Committee investigating un-American activities in the State Relief Administration. He refused to bring in certain documents of the SCMWA Communist front organization and was finally convicted of contempt of the Assembly Committee. He was defended in this case by A. L. Wirin, of the law firm of Gallagher, Wirin and Johnson. Selma Michael assisted Wirin in the contempt trial. The decision of the Visalia court was appealed to the District Court of Appeals and the decision was upheld. Zukas resigned from the State Relief Administration and applied for a position as junior custodian at McNeil Island. He did not secure this position. He then went to Tacoma and from there to New York City where he remained for a brief time.

A photostatic copy of a letter received from Zukas' cousin, Frank Detke, addressing Zukas as "Dear Tovarich" (which means "Comrade" in Russian) was introduced into the record after Zukas had denied ever having received such a letter. (Volume I, pp. 151-152.)

From September, 1940, to May, 1941, Zukas worked for the Brooks Walker family in Piedmont. In May of 1941, he received a civil service position as junior interviewer with the State Department of Employment at $130 per month in the Business and Professional Department of that State agency in the City of San Francisco. He later resigned from this position to become the organizer for Local 246 of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America in Los Angeles.

Frederick Langton was called before the committee October 14, 1941. (Volume I, pp. 277-284.) He testified that he was an addressograph operator in the Accounting Division of the Department of Public Works in the City of Los Angeles. He admitted being a member of Labors' Non-Partisan League since 1938 or 1939 and stated that he was a member of Local 246, of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, a C. I. O. Communist front labor organization. He admitted being present when Herbert Biberman spoke for the American Peace Mobilization on the Los Angeles City Hall steps Decoration Day in 1941. He admitted subscribing to the Communist Party paper, the People's Daily World, but denied being affiliated with the Young Communist League or the Communist Party.

Miss Pearl Ossman, employed as a typist-clerk in the State Department of Employment and a member of Local 246 of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, C. I. O. (SCMWA) typified the hostile Communist fellow-traveling witness. (Volume I, pp. 272-277.) Although she admitted attending People's World Forums conducted by Ed Robbin, Communist radio-commentator for the People's Daily World, and attending Communist Party Workers' Schools in 1939, subscribed to the People's Daily World and was a member of Labors' Non-Partisan League, she emphatically denied that she was a member of either the Young Communist League or of the Communist Party and stated that she had no acquaintance whatsoever with Communists.

STATE SCHOOLS, COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

In its study and investigation of Communism in our State public school system, its colleges and universities, your committee has enjoyed the fullest cooperation of university administration and is especially indebted to Mr. James Corley, comptroller, and Captain Walter Lee, in charge of campus police at the University of California at Berkeley.

Most of this investigation has been conducted quietly, as indeed, has been the major part of the committee's investigation in the Communist field since June of 1941. Many witnesses were interrogated and a great volume of documentary evidence has been examined. As a result of this investigation, your committee is convinced that Communism is not being taught in the universities, or in any of our public schools throughout California. Your committee, however, is convinced, that although Communism is not taught in our public school system, its colleges or universities, there are a considerable number of instructors and faculty members who are either active members of the Communist Party or whose positions relegate them to the role of "fellow traveler." We have heretofore explained the distinction, if any, between a Communist Party member and a fellow traveler. A "fellow traveler" may be more dangerous in an educational institution than an out-and-out Communist Party member. Your committee found that there is a Communist book store operating within a block of Sather Gate of the University of California in Berkeley. We also found that there exists at the University of California in Berkeley what is known as the Campus Branch of the Young Communist League. A number of typical Communist front organizations are also active in and around the University. Your committee found a similar condition existing at Stanford University and at the University of California in Los Angeles and at some of the smaller colleges scattered throughout the State. The situation, in the opinion of your committee, is one that can be best handled by the Legislature rather than directly by the University itself.

William Schneiderman admitted that the Campus Branch of the Communist Party was located in Berkeley. He likewise stated that he had met Haakon Chevalier and his wife at a banquet held in the Whitecomb Hotel, in San Francisco, for Theodore Dreiser, by the Civil Liberties Union. (Vol. V, pp. 1260-1342.)

The committee has gathered considerable evidence and information in connection with the Communist infiltration into the student groups at the University of California at Berkeley. A meeting of students at Sather Gate at the University was called early in July of 1935 to stimulate interest in a San Francisco parade to be held in commemoration of "Bloody Thursday," July 5th, of that year. This meeting was called under the auspices of the American Student Union, a Communist youth organization. John Delaney Shoemaker, a member of the International Longshoremen's Union and a Communist Party member, was one of the speakers.

The Communist infiltration into the University of California at Berkeley probably began late in 1930. The first Communist group was organized in January, 1931, and was called the Social Problems Club. It held its first meeting in Stiles Hall, Y. M. C. A. Whatever its actual origin, it was soon taken over by the Young Communist League and such speakers as Louis Goldblatt, Communist secretary of the San Francisco C. I. O. Council, James Branche, Canadian Communist, since deported, Sam Darcy, now facing cancellation of citizenship and deportation because of his Communist affiliation, and many other comrades, were invited to speak. In the Spring of 1932, the Social Problems Club became a chapter of the National Student League and this organization, in due course, became the American Student Union. Aubrey Grossman was active in this group through its history. In 1936 the American Student Union sponsored a meeting at Sather Gate of the university at which James W. Ford, Communist candidate for Vice President, was the main speaker. This meeting prominently displayed the slogan "Communism is Twentieth Century Americanism" and also displayed the Soviet flag bearing the hammer and sickle.

Mr. Miles G. Humphrey (Volume V, pp. 1616-1631) testified before your committee that in 1934 he accompanied Rudy Lambert, whom Humphrey knew as a Communist Party functionary in charge of the Campus Unit at Berkeley, to the home of Professor Haakon Chevalier where a Communist Party meeting was being held. Humphrey stated that Chevalier was the Unit Organizer and the secretary of the University unit which was composed of professors and teachers at the University of California. Mr. Humphrey testified that Aubrey Grossman was then very active in the Young Communist League and that he was also a member of the Communist Party. Mr. Humphrey testified that Mr. Grossman, then a student of law in the University, held unit meetings of the Communist Party in the law library on the campus and that they used the law department mimeographing machine to get out leaflets for Communist Party propaganda.

Don Morton, a former member of the Communist Party, testified that Aubrey Grossman was a member of a Communist committee for the defense of King, Conner and Ramsey, Alameda ship murder defendants, which grew out of Communist Unit 5, known as the "Campus Unit" in the late Summer of 1936. (Volume VI, pp. 1783-1794.) Morton told your committee that Grossman contacted the faculty members of the University of California for legal assistance and collected funds for the defense of the defendants in this case. Morton also testified that he assisted in fighting the American Legion's attempt to block Aubrey Grossman's admission to the California State Bar and that, in conjunction with the Communist Party, he helped carry on an intensive propaganda campaign in Grossman's behalf, contacting members of the faculty at the University of California, prominent attorneys, Congressmen and Senators.

There can be little doubt in the mind of any person familiar at all with any of the facts that the American Student Union is a Communist Party front organization for the indoctrination of American students in colleges and universities in the United States. The American Federation of Teachers is likewise a Communist front organization for the teachers of America. The Communist for May of 1937 states: "The American Student Union and American Federation of Teachers, as well as other teacher and student groups, must be led to undertake joint activities. The American Student Union should advance slogans and undertake struggles in the interest of teachers and the American Federation of Teachers, in the interest of students * * * the task of the Communist Party must be first and foremost to arouse the teachers to class consciousness and to organize them into the American Federation of Teachers, which is the main current of the American labor movement."

The Communist for February, 1937, pp. 144-145 states: "The one year's existence of the American Student Union has fully justified its founding. During that year it led a student's peace strike of half a million students. It played an important part in mobilizing student's support for the American Youth Act, and in winning the continuation and extension of the National Youth Administration. It has begun serious work to organize high school students."

Dr. Max Radin is a professor of law at the University of California in Berkeley. In 1935, Dr. Radin was a sponsor of the American League Against War and Fascism. In January of 1936 he spoke on the same platform with Lorine Norman in San Francisco. In November of the same year he attended the Western Writers' Congress in the City of San Francisco. He was a member of the advisory committee of the San Francisco Theatre Union in 1939 and sponsored the San Francisco League of Women Shoppers.

Dr. Max Radin testified before your committee December 3, 1941, in San Francisco. (Volume VI, pp. 1768-1783.) The professor stated that he was born in Kempten, Poland, and that he came to the United States in 1884 and has derivative citizenship as his father was naturalized in 1889. He has been teaching at the University of California since 1919. He was aware of some Young Communist League activity at the University but the only man connected with the Communist Party that he had ever known was Kenneth May. His recollection of Young Communist League work was "very inaccurate." Young Communist League meetings were frequently announced by posters to be held at Sather Gate. The professor told your committee that he did not know what a "front organization" was but did recall the Social Problems Club in which Communists and non-Communists gathered to study the problems of society. There are a number of Young Communist League members at the University as students and he stated that this fact was not at all concealed. The professor concluded by denying that he had ever been a member of the Communist Party and claimed that he had no sympathy with the Communist Party.

CONCLUSIONS

From the evidence, exhibits and material in possession of the committee plus the reports of its investigators up and down the State of California, your committee concludes that the Communist problem in the State of California is far more serious than any member of the committee might have believed at the outset of the investigation. The committee is convinced that the Communist Party in California and the United States is directly controlled by the Comintern in Russia. The facts herewith reported show an amazing infiltration of the Communist Party into the Trade and Industrial Unions in the State of California. There are Communist units operating in our State Penal Institutions and many Communists are still being carried on the pay rolls of the State of California. These individuals should immediately be dismissed.

The most cursory reading of Communist literature demonstrates incontrovertibly that the American Communist has two objectives. The first and ever-present objective activating Communists in California and the United States is the defense of Soviet Russia. The second is its basic objective and upon which premise the entire superstructure of Communism rests—world-wide revolution against all capitalist governments. Although this basic objective of world-wide revolution against capitalist governments is soft-pedaled and postponed from time to time, as the foreign policy of the Comintern directs, it is always present and ultimately menacing. The ruthless, forcible and utter destruction of all States, clearing the way for the Soviet dictatorship of the proletariat is ultimately ordained.

Your committee believes, and therefore recommends to the Legislature, that only the continuation of a committee authorized and empowered continually to investigate the changing policies and activities of the Communist Party in California can effectively block the maneuverings and conspiratorial plottings of this subversive group of people for the destruction of our Government and the American way of life.

AFFIDAVIT OF JOHN G. HONEYCOMBE

BEFORE THE ASSEMBLY FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE ON UNAMERICAN ACTIVITIES IN CALIFORNIA*AFFIDAVIT

STATE OF CALIFORNIA }
County of Los Angeles } ss.

John G. Honeycombe being first duly sworn on oath does say: That he is a citizen of the United States of America and a resident of the City of Los Angeles, County of Los Angeles, State of California. He joined the Los Angeles section of the California Division of the Communist Party of the United States, an affiliated branch of the Communist International, known as the Third International of Communist Parties of the World whose headquarters, presidium, executive committee and general secretary maintain headquarters in Moscow, Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. He was accepted as a member of the Communist Party of the United States on or about June, 1934, and received his party membership book therein commencing as of that date. That following his acceptance as a member he was assigned to the Worker's School, located at the Cultural Center, No. 224 S. Spring Street, Los Angeles, California in a building which housed the headquarters of the Los Angeles section of the Communist Party of California, southern division. That affiant attended the classes held in Marxism, Leninism, Stalinism, and agitation and propaganda and revolutionary tactics; that the purposes of the schooling therein were as follows: Training and adaptation in applying the Marxian theories of economics to the relationships of the existing capitalistic economy of the United States for the purpose of exposing and contradicting the theories existing under the exploitative objectives of the system of economy prevailing in the United States; training for the purposes of advocating the theory of the Socialistic economy of abundance as practiced in the U. S. S. R., that is the theory of equality of production, distribution, consumption, according to the ability of each in methods of production and to each according to their needs; training in the science of agitation among labor unions and members of organized labor by demands for a greater share in the profits of production in the form of wages and wage increases; by demands for better working conditions; by demands for the control of the hiring and firing of employees under the sole jurisdiction of the labor unions; by the exposure of collaborationist union leaders who fail to go along with the above demands upon the employers; by compelling the employer in self-protection to call out law enforcement agencies, the police, militia, in order to point out the use of such police powers by the employers against the workers, thereby creating and fomenting bitterness and disrespect for both employers and law enforcement; by training the members of the Communist Party in the art of subtle penetration into the unions and the taking of an active part in the initiative policies of unions in employers' affairs with respect to employer competitors; by carrying out the directives of the Communist Party line with relations to unionism and their political direction and affiliations; by pointing out to the members of the unions that in the Soviet Union (the U. S. S. R.) that the unions own and control the machines of production, regulate its production, and distributes that production on an equitable basis among the producers, that is the workers and operators of the machines of production; by pointing out the role of the agents of industry here in the United States, that is, the elected representatives of American big business, the Members of the Congress of the United States, the House of Representatives and the Senate, as being the mouthpieces of the exploiting capitalists, industrialists, landlords of the owning classes; by pointing out the usages of the militia against the workers by the employers under the orders and directions of State Governors, who under the State regime operate in the interests of the employers and owners of the machines of production and the large landowning combinations known as the Associated Farmers an association of absentee landlords; by directing the workers and members of unions to form defense squads to protect their interests against the arrayed forces of the State and Nation who are created to protect the system of exploitation maintained by the employers to protect the ownership of private property, the capitalistic economy of the profit system, and preserve the continuation thereof; by training the members in the tactics of the revolution as exemplified by Lenin in his successful overthrow of the Kerensky Regime of Russia during the year 1919 after the desolation of the Russian forces as a result of World War I; by requiring a thorough study of the writings of John Reed's book under the title of "Ten Days That Shook the World"; by quoting excerpts of John Strachey's book, "The Coming Struggle for Power"; by discussing and analyzing R. Palm Dutt's book, "Fascism and Social Revolution"; by reviewing the current struggles of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union against the capitalistic world; by pointing out the role that the Communist Party of the United States and all Communist parties must follow in order to secure the safety and security of the Soviet Union, the Fatherland of Socialism and Communism, in that through the preservation of the Soviet Union we could look forward with greater confidence in the eventual liberation from and overthrow of our own capitalist classes and landlords, the bosses and their agents; by bringing before the American workers and the people generally the rapid strides made by the people of the U. S. S. R. under the leadership of Lenin and Stalin and the vanguard of the working classes, the Communist Party in order to condition the minds of the American working class and the people for the eventual overthrow of the existing order of society and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat under the direction of and control of the Communist Party of the United States. By our training we were prepared to enter under instructions from the Communist Party every occupation where we could carry on our task of agitation and propaganda to further the revolutionary development of the American working classes and the organized unions; by joining all occupational associations, organizations, unions, which represented the various occupations in which we fitted by either training or experience; that on or about July, 1934, I became actively attached to the organization set up by the Communist Party of the United States known as the "Friends of the Soviet Union," an organization organized for the purpose of agitating the American people living under a capitalistic economy by pointing out the merits and social well being of the people who lived under the economy of socialism under the dictatorship of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union as against the impoverishment of millions of the American people living under and through the ruling class capitalistic depression, who resorted to their capitalistic Messiah Franklin D. Roosevelt, the demagogue, who was to lead them out of the economic jungle of capitalism during the year of 1934; that the Friends of the Soviet Union, a mass organization created by the Communist Party of the United States for the purpose of obtaining recognition of the Soviet Union by the Roosevelt Administration, realizing fully the impossibility of accomplishing this under the open and avowed leadership of the Communist Party of the United States, who at that time were eyed with a great deal of suspicion by the American people; that on or about October, 1934, under the directives of the Communist Party fraction which formed the Executive Committee of the F. S. U. we received instructions from the National Executive Committee of the Communist Party through a member of the National committee of the F. S. U. to arrange for the publication of the Anti-Hearst Examiner, with which to reply to and combat the editorials of the Los Angeles Examiner in which they continued their attacks on the Soviet Union; that at or about this time we organized a picket line before the offices of the Los Angeles Examiner with the aid and direction of the Los Angeles Section of the Communist Party in order to intimidate and boycott the issues of the Los Angeles Examiner which agitated for public expression in disapproval of any form of recognition of the Soviet Union by the American Government; that your affiant together with the representative of the National Executive Committee of the Friends of the Soviet Union, one Theodore Bayer, by name, and Dr. James C. Coleman, district organizer and others whom I can not at this time recall, arranged and ordered printed 300,000 copies of the Anti-Hearst Examiner for distribution to the following organizations and societies: Utopian Society; End Poverty in California organization headed by Upton Sinclair; Humanist Society of Friends; Unitarian Church society; all labor organizations and old age pension groups; that the organizer and director of the F. S. U., Los Angeles branch, Dr. James C. Coleman, was at that time a member of the Los Angeles Section of the Communist Party; that Theodore Bayer, member of the National Committee of the F. S. U., was at that time a member of the Communist Party of the United States; that on or about June, July and August, 1934, your affiant and others of the F. S. U. and members of the Communist Party assisted in the raising of money through organized meetings to support the strike of Longshoremen at San Pedro and San Francisco as well as the Seaman's Tanker strike of that period; that on or about 10 days after the settlement of said strike, your affiant joined the Sailors Union of the Pacific, a branch of the International Seaman's Union of the American Federation of Labor; that on or about October 14, 1934, affiant sailed for the Orient on the S. S. President Coolidge, completing two round trips to Manila, P. I., and return via Japan and Shanghai, China; that on the first trip your affiant visited the Russian Embassy at Shanghai, on or about November 7, 1934, located at Broadway and Wangpoo Road opposite the Astor Hotel; that after presenting my credentials I was entertained cordially by the staff and treated in a comradely and revolutionary manner, by an exchange of views concerning events in our respective countries and their revolutionary problems; that during the period consumed on two voyages to the Orient commencing on October 14, 1934, and ending January 15, 1935, your affiant carried on both agitation and propaganda activities among both the union and other crew members, licensed and unlicensed personnel; that on or about December, 1936, affiant turned in his Communist Party membership book to the Unit Organizer of Unit A I Los Angeles Subsection of the Communist Party of the District of California; that on or about August 1, 1937, affiant volunteered his services to the recruiting agent of the Communist Party, Los Angeles Section, for service with the American Section of the International Brigades for the Republic of Spain; that the offer of service was accepted; that the recruiting organization was the Communist controlled and directed committee known as the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy; that he arrived in Spain on or about September 7, 1937, via France; that on or about September 15, 1937, at Albecete, Spain, he among many others, volunteers of many nationalities, were addressed as follows: "Comrades, you are here as the vanguard of your revolutionary working class brothers and comrades, of the unions, and the oppressed of all races. Your first duty here is to defeat Fascism; to smash the forces of the landlords and their agents, the Church of Rome and their puppet Franco. Comrades, your second duty is to prepare yourselves here under revolutionary and civil war conditions, for the coming struggle back home against our own oppressors, our own landlords and the capitalist classes of America. You will be the cadres of the revolution in America when the time is ripe for the assault of the oppressed against the exploiters of the working classes. We must win here in Spain, as eventually we must win in the revolution to come back home in America." * * * (end quote); that on or about November 7, 1937, at Albarez, Spain, following action of the Lincoln-Washington Battalion at Fuentes de Ebro and during a reorganization period we received orders from the Brigade Commissar, Dave Doran, instructing all party members to carry out the directives of the Communist Party of Spain, under the Leadership of Jose Diaz, General Secretary of the Communist Party of Spain, as recommended by the Political Bureau of the War Commissariat of Moscow, from the offices of the General Secretary of the Comintern, the Third Communist International, Georgi Dimitroff; that orders of the day concerning these wishes of the Comintern were carried out to the letter by command; that they automatically provided for the transfer of membership from the Communist Party of the United States to the Communist Party of Spain, compelling attendance to directives and obedience thereof; that the political commissariat, of which group, your affiant was elected to the political post of Political Commissar of the Battalion Staff; that your affiant was instructed in meetings to relay to the members of the battalion through their company commissars, all directives and instructions of the Spanish Communist Party with respect to the direction and aims of the civil war and the carrying out of the Comintern Party line in our propaganda and agitation in our communications with organizations, friends and relatives at home in America; that the following named men composed the International Control Committee; all representatives of the Comintern; Andre Marty, representing the Republic of France and the French section of the Communist Party of France; Jose Diaz, representing the Spanish section of the Communist Party of Spain; Gen. Rubiao, representing the U. S. S. R. and the contingent of instructors of the Red Army of the Soviet Union; Robert Minor, representing the Communist Party of the United States; Gen. Gomez, Chief of the Russian Secret Police, commonly known as the OGPU, with headquarters at Albeoste, Spain; that on or about February 27, 1938, Earl Browder, General Secretary of the Communist Party of the United States, appeared before the members of the Fifteenth International Brigade, in the vicinity of Moro Station, following our relief from action at Teruel, Spain, and addressed the men as follows: "That they were free to leave Spain if they were no longer able to fight or were physically incapacitated and therefor were of no use to the cause of the people of Spain. He further stated that no further repatriations would be permitted until the end of the war and the victory had been won for the Spanish people's cause, which he likened to our own cause which we would face in America. He explained the lack of fighting equipment to the failure of the State Department of the United States and the Foreign Office of both Britain and France for the continuation of the Non-Intervention Committee and for the prevention of the lifting of the Embargo on arms to the Republic of Spain; he stated that many thousands of Americans were donating both their time and money to assist us in our struggle to win victory for the Spanish people. That the Communist Party of the United States and throughout the world were directing every effort to the end that the cause of the working classes of Spain might be victorious. He explained that only the Soviet Union under the leadership of the Communist Party and Joseph Stalin had come to the aid of the Spanish working classes. That victory for the working class of Spain would be the signal for revolt of the working classes throughout the world to overthrow their oppressors and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat. That we of America must set an example of revolutionary discipline and courage for the workers of Spain, as well as for our own working class at home in America. That the day would surely come when we would be the cadres of the revolution, the leading vanguard of the working class in their struggle to overthrow the capitalists and capitalistic system and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat. That we must emulate our heroic leaders of the revolution, Lenin, and Stalin * * *'' (end quote). That on or about March 13, 1938, at Barcelona, Spain, affiant visited the offices of the Ministry of War and was informed by the aide-de-campe to the minister, that under no circumstances could he or would he authorize any repatriations of the American members of the International Brigades without the consent of the International Control Committee named previously herein;

Affiant further herein states that the Communist Party of the United States is a branch of the Communist Third International, is accredited and delegated and affiliated to and with the Comintern, subscribes to, conforms to and obeys the decisions of the Communist Third International, as do all affiliated Communist Parties throughout the world. That membership in the Comintern (Communist Third International), is predicated on subscription to and conformity with Comintern directives.

AFFIDAVIT OF RENA M. VALE

BEFORE THE ASSEMBLY FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE ON UNAMERICAN ACTIVITIES IN CALIFORNIA—AR 277

AFFIDAVIT

STATE OF CALIFORNIA }
County of Los Angeles } ss.

Rena M. Vale being first duly sworn deposes and says:

That my full name is Rena Marie Vale; that I presently reside at 1247½ Huntley Drive, Los Angeles, California; that I was born in Arizona in the year 1898; that I graduated from the Northern Arizona Normal School in Flagstaff, Arizona, in the year 1918; that I taught school in Arizona two years; that I have lived almost continuously in California since 1920 and in Los Angeles since 1924; that since 1924 I have followed the writing profession, doing "free-lance" work for various newspapers and journals as well as reporting, short story writing, motion picture scenario writing, radio writing and publicity writing; that in 1928 I won a prize of $5,000 in a scenario writing contest staged by Paramount Studios and Photoplay Magazine; that in 1929 I was director of publicity for Pickwick Airways, and for several years following, I engaged in aviation writing; that my present occupation is that of writer;

That since 1913 I have followed very closely the developments of labor, Socialist and Communist organizations;

That since 1924 I have read the literature of the Communist Party, that is the Masses, the New Masses, the Communist magazine, the Communist International magazine, together with the International Press Correspondence INPRECOR, and many brochures, pamphlets, speeches and books published both in the United States and in the Soviet Union; that I discussed the policies and purposes of the Communist Party from time to time with persons who identified themselves to me as Communist Party members;

That although familiar with the so-called Communist International and Communist Party "line," I was in disagreement with it from 1924 until 1935; that the reason for my attitude toward the Communist Party "line" was that I disagreed with the idea of violent revolution in any country and in particular in the United States; that I disagreed with the idea of offending the majority of the people of United States by attempting to impose upon them a form of government and a culture which was totally foreign to the political and cultural trends of United States; that, in other words, I believed that whatever changes and improvements were to be made in the United States political, economic and cultural affairs, should spring from the needs of the people in this country and should be made according to the democratic traditions of United States;

That when I read the speech of Georgi Dimitroff given to the Seventh World Congress of the Communist International in August, 1935, and the discussions of it in the various Communist Party publications I have heretofore mentioned, I formed the opinion, which I now know to have been erroneous, that the Communist International intended to permit each and every country to work out its own salvation by democratic processes and that the Communist International would assist, encourage and lead in such processes of democratic reform as sprang up in every country; that, in other words, the Communist International had abandoned the old policies of Lenin and Trotsky of creating world revolution, and had decided to cooperate with, instead of oppose, the democratic organizations and governments of the world;

That because of this misconception of the Communist International intentions, due to the Oriental subtleties used by said Georgi Dimitroff, I felt I was willing to work with the Communist Party;

That at that time, in 1935, I was working in Universal Studios in the capacity of secretary to various writers; that I discussed my changed attitude toward the Communist Party with such writers as Samuel Ornitz, Aben Kandel and Boris Ingster, with whom I had contact in my work; Samuel Ornitz identified himself to me as a Communist Party member and discussed at considerable length the intentions of the Communist Party in Hollywood and especially in relation to the motion picture industry;

That in the latter part of 1935 I was working on the motion picture, "Show Boat," and in that work met the Negro singer, Paul Robeson and his wife, Essie Robeson; that said Paul Robeson identified himself to me as a Communist Party member and urged me to affiliate with the Communist Party;

That in the early spring of 1936 I made contact through Hugh MacBeth, Negro attorney, with Dr. Fabian Garcia, a former attache to the Cuban Embassy in Washington, D. C., and that said Dr. Garcia identified himself to me as a Communist Party member and stated he was working within United States toward the end of overthrowing the government of Cuba, which he labeled "Fascist"; that I worked with said Dr. Garcia in the Cuban Committee, and attended several meetings of that group where I heard the fact mentioned that the Communist Party guided the policies of said Cuban Committee;

That in these meetings of said Cuban Committee, I met with such persons as Clifford Odets, the playwright who had become the darling of the Communist Party for writing the play, "Waiting for Lefty," used by said party as a propaganda medium; Lionel Stander, who had recently come to Hollywood from the New York stage; Rose Dreher and her husband, Dave Dreher, who was employed in the Sound Department of R. K. O. Studios; and Herbert Biberman, who called himself a motion picture director; that in these aforementioned meetings I heard all these people discuss the matter in which the Cuban Committee could serve the general interests of the Communist Party in Southern California;

That in the summer of 1936 I was unemployed and Etta Durning, member of the Utopian Society and of the Women's Committee of the American League Against War and Fascism, referred me to a Mrs. Nora Helgren, whom Mrs. Durning said could help me obtain employment;

LEAGUE OF WOMEN SHOPPERS

That I called on Mrs. Helgren at her home in a bungalow court, at 1757½ North Ivar, Hollywood, and after several discussions, Mrs. Helgren informed me that she was a Communist Party functionary, and that she had been given the job by the Communist Party in New York of organizing in Southern California the League of Women Shoppers, which Mrs. Helgren informed me was under the complete control of the Communist Party. Mrs. Helgren urged me to join the Communist Party and stated that providing I did so she would put me in charge of the Los Angeles office of said League of Women Shoppers; in the meantime, while I was considering the matter of affiliation with the Communist Party, Mrs. Helgren gave me some preliminary organization work to do for the League of Women Shoppers. She gave me a list of names and instructed me to contact these persons, saying I had been sent by her; she informed me that these persons were sympathetic to the Communist Party and thought I could obtain from them donations to begin the work in Los Angeles of the League of Women Shoppers. The names she gave me were:

Gale Sondergaard, screen actress and wife of Herbert Biberman;

Tess Slesinger Davis, screen writer and wife of motion picture producer, Frank Davis;

Katherine Kilbourne (later an official in State Relief Administration);

That I made contact with Tess Slesinger Davis over the telephone, but did not call on her; however, I discussed the purpose of the League of Women Shoppers and she expressed herself as sympathetic;

That I called on Mrs. Katherine Kilbourne in her home on Los Feliz Boulevard and discussed the purpose of the League of Women Shoppers with her, and she said she would think over the matter of making a donation;

That about that time—the fall of 1936—I met a woman at the home of Mrs. Helgren whose name was Mrs. Nan Tolins, wife of I. Bibb Tolins, and who was also known as Nan Golden, who informed me that she was a Communist Party member of long standing and that she was going to take the position as paid secretary in the office of the League of Women Shoppers in Los Angeles; therefore, I turned over my literature and my contacts to Mrs. Tolins, who, as she stated, became the secretary in the Los Angeles office of the League of Women Shoppers;

That by that time I had extended my efforts as a Communist fellow traveler, and was working in an office in the American Bank Building on the same floor as the offices of Gallagher and Johnson on the Committee to Prevent the Disbarment of Leo Gallagher; that this committee was made up of attorneys who were endeavoring to prevent the disbarment of Leo Gallagher by the California State Bar; that on this committee were: J. Allen Frankel, Spencer Austrian, Saul Klein, Grover Johnson;

That J. Allen Frankel and Spencer Austrian informed me they were Communist Party members and Grover Johnson stated he was not a member of the Communist Party but that he followed all suggestions by the Communist Party;

That it was through this said Committee to Prevent the Disbarment of Leo Gallagher that I came in contact with the International Labor Defense, 127 South Broadway, Los Angeles; Rose Chernin was in charge of the office of the International Labor Defense; Miss Chernin informed me that the International Labor Defense, for which Leo Gallagher was attorney, was a branch of the Communist Party, and that all persons who worked in confidential capacities in or for that organization must be members of the Communist Party and under its discipline;

That through Julia Walsh, a typist in Leo Gallagher's office, and who made frequent trips to the office of the International Labor Defense, I made application to join the Communist Party; that I saw my application card pass into the hands of Rudy Lambert, a Communist Party functionary whom I met in the International Labor Defense office; Mr. Lambert informed me that my application would be checked by the Communist Party and that I would be notified if I was accepted;

That after several weeks, and after the hearing of Leo Gallagher before the State Bar Board, I had not heard from my application for membership in the Communist Party, and assumed that I had been rejected because of my previous opposition to that party, particularly in the unemployed cooperative organization where I had frequently taken the floor and denounced those I thought to be Communists;

That I again contacted Mrs. Nora Helgren and informed her of the opinion that my past opposition to the Communist Party had caused my rejection for membership; she urged me to sign another application card and assured me it would go through; that I did so and saw Mrs. Helgren hand that card to Nan Tolins to be sent through regular channels;

That Mrs. Helgren then made another effort to get employment for me through Communist Party channels; that she introduced me to Albert Keene, whom she informed me had been an official in the office of Intourist, Soviet travel bureau, in Los Angeles, and that he was establishing an office in the Consolidated Building, Los Angeles, where he would book travel for the Soviet Union;

That on a number of occasions I discussed the relationship of the Communist Party members in Los Angeles with the Soviet Union with Albert Keene, Mrs. Helgren and her husband, George Helgren, their opinion being that Communist Party members in Los Angeles, as elsewhere, must look to the Soviet Union as their "fatherland";

That on several occasions I called on Albert Keene in his office in the Consolidated Building, but that I never obtained employment in his office. I have since heard that Albert Keene's differences with officials of the Intourist Bureau resulted in his expulsion from the Communist Party and from all contact with the Communist Party;

That I was in quite desperate financial straits and confided my plight to a social worker, Faiga Fram, whom I had known for some time; Miss Fram informed me that she was a member of the Communist Party, and stated that if I joined the Communist Party she would arrange through other Communist Party members working in the State Emergency Relief Association for that organization to certify me for relief; I informed Miss Fram that I had applied for membership in the Communist Party, and she instructed me to call Eve Solatoy, a supervisor on the State Emergency Relief Administration, and to use her name; I did this and was certified almost immediately. I later discovered that the social worker whom Miss Solatoy sent to investigate my case, Eva Lubell, was a member of the Communist Party; that is, I encountered her in a closed meeting of the Professional Section of the Communist Party sometime in 1937;

That on or about November 7, 1936, I attended a celebration of the founding of the Soviet Union, and there encountered Faiga Fram again, as well as Rose Chernin, Rudy Lambert, and a number of other persons whose names I have forgotten; after the meeting, I went with Miss Fram and several other persons to Ernest Dawson's book store, and found Ernest Dawson in the process of making out reports to Booknaga, the Soviet publishing concern, which he stated he represented in Los Angeles; we discussed Communist Party affairs informally for a time, and I was given to understand that I had been "accepted" by the Communist Party social set;

WPA HISTORICAL RECORDS SURVEY

That on or about the twenty-third of December, 1936, R. Frederick Sparks, Supervisor of the WPA Historical Records Survey, a subdivision of the Federal Writers Project, in Los Angeles, requisitioned me from the State Emergency Relief Administration, and put me on the WPA pay roll as his secretary;

That immediately after January 1, 1937, when project workers returned from a vacation (through which I had worked in Mr. Sparks' office), Velda Johnston, one of the workers on the Historical Records Survey, approached me and asked me if I belonged to the Communist Party. She used the term "church," and after some difficulty I understood her to mean the Communist Party, and I explained that I had made application twice. Here I wish to explain that the method used by Miss Johnston in sounding me out on the matter of the Communist Party is general usage in the Communist Party; because of the pervading air of conspiracy and secrecy within the Communist Party no member would think of being direct in his approach to another person; certain esoteric Communist Party terms are used, as for instance, "the church," to mean the Communist Party, or a term like "directive," meaning an order, or "org" meaning "organization"; thus a Communist Party member can ascertain another person's affiliation or sympathy without exposing himself as a member of the Communist Party;

That Miss Johnston informed me that the Communist Party had a special interest in the WPA Historical Records Survey, and that Communist Party members in control of that program requested that those in key positions be members of the Communist Party, and that in order to retain my position as secretary to the supervisor of the project, I would have to get my membership in the Communist Party straightened out;

That I therefore contacted the aforementioned Nan Tolins, whom I knew had taken charge of my second application for membership in the Communist Party, and requested that she assist me; Mrs. Tolins invited me to attend a meeting of her Communist Party unit and there make application; I attended a meeting of a Communist Party unit of the Hollywood Section; about 10 persons were present, but the only person other than Mrs. Tolins whose name I remember is that of Dr. M. H. Braden, a Hollywood chiropractor;

That at that meeting I signed the third application for membership into the Communist Party, and used the name Irene Wood as a party name;

That the strain of unemployment and uncertainty had caused my health to begin to fail, and I mentioned this matter to Mrs. Helgren, whom I continued to contact; Mrs. Helgren advised me to consult Dr. Leo Bigelman, which I did, and in the course of the examination, Dr. Bigelman discussed the matter of the Communist Party with me, and when I told him I had joined it, he revealed himself to me as a Communist Party member; later I saw Dr. Bigelman at general membership meetings of the Communist Party;

That within a few days after my third application to join the Communist Party was made, I received a notice to attend a meeting on North Ogden Drive, Hollywood; although it was a typed, unsigned note, merely requesting my presence at the address at 8 o'clock in the evening on a given day, I knew it was the long-awaited notice to attend Communist Party new members classes;

That on arrival at this address I found several others present; an elderly man informed us that we were the guests of the screen actress, Lucile Ball, and showed us various pictures, books and other objects to establish that fact, and stated she was glad to loan her home for a Communist Party new members class;

That the instructor introduced himself as Sidney Martin, but I later knew him by the name of Sidney Davidson, which he stated was his true name;

That there were about seven or eight other members of this class, but the only names I recall are those of Herb Harris, an actor, whom I encountered from time to time within the Communist Party, and who took part in the play "The Blackguard," which ran for several years in Los Angeles around 1938 and 1939; and Libby Jacobson, who, in 1939, was active in consumer cooperatives in Los Angeles;

That in this new members class, which continued for eight weeks, meeting weekly, we were taught the fundamentals of Stalinist-Leninism-Marxism, that is, Lenin had "interpreted" Marx to suit the conditions of Russia between the years 1900 and 1917, and Stalin had "interpreted" Lenin to suit the political and diplomatic needs of the Soviet Union after the expulsion of Trotsky from the Communist International Executive Committee (called E. C. C. I.—Executive Committee, Communist International) in about 1927; therefore, what we actually learned in the new members class was Stalinism, but we were told it was Marxism; we were given a heavy course of reading on the history of the Communist Party in the Soviet Union, of Lenin's works as well as a study manual dealing with a simplified course in economics, which explained wars as the outgrowth of imperialism, and "Fascism" as the last stage of imperialism;

That I began to have misgivings about the genuineness of Georgi Dimitroff's "Popular Front" speech as I listened to these patently false teachings—everything was oversimplified and slightly warped—but I felt I should give the Communist Party apparatus time to adjust to the new policy;

That during the time I was attending these new members classes, I was accepted on the Historical Records Survey and Federal Writers Projects (which were housed together at 751 South Figueroa Street) as a Communist Party member, and met in fraction meetings with these other Communist Party members to plan Communist Party control of both projects; other members of this Communist Party fraction were:

Walter McElroy, who later became supervisor of the WPA Federal Writers Project in San Francisco;

Robert Herrick, on the Historical Records Survey;

Velda Johnston, mentioned previously;

Paul Johnson, assistant supervisor on the Federal Writers Project, later (prior to McElroy) supervisor of the Federal Writers Project in San Francisco;

Tillie Lerner, who came to the Federal Writers Project soon afterward, and whose employment on that project was regarded as a Communist Party "victory";

AMERICAN WRITERS' UNION

That the first business of this Communist Party fraction on the Federal Writers and Historical Records Survey Projects, to which I belonged, was to attempt to resuscitate the dying American Writers Union, a Communist Party-controlled organization on a Nation-wide basis, but which was not accomplishing the purposes for which the Communist Party had set up the local chapter of it in Los Angeles; it was supposed to attract non-Communist writers, free-lance fiction writers as well as motion picture writers; but beside the Communist Party leadership in the Los Angeles chapter, there were only a few apathetic stragglers; I was urged to join this union and take part in its activities; this also meant meeting with the Communist Party fraction thereof; we met two or three times in the home of William B. Holther and George Bertholon, on North Toluca Street in Los Angeles, and that fraction consisted of the aforementioned persons belonging to the Communist Party on the Federal Writers and Historical Records Survey, and William B. Holther, who stated he was a member of the Young Communist League; he since broke away from that organization and has given testimony against it;

That other persons who took part in affairs of this aforementioned American Writers Union were Carey McWilliams, who gave an impassioned speech at one of the meetings held in the Unitarian Church, corner of Eighth and Vermont, Los Angeles, and which was generously sprinkled with words and phrases that were pleasing to Communist ears, but which did not serve the purpose of reviving the moribund organization; Beryl La Cava, chairman of the Women's Committee of the American League Against War and Fascism, who spoke at one of the meetings, and Edna Silverton, who accompanied Mrs. La Cava, and who, in turn, made a plea to this weak-kneed organization to help her establish a "progressive" book store in Hollywood. She later opened the Twentieth Century Book Store on Western Avenue near Melrose and handled only Communist Party and Communist approved literature;

That on one occasion the Communist Party fraction of the American Writers Union met jointly with the Communist Party fraction of the American Artists Union, and at which meeting, held in a small room in the Unitarian Church, Los Angeles, we laid down the program of joint action between Communist Party members on various WPA cultural projects toward forming a union which would encompass all these cultural projects; besides the aforementioned Communist Party fraction of the American Writers Union, there were, representing the American Artists Union, likewise Communist controlled:

Grace Clement, employed on the WPA Federal Art Project;

Fred Franchi, who had been employed on the Federal Art Project and whose only claim to "art" was his membership in the Communist Party;

Hugh Mason, a worker on the WPA Federal Theatre Project, who spoke in the name of the moribund Contemporary Theatre, likewise a Communist-controlled organization;

Edward Biberman, brother of Herbert Biberman, an artist and leader in the American Artists Union;

Walter Herrick, employed on the Federal Art Project;

That some time in February, 1937, Walter McElroy called together members of the Communist Party on the Federal Writers Project and Historical Records Survey for a week-end meeting in his home, 120 North Douglas Street, Los Angeles, for the purpose of meeting with Percival (Pete) Fry, a Communist Party member from San Francisco;

That those who attended that meeting besides Fry and McElroy, were myself, Paul Johnson and Robert Herrick, aforementioned. Mr. Fry stated that the State Executive Committee of the Communist Party had worked out a program for the unionization of white collar WPA projects, said program to be initiated by the Communist Party, and that he, Mr. Fry, was sent to Los Angeles by Frank Spector, Communist Party functionary on the said State Executive Committee, to meet with various Communist Party fractions and individuals to get this union project under way; he stated that the Communist Party officials had decided that the American Writers Union was to be discarded as a possible union for the Communist Party to use to control the Federal Writers Projects; likewise, the American Artists Union and the Contemporary Theatre were to be discarded as respective rallying points for the Federal Art and Federal Theatre Projects; that we Communist Party members must set up on the aforementioned, and all other cultural and professional projects in Los Angeles, the American Federation of Government Employees, and that when organized, the California chapters would apply for a National charter in this, an American Federation of Labor, organization; that even if the charter wasn't granted by the National headquarters, we would have a Communist-controlled organization which had derived sufficient benefit from the respectable name of the American Federation of Labor to give it an organizational impetus, and that gradually we Communists would lead this organization through various stages into the Workers Alliance, but that it was decided by the Communist Party officials that the Workers Alliance, whose Communist control was well known, did not have sufficient prestige among professional and white collar workers to gain membership at that time; in other words, he laid down a program of deception by which the Communist Party hoped to gain control of non-Communist members on the WPA professional projects in California; that plan was followed as laid down at that time by Fry, but by the time the WPA workers had been led through the necessary organizational changes, they had dwindled to Communist Party members and sympathizers;

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES

That several Communist Party fraction meetings were held to lay plans to start the American Federation of Government Employees in Los Angeles; I recall one that was held in the home of Betty Arden, a worker on the WPA Federal Theatre Project and one of the guiding lights in the Contemporary Theatre in Los Angeles; present at that meeting were, besides myself and Betty Arden:

Eli Jacobson, a member of the County Committee of the Communist Party in Los Angeles;

Fred Franchi, aforementioned;

Al Lane (Lewis), then organizer of the Professional Section of the Communist Party in Los Angeles, and several others whose names I do not know;

That at that meeting we laid plans for the graceful demise of the American Writers Union, the American Artists Union and the Contemporary Theatre; we were to announce to the project workers who had been faithful to these organizations that they were "just as important as ever" and that they would continue, but that the American Federation of Government Employees would fill a "long-felt need"; then we Communists were to withdraw from active work in the aforementioned doomed organization, and we knew that the non-Communists could not continue their existence;

That I thus learned, before my graduation from the new members class, that Communist Party leadership in American organizations depended solely upon deception; had it not been for the job control which I discovered the Communist Party exercised over the WPA projects, I would have dropped out of the Communist Party at that point;

COMMUNIST UNIT 131 PROFESSIONAL SECTION

That upon my graduation from the new members class, I was assigned to Unit 131, Professional Section, which was newly organized; it was comprised of Communist Party members on the Federal Writers, Federal Art and Historical Records Survey, and was split off from Unit 130 (to which it again went); since it was necessary for a unit in the Communist Party to consist of six or more persons, this unit could not begin to function until I was ready for unit work, that is, until graduation from new members class; at that point the Communist Party book is issued;

That members of Unit 131 were as follows:

Walter McElroy, organizer;

Robert Herrick, educational literature director;

Myself, membership director and dues secretary;

Velda Johnston, aforementioned;

Walter Herrick, aforementioned;

Chandler Weston, a photographer on the Federal Art Project, who graduated from another new members class about that time;

That the three first mentioned comprised the "Buro" of this unit, we had special duties and special contacts within other divisions of the Communist Party; for instance, Walter McElroy was a delegate to the Section Committee (Professional Section), and I was, by virtue of the fact that I collected dues in the unit, a member of the Dues Secretaries Commission of the Professional Section, which body met about once a month to devise methods of raising money within the Communist Party;

That in accordance with Communist Party rules of procedure, each unit or branch, when organized, had to make a pledge to the party promising certain accomplishments, and it must also designate a "concentration point," or field of operation—this for the purpose of preventing conflict of Communist Party units in any given field; Unit 130, the parent unit, was pledged to concentrate on organization and cultural guidance in the WPA white collar projects in Los Angeles; Unit 131, our new unit, took this same pledge for the Federal Writers, Federal Art and Educational Projects, leaving the Federal Theatre and Federal Music Projects to Unit 130;

That, in keeping with the unit pledge to guide the policies of the WPA projects in which the members thereof worked, the unit decided that R. Frederick Sparks must be removed from the Historical Records Survey in order that he might be replaced by a Communist Party member; in order to accomplish this purpose Velda Johnston communicated with Communist Party contacts in San Francisco, urging that Communist Party leadership in the Historical Records Survey send someone to Los Angeles; thereupon Sven Skaar, Field Supervisor of the Historical Records Survey in California, arrived in Los Angeles; Velda Johnston introduced him to me as a Communist Party member; Mr. Skaar informed me that the Historical Records Survey was in a position to perform a very vital work for the Communist Party; that workers on that project, in line with the requirements of the project, catalogued Federal, State, county, city, church and labor union records, and that much highly valuable information could thus be obtained for the Communist Party; in addition, workers, if they were Communist Party members, could obtain vital information on the functions of various cities and other branches of government, pending the time the Communist Party took over the reins of government in United States; also these workers had contact with various officials, some of whom might be won over to the Communist Party; he stated that Mr. Sparks was not sympathetic to the Communist Party and must be removed; he instructed me to keep careful note of all Mr. Sparks' activities and also to make extra carbons of all letters he wrote and to forward these reports to him in San Francisco; This I did, and before long Mr. Sparks was called to San Francisco and discharged by Thelma Ziemer, State Director of the Historical Records Survey, who later revealed to me that she was a Communist Party member;

That Sparks was replaced by James Toback, a Communist Party member who had been on the Historical Records Survey in San Diego, and whose transfer I handled within the Communist Party, making him a member of Unit 131; this was in the Spring of 1937;

That shortly thereafter, Mr. Toback employed Seema Matlin, a Communist Party member of long standing, and put her in charge of Historical Records Survey work in Huntington Library, much to the evidenced displeasure of the officials of that library;

That about that time, in the Spring of 1937, Unit 131 was increased by the graduation from new members class of Bee Burke (mother of Katherine Burke, a motion picture actress), who worked on the Federal Art Project; Fred Franchi also came into our Unit 131, in order to work more closely with other members of the Communist Party fraction of the American Federation of Government Employees;

That during this time my Communist Party assignments by no means ended with (1) Unit Buro work; (2) membership in the Communist Party fraction of the American Federation of Government Employees; (3) member of the Professional Section Dues Secretaries Commission; and (4) member of the Communist Party fraction of the combined Federal Writers Project and Historical Records Survey; I was requested also to assist the (5) Communist Party fraction in the League of Women Shoppers;

That in regard to that latter assignment, I met in closed Communist Party fraction meetings with—

Nan Tolins (Nan Golden), executive secretary;

Davida Corey Franchi (Mrs. Fred Franchi);

Libby Jacobson, mentioned in new members class; and

Elf Scharlan, an attorney;

That it developed that the League of Women Shoppers had taken in a number of liberal and labor-minded women in the community who understood the organization was for the benefit of Los Angeles, and who wished to have a say in the affairs of the organization; from a Communist Party standpoint these women presented a serious problem, because the organization was designed, organized and operated exclusively for the benefit of the Communist Party; these aforementioned fraction meetings were called for the purpose of devising means to meet this problem without isolating the enthusiastic women who did not understand the true purpose of the organization;

That Elf Scharlan stood alone in this fraction against Davida Corey Franchi and Nan Tolins, with Libby Jacobson and myself following the lead of the Franchi and Tolins women; Elf Scharlan was "put straight" on the true purpose of the organization and instructed not to permit any democratic expression within the organization, even if it caused membership to drop away;

That I was shocked at this high-handed and autocratic rulership of an organization which I understood came within the scope of the so-called Popular Front which the Seventh World Congress of the Communist International had instituted by accepting the speech of Georgi Dimitroff in August, 1935; I realized that to deceive and to dictate to the public was no proper means of bringing about world betterment; but I was too puzzled and frightened to protest; I suddenly found myself in the midst of exactly the opposite from what I had desired and expected when I joined the Communist Party, but I did not know how to turn back;

That I cautiously discussed some of my misgivings with my comrade Walter McElroy, and he assured me that things would straighten themselves out as soon as older comrades within the party understood the true meaning of the Popular Front; and he explained away the actions of others by saying they were "undeveloped";

DUES SECRETARIES COMMISSION

That in the Dues Secretaries Commission of the Professional Section there were the dues secretaries of all the Professional Section, comprising two units of school teachers, one of newspaper workers, one of doctors, one of lawyers, two of social workers, one of pharmacy workers, one unit of architects and engineers, one of WPA Theatre Project (and Music Project) workers, one so-called "hash" unit comprised of a "hash" of professions, our Unit 131 comprised of WPA Federal Writers and Federal Art Projects workers; that this commission met once a month, never with full membership present, in the home of Ann Howe, Dues Secretary of the Professional Section to whom we turned over our moneys, at 3224 Beverly Boulevard, a house which had been rented by the Communist Party for the moribund

Contemporary Theatre; Jay Moss, a Negro Communist Party member in the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, also lived at that address;

That, besides persons whose names I did not know, Ann Howe, and myself, this commission comprised:

Martin Irons, (husband of Urcel Daniel of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild), Dues Secretary for, I believe, a social workers unit;

Sid Burke, Dues Secretary for the Newspaper Guild Unit;

Luba Fox, Dues Secretary for the Federal Theatre Project Unit;

Marcia ———, a Negro school teacher, for one of the teachers' units;

Marge Comey (she had another name also which I do not know);

That aforementioned Martin Irons generally drove me home from the meeting, and on one occasion told me he was leaving the Dues Secretaries Commission to take a job organizing in the CIO in Douglas Aircraft, and then outlined to me the Communist Party program in relation to aircraft plants, pointing out that they occupied a strategic position in war industry and that in order to gain control of the country the Communist Party must control such bottlenecks of war industry; that his success in that field is unknown to me, because the next I heard of Martin Irons, he occupied an important position in the California State Department of Motor Vehicles;

That on one occasion my comrade and coworker Seema Matlin invited me to sit in on a Communist Party fraction meeting of the Women's Committee of the American League Against War and Fascism, which about that time was changing its name on Communist Party order to the American League for Peace and Democracy; that this order was the main topic of discussion at the aforementioned meeting, and likewise the subjects of coordinating so-called "mass organization" work of the Communist Party was discussed; present at this meeting, besides several whose names I do not know, were:

Seema Matlin, one-time paid secretary in the office of the American League Against War and Fascism;

Beryl La Cava, chairman of the women's committee of said organization;

Rose Dreher, mentioned previously in relation to the Cuban Committee, and with whom Seema Matlin was at that time living; and

Davida Corey Franchi, who was known to the general membership of the American League Against War and Fascism as "Davida Corey," while she used "Davida Franchi" for her work in the League of Women Shoppers, thereby, as she explained to me, avoiding the likelihood of detection as a Communist Party member (though I must say this line of reasoning did not convince me);

COMMUNIST PARTY FRACTION

That the Communist Party effort to organize the American Federation of Government Employees was proceeding apace with all the other aforementioned work during the spring of 1937; the Communist Party fraction of this organization which acted as a "steering committee," met weekly at my home, 1323 W. Fourth Street, Los Angeles, and was made up of Communist Party members and Young Communist League members of the various cultural and professional WPA projects in Los Angeles; the work of this fraction consisted not only in organizing and controlling said union for the WPA projects, but in coordinating this work with the Communist Party's work in the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, in the local chapter of the American Federation of Teachers, with the CIO Federation of Architects, Engineers and Technicians, and even with the CIO Industrial Union Council in Los Angeles; also we had to consider the eventuality of merging with the Workers Alliance, and coordinate our work with that organization, which was completely under Communist Party control; also consideration was given to Communist Party work in such mass organizations as the National Negro Congress, the aforementioned American League for Peace and Democracy and its Siamese-twin organization in Hollywood, the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League;

That while it is impossible to describe the vast network of interlocking Communist Party fractions, commissions, committees and special committees which harmonized and coordinated the extensive undertakings of the Communist Party and so directed the work that the energy of one person could be as effective as the energy of one hundred or more uncoordinated individuals, this aforementioned example of one small and relatively insignificant Communist Party fraction might serve to illustrate the extensive and intricately balanced machinery of the secret Communist Party in United States;

That while this aforementioned fraction fluctuated, those in regular attendance were, as I recall them:

Carl Brant, organizer of a dying organization on the WPA Federal Theatre which must be replaced by the aforementioned American Federation of Government Employees; (This is the same Carl Brant who is at this writing a representative of the CIO United Radio, Electrical and Machine Workers of America on the War Manpower Commission in Oakland);

Mary Virginia Farmer, supervisor of the Southwest Unit of the WPA Federal Theatre Project, a personal friend from Vassar College days of Hallie Flanagan, National Director of the Federal Theatre Project;

Ben Goodman, a singer on the WPA Federal Music Project;

Fred Franchi, then employed on a WPA Educational Project;

Walter McElroy;

Robert Herrick;

Walter Herrick; brother of Robert;

Martha Herrick; sister of Robert and Walter;

Another Herrick sister, twin—both these girls were on the WPA Music Project;

Donald Murray, member of the Southwest Unit, Federal Theatre;

Dorothy Rodin, sister of Emil Freed, organizer of the Hollywood Section, Communist Party; an actress on Federal Theatre;

Leona McGenty, a teacher on the Federal Theatre Project;

Howland Chamberlain, an actor on the Federal Theatre Project (he has since become the manager of the Communist Party's Progressive Book Store on W. Sixth Street, Los Angeles);

James Toback, aforementioned;

Seema Matlin, aforementioned;

Velda Johnston, aforementioned;

That among those who were invited to sit in for one or more conferences in order to coordinate special work in other branches of Communist Party endeavor, were:

Samuel Kalish, teacher, then trying to hold together a dying Teacher's Union, in opposition to the American Federation of Teachers, into which I understand he later went—and who at present writing is an examiner in the California Labor Commission in Los Angeles;

Eli Jacobson, leader of some underground cultural work in Hollywood, active in the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, and paramour of Beryl La Cava, former wife of the motion picture director, Gregory La Cava;

Sid Burke, of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild and a member of the staff of the publication for the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, N. O. W.;

That the plan for establishment of a Communist controlled union to lead WPA cultural and professional project workers into the Workers Alliance by a series of deceptive processes was successful; the Communist Party fraction aforementioned established the American Federation of Government Employees on the WPA cultural and professional projects in Los Angeles; Fred Franchi was president; Walter McElroy was secretary, I was treasurer, and several non-Communists were drawn in for other, less important union positions;

COMMUNIST CONTROL OF UNIONS

That before continuing with the progress of this union development I wish to cite an instance typical of the manner in which the Communist Party retains control of unions; Florence Artman, a member of the publicity staff of the Federal Theatre Project, took an active part in the organization of this union, but she opposed the election of Fred Franchi as president. Inasmuch as he was the Communist Party choice it was necessary for every Communist to put forth all effort to elect him and to elevate him in prestige with the project workers, therefore Florence Artman's opposition was given serious consideration by the Communist Party fraction, aforementioned; it was the fraction decision, and therefore binding upon every Communist Party member in that union, to utilize a process of discrediting her in the eyes of all project coworkers and the community at large; the Communists announced, by decision of said fraction, that they would "isolate, expose and expel" Florence Artman, as an "enemy of the working class"; with Leona McGenty and Fred Franchi as the mental geniuses in this program, a plan of malicious gossip was devised; we Communists were to tell everyone who would listen that Florence Artman was "mentally and emotionally unstable," that she was a sexual pervert and that she was "in the pay of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association." As planned, our gossip brought her near the point of nervous collapse; other Communist forces caused her dismissal from her position on the project, and with each outbreak of hers against what she felt to be injustice, we derided her for "hysteria"; until at last, few project workers would listen to her stories against Fred Franchi; and as an offshoot of that campaign, a friend and coworker of Florence Artman at that time, Louise Young, committed suicide;

That this fiendish calculation to destroy the reputation, the mind and the ability of a person to make a living revolted me and preyed upon my mind, and I remonstrated privately with Leona McGenty for instigating, sanctioning and even compelling other Communist Party members to indulge in that inhuman practice; Mrs. McGenty merely laughed at me and stated, "We must destroy our enemies by whatever method we can; we must regard a lie as a tactical maneuver." She went on to state that, according to official teachings of the Communist Party, that Communist work was to be conducted as a war, and that "all was fair" in war;

That our union, the American Federation of Government Employees, was denied a charter by the International headquarters of that organization, which was an old American Federation of Labor union for government workers, on the grounds that WPA workers were not eligible for membership in that union; that this was foreseen was evident from the mention by Percival Fry when he brought our Communist Party fraction word to start organizing this union; he had made it clear the Communist Party had chosen this particular union because it was a foregone conclusion they would not accept WPA workers, therefore, the membership would be satisfied to accept "the next best thing," which would be a step nearer the Workers' Alliance; we put up a sham battle in order to impress our membership, then recommended as a "next best thing" that we call ourselves the California Federation of Government Employees; the next step was to apply for a C. I. O. charter, which Communist Party contacts through Fred Franchi and Al Lane (Lewis) informed us was not coming through, on Communist Party orders to and through C. I. O. channels; when the C. I. O. turned down a charter, we led our membership, still unsuspecting of our trickery, into a State-wide organization of WPA white collar workers, and the name was changed to conform to the name used in San Francisco, to The Cultural and Professional Projects Association; this name change took place in June, 1937, convention in San Francisco which I attended; at the next State-wide convention, held in 1938, this group became the white collar section of the Workers' Alliance, officially, but as stated before the membership had dwindled by that time;

SAN FRANCISCO CULTURAL AND PROFESSIONAL FRACTION

That the Communist Party fraction of the San Francisco Cultural and Professional Projects Association, to the best of my recollection, with whom I met in that city at the time of the aforementioned convention, were:

Percival (Pete) Fry, elected president of the State-wide organization; from Federal Writers Project;

Dorothy Sawvelle, who had been Secretary of the San Francisco American Federation of Government Employees, and who had been dismissed from the Federal Writers Project;

Herbert Nugent, Federal Writers Project;

Lawrence Estavan, Federal Writers Project;

Helen Cross, Federal Theatre Project;

Ada Clement, from Oakland;

Dr. Henry Scholtz, Historical Records Survey, San Francisco;

Walter Matlin, brother of Seema Matlin, and a worker in a State Relief Administration project;

That this is less than half the number of Communist Party members with whom I met at that time, but I do not recall the other names;

That also, on the occasion of that trip to San Francisco, I met in Communist Party fraction meetings with members on the San Francisco Historical Records Survey, who were:

Thelma Ziemer, State Director;

Sven Skaar, State Field Supervisor;

Dr. Henry Scholtz, aforementioned;

Norah Follman, Secretary of the Project in San Francisco; and two or three others whose names I have forgotten;

That on that occasion I called on Paul Johnson who had been transferred from Los Angeles to the San Francisco Federal Writers Project in a supervisory capacity; he introduced me to another Federal Writers Project supervisor, Robert Muir, informing me in the introduction that Muir was "a comrade"; I discussed Communist Party affairs with Muir at that time, and later he called on me in Los Angeles (sometime in the Spring of 1938) and informed me that he had been sent to Los Angeles as an official of the National Labor Relations Board; I read in the newspapers that Muir handled the balloting of the United Studio Technicians' Guild (C. I. O.) against the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (A. F. L.) for collective bargaining rights in the motion picture studios in 1939;

That while I was in San Francisco at that time, namely, in June, 1937, I contacted persons with whom I had had correspondence in the New Theatre League on Green Street in San Francisco, and in discussing theatre matters with the secretary, Frances Burge, discovered it was a Communist Party project; I made my membership known, and was invited to sit in on the Communist Party unit meeting of this group; there were about 10 members of that unit, all active in the production, "Bury the Dead," an antiwar play by Irwin Shaw; and I learned from the business of the unit that the play was selected because it expressed the current Communist Party line; when the curtain rose, I encountered Robert Muir in the audience, and again spoke with him; Helen Cross, aforementioned, was a member of this theatre group and director of the play, "Bury the Dead," although she was an employee on the Federal Theatre Project at that time;

That, returning to the affairs of the Historical Records Survey and Federal Writers Project in Los Angeles in the Spring and Summer of 1937, James Burford was employed on the Federal Writers Project early in the spring of 1937 and met with our Communist Party fraction of the combined Federal Writers Project and Historical Records Survey, of which I had been elected secretary; said James Burford, by reason of his employment on the Federal Writers Project, was eligible for membership in our Unit 131 for Communist Party members of that project, but he neglected to attend unit meetings; however, he purchased Communist Party dues stamps from me, as dues secretary of the unit;

That an event which stands out in my mind was the furtive planning in which our Communist Party fraction of the Federal Writers Project and Historical Records Survey engaged in order for said James Burford to get a leave of absence from the Federal Writers Project in order to attend the May 1, 1937 National Convention of the Young Communist League in New York; we arranged alibis so that he could pretend to be "ill," and when he returned around the middle of May, we Communists jokingly urged him to "look as pale as possible";

REMOVING NON-COMMUNISTS

That the Los Angeles director of the Federal Writers Project, Hugh Harlan, was not sympathetic in any way with the Communist Party, and one of the main orders of business of our aforementioned fraction was to effect his removal from that project;

That every possible complaint was launched against him with Henry G. Alsberg, National Director of the Federal Writers Project and whom, we were informed through Communist Party channels, was friendly to Communists;

That eventually said Henry G. Alsberg sent one of his national field representatives, Claire Laning, to Los Angeles to investigate conditions on the Federal Writers Project, and that our Communist Party fraction, composed of Walter McElroy, Robert Herriek, Tillie Lerner and myself, called on said Claire Laning, as "representatives of the union," and after a certain amount of parrying, found him sympathetic to Communists; we then proceeded to fill his ears with grievances against said Hugh Harlan, most of which were about his "reactionary" attitude;

That our efforts were successful was proven when Harlan was dismissed from the Los Angeles Federal Writers Project by the National office in the latter part of 1937, and he was replaced by a regime friendly to the Communist Party (of which there will be more later);

That some time in the early Spring of 1937, Dr. Paul Radin, of University of California and one of the State sponsors for the Historical Records Survey, dropped in at the Los Angeles office; Sven Skaar was present, and introduced me to Dr. Radin as "a comrade"; Dr. Radin launched into a long discussion of the possibilities of the Historical Records Survey for doing useful work for the Communist Party, of which he readily admitted himself to be a member;

That Dr. Paul Radin stated he was planning to leave very soon for China and other points in the Orient ostensibly to do anthropology research, but that he was going to attend to certain matters (which he did not elaborate on) for the Communist Party; at that time he made the statement there should be an Historical Records Survey Project in Manila, operated, of course, by Communist Party members, in order to provide certain facilities for coordinating Communist Party work in the Orient with that in the United States;

That several months later and without any reference to Dr. Radin's remarks, Thelma Ziemer, State Director of the Historical Records Survey, on one of her trips to Los Angeles, informed me she planned to establish branches of the California Historical Records Survey in both Honolulu and Manila, and that she was counting on me for the Manila project; this plan did not bear fruit, to which fact I probably owe my life;

"LOYALIST" SPAIN

That in the Summer of 1937 the Communist Party was carrying on an extensive campaign to assist the Loyalist government of Spain in its war against Francisco Franco; all Communist Party members were required not only to read a vast amount of literature giving the Communist Party version of this war, but to take part in the campaign of raising money, recruiting volunteers to go to Spain to fight, and to proselyte the public about the cause of Loyalist Spain; in my capacity as Dues Secretary of Unit 131, I was instructed to make certain collections from the unit members for this cause, which moneys I turned over to Ann Howe, Professional Section Dues Secretary;

That there was general recognition within the Communist Party that the North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy and the Medical and Technical Aid to Spain were Communist Party organizations; in fact, I received a letter from Beulah Kashins (Kay), a secretary in the National headquarters in New York for the Medical and Technical Aid to Spain in which she mentioned her Communist Party membership and the fact that the organization was under Communist Party direction; I had known Beulah Kashins (Kay) at Universal Studios, prior to the time either one of us had joined the Communist Party;

That in keeping with that program to aid the Loyalists in Spain, I interceded on behalf of Alpheus Prowell, a Negro Communist Party member who belonged to Unit 130, Federal Theatre Project Unit of the Professional Section with Communist Party officials in the Los Angeles County headquarters requesting that they speed up the transfer of said Alpheus Prowell from the Communist Party of United States of America to the Communist Party of Spain so that he might join the International Brigade in Spain; said Alpheus Prowell left some time in the Summer of 1937, and has since returned to California; it is my understanding he fought in the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, the American section of the International Brigades of Spain;

NEGRO COMMISSION OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY

That I was "co-opted" (a Communist Party term meaning drafted) for duty in the Negro Commission of the Communist Party in Los Angeles some time in the Summer of 1937, and attended one meeting of said Negro Commission, held in the home of Al Bryan (Ryan), a county functionary of the Communist Party and teacher in the Workers School;

That those present at that meeting besides Al Ryan and his wife, Maureen Ryan, were:

Leona McGenty, previously mentioned;

Olga Kreuger, an actress on the Federal Theatre Project and member of Unit 130, Professional Section;

Jay Moss, Negro, who spoke in behalf of the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, and two or three others whose names I have forgotten;

That the purpose of this Negro Commission was to coordinate agitation among the Negroes and for the Negroes within various mass organizations controlled by or influenced by the Communist Party; as an illustration: Jay Moss would take decisions of this Commission to the Communist Party fraction of the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, resolutions and proposals would be drafted by that fraction and introduced at regular meetings of that organization; then, when passed—as all Communist-controlled organizations always pass the fraction resolution—these resolutions would be given publicity in the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League publication, N. O. W., and in turn picked up as “vital news” by other Communist-controlled publications to attempt to delude the public into believing that this resolution was a spontaneous matter with the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League, and so on, all the way through the organizations which the Communists influenced, until after a few weeks the proposals drafted by our Negro Commission, which of course must hew to the current Communist Party line on Negro work, would fan out to look like they were the wishes of many thousands of people; such is the power of Communist Party coordination;

COMMUNIST PARTY TRADE UNION SCHOOL

That I attended a Communist Party Trade Union week-end school in the Summer of 1937, which combined the work of unions within the Professional Section to which I belonged, and the Harbor Section; unions of the Professional Section represented were: Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, with Jay Moss and Sid Burke as representatives; the Social Workers' Guild, which at that time was transforming itself into the State, County and Municipal Workers of America, C. I. O., represented by two young women whose names I have forgotten; the Teachers' Union, referred to previously as in a dying condition, represented by Marge Comey; the California Federation of Government Employees, represented by Fred Franchi and myself; from the Harbor Section the International Longshoremen's Association was represented by a man whose name I do not remember, and the American Communications Association was represented by another man whose name I do not recall; the Harbor Section of the Communist Party was represented by Jack Moore, Organizer; the Trade Union Commission of the Los Angeles County Communist Party, the official body set up to coordinate all trade union fraction work, was represented by John Sargent, business agent for the A. F. L. Culinary Workers and Bartenders' Union; and Communist Party officials who conducted these coordinated classes were Al Bryan (Ryan), County Educational Director for the Communist Party and Al Lane (Lewis), organizer for the Professional Section;

The purpose of the aforementioned week-end school was to instruct the white collar unions, through the Communist leaders thereof, in the ways and means of conducting labor struggles along true Communist lines, as exemplified by the strikes conducted on the Pacific Coast by the Maritime Federation of the Pacific; the strikes of 1934 and of 1936 conducted by that organization and its component unions were regarded officially by the Communist Party leadership as perfect samples of “class struggle” activities, and there were no punches pulled as to the revolutionary goal of strikes of that sort; they were designed to lead to revolution, and revolution along Marxist-Leninist Stalinist lines, with the Communist Party in the “vanguard”; our white collar unions were important to the unions in production and transportation bottlenecks in that said white collar unions could allay the fears of the populace by propaganda, assist in organizing sympathy strikes, and paralyze resistance against Communist-led general strikes;

That in these classes at said week-end Trade Union School no mention was made of the rosy promises of "collaboration" with non-Communist labor and liberal organizations, as given by Georgi Dimitroff in his speech to the Seventh World Congress; and it was therefore not difficult for me to ascertain that these promises which I had mistaken for sincere desire were naught but camouflage to conceal the Communist International intentions to create world revolution;

MEANING OF "POPULAR FRONT"

That it troubled me sorely that I had so completely deceived myself about the Communist Party; I was chagrined and baffled, and cautiously discussed the Popular Front policies with various Communist leaders such as John Sargent, Fred Franchi, Walter McElroy, Al Lane (Lewis), Leona McGenty and others, and gained from them the information that the Popular Front tactic was "a means to an end," and along the lines of revolutionary strategy laid down by Lenin, and the ethics of such deception were summed up in Lenin's words that "the end justifies the means";

That I then understood that the abandonment by the Communist International in the Seventh World Congress of 1935 of the old policy of "world revolution" by violence, "rum, riot and rebellion," as voiced by Communist orators in United States, was merely suppressed in propaganda and oratory in order to deceive, and that it existed in a much more deadly form in the secret teachings of the Communist Party;

That this shame and disillusionment caused me to lose interest in Communist endeavors, and I began looking for a way to get untangled from the Communist network; and that from that point on, my Communist Party work was half-hearted, as I vacillated between a desire to "make the best of a bad bargain" and to find a means of escape;

That at this point I wish to describe the method by which an innocent person is trapped within the Communist Party; in the first place when he joins, he is instructed to "burn his bridges behind him"; he must cease relationship with former friends and even family unless they are sympathetic or susceptible to Communist teachings; he is given a course of training which is designed to cause him to discard all his beliefs in morals and ethics; he is taught to regard persons only from the standpoint of their usefulness to the Communist Party; that there is no wrong except a wrong to the Communist Party, be it deception, robbery or even murder; that the democratic form of government, as it exists in United States, was but an expression of capitalist exploitation and therefore must be abolished with capitalism; that religion was but an opiate of the people; that there was no truth except that voiced by Joseph Stalin and the Communist International;

That I had disregarded these teachings in the New Members Class because I regarded them as silly hangovers from the "Third Period," or that period of Communist history which preceded the Popular Front, and felt they would be abandoned when the Popular Front theories seeped through the world Communist apparatus; but I found they were basic and that they must be revered as orthodox teachings, and to doubt them would be to reveal heresy;

That it was the prevailing fanaticism, the religious fervor and unreasoning devotion of my comrades that alarmed me as much as the diabolical network of espionage which is woven around a Communist Party member; I knew that to break from the Communist Party would bring down upon one's head the most fiendish sort of punishment that could be devised by these fanatics—and in which they dared to indulge;

That a Communist Party member is pledged to carry out all orders of the party in a military manner; that he is given occupation for all his leisure hours, meetings almost daily, and thousands of other tasks, that he is in constant, even hourly touch with his squad leader, and therefore has no opportunity to slip away and think things out; that wherever possible, persons who are losing faith in the Communist Party are forced to live with faithful members, or a member of their family or close circle is assigned to spy on the suspect's every movement, to report all persons he contacts, and especially to note all his reading matter and the manner in which he spent any scraps of leisure time;

That there is also the matter of involvement in illegal activities; the Communist Party member is constantly reminded, by word and deed, that he is engaged in illegal work and that if he doesn't want to go through with his bargain he can be turned over to authorities. Undoubtedly many members are assigned to illegal tasks, but these who are engaged in routine work which is entirely legal from any standpoint, are made to believe they are engaged in "dangerous underground work," and therefore kept in fear of betraying Communist Party secrets; and also Communist Party members are constantly hammered with the idea that all agents and agencies of government, from police officers to the Supreme Court, are "enemies," and are to be treated as such; the Communist Party member is impressed with the idea that agencies of government are to be held in contempt; that he need have no respect for an oath or a law; that no law is sacred but that of the Communist International;

That, therefore, few Communist Party members have the ingenuity or the courage to break out of the trap;

COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP COMMISSION

That at the point where I was becoming aware of these things, my comrades devised schemes to involve me in new work; in the first place I was invited by the Professional Section Membership Director, Jane Howe (no relation to Ann Howe) to attend the Membership Commission meetings, which were held in the quarters of Ethel Holmstock in the Pacific Art Institute Building, now torn down, on the corner of Vermont and Wilshire; this commission was composed of, besides Jane Howe and Ethel Holmstock, the following:

Dr. Samuel Marcus, Communist Party "psychiatrist," who is at present a member of the Los Angeles County Board of Alienists and a superior court psychiatrist;

Dr. Leo Bigelman, aforementioned;

Joseph Aidlin and his wife,

Mary Aidlin;

Donald Murray, from Unit 130, and

Norman Byrne from a teachers' unit; this is the same Norman Byrne who became so active in the American Peace Mobilization in Los Angeles; he is an instructor at Los Angeles City College;

Others whose names I do not recall;

That in the meetings of said Membership Commission, we discussed the psychology to use on new members in the Communist Party, whom and how to recruit members from the so-called "bourgeoisie," or general society which had not been indoctrinated by Marxism, Socialism or Communism; in fact, the Membership Commission composed an essay which was incorporated into a pamphlet and sold throughout the Communist Party in California entitled "Whom and How to Recruit," most of which dealt with the methods of deceiving ordinary Americans into thinking "Communism is Twentieth Century Americanism," and how to hold them in the party once they began to lose their illusions—though of course such frank terms were not used in the discussion;

That after several discussions with Dr. Samuel Marcus about the psychology of Stalinism-Leninism-Marxism I came to a much fuller understanding of the profound depths of intrigue, conspiracy and treachery to which the Communist International descended in its struggle for world power, and I owe a great deal to Dr. Marcus for giving me a basic understanding of this apparatus, which understanding I am using, and intend to continue to use, to expose this sinister and inhuman political machine; that needless to say, however, Dr. Marcus gave me this instruction apparently in the hope I would wax enthusiastic over this thorough and scientifically exact method of conquest;

WORKERS' ALLIANCE FRACTION

That at this period of which I speak, around July, 1937, our Unit 131 lost its organizer, Walter McElroy when he was transferred to San Francisco by the WPA and Unit 131 then merged with Unit 130, thus bringing together in one unit the entire fraction of the California Federation of Government Employees; and that said fraction had established contact with the fraction of the Workers Alliance in order to better coordinate Communist Party work within the unions on WPA, and that at various times I met in fraction meetings with such Workers Alliance leaders as:

Alexander Noral, State President of the Workers Alliance;

Pat Calahan, Los Angeles Organizer of that organization who soon left it to take up work in the C. I. O. United Cannery Agricultural, Packing & Allied Workers of America (UCAPAWA);

John Clifton, who had emerged from jail for some Communist Party work and therefore had to be "taken care of" by the Communist Party (which discussion I sat in on);

Al Heltness, who turned over the reins of organizational work to Oscar Fuss, whom I heard referred to as a member of the Communist Party, but with whom I did not meet;

That the aforementioned Unit 130 was composed of the following persons, some of whom were transferred and some of whom came in at a later date:

Leona McGenty, Organizer;

Donald Murray, Membership Director;

Carl Brant, Educational Director;

Dorothy Rodin, sister of Emil Freed, Organizer of the Hollywood Section; Dues Secretary;

Theodore Pezman, Press Director (People's Daily World.);

Howland Chamberlain, Literature Director;

That this was the Bureau of said unit at the time of merger, but the composition of which changed shortly thereafter;

Sharley Simpson, an actress on the Federal Theatre Project;

Hugh Mason, who was soon transferred to the Hollywood Section to work with Jeff Kibre in the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, Local 37;

Alfred Grant, Negro; now a screen actor;

Beatrice Newport, actress on the Federal Theatre Project;

Darby Jones, Negro dancer, then on Federal Theatre Project, now in motion pictures;

Evelyn Jones, wife of Darby Jones, who claimed to be a maid in the home of Marion Davies;

Barney Brown, actor on the Federal Theatre Project;

Earl Faullin, actor on the Federal Theatre Project;

Pearl Greenbaum, actress on the Federal Theatre Project, who used the name Katherine Allen;

Loren Gage (Loren Finch Gage, also Loren Gage Eigenmann), actor, who, I have been told recently, is now a commissioned officer in the United States Army;

Bee Burke, aforementioned;

Fred Franchi, aforementioned;

Roth Reynolds, Federal Art Project;

Seema Matlin, aforementioned;

James Toback, aforementioned;

Velda Johnston, aforementioned;

Mary Virginia Farmer, aforementioned;

William Gordon, Negro, singer, Federal Theatre Project;

Kenneth Patterson, actor, who was later featured in the Hollywood Theatre Alliance production, "Meet the People";

Walter Worden, actor, who, in 1941, was employed at Douglas Aircraft in Santa Monica;

Betty Falawn, common-law wife of Earl Faullin;

Olga Kreuger, aforementioned;

Walter Herrick, aforementioned;

Charles Maddox, Federal Art Project;

Luba Fox, dancer;

Bella Lewwitski, dancer;

Nathan Kirkpatrick, dancer, who, I have been told, is an officer in the United States Air Corps in Hawaii;

Ben Goodman, aforementioned; frequently his wife, Betty Elwell, who did office work in Communist Party headquarters, sat in Unit meetings;

That not long after this merger the dancers formed a separate unit with other Communist Party dancers in Los Angeles County, some of whom were said to compose the Horton Dance Group, among whom were Letitia Innes, wife of Sid Burke, whom I met as a Communist comrade; also Jacobina Caro, wife of Sid Martin (Davidson), belonged to the Communist Party fraction on the Federal Theatre Project but joined the Dancers' Unit instead of 130;

That with respect to said Jacobina Caro, the Communist Party fraction on the WPA cultural projects, aforementioned, conspired to get said Jacobina Caro on WPA by faking qualifications; she was instructed to use the address of Ann Howe, aforementioned, 3224 Beverly Blvd., to pretend to be destitute and thus to pass through State Relief Administration for WPA;

COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBERSHIP DRIVES

That at that time, Summer of 1937, Paul Cline had taken office as Secretary of the Communist Party in Los Angeles County, and in keeping with the Popular Front tactics, endeavored to widen the scope of Communist Party activity in Los Angeles County; recruiting drives were organized, new members were taken into the party who would not have been considered qualified a few months previous; general membership meetings were held, and activity was extended in every manner;

That I had several meetings with the wife of Paul Cline, whose name I believe was Clara Stevens (now, 1942, said to be the common-law wife of Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian); and that said Clara Stevens outlined to me and others present, among whom I recall Leona McGenty, plans for a women's commission within the Communist Party to coordinate work of such organizations as the League of Women Shoppers, the fractions of the women's auxiliaries in various trade unions, the Women's Committee of the American League for Peace and Democracy and in general to attempt to reach the housewives of Los Angeles with Communist influence;

That Al Lane (Lewis) was sent East by the Communist Party and his place as organizer of the Professional Section was taken by Robert Cole (Cohn), a former social worker, and whom I have been reliably informed had been a functionary in the Communist Party in Alameda County;

COLLECTIVE PLAYWRITING

That Mary Virginia Farmer reported to said Unit 130 that the National fraction of the Federal Theatre Project, of which she was a member, had decided that in order to advance Communist Party cultural endeavors, the Federal Theatre Project in each locality over the Nation would set up a unit to deal with history, as interpreted by the Communist Party, of that particular locality; Miss Farmer informed us that the National Director of the Federal Theatres, Hallie Flanagan, was a Communist Party member and was in agreement with that Communist Party decision; be that as it may, the Communist Party fraction of the Federal Theatre Project in Los Angeles organized the Southwest Unit of the Federal Theatres composed entirely of Communist Party members and sympathizers, with the exception of the secretary thereof, who, I have since learned, was keeping a very careful record of Communist activities in the Southwest Unit at that time; correspondence with National officials of the Federal Theatre Project, which I saw, indicated that Hallie Flanagan was in complete agreement with the idea of the Southwest Unit of the Federal Theatre; later, in the late Fall of 1937, Miss Flanagan together with Mrs. Ellen Woodward, National Director of Women's and Professional Work in the WPA, called on the Southwest Unit and voiced perfect satisfaction with its work, despite the fact said unit was not only writing Communist propaganda into the play it was preparing, but also rehearsing and conducting schools of the theatre along the accepted Communist Party lines, that is, the Stanislavsky method, which originated in Moscow;

That in August, 1937, said Mary Virginia Farmer requested me to join the Southwest Unit in order to assist in the writing of a play about migratory workers which was to give dramatic expression to the current Communist Party line on the floods of "Okies" who were over-running California;

That, in accordance to Communist Party decision, upon which I acted, I requested transfer from the Historical Records Survey to the Federal Theatre Project of the WPA, and overcame protests of Thelma Ziemer, aforementioned, who had plans of sending me to Manila for the Communist Party;

That from August 25, 1937, to July, 1938, I was involved in writing Communist Party propaganda into play form, and the result, "Sun Rises in the West," which was produced by the Federal Theatres at the Mayan Theatre and later at the Greek Theatre, was by no means worth the effort;

That the birth and upbringing of the Southwest Unit of the Federal Theatres was a tremendous Communist Party ceremony in that it was the first of its kind in United States, namely a government theatre in the hands of the Communist Party; Robert Cole, Paul Cline and other Communist Party functionaries envisioned a vast network of such theatres, like there was in Russia; Mary Virginia Farmer, Donald Murray, Theodore Pezman, Carl Brant, Kenneth Patterson, Howland Chamberlain, Loren Gage, (Eisenmann); Leona McGenty and others envisioned themselves becoming famous theatre personalities decorated with the American Communist Party equivalent of the Order of Lenin;

That in fact everyone was so dazzled by the possibilities of this great future Communist Party state theatre, that they couldn't get down to the humdrum task of writing and producing a play; the greatest part of the time was taken up in "discussing theory," which was a neat way of saying "collective pipe dreaming"; after the first bubbling enthusiasm subsided, the Communist Party fraction of the said Southwest Unit of the Federal Theatre, and which was the ruling force in that government project, were:

Mary Virginia Farmer, Director;
Donald Murray, Assistant Director, and writer;
Theodore Pezman, writer and Publicity Director;
Myself, writer;
Barney Brown, actor;
Earl Faullin, actor;
Howland Chamberlain, actor;
Betty Falawn, actress;
Walter Worden, actor;
Carl Brant, actor;
Dorothy Rodin, actress;

Lillian Sidery, actress, a fellow traveler who didn't join the Communist Party until around 1938;

Beatrice Newport, actress, who came into the Communist Party in the latter part of 1937;

Sharley Simpson, who found herself counted out of parts in the play, "Sun Rises in the West";

Kenneth Patterson, and

Loren Gage (Eisenmann) met with the fraction, but were unable to retain their WPA status because WPA authorities discovered they were not in financial need;

That in the throes of playwriting, John Howard Lawson, and a Professor Lewis met with our fraction to assist in the problems of converting Communist propaganda into play form; that these so-called experts in the dramatic field offered no concrete suggestions in so far as I could see; they merely ranted about our responsibilities as Communist Party members;

That the fraction secretary of the Southwest Unit, Theodore Pezman, was instructed by Robert Cole (Cohn) to communicate with the fraction secretary of the Simon J. Lubin Society in San Francisco to obtain research material which that organization had turned over to John Steinbeck for his book (then unnamed) "Grapes of Wrath," and which material Steinbeck had returned; it was tacitly understood that the Simon J. Lubin Society was completely under the domination of the Communist Party; when this aforementioned material arrived, I examined it carefully and found notes in handwriting signed by John Steinbeck which appeared to be field notes on migratory workers;

That the writing team consisted of Theodore Pezman, Donald A. Murray and myself, although Mary Virginia Farmer quibbled over every line; then the entire Communist Party fraction had to arrive at a decision by discussion and vote; then the said fraction had to present its decision before a meeting of the Southwest Unit in order to convince the few non-Communists therein; and the entire process was complicated by the fact the actors had to choose their own parts and "improvise" them, according to the best Stanislavsky methods; and that somewhere in the process I became so disgusted I failed to record the silly antics of my comrades,

That a screen actor, J. Edward Bromberg, who was called "Joe," appeared at rehearsal hall several times to "assist," and who met as a Communist Party member with our aforesaid fraction; from conversation I learned that said J. Edward Bromberg had been associated with Mary Virginia Farmer in the New York theatre, and he frankly stated he regarded the Stanislavsky method, for writing a play, as stupid;

That from time to time Mary Virginia Farmer had me telephone Viola Brothers Shore to arrange Communist Party fraction meetings, and that I discussed with both Miss Shore and Miss Farmer other members of that fraction as Tatiana Tuttle and her husband, Frank Tuttle, the motion picture director; that Mary Virginia Farmer reported to our Southwest Unit fraction that she belonged to the Hollywood Cultural Commission, of which the aforesaid persons were members, and that she was "coordinating" the work of the Federal Theatres with that of the motion picture colony;

That Margarete Clark, then a member of the Los Angeles Board of Education, since appointed head of the Women's Division of the Industrial Welfare Commission of California by Governor Olson, called several times to see Mary Virginia Farmer and expressed an interest in the work of the said Southwest Unit and otherwise indicated her sympathy for Communist Party work; Miss Farmer referred to her as a Communist fellow traveler;

That during the time I was involved in writing the play, "Sun Rises in the West," my other Communist Party work was somewhat reduced, in that the Communist Party officially recognized the composition of that play as Communist Party work; however, I remained active in the California Federation of Government Employees which had been transformed into the Cultural and Professional Projects Association (some times called Clerical and Professional Projects Association);

That also those of us who were recognized by the Communist Party as writers were requested to join the Western Writers Congress of which Harry Carlisle was the head in San Francisco, and which organization soon evolved into the League of American Writers;

That the League of American Writers sent out form letters sometime in 1937 requesting "members" (I had never joined the organization, but had filed an application with the Western Writers Congress to give a summary of why they believed in the cause of Loyalist Spain; I failed to reply, in the press of my playwriting duties; later, I was presented with a booklet, "Writers Take Sides" through Unit 130 of the Communist Party, which met at the Twentieth Century Book Store (founded by Edna Silverton) on Melrose near Western Avenue, which booklet was included in unit literature;

That much to my surprise, I discovered my name listed among a hundred or more writers as having written a favorable letter to the League of American Writers on the matter of Loyalist Spain; I was informed by Jane Wallace (Wilson), then organizer of the Professional Section, that all Communist Party writers' names had been submitted to the League of American Writers by the Communist Party, and that my name would have been included as replying "favorably" even though I had written any other sort of letter; I noted that among the other names in that list were those of

Carey McWilliams; Harold J. Salemon; Samuel Ornitz; Paula Walling—all of whom I had met within the Communist Party as Communist Party members;

That, while on the subject of Loyalist Spain, I am reminded of an incident that took place sometime in December, 1937; I was browsing around in the Twentieth Century Book Store aforementioned, waiting for the meeting of Unit 130 to be called to order, when I encountered William Colfax ("Bill") Miller, whom I had known for several years and who had been connected with the Film and Photo League in Hollywood and who had revealed his membership in the Communist Party to me; said Miller and I discussed Communist Party affairs a few moments, then he told me he was leaving soon for Spain, but cautioned me not to repeat that information even to other Communist Party comrades, saying he was going on a very "special" mission for the Communist Party; I later heard through Hank Bazazowsky, who returned from Spain disillusioned, that this same W. Colfax Miller was attached to the G. P. U., or Communist International special police, in Spain; in 1940 I read in the New York New Leader that W. Colfax Miller was sought by Mexican authorities for complicity in machine-gunning the home of Leon Trotsky, prior to Trotsky's murder;

That here I might add that within the outer realms of the Communist Party such as I belonged to, there was no discussion on the use of assassination as a Communist Party tactic, but I noted that persons assassinated by what appeared to be the G. P. U., such as Sedov Bronsten, son of Leon Trotsky, who met his death mysteriously in a Paris hospital, were piteously excoriated by the Communist Party press, and thus their death made to appear a "blessing"; likewise, such convicted killers as Earl King, Ernest G. Ramsay and Frank Conner, who had been convicted of complicity in the murder of George Alberts, were referred to, both in the Communist Party press and in meetings, as "labor martyrs";

DISILLUSIONMENT

That by around March 1, 1938, I was so disillusioned, disgusted and weary of Communist Party bickering, especially over the play, "Sun Rises in the West," that I was near physical collapse; that I arranged with the Buro of Unit 130, namely Leona McGenty, Howland Chamberlain, Theodore Pezman and Donald A. Murray that I would continue my work as a Communist Party duty on the play, "Sun Rises in the West," but that I must be relieved of full time work on said play;

That I arranged, through Communist Party contacts, to transfer from the Federal Theatre Project to the Federal Writers Project, which was at that time headed by Leon Dorais, who had replaced Hugh Harlan; Robert Brownell, a Communist Party fellow traveler whom I had known since 1935 and who had formerly contributed to the publication "Pacific Weekly" published in Carmel by Ella Winter and W. K. Bassett, was Dorais' assistant; said Brownell informed me that he would be glad to have a Communist Party member to assist him in getting out the History Essay for the Los Angeles "Guide," which was the purpose of the Los Angeles Federal Writers' Project; I transferred to the Federal Writers' Project and took up my duties as editorial assistant to said Robert Brownell, and devoted my after-work time to the play, "Sun Rises in the West";

That this transfer involved me in a new line of Communist Party work; at a meeting held at the home of Mary Virginia Farmer, 1350 Montana Street, and attended by Leona McGenty, Jacobina Caro, Howland Chamberlain and myself, plans were laid to form another Cultural Commission to better coordinate the work of the aforementioned Hollywood Cultural Commission and other Communist Party cultural work in Los Angeles County; at this meeting Leona McGenty requested me, in the name of the Professional Section Executive Committee to which she belonged, to prepare a full report of personnel on the Federal Writers' Project, that is, those who were friendly to the Communist Party, those who might be won over and any who were outspokenly unfriendly; also she requested me to make a report of union activities on that project, since there were no members there who belonged to either the Workers' Alliance or the Clerical (or Cultural) and Professional Projects Association, and to make a recom-

mentation as to what course the Communist Party should follow to unionize the Federal Writers' Project—of course said union to be controlled by the Communist Party;

That by that time the "defection" virus had taken hold of me and I was looking forward to the day when I could escape from the Communist Party toils, and in that state of mind, which might be termed "semi-Communist," I made a very un-Communist type of report and recommendation; I reported that the Workers' Alliance was in complete disfavor with workers on the Federal Writers Project because of its Communist taint, and that no one on that project was in the least interested in the Cultural and Professional Projects Association, which was indeed the truth; that the majority of workers on that project because of their writing backgrounds wanted to consider themselves a part of the writing world and that they favored the American Newspaper Guild (Los Angeles Newspaper Guild), but that the unit of that organization was small on the project because members were restricted to professional newspaper workers, I recommended that the Communist Party control over the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, which I knew to be a fact, permit the workers on the Federal Writers Project to join that organization, despite constitutional restrictions, and in that way the Communist Party could control the workers on the Federal Writers Project;

That much to my surprise, my recommendation was accepted by the Professional Section Committee; Charles H. Garrigues, known as "Brick" Garrigues, whom I had known for a number of years, and who was at that time executive secretary of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, arranged to meet me; he informed me that he was a member of the Communist Party Professional Section Committee, and that he had persuaded the said section committee executive board to accept my recommendation; that I was authorized by said section committee to inform the Chairman of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild Unit on the Federal Writers Project, a fellow traveler, Hubert Kotterman, that constitutional restrictions were to be waived and that all project workers were to be accepted into the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild;

That I duly informed said Kotterman of this decision by the Communist Party with respect to the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, and informed him whence it came, and he agreed to take all comers into the project unit of the Guild;

That Guild organization boomed for a time on the Federal Writers Project, and the unit grew from about six members to over 30 within two or three weeks;

That the only other Communist Party member on the Federal Writers Project at that time beside myself was Velda Johnston, aforementioned; that soon Dolph Winebrenner joined the project for a short time before he became the editor of "Light" Young Democrat publication financed by J. Frank Burke; that Philander Street requested to join the Communist Party and I signed him up; thus we had a Communist Party fraction on the Federal Writers Project (the requirement is that three Communist Party members must be present on a job or in an organization to form a "fraction"); that because of Velda Johnston's indolent nature and Philander Street's lack of development within the Communist Party, I was in charge of said fraction, and I was rapidly growing anti-Communist; therefore, our fraction decisions emerged as strange hybrids;

That likewise my advice to Robert Brownell, who had stated to me he wished to follow Communist Party suggestions and who relied on me to make those suggestions, was of a nature not in keeping with Communist Party program; I advised him to hire persons whom I knew to be enemies of the Communist Party, namely one Theodor Robinson, who had been excluded from the Federal Theatre Project by the Communist fraction thereof because of so-called "Trotskyist" leanings; (I later learned this was merely a Communist Party slander on him; he was not a Trotskyist); nevertheless, Kenneth Patchen and Harvey Breit were members of the Trotskyist Socialist Workers Party, and I assisted them not only to get onto the project but also into the Newspaper Guild Unit on the project (which act, if discovered, would have been grounds for expulsion from the Communist Party);

That my "sins" of sabotaging the Communist Party from within soon caught up with me (but my expulsion did not follow until some time later); I assisted Ward Moore and Joseph Rabinowitch to obtain employment on the Federal Writers Project; Ward Moore was an outspoken Trotskyist, sold pamphlets and books by Leon Trotsky on the project and sneered partisanship criticism at the "Stalinists," as he called those of us who were members of the Stalinist faction of the Communist Party; said Joseph Rabinowitch was the son-in-law of Rabbi Mayer Winkler who had consistently fought the Communist Party in Hollywood, and who had been assisted frequently by said Joseph Rabinowitch; it happened that Harold J. Salemsen, member of the Communist Party fraction of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild (with whom I later met in fraction meetings), discovered that said Joseph Rabinowitch was not only on the Federal Writers Project but was making application to join the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild; he sounded the warning within the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild fraction, and the resultant Communist Party decisions in relation to the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild can best be described as a "free-for-all";

LOS ANGELES NEWSPAPER GUILD

That applications of 26 Federal Writers Project workers for membership in the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, two of which turned out to be those of Communist Party members, namely, John Sherman and Allan Woodward, were summarily turned down by the Los Angeles Executive Board without so much as an excuse; that these applicants were even more eligible under the Guild Constitution than the 25 or 30 project workers who were previously accepted under my recommendation; this threw the Federal Writers Project into an uproar;

That two Communist Party "faithfuls" were assigned to work on the Federal Writers Project, namely Rose Boyd (Busch) (Vissechner), former secretary to Earl Browder and one of the charter members of the Communist Party of United States, who had been business manager for the C. I. O. Industrial Unionist, publication of the Los Angeles C. I. O. Council, and Hyman Elliot Wax, member of the C. I. O. International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union in Los Angeles (1942, he is now a paid organizer in that union); these two aforesaid members of the Communist Party began a strict supervision of my activities and gave me orders from higher Communist Party bodies; I was whipped back into line, temporarily;

That also aforementioned John Sherman, who I discovered was a Communist Party member when Donald A. Murray of the Federal Theatre Project communicated with me and asked me to assist him in facilitating Sherman's transfer to the Los Angeles Communist Party from the New York branch of the party; Allan Woodward, Negro, and Jay Moss, Negro, who had been employed on the Federal Writers Project, as well as said Velda Johnston and Dolph Winebrenner all assisted in keeping me from committing further un-Communist acts; later, John Henry Reese joined the project and became friendly with the Communist fraction thereon, but did not reveal himself to be a Communist Party member until several months later when he identified himself to me as a member of the disciplinary group of the Communist Party associated with Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian; thus I was surrounded and spied upon;

That after my transfer to the Federal Writers Project from the Federal Theatre Project, I was also transferred from Unit 130 to Unit 140 of the Professional Section; said Unit 140 being made up of Communist Party members of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, as follows:

Herbert Klein, Organizer, (he called himself a screen writer, claimed to have worked at Paramount Studios, and in 1941 was listed as Los Angeles correspondent for PM of New York);

Morrie Smolan, Membership Director; (he was, the last I knew of him, 1941, Circulation Manager for the People's Daily World in San Francisco);

Charles Judson, Assistant Membership Director; he was then and still is (1942) an editor on the Los Angeles Daily News; he lived at 717 Maltman Avenue, Los Angeles, and several unit meetings were held in his home while I was in the unit;

Marvin Carter, Dues Secretary; he was then on the Los Angeles Daily News, then went to the "Ham and Eggs" publication in Hollywood, then back to the Daily News;

George Shaeffer, Press Director; he is now, as then, with the People's Daily World in Los Angeles;

Tom Cullen, Literature Agent; at that time he was working on the C. I. O. Industrial Unionist; later he became Secretary of the American Peace Mobilization in Los Angeles, and is now (1942) employed on the People's Daily World;

Charles H. ("Brick") Garrigues, Political Campaign Director; this is the same Charles H. Garrigues who was at that time Executive Secretary of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild; he was formerly in charge of publicity in San Francisco for the King-Ramsay-Conner Defense Committee;

Urcel Daniel, Fraction Secretary, for the fraction of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, which was composed of the membership of Unit 140 with a few exceptions;

The foregoing comprised the Buro of Unit 140, and the following, besides myself, were members:

Marion Shire, former employee of the Los Angeles Examiner;

Rose Boyd (Busch-Visschner), aforementioned;

Lou Seligson, People's Daily World employee;

Ed Robbin, Los Angeles Editor of the People's Daily World;

Lou Amster, member of the so-called "Free-Lance Unit" of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild;

Sid Burke, former editorial staff member of the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League publication, N. O. W.;

Minna Klein, wife of Herb Klein who was Professional Section Membership Director;

Dolph Winebrenner, aforementioned editor of "Light," Young Democratic Club publication which followed the Communist Party line as religiously as does the People's World; he was, for a time, editor of The Voice of the Federation, publication of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, which publication merged with the Pilot, of the National Maritime Union (C. I. O.);

Shugi Fujii, Japanese, Editor of Doho, Japanese language so-called "labor" publication; last heard of at Santa Anita Japanese internment center;

Two other Japanese whose names I do not know;

Karl Schlichter, former employee on the Hollywood Citizen-News;

William E. Oliver, Dramatic Editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Express;

And belonging to the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild Communist Party fraction, but not to said Unit 140, were:

Harold J. Salemsen, correspondent in Hollywood for Paris-Soir, in Paris;

Elliot Wax, aforementioned;

Jay Moss, aforementioned; Moss was said to be on leave of absence from the unit at that time;

Lillian Jones, Negro, worker on the Federal Writers' Project;

That during the time I was attached to Unit 140 the principal business of that unit and of the Communist Party fraction of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild was to conduct the strike of said Guild against the Hollywood Citizen-News along Communist Party lines; to elect Communist Party delegates to the International Convention of the American Newspaper Guild in Toronto, Canada, and to establish proper Communist Party connections for them with Communist National leaders of said Guild;

That during the aforementioned strike against the Hollywood Citizen-News, two new members were signed up for the Communist Party, their application cards presented by Morrie Smolan, membership director, to Unit 140, and they were voted into said unit as of the time their training in the Communist Party would be completed; they were:

Roger Johnson, formerly employed on the Hollywood Citizen-News, later on State Relief Administration, staff member, and at present an appointee on the Los Angeles City Housing Commission; and

Philip M. (Slim) Connelly, then President of the Los Angeles Chapter of the Newspaper Guild, now President of the California C. I. O.;

That members of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild who were referred to as Communist sympathizers and on whom the Communist Party fraction placed its confidence, were:

Tom O'Connor, now of PM in New York;

Mel Scott, who also became a State Relief Administration staff member;

Andy Barrigan of the Los Angeles Daily News;

H. R. (Hubert) Kotterman, Chairman of the Guild Unit on the Los Angeles Federal Writers' Project; and

John Cohee of the Los Angeles Daily News;

James Francis Crow, Dramatic Editor of the Hollywood Citizen-News, and who later criticized the Communists severely; however, during his period of favor with the Communists he became President of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild;

That, in short, I discovered that the Communist Party exercised complete control over the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, and only those high in Communist Party favor or Communist Party members could hold office in it;

That Morgan Hull, International Representative of the American Newspaper Guild, who left Los Angeles to take that position in either 1935 or 1936, had informed me, when I was a fellow traveler, that he was a member of the Communist Party, and that after the Guild victory in the Hollywood Citizen-News strike, I again encountered Morgan Hull, and he congratulated me on joining the Communist Party and discussed Communist Party affairs with me;

That because the Communist Party had branded aforementioned Theodor Robinson as a "Trotskyite" that the Communist Party fraction of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild determined to oust him from Guild membership, no matter what the cost to the union; he had joined at a time when the Communist Party fraction was in the heat of the Hollywood Citizen-News strike; my comrade, Rose Boyd (Buseh-Vischner) stated to me that said Robinson was not to be allowed to function in the union and said in anger, "Go and see Dr. Parker and ask him how far Robinson is to be allowed to go in the Guild!";

That this clearly revealed to me that the Communist Party was operating the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild instead of its membership;

That I did consult said Dr. Parker (Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian) on several occasions, but each time I was either sent or called into his office; he was then chairman of the Los Angeles County Control Commission of the Communist Party; that said Dr. Tashjian stated to me in reference to Robinson's membership in the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, "It is better for 85 workers (the number then on the Los Angeles Federal Writers' Project) to be without union representation than to allow ONE Trotskyite to remain in the union.";

That I learned that this attitude toward the so-called "Trotskyites"—mostly a bugaboo term used by the Communists to designate those who intelligently oppose Communist Party domination of unions or mass organizations—was caused by the pervading sense of guilt from which all Communists individually and collectively suffer; they are constantly in fear of being exposed for what they are, and anyone who calls them by their right names is designated a "Trotskyite" and fought with blind, fanatical fury;

That as a result of this domination by the Communist Party of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, and because of my rift with the Communist Party, 11 members of the Guild Unit on the Federal Writers

Project, including myself, were expelled from the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, and our expulsion was upheld by each successively higher body of the American Newspaper Guild, including the last court of appeal, the International Convention; and that all along the line, during our trial in Los Angeles, during our appeals, and throughout the entire affair, the dominance of the Communist Party of that organization became more and more evident; that the attitude of the members of the American Newspaper Guild who were likewise Communist Party members was well expressed by Charles H. ("Brick") Garrigues when he was discussing with me my differences of opinion with the Communist leadership of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild; he stated, "It is not the Guild that's important; it's the Communist Party.";

That long before my rift with the Communist Party widened into an open break, Communist Party members around me, as I have stated before, sought to counsel me, intimidate me, wheedle me, bribe me and lure me back into the fold; when one method failed, they would try another; that during the early Summer of 1938, a Communist Party member sought and obtained employment on the Federal Writers' Project, whose presence there I have never been able to satisfactorily explain; he was Eugene Schachner, former Daily Worker correspondent in Spain, who, according to his accounts, shuttled around over the world on Communist Party orders; he was a repulsive, over-bearing, prize-fighter type, and immediately started to become friendly with me; he invited me to go out with him socially, and I accepted once, then in the company of Velda Johnston and Dolph Winebrenner; as soon as the opportunity arose, he began to bully me about my association with aforementioned Theodor Robinson, the so-called "Trotskyite"; he implied darkly that I would be in for a terrible time, friendless, jobless, hounded from place to place, ridiculed and persecuted, if I persisted in my opposition to the wishes of the Communist Party; my answer was to throw a glass of water in his face and tell him to "do his damndest"; shortly thereafter, he departed from the Federal Writers' Project, saying he was returning to Spain; I next heard of him in Mexico City early in 1942;

That among the Communist Party fraction decisions made in meetings I attended which I recall at this time was one to "skip" a payment of $100 to "Comrade Carey McWilliams" for legal services, because, as a Communist Party member, McWilliams would be willing to let the fraction use this money to send delegates to the Toronto convention of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild; another was a decision to bring the aforementioned Communist Party member, Sam Kalish, into the Guild to teach non-Communist Guildsmen parliamentary law; this was done, and I attended some of the Guild meetings at which Kalish held forth;

That I attended a meeting of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild held at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel in September, 1938, and had an opportunity to observe the manner in which the Communist Party fraction of that organization ruled it completely; the matter of an appeal to the Executive Board on the acceptance of the aforementioned 26 project workers into the Guild was one order of business, and in accordance with the Communist Party fraction decision, of which I had been officially apprised, the Executive Board ruling, which ruling was presented by the Chairman, James Francis Crow, was to the effect that the project workers were not eligible for Guild membership in accordance with the Constitution; at that same meeting the matter of acceptance of the managing editor of the Hollywood Reporter came before the meeting; according to the Constitution of the American Newspaper Guild, of which I possessed a copy, a clause specifically stated that no person in position to hire and fire workers would be eligible for membership; however, the Communist Party fraction has discussed the usefulness of this particular person, Jack Cartwright, to the Communist Party at meetings I had attended, in view of the fact he was either a fellow traveler or Communist Party member and in view of the fact that he was to be used by the Communist Party to organize the Screen Publicists Guild in Hollywood, which organization was planned to be launched as an offshoot of the American Newspaper Guild; at the aforementioned meeting, the Executive Board ruling in relation to Jack Cartwright's membership was that he was eligible in spite of the Constitution "because he was sympathetic to labor"; and the membership, apathetic and dazed by the tactics of the Communist Party fraction, duly voted to reject 26 workers on the grounds of ineligibility and to accept one man who hired and fired workers "because he was sympathetic to labor"; in exactly that manner the Communist Party mocks the basic principles of labor unionism;

COMMUNIST PARTY POLITICAL COMMISSION

That during the Spring of 1938 while I was in the throes of severing my connections with the Communist Party, all manner of inducements were held out to me in order to entice me to remain within it; Charles H. ("Brick") Garrigues, whom I had known for a number of years, took special interest in my case and sought to iron out my grievances and to keep me in the Communist Party; he knew of my interest in local politics, and, as a member of the Professional Section Committee, "co-opted" me for work on the Professional Section Political Commission of which he was chairman; it might be explained here that the word "co-opted" is derived from a Russian word meaning to draft, or to command, and has become accepted in the Communist Party of United States; I discovered that all important positions are filled in the Communist Party by "co-option" rather than by election;

That membership in said Professional Section Political Commission was (beside myself):

Charles H. ("Brick") Garrigues, Chairman;

Miriam Holtz, Secretary (she later became one of the correspondence secretaries for Governor Culbert L. Olson in Sacramento, and I have seen her signature on letters for the Governor);

Norman Byrne, aforementioned professor of anthropology at Los Angeles City College and American Peace Mobilization leader in 1940 and 1941;

Naomi Childress, common-law wife of said C. H. Garrigues;

Dr. Simson Marcus, brother of aforementioned Dr. Samuel Marcus; his present business address is 314 North Fairfax, Los Angeles;

Dolph Winebrenner, aforementioned editor of "Light," Young Democrat publication;

Jane Wallace (Wilson), then organizer of the Professional Section;

That the purpose of said commission was to educate the membership of the Professional Section to carry on work in the various "bourgeois" political institutions of California without being detected as Communists; for instance, those Communists sent into the Young Democrats and into the Democratic Party proper, could not afford to risk detection by using Communist vocabulary in speech, the use of such a term as "functionary" for "official," for instance, might expose them; therefore this Commission prepared educational papers to be used as a manual within the Professional Section; also Garrigues, Byrne and myself arranged to appear before each unit of the Professional Section, each one taking several units, and to conduct this "educational" on methods of camouflage, as it were;

That, for instance, I recall that Garrigues conducted the sample educational first for said Professional Section Political Commission, then again in Unit 140; I obtained a list of names of Unit organizers from Jane Wallace (Wilson) and from Jane Howe, then understudy organizer of the Professional Section, and made arrangements to attend the unit meeting to give the educational; the units I attended were the "Hash" Unit, of which Grace Brown was organizer (she was at that time the common-law wife of Sven Skaar, who had left the Historical Records Survey); the Architects and Engineers Unit, of which members of the CIO Federation of Architects, Engineers and Technicians, who were Communist Party members, belonged; besides several whose names I do not recall, I remember the following persons as members of that Unit:

Jules Kievits, later a Regional Director for the State Relief Administration;

Paul Williams, Negro architect;

Dr. Lao Selfrid, then an instructor in chemistry on WPA said to have gone to Mexico; Dr. Selfrid informed me that he was from Austria originally and that he had spent much time in Mexico working in oil refineries;

Paul Pinsky, now CIO State Research Director;

That I also attended the meetings of the two social workers' units, but in view of the fact the Communist Party policy is to conceal, rather than to reveal names, I did not learn the names of those persons; NEVER are comrades within the Communist Party introduced to each other with last names; occasionally party names are used even for first names; only when the comrades are apt to meet in the non-Communist world, which was the case with those mentioned above, are true names used; I might interject that this air of stifling secrecy lends to the Communist Party the atmosphere of dark, devious, underground illegality; it appeals to the infantile romantics whose egos are bolstered by lawbreaking, but I found that most persons of American background and training were disgusted with it;

That in addition, I contacted Carey McWilliams, whose name was given me by Jane Howe as organizer of the Lawyers' Unit (and to which, I was told, Communist Party members of the National Lawyers' Guild belonged); and, after I explained the nature of my business, he informed me that their unit meeting would be held on a certain night in the home of J. Allen Frankel on South Orange Drive, Los Angeles; however, I was unable to attend, and called Leo Gallagher asking him to give the "political educational," which he agreed to do; it is almost needless to say that this is the same Carey McWilliams who is now California Immigration and Housing Director and a leader in the National Lawyers' Guild;

That another order of business before said Professional Section Political Commission was to endeavor to correct the organization status of Oliver Thornton and his common-law wife, Elenore Bogigian within the Communist Party; it appeared that Paul Cline, Los Angeles County Organizer of the Communist Party at that time, was consulting Oliver Thornton on political matters, and that other functionaries of the party did not feel Thornton was sufficiently disciplined as a Communist to merit such trust; our commission therefore obtained his Communist Party Book (in what manner I do not know, as it was brought to the meeting by Garrigues) and, upon inspecting it, noted he was behind in dues; the Commission therefore decided I was to present this book to Paul Cline and urge Cline to speak to Thornton about getting his dues paid up, and other technical organizational matters; that this would serve as a double rebuke, impressing upon Cline the matter of his own laxness as a Communist, and of getting Thornton back into the Communist Party disciplinary range; it is my recollection that I sidestepped this assignment, however; I do not recall discussing the matter with Cline;

That at a period a few weeks later than the organization of aforesaid Professional Section Political Commission, the Los Angeles County Political Commission was set up by the Communist Party; Emma Cutler was the first chairman of this commission, but she soon left Los Angeles for the San Joaquin Valley, and this chairmanship was turned over to Al Lane (Lewis); both the foregoing were "co-opted" by the Los Angeles County Executive Board of the Communist Party; I was designated as the representative of said County Commission for the Professional Section Political Commission;

That other members of said Los Angeles County Political Commission, which met in the home of Al Lane (Lewis) at 3989 Denker Avenue, Los Angeles, were (beside Lane and myself);

Jane Wallace (Wilson), Professional Section Organizer (here I might say that she admitted to me she was the sister of John Broman (Wilson), columnist on the People's Daily World);

James Burford, then employed by the Los Angeles Community Chest and active in the Young Democrats, Inc.;

Joseph Ayeroff, likewise active in the Young Democrats, Inc.;

Dr. Lao Selfrid, aforementioned;

Lou Baron, representative of the Trade Union Commission;

Al Bryan (Ryan), County Educational Director for the Communist Party;

Barney Brown, representative of the County Cultural Commission of the Communist Party;

Allan Mathews, active in the Democratic Party;

Jules Kievits, aforementioned, also active in the Democratic Party;

Emil Freed, organizer of the Hollywood Section of the Communist Party;

Philip Dunne, screen writer and representative of the Motion Picture Democratic Committee, sat in one meeting, and

Robert Tasker, screen writer, partner and brother-in-law of John Bright, attended another meeting as the representative of the Motion Picture Democratic Committee;

That this aforesaid commission assumed responsibility for the Communist Party participation in the recall of Mayor Frank L. Shaw and the election of a "Popular Front" candidate to replace him;

That this commission also assumed the responsibility for the much greater task of electing a "Popular Front" slate to State offices, and indorsed Culbert L. Olson for Governor, Ellis E. Patterson for Lieutenant Governor and various other candidates for lesser offices;

That said commission assumed responsibility for the conduct of the campaigns of such persons, designated as Communist Party members, as: LaRue McCormick, then Secretary of the International Labor Defense in Los Angeles, which office she still holds;

Rose Segure, who was running for an Assembly seat; later she became a high official in the State Relief Administration;

Ellis E. Patterson, designated as a "comrade," but whose campaign this commission endeavored to make appear as non-Communist (in fact, one order was transmitted from this commission through Communist Party channels as follows: "Tell the comrades to stay out of Comrade Patterson's campaign headquarters, as it may expose him if we congregate there."——);

Emil Freed, member of the commission who was running for office on the Communist Party ticket;

That said commission decided on Communist Party "plants" to be installed in the campaign headquarters of various Democrats; I recall in particular the decision to send Larry Buchanan, whom I had met as a Communist Party member on several occasions, into the office of Frank Scully in order to insure Communist Party domination of that campaign;

That one of the main orders of business of said commission was to manipulate the Young Democrats, Inc., throughout California by giving directives on strategy to James Burford and Joseph Ayeroff, fractional leaders of the Young Democrats, Inc. This organization and its publication, "Light," which was in Communist Party hands through the editorship of Dolph Winebrenner, were used by the Communist Party to "carry the load," as it were, of Communist Party program in the 1938 elections in California;

That along that line, said commission transmitted through Communist Party channels various decisions in regard to the Young Democrats, Inc., to Claudia Williams, said to be the Communist Party fractional secretary of that organization in San Francisco;

That also similar directives were directed to Charles Saphirstein (whom I had also met through James Burford as a Communist Party comrade), and who at that time was active in the Young Democrats, Inc., somewhere in the San Joaquin Valley area; likewise, directive was sent to Al Shanks, also in the Young Democrats, Inc.;

That along that line it was interesting to me to note that after the pact between Russia and Germany and hence the Communist Party line changed, persons with whom I had had contact in the Communist Party and who belonged to the Young Democrats, Inc., withdrew from that organization and formed the Democratic Youth Federation in California, which organization turned back to the Young Democrats after Germany attacked Russia, thus changing the Communist Party line back to collaboration with democratic forces; in that manner, the direction of all organizations under the domination of the Communist Party indicates that they serve as foreign agencies for the Soviet Union;

That the aforesaid Los Angeles County Political Commission had full control of the policies of the Motion Picture Democratic Committee of which aforementioned Philip Dunne was Chairman, and Melvyn Douglas another prominent official; our commission made all decisions on policy and direction of this organization, planned resolutions for it and transmitted same to that organization through either the representative present or through Communist Party channels, directed, it was announced in meeting, to Maurice Murphy, a "comrade," who was Executive Secretary of the Motion Picture Democratic Committee; it is worthy of note that said Maurice Murphy later became the Executive Secretary of the aforementioned League of American Writers, Hollywood Chapter, which I know of my own knowledge to be a Communist Party-controlled organization;

That our said commission discussed ways and means of influencing various prominent persons in the Democratic Party—I recall in particular Walter Ballou—and frankly discussed the past record, weaknesses and stupidities of such persons with a view toward controlling them; one of the tactics most frequently planned as a method of controlling a political figure was to invite him to a Communist Party fraction meeting, planning on revealing to him after he had been lured into the meeting, that he was sitting in an "open" fraction meeting, and giving him to understand that this fact would be used against him unless he did the bidding of the Communist Party;

That at that time I realized that few Americans who had been reared to believe the best in their fellowman could withstand such Machiavellian cynicism in politics, and realized full well that such scheming, unprincipled political manipulators would be very successful in politics; at that moment I realized the true meaning of Georgi Dimitroff's "Popular Front" speech; he MEANT that the Communists could accomplish more by devious indirection than they could by standing on a soap box and shouting for revolution, as they had in the past; but by that time I also realized that there was no hope of finding honesty or frankness within the Communist Party; heretofore I had put down much of the things with which I was dissatisfied to "lack of development" and to the "wrong interpretation of the Communist Party line"; now I knew that the higher one went, the worse the corruption;

That the fates of many political figures were decided at meetings of aforesaid commission, in view of the fact the Young Democrats, the C. I. O., a large bloc of the motion picture colony as well as of the Democratic Party itself could be manipulated by these Communist schemers; our commission had the facilities to reach every one of the supposed 3,000 Communist Party members in Los Angeles County with directives—"musts"—and these individuals, in turn, because each one of them was as active or more so than myself, influential in several organizations, could multiply his influence by several hundred; thus our Los Angeles County Political Commission of the Communist Party was determining a large part of the policies of Los Angeles City and County and the State of California;

That we sent suggestions and directives to Robert W. Kenny who was running for State Senator and he was regarded as one amenable to suggestions, that is, either a Communist Party member or a close fellow traveler;

That we sent directives to William ("Bill") Mason, chairman of a large Democratic Club in Santa Monica, who was referred to as a Communist Party comrade;

That we sent directives to Don R. Healy, Secretary of Labor's Non-Partisan League of Los Angeles County, which, in turn, influenced a large bloc of votes in the C. I. O.; and through Lou Baron and the facilities of the Los Angeles County Trade Union Commission of the Communist Party, we designated the best possible means for Communist Party members within the A. F. of L. to present Communist Party program within their unions; Herb Sorrell, Business Agent for the Studio Painters' Union, was regarded as the only Communist Party comrade in an A. F. of L. Union in Los Angeles who could put over the entire "Party line" in his union;

That the Unemployed Conference of Studio Unions which later became known as the "COMPAC" was referred to by our said Commission as an organization which could be "counted on" to put over Communist Party program; said Herb Sorrell, as well as the aforementioned Frank Tuttle were active in that organization;

That individuals who were "liberal" merely because of their humanitarian impulses could be brought under the Communist Party political influence through such organizations as the United China Relief and the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade; that Jewish people could be influenced through their hatred of Nazis through the Hollywood Anti-Nazi League; that Mexicans could be influenced through the Spanish Speaking People's Congress; that Negroes could be influenced through the National Negro Congress and the Japanese-American voters through the publication, DOHO; women, especially housewives, could be reached through the League of Women Shoppers; and so on, to say nothing of the 21-year-old youth which the Communist Party tried to reach through the youth assemblies, which later became the California Youth Legislature, member of the National Communist controlled American Youth Congress; that I know from Communist literature and from official Communist statements that all the foregoing organizations were at that time controlled by the Communist Party;

That we discussed some briefly, some at length, the role, in relation to Communist Party program, the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, the National Lawyers Guild, the Screen Writers Guild, the Screen Actors Guild, the Screen Directors Guild, the Teachers Union, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees Progressive Caucus headed by Jeff Kibre; the C. I. O. Council, the Musicians Union, the Culinary Workers Union, as well as the Workers Alliance and the new-born Communist coordinating body for WPA, the Arts Unions Council;

That those were our implements; our methods were described previously as basely cynical; the coating of idealism which was wrapped around Communist Party plans when they were handed down to the more tender comrades with whom I had previously associated was now left off; without so much as a reference to the Communist Party "enabling act," that is, Lenin's statement that "the end justifies the means," this commission plunged into the California political field to build a secret, camouflaged, efficient political machine;

That we probably had less than a thousand active Communist cadres (a Communist Party term to indicate a human unit, which is a "thing," not a being, in Communist thought) in the entire southern California area who were adept enough in parliamentary tricks, smooth enough to camouflage the Communist Party line, daring enough to face and bluff out attacks, cynical enough to proceed on orders without idealistic justification, and who were tied, hand, brain and hide, to the Communist Party. We had to juggle them around, give each many roles to play, coordinate all work in order to make the Communist Party camouflaged machine sound like a million votes. It required more than training or even long experience in even the cleverest and slipperiest of American type political maneuvering. We had access to, and drew from, the Communist Party's Asiatic form of intrigue: the use of teamwork in a combination of brazen effrontery and sly, psychological tricks. Al Lane (Lewis) claimed he spent a number of years in Moscow, and he laid claim to knowing how to maneuver "scientifically"; I believe he does, and the history of California during the Olson regime has proven that Al Lane and others of his kind were successful;

That beside those persons previously mentioned as having obtained State appointments, others whom I knew to be Communists or fellow travelers who received appointments from Olson were:

William J. Plunkert, in the State Relief Administration;

Alice Orans, of whom I heard in the Social Service Units of the Communist Party;

Allen Metcalfe, "Young Democrat" to whom the Communist Party members referred as "comrade";

Esther Sapiro, whom I met on one occasion within the Communist Party;

Frank Taylor, who identified himself to me as a Communist Party member;

Al Shanks, aforementioned;

Sam Kalish, aforementioned;

James Burford, aforementioned;

Jules Kievits, aforementioned;

Miriam Holtz, aforementioned;

Katherine Kilbourne, aforementioned;

Rose Segure, aforementioned;

Carey McWilliams, aforementioned;

Martin Irons, aforementioned;

Marguerite Clark, aforementioned;

Elenore Bogigian, who received an appointment to an administrative position on WPA as Herbert Legg's secretary;

Claudia Williams, aforementioned;

That undoubtedly there were many other Communist Party members who received important California State positions with whom I had contact, but whose real names I did not learn;

That it should be mentioned here that spreading over all like a protective canopy was the Communist Party press, the People's Daily World, in California; all Communist Party members must subscribe to it; all must donate a day's pay to it; all must read it and believe it; and all must take part in compiling information for its "news" columns; it was looked upon as the "voice" of the camouflaged Communists in California, and like the Communists, it denied its Communism;

COMMUNIST PARTY CULTURAL COMMISSION

That simultaneous with my membership in the aforementioned said political commission, I was drawn into the Los Angeles County Cultural Commission as a representative from the political commission; that this commission was organized to fill the need expressed by Mary Virginia Farmer, mentioned previously: To coordinate the work of the Los Angeles County apparatus of the Communist Party with that of the underground, darkly secret Hollywood Cultural Commission, which in turn was part of the Communist Party apparatus in Hollywood, which, according to Communist knowledge generally, dealt directly with the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the United States rather than with the local apparatus; therefore, this form of coordination was highly necessary from an organizational point of view;

That members of said Los Angeles County Cultural Commission, beside myself, were:

Miriam Brooks, now wife of Jack Moore, 1941 Los Angeles county secretary of the Communist Party; she was then a member of the Musicians Union, A. F. of L., and worked on the WPA Music Project in Los Angeles; meetings were held in her home on North Coronado;

Leona McGenty, aforementioned, who represented the Communist Party fraction on the Federal Theatre Project;

Howland Chamberlain, member of Actors Equity;

Darby Jones, member of Screen Actors Guild;

Barney Brown, in charge of Communist Party theatrical work; also co-representative with me from the political commission;

Charles Maddox, member of the Artists Congress and a worker on the WPA Federal Art Project;

Roth Reynolds, Artists Congress, unemployed, who has since become chairman of a downtown "Forum" in Los Angeles;

Kenneth Patterson, actor;

Dr. Lao Selfrid, aforementioned;

Sid Davidson (Martin), member of the Los Angeles County Educational Commission;

Marvin Carter, member of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild;

Sonora Babb (who also used another name), member of the League of American Writers;

Several others whose names I do not know;

That the tasks of this commission were to devise means of coordinating Communist Party work in the "arts"; to assist with theatrical entertainment containing Communist Party propaganda for labor unions, for meetings of various mass organizations and for political rallies;

That this commission organized the Arts Unions Council, supposed to act as a coordinating body for various WPA unions; in other words, it was a Communist prop to bolster the failing Cultural and Professional Projects Association which had now reached its goal and was part of the Workers Alliance; since project workers on the cultural projects rejected this union, the Communist Party devised the Arts Unions Council, supposedly a delegated body, and took in delegates, which in most cases were the Communist Party fraction members from the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, Federal Writers Project unit; the A. F. of L. Musicians Union of which a number of members were on the music project; Actors Equity, of which a number of members were on the Federal Theatre Project; the Artists Congress of which members were on the Federal Art Project, and of course, the Workers Alliance; said Arts Unions Council later became the nucleus of a Nation-wide organization to "Save the Federal Theatre Project" after exposures of Communist Party manipulation of said project made it necessary for Congress to abolish it;

That this said cultural commission also coordinated work of the League of American Writers, both in Hollywood and among free-lance writers throughout Los Angeles; I do not know if any non Communists belonged to this organization. I never knew a member of it who was not active in Communist Party work;

That there was considerable time spent in said cultural commission plotting a method whereby the Communist Party fraction within the Musicians Union in Los Angeles, of which said Miriam Brooks was a member, could gain control of that organization;

That also considerable discussion dealt with setting up a Communist-controlled art center in Los Angeles to offset the so-called "reactionary art" sponsored by the late General Otis and Harry Chandler;

That, inasmuch as this said commission was composed solely of Communist Party members, a great deal of time was spent speculating on the bugaboo, Trotskyism; I gathered from the childish, frightened statements of my comrades that they feared the influence of Leon Trotsky would envelop the field of art; and that a great part of said fear apparently was engendered by the fact that I was collaborating on a play with aforementioned Theodor Robinson, whom the Communist Party had branded a "Trotskyite";

That I recall in particular one two-hour lecture by Sid Davidson (Martin) which reminded me of the children's scare phrase, "The goblins will get you, if you don't watch out!"; this was all done to impress and frighten me and to cause me to cease work with Robinson, but it had the opposite effect; I laughed at my comrades, who were frightened white by the "scare tale" of what Trotskyists do to "art," and after that I was "too busy" to attend said Cultural Commission meetings;

That I was by that time violating Communist Party discipline without regard for consequences; in fact, I hoped I would be expelled; that would be a way out; however, my comrades continued to pull me into other Communist Party work, evidently in the hope I would "see the light" and wax enthusiastic once more;

TROTSKYISM IN WRITING

That one such meeting which may or may not have been staged for my benefit, but which had for its main topic of discussion "Trotskyism in Writing" was called by the aforementioned Sonora Babb, though she was not present, and held in her home in Hollywood; the avowed purpose of that meeting was to stimulate interest in the League of American Writers in Los Angeles; those present beside myself were:

Theodore Pezman, aforementioned writer on the play, "Sun Rises in the West" and present employee in the United States Employment Service;

Harry Tarnoff, who called himself a writer, but who showed no ability at that meeting;

George Shaftel, who is well known in Los Angeles for his membership in writers' organizations, but whose writings are unknown;

Betty Rosenhouse, who laid no claim to writing ability but who frankly stated she intended to become an official in the League of American Writers;

Several women whose names I do not know;

That as stated previously, the entire topic of discussion was the cataclysm of "Trotskyism" in writing; I gathered that this meant exposure of the Communist Party in writing, and I believe it was on that occasion I decided to use what ability I had as a writer to do just that;

That the foregoing is an example of the Communist Party member's approach to art, writing and the theater; they are mediums through which to express Communist Party propaganda; they are fields to monopolize, nothing more;

That by this time, Summer of 1938, the matter of layoffs on WPA which always hit at the end of the fiscal year, June 30th, had the Federal Writers Project in a broil; due to the fact that so many project members had been rejected by the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild and because the Cultural and Professional Projects Association had no hold on the Federal Writers Project, workers turned to another form of union expression and eventually evolved an independent union, the Federal Writers Project Union, but in the throes of its organization the Communist Party fraction on said project created much to-do; for one thing aforementioned Elliot Wax and Lillian Jones attended the organizational meeting of the aforementioned Arts Unions Council as representatives of the Federal Writers Project (without the knowledge or consent of anyone on the Federal Writers Project except the Communist Party fraction thereof), then attempted to force upon the Federal Writers Project the commitments they had made in this organization; needless to say, there was much fuss over that point;

That about that time Rose Boyd (Busch-Vissehn) who had set herself up as dictator of the Federal Writers Project, called meetings of said project into which outside Communists would be called; I recall Leona McGenty was called into one; another time Mrs. McGenty, then organizer for the Workers Alliance on the Federal Theatre

Project, sent Al Haieg, a new recruit into the Communist Party, as her representative; another time aforementioned Paul Pinsky was inveigled to take a bow; another time Lew Michener, who attended our Communist Party fraction meeting, and who was then C. I. O. Council Secretary in Los Angeles, participated; that all I recall this accomplished was to make non-Communist project workers very bitter against the Communist Party;

COMMUNIST PARTY COMMISSIONS

That before passing to a more personal phase of this account, I wish to make the point that the aforementioned COMMISSIONS, of which there were many, were used as a superstructure, coordinating apparatus to by-pass the more ponderous process of so-called "Democratic Centralism," which was nothing more than a process of dictatorship; by this process, orders from Moscow were supposed to come to the Communist Party National Central Committee in New York where they would be interpreted and policy for the Nation worked out in accordance; then they proceeded down the line to the unit, the basic structure of the Communist International, then the unit was supposed to evolve means of implementing the orders (never on whether or not it would accept the order), and pass this decision on to the fractions which this unit controlled, and then the fractions would take the decision into unions or other organizations as "individual" opinion; the aforesaid COMMISSION cut much of this red tape, enabled the Communist Party fractions to get orders from the Commission to which the secretaries thereof were attached without waiting for a unit meeting; there were many other ways the COMMISSIONS cut red tape of the old Peters Manual (a manual of organization of the Communist Party);

That I attended the Professional Section Convention and also the Los Angeles County Convention of the Communist Party, the latter being held around May 1, 1938, the other about two weeks earlier; that I recall at the Professional Section Convention it was brought out there were two hundred ten (210) members of that section; work of the section has been outlined previously and unions under its control indicated;

That at the Los Angeles County Convention of the Communist Party, held at 121 W. Eighteenth Street, Los Angeles, I encountered a number of comrades who have been mentioned previously: I recall that Herb Sorrell was doorman at the session I attended, and accepted my credentials; that the membership of the Communist Party was estimated at around 3,000 at that time; that plans were discussed for developing a more efficient political pressure machine, on which subject Paul Cline spoke;

That some time during the Summer of 1938 I met aforementioned Hugh Mason at a Communist Party social gathering; he informed me that he was a member of the Communist Party fraction of the aforementioned Conference of Studio Unions which was at that time called "COMPAC," and that Charlotte Darling, a worker at Disney's Studio, was the secretary of said fraction; that he advised me to get in touch with said Charlotte Darling in order to establish a closer contact between aforementioned Los Angeles County Political Commission of the Communist Party and the Communist Party fraction of COMPAC;

I telephoned Miss Darling and on several occasions discussed Communist Party affairs with her, and noted that decisions from aforementioned Political Commission were very quickly transformed into action within COMPAC, according to news reports of same;

CONTROL COMMISSION

That during the time I was in disagreement with the Communist Party's line and tactics, that is, from the Spring of 1938 through the Summer, Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian telephoned me many times commanding my appearance at his office; the first time I went before Dr. Tashjian (Dr. Parker) in his official capacity as chairman of the Los Angeles County Control Commission of the Communist Party, was when Howland Chamberlain, then Membership Director of Unit 130, to which I was attached until about March, 1938, escorted me to Communist Party headquarters at 124 W. Sixth Street, Los Angeles, to interview "Dr. Parker" about the so-called "Trotskyite," Theodor Robinson; on that occasion Dr. Tashjian, whom I instinctively distrusted, informed me that Robinson had been branded officially by the Communist Party as a "Trotskyite" and that I was to break off all relations with him; that from that moment forward I had no respect whatsoever for the decisions or impassioned ravings of my comrades with respect to said Robinson; that I ascertained to my own satisfaction, after examining correspondence and documents, some of which were signed by said Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian, that said Robinson, who stated that he had been friendly to the Communist Party in 1933 when he was in college at Los Angeles, had loaned to said Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian the sum of $500, for which said Dr. Tashjian had given his personal note, which note I saw; that said Robinson informed me that when he attempted to collect that sum of money, Dr. Tashjian had screamed that it was a donation; that Robinson had pressed the claim unsuccessfully, from Chicago, where he then lived, and that thereafter the members of the Communist Party to whom he had been friendly began to shun him; that I had in my possession at one time a letter on the stationery of the Communist Party of Illinois to Theodore Pezman, fractional secretary of the aforementioned Southwest Unit of the Federal Theatres, signed by the Illinois State Secretary of the Communist Party, saying that Theodor Robinson was to be prevented from obtaining employment in Los Angeles because he was a "Trotskyite"; Pezman presented me with that letter ordering me to show it to Robert Brownell, aforementioned supervisor on the Federal Writers Project, in an effort to dislodge said Robinson from his position on said project; this command I disobeyed, and the letter was finally turned over to Federal authorities; that then and there I learned how "Trotskyites" are manufactured by the Communist Party;

That in about July of 1938, by which time I had grown completely contemptuous of Communist Party commands, that a Mollie Prager, of whom I had heard much in the Communist Party, appeared at the Federal Writers and stated flatly that she was ready to move into my flat at 1323 W. Fourth Street and that she would live with me; my only response was, "Like hell you are, and if you want to run into a hornet's nest, just try it.";

That I had heard much discussion within the Communist Party of that method of whipping recalcitrant members back into line; that I had heard that not infrequently members of the opposite sex were ordered to make love to the backsliding member and to report intimate conversations to the Control Commission; that after I had resisted the advances of aforementioned Eugene Schachner, I came to the conclusion that the Control Commission had resorted to the next best thing by sending said Mollie Prager to me;

That the last I heard of said Mollie Prager was in 1939 when she was a stenographer in the office of the Los Angeles Board of Education;

That the aforementioned John Henry Reese, who had appeared at the Federal Writers Project under peculiar circumstances, in that he had not gone through regular WPA channels to obtain his employment, pretended to be a Communist Party fellow traveler, and constantly flitted around the vicinity in which I was working on the project; he became very friendly with Velda Johnston, who, in turn, remained an associate of mine, and frequently said Reese invited me to go out socially with Velda Johnston and himself, which I did;

That on the morning of August 4, 1938, said John Henry Reese entered the office I shared with Robert Brownell, and with an apologetic laugh, stated: "The time has come when you must choose between your comrades and that Trotskyite, Ted Robinson."

That I asked, "What do you mean?" and he began, "Dr. Parker says——"

That he got no further. I interrupted, saying, "Go back and tell Dr. Tashjian that my Communist Party book will be in the mail tonight." That in accordance with that threat, I mailed my Communist Party book, which was in the name of Irene Wood, and which dues were paid up through June, 1938, to the Professional Section Membership Director, the aforementioned Minna Klein, at the Professional Section post-office box in the Hollywood Substation Post Office;

That said John Henry Reese departed from said Federal Writers Project very soon thereafter, and I heard he was working in the office of Ellis E. Patterson; that I encountered him some time in the fall of 1938 on the street, when he ordered me to accompany him to Dr. Tashjian's office; I refused; that this same John Henry Reese is now employed in the United States Department of Internal Revenue, which fact I established some time in January, 1942, by calling that department on the telephone; said Reese answered and attempted to discuss the matter of my 1941 income tax with me; that the last time I saw said John Henry Reese was at noon on February 24, 1942, when the Assembly Fact-Finding Committee on Un-American Activities recessed for lunch, and immediately after hearing the testimony of Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian, aforementioned;

That said John Henry Reese was standing alone in the corridor outside the hearing room in the State Building, Los Angeles; I left the room ahead of the crowd and evidently surprised him at his post; he carried papers of the Internal Revenue Department in his hand; he asked me what Tashjian had said, but I did not reply;

That shortly after I returned my Communist Party membership book to Minna Klein, the aforementioned C. H. ("Brick") Garrigues called on me at my residence, then 1247 Huntley Drive, Los Angeles, and pleaded with me to return to the Communist Party; he informed me that it was the decision of the Professional Section Committee that I could continue my writing collaboration with said Theodor Robinson, if I wished, and that I could have any assignment in the Communist Party which I might want; I informed him I wanted no assignment within the Communist Party; that I wanted to forget my association with it;

That the aforementioned Walter McElroy, who was then Supervisor of the Federal Writers Project in San Francisco, came to Los Angeles and called on me at 1247 Huntley Drive, and stated he could arrange my transfer in WPA to San Francisco if I desired, that he could put me in touch with William Z. Foster, General Chairman of the Communist Party of United States, who was resting in California, and that I could arrange to work directly with Foster if I desired; I told McElroy that I had no desire to meet William Z. Foster or any other Communist Party official; that I wanted to be let alone to go my own way;

That shortly after I returned my membership book in the Communist Party, Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian called me by telephone and commanded me to come to his office in the Hillstreet Theatre Building (2d Floor, 815 South Hill Street), which I did; he escorted me into his dentist chambers and there alternately cajoled and threatened me and endeavored to discover how much I knew of Communist Party secrets; he stated that I could take an assignment in the Communist Party to report direct to him, if I wished, which assignment would be spying on other Communist Party members; he stated that if I persisted in my hostile attitude to the Communist Party that I would be expelled from the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild (which expulsion process had not yet started) and that I would be deprived of an opportunity to make a living in Los Angeles; my arguments came to naught with him, he would not listen to my criticism of the Communist Party;

That said Dr. Tashjian formed the habit of calling me by telephone at such hours as two or three o'clock in the morning, and would say in a voice full of mystery, "I want to see you, comrade." That on every occasion he telephoned me I agreed to talk to him in his office after working hours, but that each interview was a repetition of the last one; on one occasion I recall that we were discussing the dishonesty of the "Popular Front" program of the Communist Party, and Dr. Tashjian replied that "We trained revolutionaries know that bourgeois governments must be overthrown by force"; that I knew he meant also the Government of United States because it is always mentioned in Communist Party literature as a "bourgeois" government; that I then and there ceased argument with Dr. Tashjian;

That some time in October, 1938, said Dr. Tashjian requested my appearance in his office; I went, and he informed me that my activities in the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild in opposition to the desires of the Communist Party fraction therein indicated that I was a "Trotskyite"; he did not inform me that I would be, or was, expelled from the Communist Party, but I later heard him testify under oath that he had expelled me from the Communist Party for "Trotskyite" activities;

That shortly thereafter, Robert Brownell, who had been extremely friendly and deferential to me during my membership in the Communist Party, informed me that I was no longer his editorial assistant on the History Essay of the Los Angeles Guide, and that I must move my desk out of his office, which I did; that I was put on the most menial sort of research work; that my research notes were frequently "lost" at the project, and that all manner of obstacles were thrown in my path at work; that my salary was reduced from $94 monthly to $85 monthly by Brownell, and that I was assigned to work under the Negro woman, Lillian Jones, a former Communist Party comrade; that during my association with said Brownell he informed me that he had acted as Secretary to Harry R. Bridges in San Francisco;

That Communist Party members whom I had known within the party hounded my footsteps, both at work and during my leisure time; wherever I went, I would look up and there would be a former comrade staring at me; sometimes it would be Donald A. Murray, sometimes Theodore Pezman, sometimes Leona McGenty, but more frequently, as I worked at research in the Los Angeles Public Library, I would see Eugene Linder, former member of Leo Gallagher's office staff, watching me from a corner in the room; this childish form of hide-and-seek did not particularly annoy me, although I knew it was intended to do so;

That one Ramon Welch obtained employment on the Federal Writers Project and attempted to draw me out on my opinion of the Communist Party, but I noticed that he made contact with Leona McGenty and other Communist Party members who frequented the Los Angeles Public Library, and therefore I did not become friendly with said Welch; this is the same Ramon Welch who is now Secretary of the Spanish Speaking People's Congress in Los Angeles, which I know to be a Communist organization;

That some time in the Spring of 1939, one Maurice ("Jerry") Kaplan, sports writer on the People's Daily World, whom I had known slightly within the Communist Party, approached me at my work in the Los Angeles Public Library; he first made a reference to my opposition to the Communist Party fraction of the Los Angeles Newspaper Guild, then stated that he would "hate to see anything happen to me"; I drew him out, and he stated he meant he would hate to see me meet with a fatal accident, but that such might be the case if I persisted in my opposition to the Communist Party;

That I was somewhat taken aback, mainly because this death threat followed so closely the pattern used by the underworld during the days of bootleggers, not because Kaplan was threatening my life; it then dawned on me suddenly that the Communist Party bore many striking resemblances to the gangs of Al Capone, "Bugs" Moran and others, and that many Communist Party members were true "gangster" types, including Maurice ("Jerry") Kaplan; that realization probably shaped my reply;

That I said to Kaplan: "You've got a powerful mob, pal, thousands of devoted mobsters, hundreds of venal politicians who'll play your game, a powerful press, and a hold on a lot of unions——"

That he agreed with me gleefully, apparently under the impression that I realized I could not combat such a force, then I shot at him: "Well, roll out your artillery, boy, there's going to be a war!";

That there was a war between myself and the Communist Party, and that my slogan is "never surrender";

That the so-called "party line" is taught to members of the Communist Party in new members class in such a way as to instill in the novitiate Communist a mystical awe of the "word from Moscow" and in such a way that the Communist Party member will never dare to question its wisdom; for instance, the new member is told immediately, as soon as he signs the application card to join the Communist Party, by the person who recruits him, that he is placing himself in the hands of the Communist Party, that he must accept its judgments and rely on its wisdom, that he must obey Communist Party orders as he would military command, for he is entering an army that is in a war, that he is dedicating himself, his brain as well as his hands, to a cause for which he must be willing to give his life if necessary; that there are special Communist Party terms to convey these meanings, but which terms are incomprehensible to the uninitiate;

COMMUNIST SCHOOLS

That in the first new members class I attended, aforementioned Sid Davidson (Martin) explained the foregoing matters to the assembled class, whose names are mentioned previously, that is, he informed us we had joined the Communist Party and that meant we had dedicated our lives to the cause of said party; that we were subject to the discipline of said party and that we must obey all party decisions as conveyed to us through official party channels without question, and that we must put implicit faith in the decisions of said party leaders because they were better informed than we on what our activities should be;

That in said new members class we novitiate Communists learned from our official manual and from our teacher, Sid Davidson (Martin) that the Communist Party of United States of America is an integral part of the Communist International with headquarters in Moscow; that all major decisions, that is those pertaining to world policy, are made by the Central Committee of said Communist International (COMINTERN) and that said decisions are relayed through official channels to each Communist Party of each country throughout the world, and that in the instance of United States, the National Central Committee in New York met and decided on how to apply the particular mandate within United States, and that this National decision was passed to the State committee of each State (or District) of the Communist Party of United States, and that the process of determining the most efficient manner of putting such mandate into practice was decided upon by said State Committee, which decision was passed to the next lower body, that is the various county committees throughout California, and that the process was there repeated, and that such decisions of the county committee as were made therein were passed on to the various sections in Los Angeles County, such as the Professional Section, the Harbor Section, the Industrial Section, the Goodyear Section, the Pasadena Subsection, the Hollywood Section and Santa Monica Subsection thereof and so on; that then the process was repeated and that decisions of the section were in turn passed on to the units of said section where again the process was repeated; that is, since the unit is the basic structure of the Communist Party to which each and every member of the Communist Party must belong, in the unit each member of the Communist Party had an opportunity to "discuss democratically" the means which members of that unit should use in order to put said Communist Party decisions into practice, and that this was the extent of Communist Party democracy, because members had no right to question the decision of a higher body, and that once a unit as a whole arrived at a decision this must be carried out without further discussion by each and every member thereof even though he had disapproved of said decision; that each member had a right to appeal a decision to the next higher body of the Communist Party, but that during such appeal he must carry out the mandate;

That said Sid Davidson (Martin) informed the aforementioned new members class that the Communist International arrived at its conclusions by studying digests of reports from all over the world, and that whatever decision it made, was made with a view toward benefiting the Communist Party on a world-wide basis; that in order to compile these reports each member of the Communist Party must turn over all information of the nature he was instructed by his unit to gather to said unit, which turned it over to the next higher body and so on up to the Comintern; that each body digested such material as was submitted to it and sent its report to the next higher body, and so on;

That, after I went out into general Communist Party work I learned from official mandates that much espionage was carried on by the entire membership of the Communist Party; that material desired by the Communist Party officially was: (1) All available information on labor unions and the members thereof, especially with respect to their attitudes, individually, toward the Communist Party and members thereof; (2) all possible information on enemies of the Communist Party, especially those who had obtained secrets about the Communist Party; (3) any possible information that could be obtained about the operation of industrial plants, such as processes, machinery and transportation facilities to and from said plant; (4) any possible information that could be obtained about government bureaus and personnel thereof; (5) any possible information that could be obtained about political figures, preferably that which could be used to "bring them to terms." as it were;

That during the time I was in the Communist Party and from my official party contacts, I never learned the exact operation of this espionage system; that no specific instructions were given, that while reports were made within the units to which I belonged, I do not know of the progress of these reports to or within higher bodies; that I formed the conclusion that this so-called "mass espionage" was conducted more for the purpose of "activating" members, that is, giving them something to do in which they felt a sense of importance, rather than for the purpose of obtaining a mass of detail on, for instance, the operation of the Works Progress Administration;

That during the time I was in the Communist Party and attached to official units thereof, the so-called "party line" was transmitted to unit members through what was termed an "Org" letter, or a mimeographed letter supposedly compiled in the county headquarters of the Communist Party in Los Angeles and sent to all the unit organizers thereof;

That during my attendance, such "Org" letters were read to Unit 131 at each meeting thereof by Walter McElroy, the organizer of that Unit, to Unit 130 at each meeting thereof by Leona McGenty, the organizer thereof, and to Unit 140 by Herbert Klein, the organizer thereof;

That during the time I was in the Communist Party as a full-fledged member, that is, from January, 1937, to August, 1938, that the general "party line" for the world was "collective security," that is, the collaboration of all governments and agencies within countries who could be persuaded to enter such an arrangement, against Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy;

That within United States, according to official Communist Party literature which I read and according to the aforementioned "Org" letters, the application of the "collective security" line meant: (1) Boycotting German-made merchandise as well as, for a while, boycotting Japanese-made goods, especially silk stocks; (2) any and all possible assistance to Loyalist Spain in its fight against Franco; (3) all possible propaganda vituperation against these aforementioned indicated enemies at any and all times by all members of the Communist Party, in writings, in speeches, in conversations with individuals; that these "smear" terms were handed down to us as official terminology by which to refer to not only the aforementioned governments but also to other enemies of the Communist Party whom the Communist Party officially wished to link with these governments and ideologies; for instance, to apply the term "Fascist" to an individual did not mean to a Communist Party member that the person so titled was a member of the Fascist Party of Italy, but that he was a person who was to be "isolated" from general society and that the use of that term, which had been officially smeared by the Communist International would mean the social destruction of the individual; that the same was true of the term "Nazi" or "Hitlerite";

That there were many, many ramifications of the application of said "collective security" line of the Communist Party, but that this serves to illustrate the manner in which the Communist Party operates within;

COMMUNIST OATH

That at the time I took the oath of membership into the Communist Party said oath was very vague in terminology and that I had no idea of what would be required of me by my signature to it; that as I recall it I agreed merely to abide by the discipline of the Communist Party and to accept its decisions;

That at a later date during which time I was a member of the Communist Party, I attended a general membership meeting of the Communist Party of Los Angeles County at the Embassy Auditorium in Los Angeles and heard about 200 new members take the oath, and that in said ritual these new members swore with upraised fists (in the Communist salute) that they would consider the Soviet Union their country and that they swore full allegiance to said Soviet Union;

That throughout the time I was in the Communist Party all teachings were slanted in such a way that a member could not possibly believe the allegiance of the Communist Party officially was to any country or government other than the Soviet Union; that the aforementioned Soviet Union, as a government, as the headquarters of the Communist International, as the originator of both political and cultural ideology.

was the sacred country of the world; that all other governments were criticized, labelled as "Fascist," "imperialist" or "bourgeois"; that the latter term was most frequently applied to the Government of United States;

That in New Members Class Sid Davidson (Martin) gave us the explanation that all "capitalist" governments must be overthrown eventually before a world Soviet government could be established; that his wording was vague and his meaning unclear, and that only after I became aware of the operations and the terminology of the Communist Party did I understand his meaning; that he explained that within United States the "progressive" forces were in a position to capture key Government positions during the Roosevelt regime, and that such "progressive" forces must defend their "progressive" government against "reaction," by arms if necessary; that it was not until my aforementioned conversation with Dr. V. A. K. Tashjian with reference to the aims of the Popular Front and at which time he informed me that Communist Party members of long standing understood the Government of United States must be overthrown, that I fully comprehended the meaning of the terms used in New Members Class by Sid Davidson (Martin);

That I have formed many conclusions about the nature of the Communist Party, none of which are favorable to it; but that I realize from observation that it is a powerful force within the United States for the reason that it attracts not only the social misfits of the "gangster" type, but a large per cent of unassimilated Europeans and Asiatics for which people in the United States have the deepest sympathy and respect, and also that it so cleverly couches its propaganda that it wins the devotion of many honest Americans who have not the educational background and mental balance to think for themselves; that it attracts opportunists, satellites and sycophants because of its strength, and that it presents one of the major problems of the United States today.

PART II

THE KING, CONNER, RAMSAY CASE

On November 28, 1941 three men, who were serving a minimum sentence set by the California Prison Board of Terms and Paroles, of 20 years, were suddenly and unexpectedly paroled from San Quentin Prison. These men were Earl King, Frank Conner and E. G. Ramsay. On the day the men were released, a statement by the Attorney General, Earl Warren, appeared in most of the daily newspapers in California. The statement of the Attorney General is as follows:

"The release of King, Ramsay and Conner is an outrage to public decency and a blow against the security of human life in California. These men initiated the brutal murder of a law abiding citizen without provocation and while he was peaceably engaged in earning a living for his wife and three babies. They didn't give him a chance for his life. He was beaten with blunt instruments and hacked with knives until he was dead in his own living quarters on the Steamship Point Lobos where the assassins laid in wait for him. King, Ramsay and Conner were fairly convicted by a jury, sentenced by the judge, their conviction affirmed by the appellate courts and now their guilt is vouched for by the very parole board that today released them after only four years and some months of imprisonment. Human life has indeed been cheapened! The murderers are free today, not because they are rehabilitated criminals, but because they are politically powerful Communist radicals. Their parole is the culmination of a sinister program of subversive politics, attempted bribery, terrorism and intimidation which has evidenced itself in so many ways during the past three years."

This statement by the Attorney General of the State of California, emphatic and certain, brought the matter under the jurisdiction of the committee. Public hearings were immediately opened in the Civic Auditorium in the City of San Francisco December 1, 1941, and ended with the examination of certain prisoners at San Quentin Prison, December 6, 1941.

Witnesses subpoenaed and examined in this investigation are as follows:

LEGAL HISTORY OF THE CASE

Earl King, E. G. Ramsay, Frank Conner and George Wallace were indicted by the Grand Jury of Alameda County as principals in the murder of George W. Alberts.

The grand jury indictment against King, Ramsay, Conner and Wallace, charging them with murder, was returned October 21, 1936, and the trial ended January 5, 1937. Sakovitz and four unidentified sailors from the S. S. Arctic, were named in the indictment but were never apprehended.

King, Ramsay, Conner and Wallace were tried before a jury in Alameda County and all four were found guilty of murder in the second degree. King, Ramsay and Conner appealed from the individual judgments of conviction and from orders denying each a new trial. Wallace did not appeal. The judgments of conviction, and the orders appealed from were, in each case, affirmed by the District Court of Appeal, First District, Division One, December 28, 1938 and a rehearing was denied January 12, 1939. A hearing was denied by the Supreme Court of California January 26, 1939.

George W. Alberts was chief engineer on a steamer known as the Point Lobos. He was killed in his stateroom on Sunday morning, March 22, 1936.

LABOR BACKGROUND

At the time of the killing of Chief Engineer George W. Alberts, King, Conner and Ramsay were connected with the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Watertenders and Wipers Union. King was the secretary and chief executive officer of the union; Ramsay was a patrolman of the union; and Conner, an oiler on the ship Point Lobos, was the union's delegate on the ship. George Wallace and Sakovitz were active members of the same union. It should be noted that there were no labor difficulties on the waterfront at the time of Alberts' death.

COMMUNIST BACKGROUND

Matthew G. Guidera was a delegate for the Marine Ships, Cooks and Stewards, A. F. of L. on the Point Lobos in 1936. Speaking of Earl King, Guidera testified (Volume V, pp. 1429-1447): "Mr. King has been known on the waterfront for a period of years, regardless of anything you may hear from others, as an official spokesman and representative of the Communist Party." Manuel Cabral, according to Guidera, was a member of the Communist Party and at one time solicited Guidera to join the party. Revels Cayton, a member of the Communist Party, also attempted to induce Guidera to join the party. Guidera stated that he had discussed Communism with Earl King on a number of occasions and had from time to time discussed the Communist Party line on the waterfront with him, Cayton, and Paul Boyles. Cayton was the Communist fraction leader of the group. Guidera was acquainted with Ben Sakovitz and knew him as "Wimpy" Sakovitz. Guidera stated that Sakovitz was introduced to him as a member of the Communist Party.

New needs, ambitions and policies of Soviet Russia had come into being in 1935. The Trojan Horse cavalymen were riding. More than ever before the Communist Party was desirous of controlling shipping and transportation. The general strike of 1934 had demonstrated the power of the Communist Party on San Francisco's waterfront. Communist Party members had made great inroads into the waterfront unions, and Guidera was certain that his own union, the Marine Ships, Cooks and Stewards, was controlled by the party members in it.

Attorney General Earl Warren, who was district attorney of Alameda County at the time King, Conner and Ramsay were prosecuted and convicted for the murder of George Alberts, testified at length. (Volume VI, pp. 1643-1693.) He stated that there had been innumerable people beaten within an inch of their lives on the waterfront during this period. They were labor union men who disagreed with King and his crowd. Many of these men disappeared and were never found. Some were found, one or two weeks later, floating in the San Francisco Bay. One man was found floating in the bay, wrapped up and manacled in a chain just two weeks before King, Ramsay and Conner were indicted for murder. The Attorney General observed that after King, Ramsay and Conner were tried and convicted, the beatings and drownings of men in the bay area discontinued almost entirely. He stated: "In my humble opinion, it was due to the conviction of those men."

The Attorney General offered a photostat of a copy of a letter written by Earl King to Paul M. Sorensen, chief engineer of the steamship Malama. The Attorney General, in his presentation of the letter to the committee, stated: "It shows the attitude of Mr. King, not only toward this man Alberts, but toward other chief engineers, who were perhaps in a similar position to him. It is a rather vitriolic letter, and one that shows extreme arrogance; and there are innumerable threats—veiled threats—contained in it."

The letter presented to the committee by the Attorney General was on the letterhead of the Pacific Coast Marine Firemen, Oilers, Water-tenders and Wipers Association, 58 Commercial Street; Kearny 3699; and is dated August 13, 1936. The letter is as follows:

"Paul M. Sorensen, Chief Engineer,
S. S. Malama,
Matson Navigation Company,
Pier 32,
San Francisco, California.

"DEAR SIR: We have had a great many complaints about your attitude toward firemen's ship delegates. We are putting your name on the blackboard permanently as a troublemaker. Our firemen's delegates are supposed to work in the interest of the Firemen's Union aboard ship, to see that they get the proper overtime, and proper working rules, as provided in the award.

"We have had numerous complaints about you, that you individually take it upon yourself to break our working rules, and conditions that we are supposed to get under the arbitration award. When you got into the last trouble with our men, we asked our firemen to get off the ship, rather than cause friction between the Engineers Association and our association. However, we are putting your name on our blackboard so that we will remember it at the next violation of our working rules that you try to impose on your members.

"One more violation and our members will refuse to sail with you on any ship on the Pacific Ocean that you happen to be on, and we discover you on this ship. This is official, so please be governed accordingly if you have any desire to keep harmony between the Engineers Association and in the Maritime Federation. Any more violations and we will print your name to be circulated up and down the coast, as a disruptor of union unity and we will ask all of our members on any ship that you go on to give you plenty of noncooperation. We will see to it that your name is associated with a common cur dog, of the female variety.

"If you think the Firemen's Union is going to be dictated to by a lunkhead like you, just try one more violation of our award. We will be delighted to have you do it, as we would be glad to reduce such ilk as yourself. I understand that now that you have become a chief, you have lost all touch with the idea that you belong to the working class, and you think that you are a God Almighty. We hope you have pleasant thoughts along these lines, because you will soon be deflated from your bombastic opinion of yourself.

"If you want to fight with the Firemen's Union, we will be glad to give it to you. If you want to pull in your haunches and be a good member of the Maritime Federation, conduct yourself like a gentleman, you will find we will be willing to do the same. Continue to act as you have and no fireman will sail with you. I don't know whether you are a 'fink' or not, but you certainly have all the actions of one.

"Yours truly,

"EARL KING, Secretary."

GEORGE W. ALBERTS

As we have said, George W. Alberts was the Chief Engineer on the Steamer Point Lobos. He was about 37 years old at the time of his death, in excellent physical condition and stood about six feet in height and weighed around 200 pounds. Matthew G. Guidera told the committee that the chief engineer was very vehement and emphatic in his opposition to Communism and that he had heard Alberts express himself on many occasions against Communism and Communist activities.

From Guidera the committee learned something of the last trip made by the Point Lobos prior to the murder of its chief engineer, Alberts. During the trip to the East Coast considerable difficulty developed with the crew. There were several stoppages of work on the gulf and Guidera stated that all of these stoppages and difficulties were inspired by Frank Conner, the delegate for the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Water-tenders and Wipers Association. Most of these difficulties were between the engine force and the Chief Engineer, Mr. Alberts. In Mobile, Alabama, the loading of the cargo was stopped at the instigation of Frank Conner. Trouble also developed in New Orleans. On the way home, Guidera stated, there was a meeting on board the ship of the three delegates for the deck, engine and stewards' departments. It should be remembered that Guidera was a delegate on board the Point Lobos for the Marine Ships, Cooks and Stewards. The question before the meeting was in reference to activities of the respective unions when the Point Lobos docked on the West Coast. Guidera stated that "nobody trusted the 'deck department' too well" and that the discussion did not go into detail for that reason. Apparently Chief Engineer Alberts' antagonism to the Communist Party and its members in shipping and on ships had been discussed. Frank Conner, at that time, told Guidera that he would "have to get rid of Alberts." In the jargon of ships, shipping and the waterfront, "to get rid of a man" was to finish him completely, "not just dump him—there was no such thing as 'dumping' mentioned." Guidera explained that by "dumping" a man was meant "beating him up and letting him live a little while." He stated that Conner said, "'I suppose we will have to get rid of Alberts.' I know Conner; and I know he meant what he said; and I knew, when he said it, he had the connections to carry out what he said."

When the Point Lobos arrived in San Pedro, Guidera sought out Chief Engineer Alberts and told him that he ought to leave the ship, relating to him what he had heard from Conner. Alberts laughed at him. Guidera, however, told Captain William D. Lion, who was at that time the Operating Superintendent for the Swayne and Hoyt Steamship Company. Guidera testified: "I told Captain Lion he should have Mr. Alberts removed because, if he didn't, Mr. Alberts would not sail with the ship. He paid no attention to me."

From the uncontroverted facts of the case the committee learned that on Saturday morning, March 21, 1936, Conner telephoned King at the office of the union in San Francisco, telling him that Alberts had discharged one Edward Widmer, a member of the engine-room crew and a member of the union, without paying him all of his over-time money due and asked King to send a patrolman over and get the matter fixed up. George Wallace was at the union headquarters at about the time Conner telephoned to King. King saw Wallace and asked him if he wanted to go on a job, to which Wallace replied that he did not and walked away. Ramsay and "Wimpy" Sakovitz met Wallace a short time after and told him that he had better come back to King's office as King wanted to see him. Wallace returned to King's office with Ramsay and Sakovitz.

Once in the office, Ramsay said to King: "That God-damned fink, he belongs to some company union and he needs a lesson."

There was some further discussion and King said: "Go over and beat him up."

Thereafter King went to the outer office of the union where A. M. Murphy, Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of the union, was located. King directed Murphy to give Ramsay $30 and Murphy did so, after King told him that the money was to be used for an "expedition across the bay."

A bludgeon was secured by Sakovitz from the janitor of the building and given to Wallace. This bludgeon was described as one-half of a printing roller about 18 inches to two feet long and about four or five inches in thickness. Ramsay, Wallace, Sakovitz and a sailor whose name is not known, then proceeded to the Howard Terminal in Oakland where the Point Lobos was docked. They arrived on the dock about noon and remained there until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. During this time Ramsay twice left the group and boarded the Point Lobos. Upon his first return he remarked: "That God-damned fink, I talked to him and I could not get him off." Conner later joined the group on the dock. Ramsay boarded the ship a second time, and upon leaving said to the others: "I'm going aboard the ship and try to get him to come ashore." Upon rejoining the group, Ramsay stated: "The only way to get him is to go aboard the ship." Ramsay left the group a third time, going in the direction of the ship, but came running back saying: "He is coming." At this juncture a police officer in uniform appeared on the dock. Alberts, with a companion, had left the ship and, upon crossing the dock, entered an automobile and drove away. Upon Ramsay's warning that "You had better beat it," the men separated.

During the night the Point Lobos was moved to Encinal Dock in Alameda. On the morning of Sunday, March 22, 1936, Wallace and Sakovitz met in San Francisco. With them was the unknown sailor who had accompanied them the previous day. Sakovitz declared: "Well, I have to go over and get that God-damned fink." Wallace said that he did not want to go but Sakovitz warned him that he "had better come over if you know what is good for you." Thereupon, the three, Wallace, Sakovitz and the sailor, proceeded to the dock in Alameda. Sakovitz here gathered up two more sailors from the Steamer Arctic. Conner joined the group. Sakovitz undoubtedly took charge of the entire expedition and ordered Conner to go aboard and see if he could locate Alberts. At the same time Sakovitz explained to Conner and the rest of the group where each should station himself should Conner find Alberts aboard. They all then went aboard the ship and took their stations as planned. Wallace went to the starboard side of the ship near the passageway in which Alberts' stateroom was located, and was later seen with his hand on the knob of Alberts' stateroom door. Sakovitz went to the forward end of the passageway close to Albert's door, facing Conner, and the others took various positions about the deck of the ship.

George Alberts came aboard the ship with Captain Odeen. He went immediately to his cabin, laid his cap on the pillow of his bunk and removed his coat, preparing, perhaps, to change to more seagoing clothes, as the ship was about to sail. Conner immediately gave a signal with his hand to Sakovitz. In a few minutes a noise came from the chief engineer's stateroom, which was later described by Wallace as sounding like "Ugh, ugh, ugh." In a mere matter of seconds Sakovitz emerged with blood on his hands and told Wallace: "You had better beat it."

The deed was done. Alberts lay dead on the floor of his tiny cabin in a pool of his own blood.

We saw and studied the pictures of Alberts' cabin taken but a few minutes after his death. We saw the pictures of Alberts' mutilated body and heard the report of the physicians who scientifically—in cold, impartial, professional language—told of the wounds found upon the dead engineer's body and the cause of his death. The committee has never heard of a more cold-blooded, ruthless and unwarranted slaying of a human being. A hard and telling blow with a metal instrument had crushed the flesh from the back of Alberts' head. The pictures revealed hard and heavy blows behind each of the engineer's ears. A knife had been thrust into his neck, chest and shoulder. A powerful thrust carried the blade of a knife through both walls of Alberts' abdomen. And, as if this were not enough, the knife was thrust with terrific force into Alberts' thigh, in the rear, and then ripped downward toward the knee-joint some nine and a half inches, severing the great artery. The engineer had entered his stateroom at about 11 o'clock Sunday morning. At about 11.20 a. m. the ship's first engineer opened the door of Alberts' stateroom to call him and found him dead. The killing had been accomplished and the escape of the assailants from the scene of the crime had been effected in about 15 minutes.

Upon hearing of Alberts' murder, Guidera immediately went to the district attorney's office in Alameda County and told them what he knew of the case. He promised to assist in any way desired.

CAMPUS UNIT NUMBER FIVE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY

Shortly after the commission of this revolting crime, a meeting was in progress of Campus Unit Number 5 of the Communist Party in an apartment occupied by James Burford on Channing Way, near College Avenue, in the City of Berkeley. (Volume VI, pp. 1783-1794.) About 18 members of the unit were present. The meeting was interrupted. We will permit Don Morton, testifying under oath before the committee, to describe what happened:

"Well, there was a knock loud enough—we were in the center of the apartment; there's a room between where the meeting was held and the hall—we heard the knock, in the second room; and Mrs. Burford then called Jim—that's her son—and said there was someone who wanted to see him. He says, 'Is it important?' And she whispered—we could hear the whisper; and he said, 'Yes.' Then he brought these two men in * * * He said,

'Comrades, two friends are here from downtown——'
He didn't say they were comrades or mention their names; but that we would have to take up a collection to help a certain comrade in trouble out of town—that was all that was said."

Morton testified that a collection was immediately taken up and the two men thanked everyone and left the apartment in a hurry. About a week later Morton asked a Mrs. Eastman, one of the communist members of Unit Number 5, about the collection that had been taken and she told Morton that it was for one of the boys who was being kept under cover at her place in San Francisco, a chap by the name of "Wimpy." Mrs. Eastman was very secretive about the whole affair but told Morton that the underworld knew about the trouble and that there were four or five involved.

FLIGHT

Sakovitz, Wallace and the unidentified sailor fled to Salt Lake City and from Salt Lake City to Chicago and from there to New York. Sakovitz told Wallace that he had friends who would secure passage for them to Russia. Nothing was done about this plan as far as Wallace was concerned and he returned to San Francisco.

Ramsay had returned part of the $30 which Murphy had given to him the day before the killing at King's request. Ramsay told Murphy at that time that he was "hot." Murphy, at a loss as to how to enter the money in the books, took the matter up with King, who told him he would discuss it with him later.

Immediately upon his arrival in San Francisco, Wallace went to the union and talked to Murphy. He told Murphy he wanted to see King, but Murphy informed him that King was away.

The following morning Ramsay met Murphy and Wallace in Wallace's hotel room. Ramsay turned pale upon seeing Wallace and said: "For God's sakes, what are you here for?" Wallace replied: "I am here to find out what the score is." Ramsay stated that he did not believe the police were wise and that nobody knew who did the job because he, Ramsay, had been thoroughly questioned by the police.

King remained absent from the city. Something had to be done. Murphy made an appointment with Lawrence Ross, the editor of the Communist West Coast paper, the Western Worker. Ross suggested that Wallace return to the east and keep in touch with Murphy under an assumed name. Ross also suggested that Wallace's union membership book be "phoneyed" so that Wallace could secure employment on East Coast ships. In accordance with Ross' suggestion, Murphy made out a new union book for Wallace under the name of "George White," with a notation showing the payment of all dues to July, 1936. It was then arranged that Wallace communicate with Murphy under the name of Albert Diekman. Wallace then, for the second time, left San Francisco for New York.

Wallace, in desperation, wrote to King, first under his own name and later under the name of George White. King failed to answer any of Wallace's letters.

On August 1, 1936, Wallace again returned to San Francisco and went immediately to King's hotel. He told the clerk his name was Wallace and that he wanted to see King. The clerk told him that King was not at home. A man by the name of O'Neill gave Wallace $50 and told him to keep off the streets and avoid being seen by anyone. O'Neill also told him that Lawrence Ross tried to make arrangements for him to go to Russia but apparently had been unable to do so. He then suggested that Wallace go to Mexico.

King returned to San Francisco shortly after Wallace's second arrival and learned that Wallace was again in town. Wallace's union book was then stamped ahead to April, 1937, and Wallace was instructed to attempt to escape into Mexico.

Wallace went to El Paso, and from there to Del Rio and then on to Brownsville, Texas. While in Brownsville, he attempted to go to Mexico City, but not having sufficient money to get across the border, he wrote a letter to Murphy under the name of Albert Dickman, requesting that Murphy give the letter to King and that King write to him in Brownsville, Texas. Upon receipt of the letter Murphy told King about it and King said he would take care of it, but failed to do so.

Matthew G. Guidera, returning from Australia on the S. S. Mariposa early in July of 1936 was elected to negotiate for the Marine Cooks and Stewards on the Pacific Coast, preparatory to the 1936 waterfront strike. During the time that he served on this committee he occupied rooms at the Terminal Hotel located at 60 Market Street in the City of San Francisco with A. M. Murphy, the Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of the Marine Firemen's Union. Thus it was that he learned of Murphy receiving a letter from George Wallace, under the alias of "George White." The letter was postmarked "Del Rio, Texas" and Wallace told Murphy to tell King that he needed more money to get across the border into Mexico. Guidera immediately contacted the district attorney's office in Alameda County and arranged with George Hard, one of the inspectors of the office, for a dictaphone to be set up in Guidera's room in the Terminal Hotel. The dictaphone was set up between 3.30 and 4 in the evening and Guidera then called King and asked him to come over to the hotel. King complied and met Guidera in the lobby. They both went to Guidera's room and Guidera showed King the letter from Wallace.

"You sent those birds over to make a bungle of a job," Guidera said to King. (Volume V, p. 1435.)

Guidera testified that "King sat and crumpled the letter * * * crumpled and wrinkled the letter. I said, 'What are you getting nervous about, Earl?' He said, 'I am not nervous; I'm not nervous at all.' Later, I asked, 'Why exactly did you send them over to kill Alberts?' He said, 'I sent them over, all right.' He paused—for a minute, he paused—he said, 'Forget about it all for a while. Now, let's forget it'."

Apparently King was suspicious of Guidera. "The night before, however," Guidera testified, "after I had the meeting with King in my hotel room, I attended District Council Number 2 of the Marine Federation of the Pacific Coast, which was being, at that time, held at 32 Clay Street, known as the 'Recreation Center for the Waterfront.'

During the meeting, Mr. King approached me and asked for a key to my hotel room; which I gave him so that he could arrange to get those letters. A few minutes afterward, he talked with Harry Bridges and Rathborne and others * * * I saw him talking to Harry Bridges, Rathborne and a couple of others. He came back, and handed me the key; and said, 'It might be a frame up.' I said, 'If you're that way, O. K.'"

The arrest of King, Conner, Ramsay and Wallace followed.

COMMUNIST CAUSE CELEBRE

Conner immediately confessed his part in the entire affair. (September 3, 1936.) Attorney General Earl Warren told the committee about Frank Conner's confession. Mr. Warren stated:

"Well, the first thing that developed was the statement that Mr. Conner made to me, in my office, concerning his participation in this affair. The statement itself was made to me about the third of September—a day or two after he was brought down here from Seattle; and he told me, at that time, that all of these men mixed up in this affair, other than himself, were Communists; that King was a Communist; that Ramsay was a Communist; and that Wallace was a Communist; and he said that it was apparent to him that these fellows—referring to King and Ramsay—were going to take care of themselves, and going to throw him to the wolves; and he said, 'They're not going to do that with me; I know too much about them. That's the way these Comicals do.' He referred to them in that slang phrase as 'Comicals.' He said that he, personally, did not know that they intended to kill Alberts when they went in there; he thought they were just going in there to give him a very severe beating; and, had he known they were going to kill him, he wouldn't have consented and helped them and directed them to Alberts' stateroom at the psychological time to accomplish this beating. He said there were a few hundred Communists on this coast who were running many thousands of good labor organization men; and they were doing it by terror and intimidation; and he said, to me and to Mr. Hoyt, after the formal confession he made, that no matter what happened to him in this trial—he said, 'I'll never sail on another ship with as many as one Communist on the ship, because,' he said, 'when there is as many as one on there, it's trouble, trouble, trouble all the time you're out at sea.' He said, 'They are arrogant; they'll tell you to do something; and, if you don't do it, then they'll wait for you and you'll get it on the beach.' He said, 'You'll get dumped'—which means when they are ashore, they will have something happen to them, as happened to George Alberts in this case; and he told us how that situation had worked all over the world; he told how it worked here on the Pacific Coast; and we knew, of our own knowledge, of innumerable cases of men—many, many of them labor organization union men—who were beaten within an inch of their lives just because they wouldn't respond to this so-called leadership of Earl King and his crowd; men who wouldn't dare to come forward, or go to the authorities, to complain, for fear the thing would be repeated the next time they went on a job. You couldn't get any witnesses to testify for them if they did, because people were terrorized; and Frank Conner detailed to us that system which was in vogue; and he said there were only a few hundred of those people, in fact, but they were keeping—these aren't the words he used—but he said they were keeping in bondage hundreds of fine labor organization people on this coast, who had no sympathy with the thing at all—and I sincerely believe that is true—the average man who works on the waterfront—the average labor union man there—is as fine a citizen as you will find any place in this country—good law-abiding, family men; but they have been dominated and persecuted themselves by Earl King and his kind."

The Attorney General stated that George Alberts was murdered because he "was a courageous man * * *. He would not tolerate the domination of King or any of his Communistic elements, and he refused to take dictation from him. In an effort to prove, to not only Alberts but everyone else who was similarly situated, that it was a very dangerous thing to do, Earl King sent these fellows over to do this job, * * * that's the sum total of the reason."

The Attorney General stated that the Western Worker, Communist West Coast publication, the very day the defendants were arrested and before anyone knew the nature of the charge against them, started a campaign of abuse and vilification against Warren, who was then the District Attorney of Alameda County. This campaign has continued from that day to the present time by the Communist Party and its publications. (Volume VI, pp. 1643-1693.)

The indictment of the men was attacked by Lawrence Ross as a "labor frame-up."

Defense attorneys were soon secured for the defendants, with the exception of Wallace, who refused to accept the counsel selected for him. He fully confessed his participation in the crime. George Andersen, who usually represents the Communist Party in California, represented Earl King. Herbert Resner represented Frank Conner.

Miles G. Humphrey, former member of the Communist Party, knew Herbert Resner when Resner was the editor of the "Daily Californian," campus paper at the University of California at Berkeley. (Volume V, pp. 1616-1631.) Aubrey Grossman had referred to Resner, in the presence of Humphrey, as a Communist Party member.

The State, in its prosecution of the defendants, carefully avoided the issue of Communism. It was the attorneys for the defendants who emphasized this point. George Andersen and Herbert Resner particularly utilized it in their challenges to veniremen. Attorney General Earl Warren testified that Andersen and Resner asked "whether or not the jury would be influenced or prejudiced by the fact that the defendants might be known as Communists or might be proved to be Communists." (Volume VI, p. 1659.)

Ralph E. Hoyt has been the District Attorney of Alameda County since January of 1939. (Volume V, pp. 1543-1573.) He was formerly the chief assistant district attorney to Earl Warren when the latter was the district attorney. Hoyt had been with the district attorney's office since 1919 and participated in the trial of King, Ramsay, Conner and Wallace.

He recited the details of the murder of George Alberts. The chief engineer had been discovered by a brother officer at about 11.20 a.m., Sunday, March 22, 1936. Hoyt stated that the chief engineer was found seated in a pool of his own blood; that his skull was fractured; that he was disemboweled, and that a long, deep gash had been inflicted on the back of one thigh. He introduced exhibits and pictures of the corpse into the committee's records.

King, Ramsay, Conner and Wallace had been found guilty by a jury in Alameda County of second degree murder. Hoyt recounted the voluntary statement of Frank Conner made prior to the trial in which Conner had told of the difficulties he had had with the Communist Party and of his fear of being abandoned by them in his difficulty. Hoyt recited the testimony of A. M. Murphy, concerning the Communist Party and its connection with the murder. He told of Murphy's statements concerning Lawrence Ross, Communist Party functionary and editor of the Western Worker, and how Ross had been contacted concerning money for Sakovitz and Wallace. Ross had told Murphy that it would be necessary for him to get in touch with the Soviet Union before passage could be provided for the murderers and that "there had to be certain underground things done." Ross had suggested to Murphy that Wallace's union membership book be "phoneyed up" so that Wallace could secure work in the east. Murphy had agreed to provide money for Wallace and Sakovitz to travel to New York City.

Hoyt read passages from the Western Worker published during the trial of the men, showing the strong Communist interest in the case. The Western Worker branded the entire prosecution as a "frameup by shipowners." Matthew Guidera was branded as a "stool pigeon," et cetera, by the Communist sheet.

The district attorney related Wallace's confession and the attempts made to bribe Wallace into accepting Communist Party choice of attorneys. Wallace had refused to let the Communist Party trap him. Despite precedence and contrary to the usual procedure in reference to defendants who turn State's evidence, Hoyt pointed out that George Wallace was still incarcerated in San Quentin, while King, Conner and Ramsay were paroled. He also presented copies of the Western Worker and the People's Daily World as evidence of the Communist Party's campaign to free King, Ramsay and Conner.

Every important witness against the defendants was a member of a bona fide labor organization.

Matthew G. Guidera, after the exposé of the ship murder, was expelled from the Marine Cooks and Stewards Association. He was accused of being a "stool pigeon" and a "frame artist." He testified that he was expelled without the benefit of a trial. The trial committee consisted of five members, Guidera stated, and at least three of them were known to be members of the Communist Party and the other two "as questionable." Manuel Cabral was named by Guidera as one of the Communist Party members.

Cabral denied that he had ever been a member of the Communist Party. (Volume VI, pp. 1729-1730.) He admitted, however, knowing Ernest G. Ramsay, having made a trip around the world with him in 1935 on the S. S. Monroe. He stated that Ramsay had never discussed Communism with him.

Conner, in his confession, stated that King, Ramsay and Wallace were all members of the Communist Party. (Volume VI, pp. 1643-1693.)

When Wallace had confessed he was immediately accused by the Communists in San Francisco as being a "labor spy." Later they offered him $5,000 if he would accept one of their attorneys and Wallace refused. The defense attorneys for the others then claimed that Wallace had no right to the public defender as he had means (which they had offered him) to employ private counsel. This point delayed the trial and it had to be decided by the court. It was decreed that Wallace had a right to the public defender. (Vol. VI, pp. 1643-1693.)

In the late summer of 1936 defense committees for King, Ramsay and Conner began to mushroom out of closed Communist Party caucuses. (Volume VI, pp. 1783-1794.) Four or five Communist members of Berkeley's Unit Number 5, grew into larger committees. The original members were Herbert Naboseck, James Burford, Glen Mayfield, Aubrey Grossman and Don Morton. Naboseck was assigned to contact the unions and gathered a list of 95 members with addresses in the East Bay area (Marine Firemen's Union); Mayfield was assigned to contact public speakers and to supply them with information; Grossman was assigned to collect funds and to contact faculty members at the University of California for legal assistance; Burford was put in charge of education and propaganda and Don Morton was assigned to writing up the necessary material for these activities. Don Morton told of a meeting at Mrs. Eastman's home on Derby Street in Berkeley some time in July of 1936 when Aubrey Grossman reported that he had collected funds from some 20 or 25 faculty members at the University of California and that these sums averaged $15 to $20 apiece.

John Gee Clark, immediately after being appointed to the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles by Governor Olson, took steps to parole King, Conner and Ramsay. The Attorney General stated that the Advisory Pardon Board staged a big demonstration for the felons in May of 1940 and that they crowded in all the Communists they could find. Lieutenant Governor Patterson cast the only vote for their pardon at that time. (Volume VI, pp. 1643-1693.)

Mervyn Rathborne denied ever having been a member of the Communist Party or of the Young Communist League. (Volume VII, pp. 2008-2024.) He is secretary of the San Francisco C. I. O. Council and a member of the American Communications Association, Local 9. He knew Archie Brown and Ben Jones as members of the Communist Party. Rathborne subscribed to the People's Daily World and knew Harry Bridges "very well."

Rathborne is a member of the King, Ramsay, Conner Defense Committee. He presented the committee with copies of resolutions passed by the San Francisco C. I. O. Council calling for the release of the men. He also submitted a photostatic copy of a check for $1,500 from the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee which was signed by David J. McDonald and Phillip Murray. Rathborne was a member of the executive committee of the King, Ramsay, Conner Defense Committee along with Miriam Dinkin, V. J. Malone and George Hardy. He stated that the committee did not work for the release of George Wallace. He stated that he did not know if King, Ramsay or Conner were members of the Communist Party. He stated that the defense committee had received evidence which established the innocence of King, Ramsay and Conner uncovered by Aubrey Grossman and Herbert Resner. He did not know if Grossman or Resner were members of the Communist Party. He concluded his testimony by stating that he believed the three men had been framed by the Employers' Group.

The Board of Prison Terms and Pardons and the Advisory Pardon Board under the Olson administration up to the appointment of Booth Goodman, who replaced John Gee Clark when he was appointed a Superior Court Judge in the County of Los Angeles, made little headway in either securing a pardon or a parole for the felons. Governor Culbert L. Olson, after having spent a day with King, Conner and Ramsay in San Quentin Prison, announced that he had come to the conclusion that these men did not look like murderers and that he regarded the evidence against them as flimsy and very largely impeached and that he was considering a pardon for them. This announcement on the part of the Governor came shortly after the Communist Party was excluded from the ballot by action of the California Legislature. On Friday, October 11, 1940, Miss Anita Whitney made a broadcast over the National Broadcasting Blue Network in which she said:

"I would like to ask Governor Olson: When you met in your own home with the leaders of the Communist Party in 1938, and accepted our assistance and support for your election, you did not think we were subversive or un-American then, did you? When you were elected Governor with the help of Communist votes, you did not think that we were anything but good Americans, did you? But today, Governor Olson, you have gone over so completely to reaction that you are eating your own words of 1938. You have found it necessary and expedient to do this, since you have gone over to the war camp, which wishes to drag America into the imperialist war.

"The Governor's speech on the radio was hypocritical and revealed a guilty conscience. He admitted there was a large section of public opinion opposed to his signing the anti-Communist bill. He practically admitted there is grave doubt, expressed to him by some of his own attorneys, as to whether the bill is constitutional. He admitted that the Communist Party is neither illegal nor is it outlawed by this bill. He admitted that the bill discriminates against the Communist Party, by depriving it of the election rights that other parties have. He admitted all these things, and yet he signed the bill, and wants the people to believe there is nothing undemocratic about his action."

The Governor had signed the bill outlawing the Communist Party early in October of 1940. It was about three days later, without consulting Mr. Hoyt, District Attorney of Alameda County, or the Attorney General or anyone who had had anything to do with the investigation and prosecution of the King, Conner, Ramsay case, that the Governor made the trip to San Quentin Prison above-mentioned and spent the better part of the day with the three prisoners, King, Conner and Ramsay. (Vol. VI, pp. 1643-1693.)

Governor Olson's contemplated pardon of the three felons met with a storm of public indignation. Shortly thereafter, he appointed Booth Goodman to the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles, replacing John Gee Clark. Archie Lyons had been on the board for about two years and the Governor, with the appointment of Booth Goodman, had a majority of the three members. Almost immediately after Goodman's appointment to the Board, Lyons and Goodman voted for the parole of King, Conner and Ramsay; Stevens, the other member of the board voting against parole.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES AT SAN QUENTIN

Clinton T. Duffy, Warden of San Quentin Penitentiary, was questioned at length concerning the conduct and the alleged special privileges granted King, Conner and Ramsay while confined in the prison. (Volume VI, pp. 1806-1818.) Duffy was appointed to the position of Warden of San Quentin Prison by the State Pardon Board of Prison Directors on September 1, 1940, and had been acting warden since July 13, 1940. His position as warden automatically made him a member of the Advisory Pardon Board. The other members of this board were Lieutenant Governor Ellis E. Patterson, Warden Clyde Plummer of Folsom, and Mr. Stone of the Bureau of Identification.

Earl King, Ernest G. Ramsay, Frank Conner and George Wallace were incarcerated in San Quentin Prison when Duffy became warden. Duffy stated that he did not know of any special privileges granted them. King had certain specific duties on the waterfront of the prison which, Duffy stated, gave him an opportunity to contact persons on incoming barges. Such contact, Duffy explained, would, of course, be under the supervision of an officer of the prison. This particular officer had charge of all prisoners engaged in unloading barges and sometimes two or three officers supervised the work, depending on the number of prisoners so engaged. Duffy added: "We place some trust in our inmates."

King was permitted to sleep outside the prison walls because he was on duty at a donkey-engine 24 hours a day. All of King's predecessors in this assignment had slept outside the walls. Duffy considered King capable and trustworthy for this position. Assignments for such jobs outside the prison walls, Duffy explained, were made by a committee of the officers of the penitentiary. Only some 12 or 15 prisoners are permitted to sleep outside the walls, out of the 4,000 inmates in the institution. Duffy did not consider this to be a special privilege although he admitted that permitting the men to sleep outside of cell blocks was so considered. He knew of no contraband brought into the prison while King was on the waterfront.

Ramsay had worked outside the prison walls in the fire department for a short time.
